Fashion Twist..Although modern women of the western world are still influenced by French designs when selecting clothing, their men have become rigidly dominated by those of the British. For formal wear they appear in a full dress suit whose coat is reminiscent of an 18th century English hunting coat. To crown this fashion, they choose the traditional top hat..a refinement of the English crash helmet.

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 2 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1967 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

As is their usual custom, Belmond's firemen will hold open house at the fire station on the weekday evenings of National Fire Prevention Week — next Monday through Sunday — for all persons interested.

Personnel will be on hand from 7:00 to 9:00 p. m. to talk over their favorite subject, fire-fighting, and to display equipment and permit inspection of the fire trucks.

The kids will find a stop at the fire station interesting, you can be sure. And adults, too, may learn some things that will open their eyes to the extraordinarily fine service the department provides.

Ben Dorenkamp came into the office to show us a soybean plant like he wished he had a field completely filled with. A cross between Harosoy and A-100, this robust plant boasted 184 bulging pods on it. Ben wasn't prepared to tell us what the yield per acre might be from 20 or 40 acres blessed with such fruitful plants — but he admitted with a grin that it would probably be quite a bit higher that HE'd get from the field that produced that particular bell-ringer.

On a couple of occasions when culling items from our files for the 'Way Back When feature we've told of a load of orphan children being brought from New York to Clarion for adoption. Seems that if a family wanted a child, there wasn't much more to it than putting in an application for one to be brought for claiming. Just a short time ago, one such item was published — which caught the eye of Mrs. Ada Steenblock of Arcata, Calif.

She writes: "I was one of them (in the group of children from New York). I was 10 years old then and I'll be 85 in November."

Mrs. Steenblock added, "A Mr. Rowen (that was John E. Rowen, a highly prominent Wright county citizen of the day) had something to do with getting us here to be given away." A Belmond resident for 50 years, Mrs. Steenblock now keeps track of us via The Independent. She presently is living in a rest home, but writes with an amazingly firm hand. For auld lang syne, Mrs. S. sent along a dollar bill to do her bit in helping the riverside park fund along.

For the safeguard of our soul, we're not given to arguing with a minister. On the other hand, we feel entitled to our own opinion where an honest difference might exist; and we think that the prospective attendance at the union service on the anniversary of the tornado — a week from Saturday day — qualifies as such.

An order for 500 programs was given to us by a gentleman of the cloth, with the wry observation that there would likely be a number "left over." Since Luick Memorial Auditorium comfortably accommodates 700 and CAN handle a thousand with extra chairs set up, we'll be deeply disappointed personally if the place isn't WELL filled for this occasion.

There are more than a thousand adult citizens of Belmond who should harbor a heartfelt need to participate in this memorial service honoring the tornado's victims and expressing gratitude for the blessings bestowed on us. And children will certainly not be barred. A "slim" crowd probable? We'd hate to think this is so!

It is called to our attention that another "Week" being observed this month on a countrywide basis is "National Pharmacy Week" — Oct. 1-7. Iowa pharmacists are taking advantage of the occasion to point out the health hazards of smoking (they just WON'T leave us weed addicts alone!).

Dick Bloemke passes along to us a news release to the effect that, though many pharmacists sell cigarets, it apparently bears on their consciences and they are distributing a booklet entitled, "Smoking and Illness."

It reports on a new Public Health Service survey showing the relationship between cigaret smoking and chronic disease. If you're still a nicotine slave, pick up a copy from your favorite pharmacist and contemplate your stupidity. It takes a man of firm resolution to keep smoking these days.

From the L. B. Oberhausers at Long Beach, Calif., comes a clipping from the European edition of Stars and Stripes relating the recent achievement of a member of the Oberhauser clan. It told that son Jon, an Sp4 and also a member of the tower crew at Fliegerhorst Army Airfield had been approved by the Federal Aeronautics Administration as a qualified air traffic controller for direction of civilian as well as military traffic.

That makes him a qualified controller "stateside," as well as where military air traffic is concerned. Jon's address, for the benefit of local friends, is:

Sp4 Jonathan P. Oberhauser
APO 09165, New York, N. Y.

Along with the clipping was a note and a check for $5.00 to the Park Fund (to join an earlier one of $50!) and the observation: "We think it is wonderful the way Belmond has recovered from the tragic storm and a real indication of the strength and courage of the people in the midwest." The note added that Jon will complete his two years in uniform next April. The Oberhausers' regards were sent for delivery by us to all their friends.

VISITED IN MINNESOTA

Mr. and Mrs. Cloe Angus and Garry visited in the Myron Damon home at Mankato, Minn., weekend before last. They brought Mrs. Minnie Ellis home with them, after she had spent a month visiting in Mankato.

"THOSE TETANUS BLUES" might be an appropriate caption for this scene from "You've Gotta Have Heart." Recalling the steady file of nail-in-foot victims who had to report at the clinic or hospital for anti-tetanus shots during post-tornado emergency clean-up, Maxine McVey and Erv Redder are shown rehearsing one of the show skits. Chamber President Erv harbors obvious misgivings as he contemplates the prospective needleful of serum in the rump, while Maxine brandishes her oversized weapon with fiendish delight.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday—

"You've Gotta Have Heart" will show twice

Entertainment of a sort that a local audience has not had the opportunity to enjoy in a long time will be offered Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of next week at Luick Memorial Auditorium, when "You've Gotta Have Heart" takes to the boards. Curtain-time of the home talent, locally-written variety ← show will be 8:00 p. m. Tickets are to be a dollar for adults and 50 cents for students.

Sub-titled, "The Reconstruction Revue," the show was conceived and is being produced by the Belmond Community Theatre as its contribution toward the financing of Tornado Day, on Oct. 15. Net proceeds from both performances have been earmarked for the steering committee of Belmond's "appreciation day" for its tornado-time benefactors.

Sonia (Mrs. Bob) Wilson is directing the production, which was written mainly by her and Stan Norson, BHS vocal music director. In view of the fact that the "serious side" of the disaster last fall is being recalled by other events accompanying the anniversary, "You've Gotta Have Heart" looks back on "the big blow" for lighter aspects that passage of a year's time have made percetptible.

After an introductory scene in which "Ed" and "Sam" agree, on a muggy, October afternoon that "not much ever happens around here," the entire cast joins in a production number entitled, "We Got Hammers, We Got Nails." It dwells on the busy days following the twister when a large share of Belmond's residents were busy making homes and lawns resemble their "before" appearances.

Interspersing the major skits are a number of "black-outs" or quick-takes, such as the one involving two exhausted clean-up crew members who earn a big laugh with just four, short lines.

Another guffaw-getter is the show's own version of the "Top 10" hit tunes, with the following among the participant vocal artists: Maxine McVey, "If It Takes Forever;" Ed Gabrielson, "Bananas;" LaRaine Thorpe, "Irresistible;" Roy Snyder, "Gonna Build a Mountain;" Stan Norson, "On the Street Where You Live;" Connie Johnson, "All of Me;" and Paul Rietz, "Sixteen Tons."

Lynn Sorum and Bob Wilson, along with the latter's wife Sonia, are other major members of the cast, and several others have walk-on parts. Mrs. Roger (Janyce) Kinseth provides piano accompaniment for the hijinks.

Mr. Norson, a co-writer of the book, readily admits that "You've Gotta Have Heart" is "somethin' different."The cast members are ready to agree, and can promise that if the audiences at the two performances have as much fun as the thespians have had in rehearsing the show, it should be a real hit.

Hello, World

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Heginger are the parents of a baby girl born Sept. 30. She weighed 6 lbs. 2½ oz. and has been named Debra Lynn.

Robert John is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stokke of Clarion for their son born Sept. 30. He weighed in at 6 lbs. 13½ oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hase of Arvada, Colo., announce the birth of a four-pound son born September 26. He has been named Tyler. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kalkwarf are the local grandparents.

Seven ministers will take parts in union service

Ministers of five Belmond churches will present Scripture readings personally selected as pertinent to the occasion when the union service is held Saturday morning of next week to honor the memory of Belmond's tornado victims and express gratitude for the blessings bestowed upon the community at the time of last October's disaster.

They are: Rev. Leo Andersen of St. John's Lutheran; Rev. M. L. Jones, Methodist; Rev. R. A. Ormsby, St. Francis Catholic; Rev. Oscar Laaveg, Trinity and St. Olaf Lutheran; and Rev. Robert Vander Schaaf, Immanuel Reformed.

Two other churches will be represented on the program as the invocation is given by Rev. James Rozendaal, Bethany Reformed; and Rev. J. Samuel Shelby of the United Church of Christ (Congregational) delivers the benediction.

Two numbers will be sung by a joint choir, whose membership has been drawn from the various congregations, which will be directed by Stanley Norson, the Belmond High school vocal music instructor. One hymn will be sung by the congregation.

All business places are to be closed during the period of the service, 8:30 to 9:10 a. m., so that a maximum number of people will be free to attend.

Two-way race for mayor indicated for November

As the deadline for filing nomination papers neared this week, a two-way race for the mayor's office appeared in prospect — but no contests were shaping up for the councilman posts in the municipal election on Nov. 7.

Candidates' nomination papers must be in the hands of City Clerk Lois Hammond by Tuesday of next week, Oct. 10.

Russell Porter, incumbent 1st Ward councilman, has been persuaded by his fellow council members to cast his hat in the ring for mayor. Papers were also being circulated this week in behalf of Floyd Broshar as a mayorality candidate.

With Mr. Porter topping the slate, all of the present councilmen propose to run for re-election as a ticket — with Frank Patterson as candidate from Ward I to fill the vacancy left by the incumbent's switch to mayor candidacy.

Joining with Porter and Patterson will be: Glen Crapser, Ward II; Bob Churchouse, Ward III; Gene Griffin and Frank Pollitt, councilmen-at-large.

No objectors appeared at a hearing Monday night conducted by the council on a proposal to sell to Anderson, Clayton company a strip of city property platted as an alley which adjoins land recently purchased by ACCO from Ardell Kaduce.

Consequently, the council approved selling at $100 price the land strip 16½ feet wide and extending north and south 70.1 feet, with Anderson Clayton to take care of legal fees involved.

City Clerk Hammond made known that Anderson, Clayton has obtained a building permit preparatory to erecting on the property south of ACCO's north plant a combination office, warehouse and research laboratory with a declared cost figure of $50,500.

PROMOTION TO GARY PALS

Gary Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pals, since recently arriving at Stuttgart, Germany, for a tour of Army duty has been promoted to Specialist 4. He spent a month's furlough at home just prior to his departure for Germany.

GUESTS FROM OHIO

Monday dinner guests in the Mrs. Mima Waddington home were Mrs. R. J. Price of Columbus, O., Mrs. Jim Stoffer and Mrs. Carol Furman of Des Moines, Mrs. Jim Waddington and Mrs. Edith Kennedy.

Court suit asks pay for overtime

Suit for $659.92 in overtime wages he claims due him from North Central Grain company was filed in Wright county district court on Monday of this week by William Wessels. He also seeks liquidated damages in the same amount.

Wessels' petition states that he was an employee of North Central from Oct. 2, 1965 until Feb. 25 of this year, drawing a wage of $80 per week. He declares that he was not paid overtime, as required under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, with the result that he has coming the amount stated.

The plaintiff asks that the defendant be required to pay attorney's fees and costs of the court action, plus interest from the date of filing.

REHEARSAL TIME was in full swing when this picture of major members of the "You've Gotta Have Heart" cast was snapped last week as the thespians went through their opening number. Left to right are: Dr. P. A. Rietz, Stan Norson, Mrs. Lynn (Laraine) Thorpe, Mrs. Roger (Connie) Johnson, Bob Wilson, Ed Gabrielson, Doris (Mrs.) Gabrieslon pinch-hitting for Mrs. Bob Wilson, Mrs. Jim (Maxine) McVey, Roy Snyder and Erv Redder. That's Sonia Wilson, stationed temporarily in the orchestra pit to direct the proceedings. Concealed from view at left is Mrs. Roger Kinseth, accompanist at the piano.

Dignitaries will attend—

Charter to Kiwanis club Monday

Belmond will acquire a new service organization when the lately formed Belmond Kiwanis club is chartered at a banquet to be held Monday at 6:45 p. m. at the BHS student center, the Webster City club being the sponsoring group.

Master-of-ceremonies for the program will be Floyd G. Martin of Webster City, lieutenant-governor for the Nebraska-Iowa Kiwanis division. Speaker will be Russell E. Pearson of Onawa, governor of the same district.

Taking office as president of the new Kiwanis club will be Lynwood Van Blarcom, Central Soya accountant, who makes his home at Meservey. Other officers to be installed are Marion R. "Bob" Cox, vice president; James McFarlane, secretary; and Tom Minner, treasurer.

The club will be started with a charter membership of 26. Others belonging, in addition to those already named as officers and directors, are: Ed Gabrielson, Jack Granzow, Gene Janssen, Robert Klyn, Frank Long, Ralph McDougle, Frank Pollitt, Harvey Sturm, Roger Thielen, Jack Williams, Ray Wright, Dennis Bryant, Hale Mason and George Hinman.

After their formal organization, the Belmond Kiwanians will hold their regular meetings at the Town House cafe on Monday noons.

The Belmond club will be the 75th chartered by Kiwanis during the current year and the eighth new one in the Nebraska-Iowa district. Althogether, Kiwanis International possesses a total of 5,477 clubs.

A crowd approximating 100 is expected to attend Monday night's charter banquet, which will take the form of a "ladies night." Club notables planning to attend in addition to the emcee and speaker are:

Donald Lauelle, Eldora, governor-elect of the Nebraska-Iowa district; Wes Bartlett, Algona, international trustee; Byrnard Smith, Spirit Lake, secretary-treasurer of the Nebraska-Iowa district. A number of clubs from throughout Iowa will have representatives present, also.

ENJOYED FISHING JAUNT

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ainger, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin McMannus and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nelson spent last week at Cut Foot Sioux lake in Minnesota fishing.

Trio seized here as theft suspects

On Monday of this week Sheriff Boyd Bushey of Clay county came to Belmond with Sheriff Bob Blecker, led by a suspicion that the theft of some tools stolen several weeks ago from a farm near Spencer could be solved here.

The guess proved correct, and the missing tools were retrieved, some of them from a car Wayne Lamfers was driving and others where they'd been hidden at the former Nelson gravel pit south of town.

Charged with complicity in the theft along with 18-year-old Lamfers were two other youths of the same age, Dennis Trager and Kenneth LeRoy Ehrhardt. A minor, not named by the officers, also was involved, according to Blecker, and is due for hearing in juvenile court.

Sheriff Bushey took the three older defendants to Spencer to receive preliminary hearings and if arraigned to be held — or released under bond — pending presentation of their case in district court.

Maj. Bill Parker on Vietnam duty

WITH U. S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam — Major William A. Parker, son of Mrs. Viva K. Parker of Belmond, is on duty at Tuy Hoa AB, Vietnam.

Major Parker, an administrative staff officer, is a member of the Pacific Air Forces. Before his arrival in Southeast Asia, he was assigned to Ent AFB, Colo.

The major, who was commissioned by direct appointment in 1949, served in World War II and the Korean War.

He was graduated from Belmond High school and received his B. A. degree from the University of Iowa.

RESOLUTION

WHERAS, some 6,500 persons die in home fires each year, more than half of them children and old people, and

WHEREAS, many of these tragic victims could be saved by planning and practicing proven procedures for coping with home fire emergencies, and

WHEREAS, Operation EDITH encourages the planning and practice of exit drills from the home, and

WHEREAS, participation in Operation EDITH can result in a significant saving of lives, THEREFORE BE IT

RESOLVED by the City Council of Belmond, Iowa, that all citizens of our community be urged to participate in Operation EDITH on Wednesday, October 11, at 6:30 p. m., and BE IT FURTHER

RESOLVED, that this is a particulary fitting way to recognize the seriousness of fire dangers as part of the observance of National Fire Prevention Week.

Dr. R. E. Misner

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Trinity Lutheran church for Marion N. Nelson, who died early Saturday morning at Belmond Community hospital. He had been a patient there for only a week but had been afflicted with cancer for a period of some months before his death.

For a period of six years, 1959-65, he was associated with the North Central Grain company here. From Belmond, he had moved to Waseca, Minn., returning to this community about a month and a half ago.

Rev. Oscar Laaveg officiated over the services for Mr. Nelson and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the cemetery at Kanawha. Pallbearers were: Robert Schroeder of Waseca, John Johnson, Harold Michaelson and Everett Wicks of Kanawha, Kenneth Thompson of Alden and Silas Thompson, Belmond.

Born in Hancock county near Kanawha on Oct. 3, 1912, son of Nels and Christina Omvig Nelson, Mr. Nelson got his elementary education in schools near his home.

He was married on March 7, 1933, to Ruby Vroman at Clarion. Four children were born to them: Donald Nelson, now of Cedar Falls; Mrs. Daniel (Marlene) Billings and Gary Nelson, Des Moines; and Karen, at home.

Besides his wife and children, Mr. Nelson is survived by his mother; by four brothers — Joe and Kenneth of Britt, Richard of Long Beach Calif., and Leonard of Kanawha; five sisters — Sadie Wickline of Webster City, Edith Evans of Kanawha, Darlene Smith of Clear Lake, Agnes Carlson of Waterloo and Elsie Hinderks of Kamrar; also eight grandchildren.

Forester plant closes; to reopen next spring

Due to inability to obtain insulated production quarters in which to operate over the winter, Forest City Industries, Inc., ceased production here last week. Throughout the past season, with Herbert Pals as plant manager, Forester trailers have been manufactured in one of the Quonset huts owned by Farmers Grain company in the southeast part of town.

Arrival of cool fall weather dictated the cessation in operation, Mr. Pals informed The Independent, concluding what has been a successful season of production by the Forester Truck Camper division of the firm.

Efforts to find a suitable, heated building for winter without engaging in a long-term lease were without avail. As a consequence, the Forester management decided to store the plant equipment in the building that's been in use with a view to resuming operation there April 1 of next year.

Members of the regular, full-time crew that has been employed here by Forester have formed a motor pool and will commute to Forest City during the winter and continue work for the company there. At the season's peak, 20 men were employed here.

Mr. Pals has enrolled for a two-month evening short course in "business management" being offered by Iowa State university, Ames. He will be engaged in engineering work at the Forest City plant during the winter; and in January will attend the National Trailer and Camper Institute and Show at Cleveland, O.

Forest City Industries, Inc., was persuaded to set the plant up here by the Belmond Industrial Development corporation, and its officials have been well pleased with their experience in Belmond.

Besides the plant at Forest City in which it manufactures travel trailers, the concern has a plant at Mankato, Minn., that produces Kagot boats.

A WHEELBARROW RIDE for the bride was a highlight of the charivari given Mr. and Mrs. Richard Suntken on Tuesday night of last week by nearly 75 friends and kin of the young newlyweds (she was Ann Reasoner). The traditional banging of pots and pans — plus a few illegal firecrackers — made it a satisfactorily noisy affair. The gathering wound up at the Town House cafe, where the groom negotiated a 60c-per-person ceiling on refreshments. Mrs. Arnold Barkema and Harold Buseman organized the affair.

Flanagan Agency to hold opening

Main street's newest business, Flanagan Insurance and Realty agency, this Friday is holding its grand opening in a handsome office built this past summer specifically to house the concern of which Larry Flanagan is proprietor.

It was in the 'forties that his father, the late Neil Flanangan, who died in April of 1964, established the business that his son is now carrying on. In September of that year, Larry gave up the assistant managership of a Montgomery Ward store in Hastings, Neb., to assist his mother in conduct of the agency — and later took complete charge of the business.

His new office lends much to the appearance of Belmond's resurrected Main street, being attractive inside and out as well as efficiently planned to serve his needs.

From 9:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. tomorrow, coffee and doughnuts will be served to all taking advantage of Larry's invitation to "stop in." There also will be a drawing for a valuable door prize.

HARLAND EIDE INJURED IN ACCIDENT AT WORK

Harland Eide of Adel, brother of Mrs. Donald Stoffer, injured a leg in an accident at work a week ago Thursday. Following emergency surgery, he expects to be hospitalized for some time.

Both Harland and his wife at one time resided here. Cards would be appreciated by Harland while he is recovering. His address is Room 345, Mercy Hospital, Des Moines, Ia. 50314.

President McMillen here—

Central Soya dedicates feed mill

Central Soya President Dale W. McMillen, Jr., speaking Saturday at the dedication of Central Soya's reactivated feed mill, called the plant "tangible evidence of Central Soya's confidence in the progressive agriculture of Iowa." He paid tribute to "Iowa's growth in agriculture, industry and education," which he said has contributed greatly to the state's progress.

Mr. McMillen commented, "This new Belmond facility is designed to produce a complete line of Master Mix feeds and will enable Central Soya to better serve our expanding family of Master Mix customers throughout northern Iowa and southern Minnesota. Actually, this plant will serve a double purpose — it will provide a new market for grain farmers, as well as produce quality feeds for livestock and poultry producers."

The feed plant was reconstructed from property acquired when Central Soya in June purchased the former General Mills soybean processing plant. Reactivated with modern equipment, the feed plant has a capacity of 60,000 tons per year and will produce feeds for bag or bulk shipment by truck or rail.

Other Central Soya facilities in Iowa include feed plants at Des Moines and Muscatine, grain elevators at Northwood and Muscatine, and a turkey processing plant at Burlington.

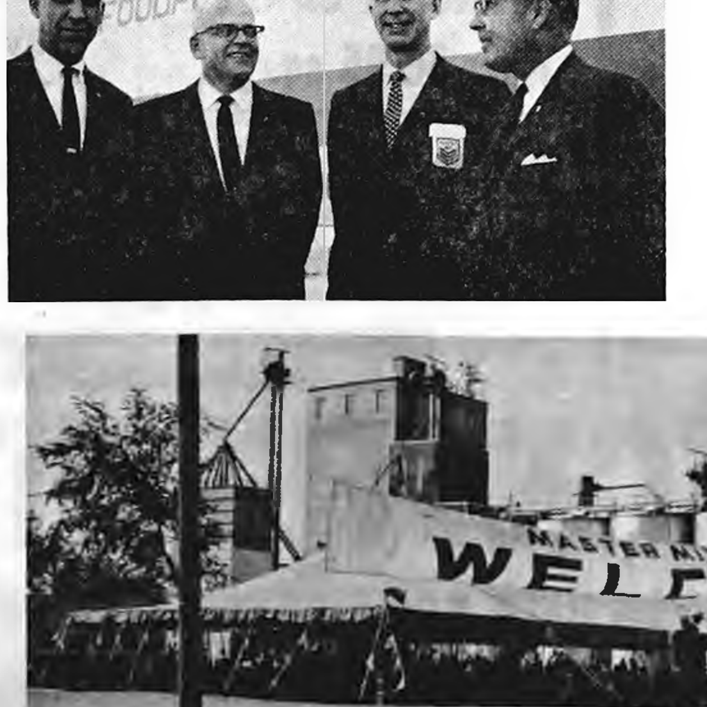
Central Soya was founded in 1934 at Decatur, Ind. by D. W. McMillen, Sr., father of the present president. The company's sales have grown from a little over a million dollars in that first year to over half a billion dollars in 1966.

Known as the "Foodpower People", Central Soya contributes through its diversified operations to the production of more and better food for the dinnertables of the world. In addition to being a major feed manufacturer and poultry products marketer, Central Soya is a major soybean processor.

Meal produced from soybeans forms the main protein source for the company's Master Mix feeds, while the soybean oil is used by makers of margarines, shortenings and salad and cooking oils.

Central Soya's chemurgy division produces soy proteins, flours and lecithins that are important ingredients in many processed foods including meats, bakery goods and candies. The grain division merchandises food and feed grain through a network of storage and handling facilities.

Central Soya
FOODPOWER People



A GALA ATMOSPHERE was created at Central Soya last Saturday for the feed mill dedication by three large tents liberally decorated wiht pennants, which served various functions related to the occasion. One shielded the registration table and a display of C-S products; another gave sun protection for the catering staff that served the barbecued chicken luncheon; and the third was equipped with a rostrum and seats for spectators who attended the dedication program. Speakers were Joseph F. Jones, executive vice president, and Dale W. McMillen, Jr., president, at left in group picture; while F. I. Finlayson, production manager for C-S multi-purpose plants such as that at Belmond, and Ray Wright, local plant manager, were introduced to the audience.

National 4H Club Week

To All 4-H'ers and Their Leaders, Our Hearty Congratulations . . . Keep Up the Good Work, and May Success Always Be Yours!

"Join 4-H: A World of Opportunity." As we pay homage to 4-H club members, during National 4-H Week, September 30 — October 7th, we believe that this official slogan appropriately expresses 4-H aims and advantages. "Join 4-H" . . . and a world of opportunity awaits young people, who gain training and experience in citizenship and community life, as well as acquiring valuable career and homemaking skills. "Join 4-H" . . . and young people find a world of opportunity to serve while they learn, to build for the future. "Join 4-H" . . . because 4-H has much to give, and much opportunity for giving . . . to family . . . community . . . country . . . and world.

CONGRATULATIONS

As Tornado Day build-up—

KRNT-TV to show "before-after"

Plans for Tornado Day, with just 10 days to go, are getting into high gear in preparation for the host of "company" that Belmond confidently expects to "drop in" on Sunday, Oct. 15.

Television viewers of station KRNT-TV will be learning of the big event this Sunday when it telecasts "before" and "after" views of this community showing the rebuilding progress that has been achieved. A camerman from the Des Moines station spent several hours here Tuesday shooting film to be shown Sunday evening at 10 20 o'clock.

Every effort will be made between now and the date of Tornado Day by the publicity committee to see that all who came to Belmond's aid with labor, equipment and contributions know that THEY are invited to revisit Belmond "a year after" to witness how extensive a recovery has been accomplished.

Contributions to the Tornado Day Fund by Wednesday of this week had climbed to a total of $2,606, according to Ellis Elliott, steering committee chairman.

Donations not previously reported had come in as follows:

Mr. Elliott says, "While that amount may seem rather impressive, when the cost of serving barbecued chicken to 7,000 is considered along with other expenses that will be involved, the sum doesn't seem so large. We can still use additional donations to mighty good advantage and hope that money will continue to come in in order to assure the day can be made the sort of big occasion that the circumstances demand."

Housewives are invited to do their personal bit toward Tornado Day hospitality by baking a batch or two of cookies that can be served at the various coffee bars that will be in operation. There's not much question but what cookies by the thousands could be put to good use.

The cookies may be left on the Saturday preceding Tornado Day at any of the three local grocery stores — P & G, We 3 and By-Lo — and arrangements will be made to distribute them where they are needed as visitors gather to chat over a cup of coffee.

Highway Patrolmen, assisted by local Boy Scouts, will be at their stations at 10:00 a. m. on T-Day to guide the cars of guests along the tour route through town. Some 30 intersections need to be manned, says Mr. Elliott, and it looks at present as if some volunteers could be used to help provide a force of adequate size for this duty.

Erv Redder, Chamber of Commerce president, will emcee a brief program at the city park bandstand at 2:30 p m. It will be preceded by a march to that site by the local veterans' color guard and the BHS band and a welcome will be extended by Mayor Bob Misner. Final details of the program are still being worked out.

Other details of the day's program are also still "jelling," but Mr. Elliott says that plans are sufficiently set to guarantee that the event will need only cooperation from the weatherman to assure its being a memorable occasion.

PAUL DORRS TO MARK SILVER ANNIVERSARY

An open house marking the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr and Mrs. Paul Dorr will be held at their home this Sunday, their children serving as host and hostesses.

Their three daughters, Kay, Rita and Patty, and son Kevin invite the honorees' friends and relatives to greet them between the hours of 2:00 to 5:00 and 7:00 to 9:00 p. m.

No personal invitations are being extended.

The open house date misses the Dorrs' actual anniversary by two days, Paul Dorr and Maxine Kinseth having been married on Oct. 6, 1942.

California woman injured in crash

Margaret Vessels, 69, of Escondido, Calif., was admitted to Belmond Community hospital Sunday evening for treatment of injuries sustained in a two-car accident about 5:15 p. m. on Highway 69 adjoining the Trail Blazers' new horse show arena.

She was in a car driven north by Evelyn Anderson, 50, also of Escondido when it was struck in the rear by another auto driven by Warren Isenberger, 53, of Osage, but formerly of Clarion. With the latter were his wife and six children.

Driver of the California car had slowed to a stop to permit one ahead to make a lefthand turn onto the gravel road south of Central Soya. Damage to the Anderson car was estimated at $200 and to Isenberger's at $450 by Patrolman Bill James, who investigated the accident.

Isenberger was charged with excessive speed and was to appear before Justice of the Peace Ross Stanbery at Clarion sometime this week.

Only one new reactor was discovered when Mantoux tests for discovering possible new incidence of tuberculosis were recently administered to students in the Belmond Community schools' 1st, 5th, 9th and 12th grades, in the special education class and among the faculty and staff members.

Out of a student enrollment of 347, the test was given to 339. Three students were absent, one of whom had been tested only last year; another who had been tested a year ago did not submit to a repeat of the test; and parental permission was refused for the testing of three 1st-graders.

Besides the one reactor, two other students had tests that showed positive — as had been the case when they'd been administered tests in previous years. Mrs. Ardeth Paule, school nurse, notes that such results do not necessarily reflect the presence of active tuberculosis.

Among the 67 teachers, 51 were tested. The other 16 had tested positive in previous years and it was unnecessary to repeat the Mantoux test. Among 50 staff members — bus drivers, cafeteria help, clerical employees and custodians — 40 were tested. Eight had previously tested positive, one was absent and the other had undergone a test only last August.

There were no reactors among the 91 teachers and staff members retested. These tests are administered annually, proceeds from the sale of Christmas Seals meeting the cost.

Land bank mails dividend checks

The Federal Land Bank association at Hampton last weekend mailed more than $42,000 in dividends to its 673 members, according to Manager Max J. Holmes. The association, which serves Franklin, Wright, and part of Butler, Cerro Gordo and Hancock counties, is owned by the borrower-members it serves.

"The Hampton Association," Mr. Holmes said, "has paid a dividend annually for the past 23 years. During this time more than one-half million dollars has been returned to the stockholders."

More than 683 farmers in the counties served by the association presently have $14,210,400 in long-term farm loans outstanding. This is an increase of $1,550,000 over the same date last year.

Directors of the Hampton association are: president, Kenneth Showalter, Hampton; vice president, Alvin Benson, Clarion; Roger Rust of Sheffield, Chester Hill of Belmond, Raymond A. Wickham of Dumont and Oscar A. Holmes of Dows.

NICK CHRISTENSEN DIES

Word was received Sunday by Mrs. L. G. Classick of the death of her father, Nick Christensen of Sibley, which resulted from a heart attack. He had reached the age of 73, having been born at Thisted, Denmark, on Jan. 28, 1894. He had made his home in Sibley for the past 54 years. His daughter, with her husband and sons, went to Sibley on Monday to attend the funeral services held on Tuesday morning.

The Winnebago Council area Cub and Boy Scouts in over 50 towns throughout nine counties in north central Iowa will soon be carrying on their annual Good Turn Day clothing drive for the handicapped workers at the Goodwill Industries. The dates for the drive have been set for the Saturdays of Oct. 7th and 14th.

Cubmaster Roger Johnson and the Cub Scouts will deliver a Scout Goodwill Clothing Bag to every home in Belmond this Saturday.

One week later, on "Good Turn Day," Scoutmaster Ronald Steenblock, Jr., and the Boy Scouts will return to the homes to collect the filled bags and boxes of clothing. Goodwill Industries' trucks will pick up the filled bags the following week.

Again this year, the particular need is for clothing, shoes. toys, and repairable electrical appliances or kitchen utensils. Also, there is a growing need for bedding, blankets and pillows.

Newspapers and magazines will not be included in this drive and will not be picked up by the Scouts.

Council Executive Elwood Nehrling asks that everyone plan now to fill a bag, and an extra box if needed. Mr. Nehrling says:

"This is a wonderful opportunity for those of us who are more fortunate, to be a good scout and help the local Cub and Boy Scouts in their effort to do a good turn for the handicapped workers at Goodwill Industries."

5-minute spots on KRIT to strike at extremism

A series of 20 five-minute recorded programs to alert the public to the goals and methods of extremist groups in America may now be heard within the listening area of radio station KRIT-FM, Clarion.

Aimed at unmasking extremist tactics and counteracting extremist broadcasting and literature, the series, called "EXTREMISM '67," will feature Milton Ellerin, director of research on extremism for the American Jewish committee and a former FBI special agent, as commentator.

The program will expose extremism of both the right and the left, and will feature guest interviews of prominent persons who have been attacked by extremists with accounts of how such persons fought back.

Among such guests will be Senator Clifford Case (Rep., N. J.), J. Irwin Miller, former president of the National Council of Churches; Bayard Rustin, executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute; Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers; and Bishop Richard C. Raines, Indiana Area, The Methodist Church.

Released by the Office of Communication of the United Church of Christ, the broadcasts from KRIT will be aired daily, at 3:00 p. m., Monday through Friday, beginning Oct. 9 and ending Nov. 3.

The United Church of Christ, a union of Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed Churches, is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year.

Chandler wins guess contest

As a childhood joke used to go, a fair-sized handful of local fans apparently could "smell defeat" in advance of last Friday night's meeting of the Broncos with Buffalo Center and picked the Bison as victors. Winner of the score-guessing contest, though, was Keith Chandler. He most accurately forecast Belmond's inability to stop the visitors' offense and predicted a 27-13 victory for the invaders. That made him a touchdown off on each team but was still better than the next best guess, which was mailed in from Buffalo Center by Paul Gray, erstwhile Bison basketball player. He foresaw a 21-7 Bison victory.

Forest City, thus far in the current North Iowa conference football season, has fallen somewhat short of showing the strength it was expected to have. But if the Belmond Broncos pay the slightest attention to that fact, they should have their heads examined.

Last fall, the Indians came here with a scoreless tie vs. Clear Lake and 13-7 loss to Buffalo Center and 20-6 defeat at the hands of Britt as their record. Belmond's win string stood at 28 games; and very nearly ended right there.

It took eight final minutes of virtually faultless football for the Broncos to surge back from a two-touchdown deficit and win the game 21-19. The statistics sheet showed Forest City with 22 first downs to Belmond's 13.

So despite the Indians' two 27-7 losses to Clear Lake and Buffalo Center, after their 13 to 7 victory over Britt last Friday, Coach Chuck Stalker and his gridders are not looking for easy pickin's when they travel to Forest City this Friday.

Coach Hal Kuck, in his first season as the Indians' mentor, got a bad break when Monty Branstad, highly rated junior fullback, suffered a serious injury again Clear Lake. In his absence, the Forest City running attack has not fully measured up to expectations; and though Quarterback Danny Schmidt is a capable passer, it takes a decent ground offensive to make an aerial game effective. That combination seemed to be jelling Friday.

But over the years, no NIC adversary has given Belmond so much trouble as Forest City; and the Broncos have no good cause to expect matters to be different this time.

Belmond's win in 1965 gave the Broncos an edge in their series with Forest City for the first time. It now stands 21-19 for the Broncos, with four games having resulted in ties. In the first dozen games — after the rivalry was launched with a 71-0 BHS victory in 1923, Belmond lost only once though twice having to settle for 6-6 deadlocks.

In the next 10 outings, Forest City was the winner nine times. That's pretty much the way things have gone. In the teams' last eight meetings, the Broncos have come out on top six times.

As was not the case a year ago, Forest City is still very much in contention for the NIC gridiron crown and goes into Friday night's fray with much to gain. Belmond, on the other hand, is virtually eliminated as a title contender.

Fumblitis costs Colts 14-0 loss

Belmond's junior high football team opened its season Wednesday of last week against Britt on Faris Field, dropping a 14-0 decision to the visitors. The score did not fairly reflect the abilities of the two outfits, since Coach Jack Steinberg's Colts moved the ball well but crippled their own efforts with fumbles.

Three times they advanced inside the Eaglets' 20-yard line, only to fumble the ball away. And on three other occasions they lost possession in the same manner.

Britt climaxed a march in the second quarter with a one-yard plunge for its first tally. The second came with only 17 seconds remaining on the clock when the Eaglets fooled the Colts on a reverse that went 50 yards for a score.

Last night the Colts were to meet Clarion here for their second game. Next Wednesday, they play at Garner.

Ex-Broncs slated at UNI regulars

Freshman Coach Glen Henry at Northern Iowa university, Cedar Falls, is high on a pair of Belmond High alumni who are reporting for football drills in preparation for the UNI frosh opener this Saturday against Fort Dodge Junior college.

Henry has Les Steenblock tabbed as a regular offensive tackle and Wayne Smith as a starting halfback on offense. Both of the ex-Broncos were all-North Iowa conference choices at their respective positions last fall.

THREE EX-BRONCOS are contributing importantly to the campaign of the North Iowa Area Community college football Trojans this fall, being directed by Rich Koolbeck, former BHS coach. The Mason City aggregation has been using Pat Azeltine, a sophomore, as reserve tackle, Dave Dirks and Rich Stadtlander, both freshmen, as regular center and No. 2 quarterback. This Saturday the Trojans play Ellsworth of Iowa Falls as their Homecoming opponent at 1:30 p. m. at Roosevelt stadium. Koolbeck finds himself somewhat handicapped in building a winner in that several of their foes have large numbers of scholarships to dangle before gifted out-of-state players. North Iowa's personnel is drawn almost entirely from NIAD territory, with North Iowa conference gridders occupying a number of prominent roles.

TOURNAMENT POSTPONED

Due to the Tornado Day festivities planned in Belmond on Sunday, Oct. 15, the two-ball foursome event that had been on the Clarmond Country club schedule for the same date is being postponed. The tournament committee plans to hold the golf event on Oct. 22nd.

Bison Calves tie froshmore eleven

Gulity of a "flat" performance after their 55-0 drubbing of Britt a week earlier, according to Coach Jerry Kintzi, Belmond High's froshmore gridders Monday night at Buffalo Center were able to manage only a 19-19 tie. They had to rally with two touchdowns in the final quarter to do that.

Buffalo Center scored on a screen pass down the middle and converted the extra point while a 10-yard pass play involving Lennie Johnson and Joey McLaughlin — Johnson sweeping for the point — gave the Junior Broncs a tying tally for a 7-7 halftime score.

The Bison Calves crossed the double-stripe twice in the third quarter, once on a 40-yard screen pass to the outside and then on an 85-yard ramble which caught the Broncs thinking the ball had been called dead on the visitors' 15. Both point attempts after touchdown failed.

Belmond drove for a pair of equalizing TD's in the final stanza, Dan Lonnevik going over from the three and Johnson scoring on a two-yard sneak. A pass for the first conversion fell incomplete and Johnson slipped while attempting an end sweep for the second.

Next Monday night at 6:30 o'clock on Faris Field, the Junior Broncs will take on Forest City.

Misner's run-back among Drake best

One of the Bulldog bright spots Saturday night in the 46-13 loss to Wichita was the Belmond junior's 71-yard punt return for Drake's second touchdown.

It goes in the books as the sixth best on record for a Bulldog, replacing a 70-yard effort by Bobby Clark in the 1947 games against St. Louis.

Misner already owns two of the top five Drake kickoff returns of all time (94 yards against Quantico and 79 yards against Louisville last year).

His name also appears in five other game or season departmental highs for the Bulldogs.

The wedding of Miss Esther Johnson and Melvin James was performed in the EUB church at Meservey on Friday evening, Sept. 1, at 8:00 o'clock. Captain Eugene Adney of the Salvation Army Corps of Mason City read the double-ring Salvation Army ceremony and Rev. Clive Cook gave the sermonette.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Boyd Clegg Johnson of Greensboro, N. C., and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph James.

Mrs. Richard Halfpop, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Rev. Tim Hickie of University Park as he sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Cheryl Wiley of Pittsburg, Penn., was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of maize bridal satin featuring the empire waist design and carried a bouquet of green glads. Judy Acuff of Waterloo, wearing an identical gown of mint green satin, served as bridesmaid and carried yellow glads.

Lt. Rudy Hedgren of the Salvation Army corps at Creston was best man and Charles Tricek of Montford, Wis., was groomsman.

Ushers were Rodney Miller and Kenneth Adney, both of Mason City. Rodney also served as candlelighter.

Folowing the ceremony, at reception was held in the Fellowship Hall with Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lauen as host and hostess. Mrs. Eugene Adney was in charge of the guest book.

MRS. MELVIN JAMES

Mrs. Allen Casady of Plainfield, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Lloyd Hughes cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. Morton James, Jr., of Montezuma, also aunt of the groom, poured coffee, while another aunt, Mrs. Walt Koehler, and Mrs. Clive Cook served punch.

Guests attending the wedding from other places than those previously named were from Waverly, Hampton, Greene, Des Moines, Montour, Deep River, Ames, Polk City and San Luis Obispo, Calif.

On Thursday evening a dinner was served in Fellowship Hall for the members of the wedding party, preceding the rehearsal.

The newlyweds are presently making their home in Mason City, where both are employed and in addition are helping Captain and Mrs. Adney with the work of the Salvation Army. Their future plans are to enter officer training school for the Salvation Army.

CAL 7th grade students collect insect specimens

Members of the 7th grade class of the CAL Community junior high school last week completed an insect collection which, in the course of just two and a half weeks' time, acquired 75 different specimens. The project was carried on under the direction of the youngsters' teacher, Al Rodriguez.

Started on Sept. 8, the collection was completed and displayed in a glass case by Tuesday of last week. It included quite a variety of insects, including butterflies, moths, beetles and dragonflies.

Many of the specimens were collected on field trips; others were captured by the students at their homes. Nets loaned by the school were used to catch the insects.

Mr. Rodriguez notes that the boys and girls gained additional knowledge of nature and the world around them in the course of looking for the insects.

Public may view new building—

Open house Saturday at library

The culmination of a prolonged effort to give Alexander one of the finest public libraries for any town of its size in Iowa will be marked Saturday when open house is held to introduce the new building to the public.

Inspection hours will be 1:00 to 5:00 p. m. Children from the two CAL district elementary schools were to visit the library on Wednesday and Friday of this week.

Investment in the library to date comes to $37,950, according to Mrs. Ed Hensel, board president. Of this amount, $16,200 was received as a federal grant, $10,000 as a grant from the Kinney-Lindstrum Foundation, $8,750 in private donations and $3,000 from the town of Alexander.

Funds are still needed, says Mrs. Hensel, for 48 chairs ($192), a bench for the story book table ($34), a used projector for showing films, wastebaskets and other incidentals. Mrs. Hensel saks that any persons or organizations that might be contemplating presentation of flowers for the open house might preferably consider an equivalent cash gift to help toward purchase of the equipment still needed.

She adds that calendars listing anniversaries and birthdays will be on sale this fall to raise some money.

Describing the library as "a dream come true," the board president notes that the cement block building with brick and stucco front measures 32x60 feet in dimension and has a 32x32-foot basement. It has a combination heating and cooling unit in the basement to assure patrons' comfort.

Recent memorial gifts have provided the library with a set of reference books, "Lands and People," given in the name of Mrs. Gertie Bohman; a clock, in memory of Mrs. Ella Pierce; and a book cart, in the names of Fred Modderman and Daryl Dorenkamp.

Two exhibits will highlight this Saturday's open house. One will be comprised of arts and crafts; the other will consist of photos portraying Alexander and its past. Mrs. Hensel regards that visitors will find both very interesting.

Circulation of books at the library has shown a noteworthy upturn in the past few months, while it's been housed in the new building, and for the past year's time will exceed 7,000.

The library board plans in the near future to form a Friends of the Library group to assist the library in carrying out special programs.

Mrs. Hensel says the board is deeply grateful to all who have contributed in any way toward making the new building a reality. She emphasizes that it will be necessary for the library to solicit continuing public support, as the overhead expense for maintainance is expected to exceed the budget regularly.

4-H has done good job of keeping up with times

This week of Sept. 30-Oct. 7 being National 4-H Week, it gives us pleasure to make a bow in the direction of both the 4-H club members of Wright county and the dedicated leaders who contribute so importantly to keeping the 4-H movement a worthwhile and lively one.

The 4-H movement has been subjected in some degree to a danger of joining the dodo and certain other inhabitants of this earthly scene that found themselves unable to adapt to changing times.

Like the Future Farmers of America, the 4-H has had to face up to the fact that rural numbers in America are steadily diminishing and likely will continue to do so for some time into the future. This has meant that there are fewer "farm kids" to participate in 4-H — and that a predominantly rural orientation of the 4-H program no longer can satisfactorily achieve the national organization's objectives.

Certainly, there is still a real place for farm projects in the program. But, again like the FFA, 4-H leadership has recognized the increasing need to add projects that are no more than farm-related and still other project fields that will be useful to the large number of 4-H'ers who are necessarily destined to earn their livings in employment areas other than agriculture.

While the 4-H has for many years exposed its members to a helpfully wide range of experience, it has kept up with the times by steadily expanding its outreach beyond the confines of farm-related projects and in addition has made a profitable place in its clubs for town youth as well as rural youth.

This has assured that 4-H will continue to hold its important place in the training of young people for many years to come. 4-H has done a good job, is doing a good job, and can confidently be expected to continue its good works far into the future.

Tricky, planning party with unlimited guest list

While an isolated individual here and there has expressed personal doubt as to the propriety of holding a "Tornado Day," and a somewhat larger number have implied indifference by failure to give the undertaking support in any way, there can be little question but what a "big day" is in the making.

Because Tornado Day is, insofar as we know, literally unique as a community gesture there has been absolutely no pattern to go by. It can only be hoped that an embarrassing omission does not occur in the planning, despite the steering committee's determination to the contrary.

And how many do you set the table for, when you invite "the world"? The last we heard, the Jaycees were being instructed to have barbecued chicken, potato salad, baked beans and "the extras" ready for 7,000. That MIGHT be enough for all visitors and the home folks, too; then again — particularly if the hosts eat along with the guests — it could leave several thousand hungry onlookers. Worry, worry!

But the important thing is, we've a heap of gratitude to show. And we are going about it the best way we know how. Because of the imponderables involved, and because proper perspective is sometimes difficult to obtain when you're too close to the subject, we valued a letter received last week from Sgt. Lynn Jenison at Fort Campbell, Ky. He slipped in a $10 check to be divided equally between the Park Fund and the Tornado Day Fund.

He had this to say: "I regret that I will be unable to attend the Tornado Day festivities. I took an emergency leave last year and arrived home the night following the tornado to personally witness the immense destruction.

"I was home for a week and was amazed at the hard work and determination of the local people and the cooperation of the 'outsiders.' Much was accomplished in that short week. . . .

"The up-coming Tornado Day is one of the finest gestures the people of Belmond could make. It is actions of this type that make us proud to call Belmond our hometown. My best wishes for a successful day and continued success in the rebuilding of Belmond."

Lynn added that the series of ribbon-cuttings pictured in The Independent have kept him posted on reconstruction progress, businesswise; and that he will be discharged Nov. 24 and is looking forward to seeing the changes that have taken place in Belmond.

It was gratifying to us that one of Belmond's own sons, viewing the Tornado Day plans from a distance, felt that his hometown was so very much doing "the right thing" in undertaking the elaborate "thank you" planned for a week from next Sunday.

The "party's on," and time is growing short. Contributions to help swell the Tornado Day Fund can still be used to decided advantage. But above all, each of us should regard himself a committee of one to make our guests welcome on "the" day.

General plans have been drafted and are being executed to the very best of the abilities of those in charge. In the last analysis, though, the test of our hospitality is going to be on a person-to-person basis. Plan to mingle with our visitors and extend every possible courtesy. THAT is what our guests are going to remember — along with the giant strides our town has made toward recovery — when Tornado Day has come and gone.

Teachers' role in civic affairs steadily growing

The annual dinner for our teachers given Wednesday evening of last week by the Belmond Chamber of Commerce was, once more, a distinctly pleasant affair. But beyond the fact that these functions serve the very worthwhile purpose of creating a better acquaintanceship between the teachers and our business people, we increasingly regard that they are achieving something even more important.

We can't back up our assumption with any hard and fast statistics, but we believe that in the few years that the teachers' dinner has been an annual affair the participation of faculty members in community activities has increased materially.

There was a time when our teachers took a regrettably small part in community undertakings and organizations. But no longer is this so. The younger male teachers have found a satisfying personal challenge in associating with the Jaycees in their civic activities: faculty members have been key participants in such groups as the Belmond Community Theatre; and "school people" have plunged into many other town projects with a vim.

It can no longer be said that the teachers, while being "in" Belmond, are not a distinct part "of" the community. Anyone who on last Oct. 14th and in the days following saw teachers among the hardest-working of all as we dug out of our tornado rubble would KNOW this to be so.

This is a pleasing state of affairs. The Chamber deserves a word of praise for its annual gesture which, as we say, seems in some part responsible for levelling the barrier that for too long existed awkwardly between Belmond and its teachers. And equal commendation is owed the teachers, who needed only to have it demonstrated that they were "wanted" in order to make of themselves a very vital, integral part of the community.

Clipped Comment

What's this now? Square tomatoes!

It has been demonstrated that many consumers perfer their oranges bright yellow and their potatoes deep red, even if it takes dye to give them the "natural" appearance. In view of this, we have no idea how housewives will take to oblong or square tomatoes. But one of these years we may find out, inasmuch as that's the kind of tomatoes plant breeders are trying to develop.

Not only that, but if the scientists have their way, orange trees of the future will grow in hedgerows, peach trees will be shaped like umbrellas, corn will grow on two-foot stalks, and who-knows-what other odd transformations may take place in other familiar plants.

IT'S ALL PART OF THE CONtinuing technological revolution in agriculture. Engineers have gone about as far as they can go in designing harvesting machines to fit plants, so plant breeders are redesigning plants to fit machines.

The department of agriculture's research center at Beltsville, Md., already has developed an elongated tomato with a nipple tip that may show up on the supermarket counters in a few years. Researchers say their objective is a tomato that is oblong or nearly square, with firm flesh, that can be more easily handled by machines without bruising.

NEARLY FOUR-FIFTHS OF California's tomato crop for soups and catsup already is harvested by machines. But these machines cause minor bruising of the fruit that would detract from its appeal in the fresh market.

Much of the impetus to mechanize tomato growing has resulted from the labor shortage caused when Congress, at the insistence of the labor department, shut off the supply of cheap Mexican labor. That was an effort to force growers to hire American workers at higher wages and at the price of increased production costs that would be reflected back to consumers. It would be ironic if this squareheaded decision by bureaucrats in the department of labor should in the end produce a square tomato in the department of agriculture. —Chicago Tribune

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT
By Ye Ed

Ellis Elliott had been talking over some Tornado Day matters with us and had just left. Though he actually prefers the office floor, since it was carpeted, TJ hopped into our "company chair" upon Ellis's departure, to show that it was HIS chair first and company's second.

After giving us a brief glare to back up his point, the cat settled down to his comfort and a smile gradually overcame the frown.

"Extending a 'y'all come" invitation to the world in general poses problems, doesn't it?" he said. "Throwing a party without having any notion how many guests you'll have is kinda on a par with having unexpected company show up right at meal time.

"REMINDS ME OF A STORY I read recently, told by Sam Levinson, the ex-school teacher and TV humorist. Sam's family was a big one, and when a batch of relatives showed up one day just in time for Sunday dinner his mother quickly herded the kids together to rehearse them in a script made necessary by the circumstances.

"She told 'em, 'When dinner's on, you just say you don't like chicken and don't want any!' The children complied with order, watching hungrily as the main course disappeared down the kinfolks' gullets. Then came time for dessert, and Mama Levinson said sternly, 'Any who didn't eat their chicken don't get any dessert!'

"COULD BE THAT THE JAYcees might find themselves in Mama Levison's position if company shows up in the hordes that's entirely possible on Tornado Day.

"You are so right," we agreed. "Which has members of the steering committee having alternate nightmares. One night they dream of being buried in piles of barbecued chicken up to their chins, due to too slim a Tornado Day crowd.

"The next night they have visions of two or three thousand hungry persons wanly inspecting a paper plate with a lone potato chip in the middle, signifying that the response brought in more guests than the preparations could possibly feed."

"What's the answer, then?" the cat inquired. "Or is it like Harlan Miller of 'Over the Coffee' used to say, 'There IS no solution; seek it lovingly'?"

"OF COURSE, THERE IS A partial solution — or maybe we should say a POSSIBLE solution, depending on how bright the sun shines on Oct. 15th and how many people decide that an autumn drive to Belmond would be as good a way as any to while away a pleasant Sunday afternoon.

"Serving is to start at 11:00 a. m., and continue as long as the 'vittles' last. It can more or less be taken for granted that the peak of the crowd won't be reached until some time afternoon. So-o-o-o — just because the food line from noon to 1:00 o'clock might not be overwhelming doesn't signify that the Jaycees might not be filling plates with machinegun rapidity for a couple of hours after that."

"And it wouldn't be so dandy if company had to be turned away because the hosts had already waded through the eatables?" TJ suggested.

"THAT'S THE SIZE OF IT," WE nodded. "On the other hand, if the downside of the afternoon arrives and it's alarmingly clear that the crowd has fallen short of the food supply, the Jaycees would probably be most appreciative if they weren't left with an embarrassment of barbecued chicken and fixin's.

"In other words, it would seem advisable for home folks to plan on Sunday noon lunch — or dinner, as the case may be —at the family table; then, if there's plenty enough to go around, to join in the barbecue line after that fact's been established."

"Are those orders of the day?" TJ inquired. "Is that how the Jaycees and the steering committee have suggested the thing be done?"

"Fact of the matter is," we had to confess, " . . . no. Just seems a sensible precaution, and one quite necessary if Belmond doesn't want to risk its reputation for hospitality.

"OF COURSE, A HUNGRY guest might not know he was left that way because his helping had been eaten by one of his hosts — but WE'D know, and it wouldn't make that chicken set very well on the stomach."

TJ was silent for a moment, very obviously picturing for himself a cue of guests unhappily watching the food line grind to a halt because a thousand hometowners had claimed early spots therein. Wagging his head disapprovingly at the thought, he asked:

"Have the Jaycees given any thought to maybe serving loaves and fishes instead of barbecued chicken and baken beans? Seems I recall how that menu has been stretched, on occasion, to accommodate a whole bunch of unexpected company."

"AND YOU," WE CHIDED HIM, "may find yourself reprimanded for being sacreligious. . . . Anyway, it's decidedly doubtful that the Jaycees have amongst them a chef capable of stretching loaves and fishes any farther than barbecue-n-beans.

"If we're just polite hosts," we concluded, dismissing the conversation, "the problem may take care of itself."

Operation Edith, Oct. 11th—

Firemen request full cooperation of public

Observance of National Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 8-14) in Belmond will be "something different" this year, says Fire Chief R. G. "Bud" Packard. This is due to local participation in Operation Edith — which stands for "exit-drills-in-the-home" and is being conducted on a statewide basis.

Operation Edith has been developed by the State Fire Marshal's office and the Iowa Farm Safety Council as a life saving drill for Iowa families in cooperation with other state and local safety groups.

With this issue of The Independent, all homes in Belmond and on local rural routes are receiving an Operation Edith escape plan which they are asked to fill out before Wednesday of next week. This plan will set out specific escape routes to be followed by family members in the event of a fire in their home.

Siren will start drill

At 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, a long blast of the fire siren will signal the start of a communitywide fire drill putting Operation Edith into effect. Fire Chief Packard asks that every family make use of the exits selected under the plan for their particular home, according to the parts of the house the family members happen to be in.

As a check on the cooperation given this safety project, Chief Packard requests that families actually following through on the drill turn on their front porch light and leave it on for an hour so the per cent of participation can be ascertained.

Farm families, beyond range of the fire siren, are asked to keep an eye on the clock and conduct their own exit drills at the specified hour of 6:30 p. m.

Pre-arranged plan important

Reynold Hentges of the State Fire Marshal's office points out that the purpose of the project is to encourage all families to have a pre-arranged exit plan to be used in case of a fire in their home.

"A family exit plan with every member of the family knowing what to do, and where to go, in case of fire could save untold lives in all parts of the state," Mr. Hentges declares.

He notes that fire exit drills are required by law in schools and many other public buildings. Negligence on the part of families to have a similar plan for the home is annually responsible for a heavy death toll in the nation.

Students taking part

Some families may be receiving two Operation Edith escape plans, as all children in the local schools enrolled in kindergarten through 6th grade will be taking drill sheets home. Each child who can vouch that the form was completed by his parents will be rewarded with a candy bar.

This year, the Operation Edith drill form will supplant the fire hazard safety chart that the school children have had their parents complete in previous years.

Chief Packard says the fire poster contest which has been a popular feature of Fire Prevention Week for some years past is not being conducted this year, in order to direct maximum attention to Operation Edith. It is not the fire department's intention, though, to abandon the poster project permanently and it may very possibly be reinstated next year, says the Belmond fire chief.

Kiddies to get rides

As has been the annual custom for some years, the Belmond Fire department will give youngsters in kindergarten through 6th grade fire truck rides sometime during Fire Prevention Week. Undependability of the weather makes it impractical to set a definite day and hour in advance; but as the weather and available personnel permit, the rides will be given during the coming week.

Fire Chief Packard observes that parents would be outraged if they discovered that the schools their children attend were not complying with the law by holding periodical fire drills and laying special plans to cope with fire emergencies.

Yet, ironically, most of these same parents never hold fire-escape drills of any nature at home — where fire is about 200 times more likely to strike.

Danger to old, young

"Nearly 6,500 persons die in home fires each year in the United States," according to the fire chief. "More than half of these victims are children and old people. Tragically, many of them die needlessly because of a lack of basic knowledge as to what to do when fire strikes.

"Fire-safety experts know that not everyone instinctively flees a burning building. Children often panic and hide in closets or under beds; and even adults, when terror-stricken, may 'freeze' in their burning homes — and unless carried out bodily, lose their lives."

The leaflet entitled, "Operation Edith — Exit Drills in the Home," provided by the American Mutual Insurance Alliance, provides a plan that enables each family head to brief every member of the household in specific escape routes to be used in the event of a home fire.

Close doors at night

The first thing emphasized to all members is that, for maximum safety, all doors should be closed at night. It takes fire from 10 to 15 minutes to burn through a wooden door. This delays the spread of the flames and increases the chance that someone will awake in time to sound the alarm.

Once this safety rule is understood, the leaflet points out, the family should visit each bedroom and figure out two escape routes from each. One route should be the shortest way through the rooms and halls to an outside door. The other route should be an emergency exit through an alternate door or window in case the normal route is blocked by fire.

Use roofs if necessary

Porch roofs, garage roofs or porticoes attainable through a window may provide a temporary refuge and a way to the ground. If a high drop is involved, a rope ladder or knotted rope should be available plus a strong I-bolt in the wall beneath the window — or your plan may call for whoever gets out of the house first to get a ladder and assist the other occupants.

A few extra copies of the Operation Edith leaflet will be availble at the Independent office, should anyone accidentally missed wish to obtain one.

Friday night, Belmond High lost a football game. Saturday morning, the sun came up just as usual. You'd hardly have known from the normalcy of the day that the Broncos' undefeated streak — unmarred over a stretch of 34 games, until blotched by a 14-14 tie against Britt weekend before last — had finally come to an end. But it had, 34 to 19, at the hands of a lean and hungry Buffalo Center crew that after 30 years of futility is still pursuing its school's first North Iowa conference gridiron championship. It could hardly have been brought about by a more deserving outfit.

There's a temptation to be a bit philosophical, looking back the better part of five years to when Britt handed Belmond its last previous loss, 28 to 14, on Oct. 26, 1962.

It was more than a year after that date that our nation was plunged into sorrow by the assassination of its popular, young president, John F. Kennedy. Less time than than has passed since a war in which we were involved only in an advisory capacity turned into a multi-billion dollar a year conflict that threatens to cover a span of time that will make that win streak look puny.

"What else is new?"

And what else? well, consider that during the "glory period" a placid — almost complacent — nation has been turned into a restless society in which riots have become nearly a way of life. . . . So the undefeated streak's ended. But if we ask, "What else is new?" this little, inevitable "tragedy" quickly assumes its proper perspective.

But this is supposed to be an account of a football game, not a philosophical ramble. So to business.

What happened Friday night can quite adequately be summed up in the statement that with three minutes of the first half still to be played the score was 13-13. And halftime found Coach Claude Post's Bison happily viewing a scoreboard that read: Buffalo Center 28, Belmond 13 — exactly two minutes and 58 seconds later.

Quick 15 points did it

There were the 15 points that separated the two teams at the game's end, gathered in the course of one well-earned touchdown, a bad center pass that added a two-point safety to the Bison total, and two quick plays that added a second, fatal touchdown in the course of well under a minute of play.

As the game got underway, a much tighter battle seemed in prospect. Although the Broncos had to punt after their initial series of downs following the kickoff was interrupted near midfield, each team thereafter scored twice in the process of alternating possession of the ball.

Buffalo Center, after a punt return to its 26, went 74 yards in just eight plays to take a 6-0 lead. The payoff was a pitch from Quarterback Randy Berhow to Sophomore End Pat Costigan that covered 52 yards. It was one of 10 aerials dispatched by Berhow during the evening, and only two — barring an attempt for extra point — failed to find their target. Dean Ostrander was stopped on a plunge for the conversion.

Broncs go ahead, 7-6

Belmond promptly returned the courtesy after the ensuing kickoff, starting a drive from its 24. It took the Broncos only nine plays to go the distance, the big-gainer being a 39-yard pass advance, Don Havens tossing to Terry Nelson. Rick Hawley then whacked out seven yards in two tries for the tally and Jim Studebaker kicked the extra point for the Broncos' only lead of the night, 7-6.

Promptly, the pendulum swung the other direction and on the second play of the second quarter a five-yard pitch from Berhow to Jon Holland made it 12-7. In the 59-yard advance, Ostrander romped 24 yards and a Berhow-Dewayne Torkelson pass covered 25 yards for the Bison. A short flip from Berhow to Jon Holland of five yards netted the TD and Ostrander ran the point for a 13-7 lead.

Paulo wasn't available

Belmond retaliated with a 69-yard march after the ensuing kickoff, taking 16 plays to set up Hawley's one-yard plunge across the double-stripe. This time Studebaker's kick was wide. BHS's Brazilian kicking star, Paulo Canineu, was not being used on conversions on account of a leg injury suffered in the Britt game. But the count was tied at 13-all, and a tit-for-tat battle the rest of the evening appeared in rather certain prospect.

The clock showed 5:04 until halftime. Then came those fatal three minutes. After the kickoff had been returned to the 39 and Torkelson had picked up five, a 135-lb. package of dynamite named Gary Rippentrop dashed 20 and 27 yards on consecutive plays and the Bison were back on Belmond's 10.

It took four downs to complete the drive, but a two-yard Berhow toss that found Holland as isolated in the end zone as if he had the black plague brought the score to 19-13. Belmond protected its interests by fending off the extra point but satisfaction over that wasn't long-lasting.

Safety was costly

The Broncs couldn't get anything started after the next kickoff; then came the bad center pass and that safety, and all of a sudden Buffalo Center had the full complement of points produceable by three touchdowns.

Hardly had the 21-13 score been posted when Belmond's kickoff from its own 20 was run back to the BC 40 by Rippentrop, another 30 was added by the same flea-weight scooter, and a Berhow-to-Costigan pass took the pigskin the rest of the way. And with nearly a half-minute still showing on the clock Belmond was on the dismal end of a 15-point deficit, 28-13.

When play resumed, Buffalo Center received the kickoff and went from its own 34 to the Broncos' 24 in eight plays; then three efforts by the visitors produced a minus 19 yards and a Bison punt was sent into the end zone.

Broncs march 80 yards

Belmond ground out the 80 yards necessary to chalk up its third touchdown in 11 plays, a 28-yard Havens-to-Nelson pass helping matters along. Hawley went over from the two and once more Studebaker sent a kick wide on the conversion effort.

With 2:45 remaining in the third period, the Broncs — trailing 28-19 — needed two more markers to get ahead. They set up their first opportunity just before the quarter ended when Buffalo Center was forced to punt from its 43; it wobbled only to the Bronco 44. But now the Broncos were having to fight the clock as well as their adversaries and after advancing to the Bison 30 they decided they would have to abandon their grind-'em-out offensive that had been so successful and try the airlanes.

This didn't work, and BC took over on downs on its 25. A Berhow-to-Steve Anderson pass good for 31 yards and a 26-yard burst by Torkelson paved the way for the Bison clincher. Torkelson went over from the one and a blocked pass for point left the score 34-19 and only 6:13 to go.

Torkelson intercepts three

Hawley returned the kickoff for 25 yards to the Belmond 45, but on the first play following Joel Gabrielson bobbled a pass from Havens and Torkelson — stretched on the ground — got a hand under the wayward ball to haul in his second interception of the evening.

Belmond forced a punt after the Bison had eaten up additional time with six plays; but the horse was far gone from the barn by this time. Havens found Klinefelter with a couple of passes that netted 28 yards; then the pestiferous Torkelson nabbed a third interception, returned the ball to his 42, and the victors killed the clock in advancing 24 yards in the final four plays of the game.

The Belmond defense held Torkelson to and average of only 2.8 yards on 17 carries but permitted him to grab three passes producing 65 yards. It was the shifty, little Rippentrop whom the Broncos found more than they could handle. He gained 97 yards in 11 trips for an 8.8 average. Berhow ran the Bison offense expertly, and his nine connections on 11 passes left little room for improvement.

Hawley averages 5.5

Hawley was the workhorse for Belmond ramming for 147 yards in 27 carries for an average just shy of 5.5. Klinefelter did nearly as well, with a 5.0 average on 13 attempts. Havens generaled the Broncos competently, but found much more pass defense to contend with than did Berhow.

Both defenses had their commendable moments, but with Buffalo Center gaining 424 yards and Belmond 344, it must be recognized that the contest was something less than a defensive battle.

Friday's outcome left Buffalo Center tied for top spot in the NIC standings with Garner, who's pulled out a pair of 14-13 squeakers; and until something happens to indicate the contrary, it appears that Coach Post — in his first season at the Bison helm—may be the first BC mentor to lead Buffalo Center into the "promised land."

After 30 years "looking in," there would be some justice to the Bison finally achieving the NIC throne room.

SR LARRY BURT FINISHES HIS NAVY BOOT TRAINING

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian life to Naval service, he received instruction under veteran Navy petty officers. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Burt arrived at his home last Thursday for a 14-day leave, after which he will report to Memphis, Tenn., for additional training.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Muhlenbruck of Latimer, John Reasoner of Belmond and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Reineking and Dalton attended the Tri-state Food Festival at Spencer Sunday.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN

The Rowan Fire department was called to the Wendell Jones farm at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. The barn was burned down, possibly due to faulty wiring. Mrs. Mark Ihm of Belmond is owner of the farm.

Mrs. C. P. Stober and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stober of Alden, Mmes. Mary and Louis Draheim of Clarion and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Groom and family spent Sunday in the Joe McKinley home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Carpenter of LeHigh were Sunday dinner guests in the Wendel Jones home.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hansen visited Walter Nelson of Hampton, who is in the Hampton Hospital after catching his arm in a field chopper a week ago Monday.

The Rowan Youth Fellowship representing the Rowan Methodist and Congregational churches met at the Congregational church for their first fall meeting. Officers elected are as follows: president, Kevin Hadley; vice-president, Mary Burt; secretary-treasurer, Linda Aitken.

The group set a planning retreat for Sunday, October 15 at 5:30 p. m., at Lloyd Drury's cabin at Lake Cornelia.

The young folks are seeking a couple from each church to act as counselors.

Time To Spare

By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

Life on Wheels

Ever think of becoming a nomad, twentieth century style? No? Well, neither did I until I took a gander at the latest mobile homes on the market. We always called it a "trailer" when I was a bit younger. But now it's a "mobile home." and I can see why.

Houses on wheels — that's what they are. My wife and I looked over a series of models, and we still can't get over the shock of seeing the progress that's been made. Of course the "small" models are still around — ten feet wide, and up to thirty-four feet long.

Most people seem to be going for those that are twelve by sixty-five. Roomy, comfortable, easy to drive, and not too hard to park.

But the models that leave you bug-eyed are the "expandos" that look long and lean on the highway, but sprout into small houses in a mobile home camp. Wings, mechanically controlled, can be added on both sides of the expando, each wing big enough to hold three rooms.

Presto, change-o, and the proud owner has a new study, dinette, and four bedrooms, or whatever arrangement he fancies.

Enough Space

And these are real rooms. A man can have himself a pretty fair study with enough space for bookshelves, camping equipment, or an art collection. The lady of the mobile home has a kitchen equipped with modern appliances. No more roughing it except for those who prefer it that way.

What about cost? The models I've seen run the price range from about three thousand dollars to more than twenty thousand. Park rental rates are anywhere from $35 to $120 a month, depending on the facilities they offer.

Where to live? The twentieth century nomad has plenty of choices when he looks through the directory that both names and grades the mobile home camps. Look for the stars — one for the minimum accommodations, five for the maximum, with a gold star for those that are really great.

If you like cheap living and mobility (although you can stay put if you want to), these homes on wheels might fill the bill. Around five million Americans say they do.

note from Edna Hanson Myers, Allen, Tex., reports she was in York when notification ar- that she and The Independent e about to part company (she's that subscription back in good nding again, now). Her absence urred right at the time when rricane Beulah was playing fast d loose with the McAllen vicin-

Edna wrote, "I lost trees and shrubs and have a lot of water. We were so dry all summer, but it doesn't seem now we will ever be dry again."

She adds that she can't imagine y anyone would want to winter McAllen's valley THIS year. "It made a lot of work for every- e. I imagine we look as bad as lmond did, as we have lost a of trees." If it's going to act t way at McAllen, people'd just well stay home.

Ray Wright, Central Soya plant perintendent, last weekend call- attention of the Mainstreeters to fact that rehabilitation of the park tennis courts made pos- le by a $1,154.85 donation from Central Soya Foundation Trust s completed except for installa- n of fencing — which has been hand for some time.

In addition to cash for the project, labor came from Central Soya in the form of time donated by members of the C-S Men's club.

Still good is an offer from Cen- l Soya to supply funds to the ycees for reconstruction of the ewee baseball diamond (destroy- by the tornado) at a new site ar the high school's football prac- e field. The Jaycees hadn't time get at this project during the st summer but have it on their enda for the coming year.

With a shade of proprietary ide we noted the planned in- ction of Don Muhm, the Des oines Register's farm editor, into e Iowa State University Agricul- re Hall of Fame tomorrow even- g at Ames. 'Way back in 1950, on — whose home was then at ritt — was with a gang of ISU urnalism students that put out March issue of The Independent.

Most appropriately, Don was on the staff as "agricultural editor." The kids from Iowa State came up every spring, for several years, to get a taste of actual newspapering. Did a good job, too.

We've watched with interest as on has climbed the ladder as a ofessional journalist. He was with e Omaha World Herald before ing to Des Moines to take over hat is one of the top farm editor bs in the nation. Don's remained good friend, over the years, and take real delight in the recogni- on so rightly coming to him. He s an ISU grad with the Class of 2.

If Police Chief Ray Thompson tches you red-handed with a pis- l in his mitt, you might with me chance of safe escape sprint r cover. But if the man has a ot gun or machinegun ready for ction — forget it! In the Wright ounty Peace Officers' fall pistol hoot Tuesday of last week, Ray cored 100 out of a possible 100 ith the riot gun and tied with hief Doug Dean of Clarion for 1st ith the .45 calibre machinegun ith 190 out of 200. His pistol fir- ng wasn't on a par with his heavy rtillery accuracy.

Game Warden Jack Edwards topped the "expert class" with the pistol, scoring 294 out of a possible 300. Dennis Cook, Eagle Grove policeman, was best of the "sharpshooters" in posting a 283 score.

Harrold Bygness, ex-deputy heriff who's now Goldfield police hief, hit 82 of 100 for the best howing with the .30 calibre rifle. Dean, besides tying Thompson's machinegun score, had the best overall total for the shoot with 635 — followed, at some distance, by Sheriff Bob Blecker with 594 and Patrolman Ben Urban, 590. Patrolman Bill James showed a steady hand with the pistol, chalking up a 286. Belmond officers Jerry Lanigan, George and Fred Kaduce were among the 20 officers who fired at Clarion's gravel pit.

Entering as accident patients on Oct. 9 were Robert Beschorner and Gerald Beschorner of Emmetsburg. Mrs. Walter Schroeder of Thornton and Gordon Sobeck of Goldfield entered for medical treatment.

Former resident stricken in N.D.

Word was received Saturday by Thera Fitts of the death on Friday of a BHS classmate in the Class of 1910, Mrs. Sidney (Clara Bond) Mason of Fargo, N. D. Mrs. Mason was the mother-in-law of North Dakota's governor, William Guy, and was a guest in the governor's mansion when she was stricken. She died shortly afterward at a hospital in Bismark, the state capital.

Mrs. Mason was born in Webster City but moved to Belmond with her parents during her childhood. After her graduation from BHS, she had moved to North Dakota in 1915 and was married in 1918 to Sidney Mason. Her daughter Jean is North Dakota's First Lady.

Mrs. Mason was for many years interested in the problem of juvenile delinquency and was active in a variety of ways in combatting

Plans all set for Tornado Day—

Company's coming Sunday; hope sun shines

Not having exhibited very effective control over the weather in the past, the people of Belmond this week were concentratedly hoping and praying for the blessings of sunny skies and moderate temperature to prevail for Tornado Day this coming Sunday.

With a deluge of state publicity in prospect via the press, radio and television during the balance of the week extending Belmond's welcome to all who aided her following last Oct. 14th's tornado, the size of crowd to be expected could only be speculated. If the weather is nice, there is simply "no telling."

With fingers crossed that no oversights will pop up to plague them, members of the event's steering committee regard plans to be as complete as possible.

Most troublesome of the guesses foisted upon the committee by the uncertainties of the occasion has been, of course, how many to prepare food for. The Jaycees were instructed to be ready for 7,000 with their chicken barbecue, which will be served on the site vacated by the former Belmond Hotel.

Hospitality to Belmond's guests will also be extended at a number of coffee bars variously located around downtown Main street. Those planning to make coffee available include: Jaycees, Jaycee-Ettes, both chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, the Culture Study and Progress clubs (at the new park site), Helland and Long Implements and the Model Cleaners jointly, and the Independent.

A tour route over the area of greatest damage by the tornado will be clearly marked for the benefit of visitors wishing to follow it in their cars. This will cover approximately 30 blocks, leading to the north and east from the intersection of Main street and First avenue NE, and concluding in the south part of town where destruction was considerable.

Parking is something that the powers-that-be simply hope that a kind fate will provide a solution to. It is entirely possible that some visitors may find it necessary to walk a number of blocks to reach the downtown center of activities. Law enforcement officers will be present in force to help direct cars to areas where parking is likeliest to be available.

At 2:30 p. m., the BHS band, Veterans' color guard, Camp Fire Girls, Blue Birds, Cub and Boy Scouts will march from the Kinseth Plumbing corner a block east on Main steet, north past the city hall, and thence to the park bandstand for the brief program to be held at that site.

By the start of this week, contributions to the Tornado Day fund were steadily advancing toward the total of $3,200. Largest donation of the past week was one in the amount of $100 received rrom Central Soya.

A $30 contribution had come in from Armour Agricultural Chemical company and ones in the amount of $25 from Farmers Grain company, and from an anonymous giver.

$20 — New Belmond Theatre, Belmond Ready-Mix; $10 — Christie and Larson, Doug Walrod, Maurice Fahrney, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vestweber of Alexander, the Robert Watermillers and the Bud Boelmans; also one anonymous, in that amount.

$5.00 — John Van Gerpen, Dave's TV of Meservey, Ralph Forrestal, Albert E. Olson, Otto Dorr, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dalrymple of Sea Island City, N. J., and Mrs. Bertha Benson.

After the above had been reported by Ellis Elliott, steering committee chairman, these additional donations came in to bring the total to $3,195:

$50 — We 3 Markets; $35 — Central Telephone; $25 — Belmond Teachers association, W. P. Tyrrell, H. L. Carpenter; $10 — Clifford Johnson, Ethel Brunes, Clarence Johnson, Harvey Hosick of Seattle, Wash., and four in that amount given anonymously.

$5.00 — Mr. and Mrs. Luke Wessels, Mrs. Carrie Nelson, Gamble store, OK Tire Supply, L. W. Gealow, Harm Braner, Jim Cox, plus two anonymous; $2.00 — Mrs. Elsie Ramsay, Burton Lee.

Bake a batch (or so) for Sunday

About those cookies. . . .

If Tornado Day is blessed with nice weather, Chairman Ellis Elliott foresees that Belmond may well witness the largest crowd of visitors it has ever seen — barring the Sunday following last fall's tornado, when sight-seers came by the tens of thousands.

That will make the various coffee bars in town the centers of large gatherings; and will make it important that a large supply of cookies be available to go with the java.

It is the understanding that, besides the firemen's open house at the fire station — where coffee and doughnuts will prevail — there will be six or eight other locations where coffee will be served.

"A mighty big lot of cookies will be needed to keep the plates filled," Mr. Elliott predicts. "There will not be a general solicitation to line them up. Volunteer bakers are simply requested to get their supplies of cookies to the P & G, We 3, or By-Lo food stores Saturday evening for the Jaycees to dispense to the coffee bars on Sunday.

"This is one phase of Tornado Day hospitality that any number of women may participate in. Plan now to bake a batch — or two — or three."

Trying it Friday 13th, this time

Friday, the 14th, didn't work out so well. Superstition notwithstanding, BHS students along with the Broncos' football fans and any number of other interested parties hold high hopes that Friday, the 13th, will provide a more successful Belmond High Homecoming than was managed just a year ago this weekend.

Garner, an arch rival over more than 40 years of Belmond gridiron history, will be providing opposition for the Broncos at 8:00 p. m. if everything goes well.

All the trouble started a year ago, just after the Homecoming parade had disbanded. About 15 minutes later, parts of the floats were headed toward Minnesota as "the Belmond tornado" intruded upon the festivities and brought them to an abrupt and tragic halt.

Unlike a year ago when the Broncos' scheduled appearance against Lake Mills was of crucial importance not only in deciding the North Iowa conference grid championship for '66 but in extending the Belmond winning streak to 31 games in a row, the football game this time will be less significant. But a Garner-Belmond clash of ANY sort stirs up plenty of enthusiasm, so Friday's fray will attract keen interest.

Again, there will be three senior girls contending for the honor of reigning as Homecoming Queen and the coronation will be a halftime highlight. Chosen as candidates were Patsy Ainger, Jean Mennenga and Debbie Misner. Class Princesses, who with the losing Queen nominees will serve as escorts to Her Royal Highness, are: Diane Carolus, freshman; Peggy Schroder, sophomore; and Linda Aitken, junior.

A parade of class floats, passing downtown and along Main street with the Homecoming royalty and the BHS band, will again be the afternoon attraction of Homecoming Day. One feature of last year's plans, an 8:30 p. m. bonfire-pep meeting on Thursday night that was permitted with ministerial consent to infringe on "church night," was discarded this time. It just seemed the prudent thing to do.

Those are the plans, for Friday the 13th, as they presently stand.

C. Ambrose dies of heart attack

Funeral services for Clyde Ambrose, 65, are to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at 2:00 o'clock at the Eyler Funeral Home in Clarion, Rev. Carl Jensen of the Clarion Methodist church officiating. Burial will be in the Evergreen cemetery at Clarion.

Serving as pallbearers will be: Lyle Erickson, Duane Jenison, Ben and Virgil Nolte, Glenn Morris and Howard Tulp.

Mr. Ambrose died suddenly Sunday afternoon at his home two and a half miles north of Belmond of a heart attack. He had lived at this place the past 11 years, after having earlier farmed a number of years north of Morse Lake.

Survivors include Mrs. Ambrose's wife Lillian; a daughter, Mrs. Paul (Margaret) Quigley of Clear Lake; a brother, Clifford, of Forest City; a sister, Mrs. Lucille Marcellus of West Bend; and five grandchildren.

GUESTS FROM OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Classick of Bartlesville, Okla., attended the funeral services held Tuesday of last week at Sibley for Nic Christensen and came here to spend Wednesday and Thursday with his mother, Mrs. H. J. Classick.

Keleher acquires share in Algona clothing business

He will be in partnership with Don McAdams of Estherville in ownership of what is to be called Keleher-McAdams Clothing, but will be in active management of the business. His associate owns a clothing store at Estherville and will continue to live there.

Seller of the Algona store was Eugene Zender, who has owned it since 1958. It was established in 1922 by Mr. Zender's late father, Frank Zender, and operated in partnership with a second co-owner until the elder Zender acquired sole ownership in 1937.

The Kelehers, who had made Belmond their home for nearly 14 years, are selling their residence here and will shortly move to Algona.

200 GREET PALL DORRS ON 25TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dorr were greeted by 200 relatives and friends Sunday at the open house at their home in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. Their children acted as host and hostesses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Des Moines, Decorah, Cedar Falls, Clear Lake, Iowa Falls, Webster City, Ogden, Sheffield, Hampton, Clarion, Mason City and Alexander.

EG team first in soil judging

Eagle Grove High school's four-man voc-ag soil judging team won top honors in the annual soil judging contest conducted by the Wright Soil Conservation district on Tuesday of last week. Belmond's team placed second and Dows third.

Members of the winning team included: Roger Thompson, Rod Hamer, Steve Amosson and Doug Jergenson. Ron V. Diggens is their coach and instructor.

The Belmond team, coached by Keith Carlson, was comprised of Irvin and Phil Meier, Lynn Henn and Dan Janssen.

Jerry Johnson of Dows was the high scoring individual of the contest and received a plaque. Irv Meier placed third.

Team members from Eagle Grove received individual medals and the traveling trophy which Clarion won last year. The school winning the traveling trophy three times will gain permanent possession.

The contest was held on the Cryder Wicks farm located in Norway township.

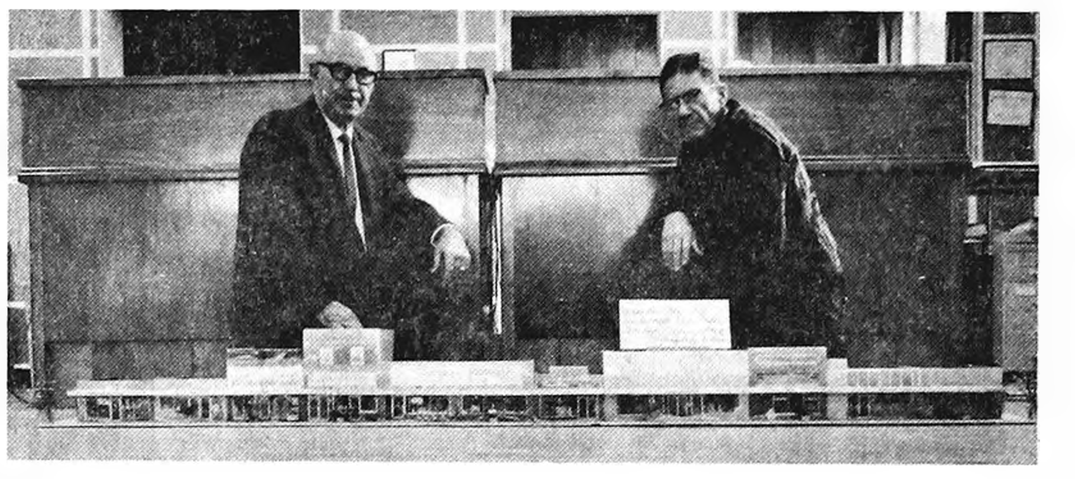
In addition to the top three, schools participating in the contest included Clarion, Kanawha and Britt.

HOSPITAL NOTES REPUBLICAN GROUP

Fall meeting of the Wright County Republican Women's organization will be held Friday of next week at the Congregational church youth center here, starting at 2:00 p. m.

Senator Hugh Clarke will be speaker of the occasion. All women interested in activities of the Republican party are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Two Belmond women are officers of the Republican Women's group, Mrs. Dwight Tyrrell being the president and Mrs. Clarke the secretary.



AN ITEM OF INTEREST to Belmond visitors on Tornado Day, this Sunday, will be the model of the south side of Main street's 200 block showing how it will appear when arcaded in accordance with business district development plans for the near future. Looking over the handiwork of Allen Suby, BHS shop instructor, are Cecil Carstens (left) and Chamber Secretary Ellis Elliott. The model is presently on view in the front window of Manager Carsten's IEL&P Co. office.

On Saturday morning—

Heads will bow in thanks, tribute

Activity in Belmond will come to a stop Saturday at 8:30 a. m. as the entire community is urged to assemble at Luick Memorial Auditorium to participate in a memorial and thanksgiving service marking the anniversary of last year's Oct. 14th tornado.

All business places have been asked by the Belmond Ministerial association, which accepted responsibility for conducting the union service, to remain closed until after the program's close at 9:10 o'clock.

Respect will be paid to the six Belmond citizens whose lives ended as the disaster struck: Mrs. Edwin Chapman, Samuel Crabtree, John Greenlander, Mike Kurtz, Ella Mae Pierce and Emma Sorenson.

Gratitude will be expressed for the outpouring of needed assistance that helped so importantly to get Belmond's residents past the period of shock and at the tremendous job of clearing rubble and restoring a semblance of normalcy to their community.

Voices drawn from eight or nine local churches will be heard as a chorus under the direction of Stanley Norson, BHS vocal music instructor. The choir will offer "Sing Praises" and "Let All Creation," the latter composed by Mr. Norson. The entire assemblage will be invited to sing "Now Thank We All Our God."

Mrs. Donald Bunnell will serve as piano accompanist; RaJean Willey and David Swaroff as cornetists and Janice Willey as trombonist will supplement the accompaniment.

Rev. James Rozendaal, president of the ministerial group and pastor of the Bethany Reformed church, will offer the invocation and the benediction will be spoken by Rev. J. Samuel Shelby of the Congregational church.

Scripture selections deemed by the ministers who will read them as particularly appropriate for the occasion will be as follows:

Deuteronomy 8:11-17, Rev. Leo Andersen, St. John Lutheran church; Psalm 23:1-6, Rev. M. L. Jones, Methodist; Matthew 20:1-16, Rev. R. A. Ormsby, St. Francis Catholic; Matthew 25:31-46, Rev. Oscar Laaveg, Trinity and St. Olaf Lutheran; and Psalm 103:1-6, 20-22, Rev. Robert Vander Schaaf, Immanuel Reformed.

A. F. BOHNINGS RETURN FROM JAUNT TO EUROPE

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bohning have returned from a three-week trip to Europe. They accompanied a daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Snyder of Des Moines.

They traveled by jet plane to Paris, France, and from there took a trip into Germany for a few days before going to Bury St. Edmunds, England.

There they visited a brother of Mr. Snyder and his wife, Airman and Mrs. Duane Snyder. The two couples returned to Paris, France, to start the trip home.

Clarion man new Taxpayers' head

Lawrence Courtney of Clarion was elected president of the Wright County Taxpayers association at the group's annual meeting held Monday of last week at Clarion. He succeeds Roy Carwell of Belmond in the position.

Ira Studebaker, Belmond, was elected as vice president and Max Titus of Clarion as secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Titus was earlier named to the board of directors to replace Roy Crawford, a fellow townsman. Elmer Eliason of Kanawha was elected to succeed Lawrence Espe, also of Kanawha, on the board; and as new director from Dows, Boyd Patterson was chosen to replace Dr. G. E. Schnug.

Speaker at the meeting was Representative Ray Bailey of Clarion, who told the association members some of the background of the controversial, new tax law.

COVINGTON HAS NEW JOB

A note received from Phillip Coving requesting a charge of subscription address advises that he has accepted a position with Southwestern Community college at Creston in an assignment he expects will keep him there about one year. His address is 604 N. Maple, Creston, Ia. 50801.

Girl's leg broken in highway crash

Diane Trees, age 7, suffered a broken leg in a three-way crash that occurred on Highway 69 at the Alexander turn-off about 5:30 p. m. last Thursday.

She was in a car driven by Mrs. Harold Bock when the latter, headed south, stopped for approaching traffic preparatory to turning left onto the blacktop.

Edward Whittmore of Hampton, also coming from the north, rammed the rear of the Bock car and shoved it into the path of a third auto driven by Evelyn Bierman of rural Belmond from the south.

Mrs. Bock was treated at Belmond Community hospital for a scalp laceration and leg contusions and her daughter Jeanne, age eight, was treated for leg contusions. Both were then released. No other injuries were caused.

Sheriff Bob Blecker, who investigated the accident, reports the Bock car was a total loss and estimated damage to Whittmore's car at $1,000 and to the Bierman auto, $525.

Whittmore was taken before Justice of the Peace Guy Peters on a charge of failure to have his vehicle under control, pleaded guilty, and paid a fine of $20 plus costs.

CALIFORNIA VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jackway of San Diego, Calif., called Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kennedy. Mr. Jackway is a former partner of Mr. Kennedy in a business at Goodell. The Jackways have been touring the United States for the past two years and are on their way back to California.

3 races shape up for city election

Arrival of Tuesday's filing deadline for candidates to run for Belmond city offices on Nov. 7 found three members of the present administration facing oppositon.

Russell Porter, who is giving up his post as Ward I councilman to seek the mayorship, will have Floyd Broshar as an opponent.

Norman Pals, a Central Soya employee, has filed as candidate for the council from Ward II and will oppose Glen Crapser, the incumbent.

In Ward III the present councilman, Bob Churchouse, will be involved in a contest with Don Smith. The latter is also a Central Soya employee.

There will be no contest in Ward I, where Frank Patterson accepted nomination to run for the vacancy left by Mr. Porter's retirement as councilman.

Structure will cost $100,000—

Plans for construction of a 50x-160-foot Stransteel building on Anderson, Clayton company property lying across Highway 69 from Hill motel were announced this week by Dr. Harold Loden, ACCO Seed division's research director.

Present expenditures on the building will run $100,000 for construction and equipment. Allowance is made for future expansion of ACCO Seed division and its research organization with a 20x50 foot section back of the offices that will be left unfinished for the time being.

The front part of the building, which will extend east and west, will contain seven offices plus a reception room and library. The structure will also contain research equipment and a work bench for the laboratory personnel.

The entire corn research staff of ACCO and the foundation seed production manager will be headquartered in the building. Several men now at other ACCO plant sites will be moving to Belmond on completion of the new building. They will be involved in corn research and will work here except during the growing season.

A professional seed technologist will be hired to supervise the laboratory and will head a quality-control program for the entire ACCO Seed organization. This is a new position, says Dr. Loden; it will be filled when the new facilities are nearing completion and will serve to strengthen the quality-control program.

A cold storage room containing one of the largest collections of corn and sorghum germ plasms in the country — including a world-wide sorghum seed collection — will occupy the middle of the new building.

This room will be equipped to maintain thermostatically controlled temperature and humidity to protect the germ plasm and breeding material. Also in this section will be germinating rooms for cold tests and warm tests of seed.

A back section of the building will house modern machinery for cleaning, sizing and treating foundation seed which is produced by ACCO in Illinois, Kansas and several Iowa locations.

Dr. Loden notes that the ACCO seed research facility is a major addition to the seed operation and points out the emphasis which is being placed on research.

He adds, "The combined efforts of the research team to be located in Belmond will result in new and improved corn and sorghum hybrids."

Fill to level the building site was being hauled in this week and footings for the office-laboratory will be poured within a matter of days.

Henningson Construction company of Mason City, contractor on the job, has promised a January completion date.

Presently going up to the north of the research building is a 70x200-foot Varco steel warehouse that is being erected by Shriver Construction company of Jefferson. Cost of the new storage facility will be $40,000.

Armour plans to hold open house Sunday to show off new facilities

Most of the reconstruction of Armour Agricultural Chemical company facilities damaged or destroyed in the tornado a year ago having by now been completed, Armour's plans to hold open house at the Belmond District headquarters this coming Sunday.

Manager Harold Rose issues an invitation to the public to tour the new office, testing laboratories and other rebuilt or improved facilities between the hours of 12:00 noon and 4:00 p. m.

Although sodding and landscaping of the office grounds will not be completed prior to the open house and certain items needed for the office were still impatiently awaited at mid-week, Mr. Rose says that operations in general have now wholly returned to normal.

Armour personnel are particularly proud of the handsome new office, 68x60 feet in dimension and presenting an attractive front of cream colored brick and antique gold metad with contrasting charcoal panelling. The large steel shed that Armour's purchased from the city of Belmond as an equipment shelter has been re-sided with panelling matching that of the office.

Interior walls of the office-laboratory building are attractively panelled in wood and recessed lighting throughout is an additional feature.

It was with a communal sigh of relief that the Armour staff abandoned the cramped quarters provided by trailers and the basement of the old office and set up in the spacious and carefully planned accommodations of the new office and laboratory.

POSTMASTER SPENDS WEEK AT NATIONAL CONVENTION

Mrs. Sylvia Raecker, Meservey's postmaster, returned last Saturday evening from Atlantic City, N. J., where she had spent the week attending the annual convention of the National League of Postmasters.

Mrs. Raecker is vice president of the Iowa branch of the League. She and 21 other Iowa postmasters, several accompanied by their spouses, travelled to the convention by chartered bus.

FERTILIZE THIS FALL

- More time for spring planting. And you can plant earlier, too.
- Less soil compaction on firm, dry fall fields.
- Improved tilth from winter freezing.
- More advisory time from fall soil tests.
- No waiting for fertilizer delivery.
- The right forms of nitrogen, phosphate and potash stored safely in your soil all winter.

Insure RESULTS, too with CFS Plan and Profit Programs. The complete start-to-finish way to bigger yields: Soil testing. Crop planning. Prescription-mixed bulk fertilizer.

KANAWHA NEWS

TERRY BETTEN — PH. 762-3718

Building started on nursing home

Kanawha's new nursing home, a project of the entire community, is now under construction. The walls have been erected and the roof completed, and the building will soon be enclosed so that work can continue regardless of weather.

This will be a 44-bed home, 254x-42 feet in dimension with a 26x32-foot additional wing located on a 5½-acre plot of land.

The entire community was urged to buy stock in this project, with a board of directors elected annually to direct the operation of the home.

It is Kanawha citizens' intention that the senior citizens of the community should be able to spend their declining years in a cheerful atmosphere of companionship and close to relatives and friends.

Miss Diane Dee Shobe, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Harold E. Shobe, and Peter Rasmussen of Clarion were married Sept. 9 at 2:00 p. m. at the Methodist church with Rev. Maurice L. Jones performing the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white slipper satin fashioned with an A-line silhouette. The bodice had a scoop neckline and a ribbon trailing to the floor created an empire effect. The elbow-length sleeves were decorated with white lace, pearl centered daisies. Her finger-tip veil of French illusion net fell from a large satin bow. She carried a bouquet of white fringe mums and blue daisies with trailing stephanotis.

Loretta Buterbaugh was maid of honor and Jorja Hill was bridesmaid. Their floor-length dresses were of bonded crepe, empire styled with puffed sleeves and rounded necklines. Miss Buterbaugh's dress was lime green and with it she wore blue accessories. Miss Hill's dress was blue and her accessories were lime green. Their headpieces were satin bows and they each carried a single mum with cascading blue ribbons and greenery.

The flower girl was Tommie Kay Ouversen of Clarion. She wore a blue crepe dress, matching those of the bride's attendants, and carried a basket of blue and white daisies and pompons.

Jim Anderson of Clarion was best man and Dick Brown, also of Clarion, was groomsman. The ushers were Dwight Sann of Clarion and Dennis Whiple. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres, except the groom, whose boutonniere was of blue daisies.

The chancel of the church was decorated with two baskets of white gladioli. Mrs. Donald Cleveland played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Roger Johnson as she sang "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee' and "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Zeiger as host and hostess. Sandy Zeiger presided over the guest book. Vicki Missal and Sue Davison of Clarion were in charge of the gifts.

Mrs. Tom Ouversen and Mrs. George Mechem, both of Clarion, cut and served the wedding cake. Mrs. H. C. Stokke and Mrs. Roland Lerdal poured coffee while Mrs. Ralph McDougle dipped punch.

The groom is attending Mankato State college at Mankato, Minn., and the bride is employed as a secretary at the courthouse in Mankato.

Kanawha's Bulldogs took a long stride toward their third consecutive North Star conference gridiron title last Friday night by spoiling Sheffield-Chapin's homecoming with a 14-7 victory over the Spartans.

The Spartans scored first on a six-yard run by Steve Groesbeck, who also carried for the extra point. But the Bulldogs retaliated with two second-half touchdowns on runs of 46 and 19 yards by Norman Baker and both conversions were made good.

Boone Valley drew even with the Spartans in a tie for second place with a 20-7 decision over Meservey-Thornton. The Lancers' only tally came on a short pass from Dave Siskow to Doug Caffrey.

CAL notched its first loop win with a 13-0 verdict over Klemme. With all the scoring done in the final period, Coach Everett Oliphant's boys got their first marker on a 37-yard run after a blocked punt by Arlan Miller and then chalked up a second tally on a two-yard plunge by Roger Nelson. Quentin Christensen passed to Kent Morton for the second extra point.

Clarion jr. high trips Colts 6-0

Good line play wasn't enough to bring the Belmond junior high Colts a victory against Clarion here Wednesday afternoon of last week as they bowed to the visitors, 6-0.

Clarion tallied the first time it gained ball possession, marching about 60 yards and scoring on a short plunge. The point attempt was stopped.

Coach Jack Steinberg's Colts put on three god drives but once were stopped by a fumble and the other two times lost the ball on downs in the vicinity of Clarion's 20.

The Colts will conclude their four-game card with a tilt at Forest City next Wednesday afternoon.

PREVENT FIRES BEFORE THEY START

YOU CAN PREVENT FIRE

Carelessness CAN CAUSE FIRES

Avoid Fires USE ELECTRICITY

Here Are Some Simple Safety Rules
Make Every Week Fire Prevention Week

- Fuses are for your protection. Under no circumstances place pennies under fuses.
- Do not place electric cords in door jams. This breaks the covering.
- Cords should never be run over radiators or steampipes. Insist on cords made for damp places where contact with metal will occur.
- Never run cords under rugs. They become worn quickly, and are dangerous.
- Never have heating appliances connected when not in use. Fire can start in this way.
- Do not disconnect appliances by pulling on the cords. This pulls the cord from the plug and can cause fires.
- Cords should never be used as substitutes for permanent wiring. Have an experienced electrican check the "load" on each outlet.
- Insist on approved label cords for all appliances.
- Be sure to have all electrical repairs and other work done by experienced electricans that know what they're doing.

Two possibilities were in the cards Friday night when the BHS Broncos travelled to Forest City after having lost for the first time in 36 starts the weekend before. The boys in Blue-and-White would be "flat," with their defeatless streak broken; or they would be raring to show that they are a lot better team than they appeared against Buffalo Center.

The 37-7 thumping they handed the Indians clearly reflected the mood the Broncos were in. And it didn't take very long for them to prove they meant business.

They had their first score on the board in just 59 seconds, after receiving the opening kickoff. Mike Klinefelter returned the ball 26 yards, to the Belmond 40; he hit the line for five, Rick Hawley followed with 12 — then Mike scampered off left tackle 43 yards for the tally. Paulo Canineau's conversion kick into the stiff wind was good and the Broncs led 7-0.

That pretty well established the way the evening was going to go. The game was extraordinary from two standpoints. Though Paulo made only one of five conversion kicks, he sent two field goals through the uprights for unquestionably the first such an accomplishment in North Iowa conference history. And although Belmond got only eight first downs to the Indians' six, they netted 270 more yards for the night.

One reason for the apparent discrepancy in first downs was the fact that on all five of their touchdowns the Broncos missed out on registering a 1st-and-10 due to how the TD's were scored. And Klinefelter contributed in no small degree to distorting the picture. He got the second Belmond tally just a bit more than five minutes after the first on a 64-yard sprint; and he added the third less than 2½ minutes later on a 20-yard burst. That made the 1st-quarter score 19-0 for the Blue-and-White and Forest City was clearly a beaten team.

Havens scores No. 4

In the second quarter, a Belmond drive was stopped barely short of a 1st-and-10 on the Indians' 16; and after forcing Forest City to punt from the 18 that travelled only to the 40, the Broncos poked across their fourth TD of the half as Don Havens sneaked over from the two. An 18-yard pass gain, Havens to Lee Barkema, helped set up the marker.

A couple of minutes later, Belmond was back on the Indians' 18 after Glen Gabrielson recovered a Forest City fumble. The Broncos' hopes of still another touchdown were thwarted, but with only 42 seconds of the half remaining Paulo accurately booted a field goal from the 25 (the line of scrimmage was the 15) and Belmond held an intermission lead of 28-0.

Wind hampers passing

A brisk wind hampered the passing game of both teams, but a vastly improved pass defense also helped keep Danny Schmidt — the losers' highly regarded quarterback — from doing much aerial damage. In fact, the Indians were able to net only 52 yards on nine completions out of 24 tries and two of Schmidt's passes were intercepted as the Bronco line put a strong rush on him.

Belmond took about 5½ minutes of the third quarter to get its only touchdown of the last half. It was set up by a Barkema interception on Belmond's 10 which was returned clear to the Indians' 35. Klinefelter carried the final 30 yards on four attempts, going over from the 10 to make it 34-0. Paulo's kick was wide; and when given a second chance after FC was offside for its only penalty of the evening, had his second try blocked.

Short punt aids Indians

Forest City's lone tally came after a wind-blown punt by Jim Studebaker in the 4th quarter travelled only eight yards, to Belmond's 40. A 15-yard roll-out by Schmidt was the biggest gain of the ensuing drive and a Belmond offside penalty moved the ball from the 10 to the five, where Schmidt found Jeff Adams with a pass that brought the marker. Wray Hallett ran the point to make it 34-7.

Clip cancel's touchdown

But an over-anxious Bronco soph had thrown a wholly needless clip into a Forest City secondary defender and the ball was brought back to the 25 — then a 15-yard penalty stepped off to the 40. After a 1st-and-10 was achieved at the FC 20, another clipping penalty stopped the Bronco advance and Paulo missed a field goal try from the 38.

Soon afterward, Belmond regained possession on the Indians' 29, made a 1st-and-10 at the 17 and finally wound up with 4th-and-5 at the 12. Paulo's toe was called upon once more and he sailed the pigskin through the bars from the 20 to fix the final score at 37-7.

Mike averages 11-plus

Klinefelter wound up his evening's work with an average of 11-plus yards for 19 carries. Work of Korthas and Barkema in keeping the Indians' aerial attack under control should be particularly mentioned. And while the Belmond line in general did itself real credit, explosive charges by Gene Pals contributed especially heavily to the 49 yards lost by Forest City during the course of the game.

It was a satisfaying victory for the Broncos, and left their followers thinking they just might keep their slate clean the rest of the way if they continue to play as they did Friday night.

Cases of unknown "TB" sought via contact program

A search for possible, but as yet, unknown cases of tuberculosis will begin soon in Wright county.

The program, sponsored by the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association, is known as a contact x-ray program and will be directed by Alice Alleman, R. N., and Miriam Vroman, R. N., public health nurses of Wright county.

Mrs. Alleman and Mrs. Vroman will be advised by physicians in the community of those persons known to have been in contact with an active case of tuberculosis. Each person referred to them is asked to have a tuberculin skin test. This test, done by the family physician, will screen out those not needing a chest x-ray.

A positive reaction to the skin test does not necessarily indicate tuberculosis. Those, however, who do react to the test are advised to report to the state mobile x-ray unit for the chest x-ray.

This program has the approval of the Wright County Medical Society, the Iowa State Department of Health and the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association and is financed from the sale of Christmas Seals.

Only those persons previously advised to report for an x-ray can be accepted by the mobile unit. Because of its specialized nature, the program is not open to the general public.

Interpretations of the x-ray films will be done by a certified radiologist of the state department of health. Confidential findings will then be reported to the family physician.

Follow-up work with the program will be done by Mrs. Alleman and Mrs. Vroman in cooperation with county's physicians.

You'll have to go back something more than 10 years to find the time that Garner last faced a gridiron clash with Belmond boasting a better mark up to that point in the season than the Broncos. That is the unusual state of affairs this year, though, as the Cardinals prepare for their appearance as Belmond's Homecoming foe here Friday night.

Coach Gary Kubik's outfit made a five-point total advantage over their first three adversaries count for a many victories and was in the undefeated ranks until Osage tripped the Cards last Friday, 19 to 6.

No Belmond rivalry is older than that with Garner, and the Hancock countians heavily dominated the series during the early years. However, in the last 13 meetings the best the Cardinals have been able to do was salvage a 12-12 tie in 1961 — the only deadlock between the schools in 43 clashes.

Coach Kubik has 11 lettermen back from his winless crew of '66 and the Cardinals' 21-18 conquest of Mason City Newman plus 14-13 squeakers over Lake Mills and Northwood represented Garner's best start since the days of Tom Busch & Company in 1963.

With Buffalo Center steadily speeding out of reach in the 1967 North Iowa conference title chase and with the toughest part of its schedule behind it, Coach Chuck Stalker's Broncos haven't the inspiration of a crack at the crown to spur them on.

But against Forest City they seemed determined to prove their season's start didn't accurately reflect their abilities — and they can still clinch the NIC runner-up spot by dumping Garner and the rest of their loop foes. If they play the calibre of ball this weekend that they did last, the Cardinals could be in for a busy evening.

FC gridders bow to Junior Broncs

With the Junior Bronc backfield combination of Quarterback Lennie Johnson, Tim Dirks and Joey McLaughlin providing more offense than the visitors could handle, the victors scored a touchdown in each quarter.

Johnson connected with Tom Sharer on a 35-yard pass play for the first marker and then swept end for the point.

Forest City brought the count to 7-6 in the second stanza when an end run covered 80 yards. Dirks gave Coach Jerry Kintzi's outfit extra working margin before halftime by balling over from the five, McLaughlin carrying for the extra point.

A third-quarter Belmond drive was climaxed by another Dirks gallop of eight yards, Johnson sweeping for the conversion.

The winners' final touchdown came in the last minute of play when Johnson found Fred Erdman with a pass for a 25-yard advance to the end zone. A Johnson flip to Ron Gimapp brought the extra point.

Cecil Eccles aids unit in gaining Air Force praise

CHEYENNE, Wyo. — Staff Sergeant Cecil D. Eccles, son of Mr and Mrs Glen A. Eccles of Belmond, has been recognized for helping his unit win the coveted U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Sergeant Eccles, a surveyor at Francis E. Warren AFB, Wyo., as a member of the 1370th Photo Mapping Wing will be entitled to wear the distinctive blue service ribbon as a permanent decoration.

The wing was cited for accomplishing an extensive aerial photo mapping survey and related geodetic missions well ahead of schedule and at cost savings.

A major subordinate unit of the Military Airlift Command, the 1370th provides mapping and survey missions in response to Air Force and other Defense Department needs. Its personnel are stationed at numerous locations in the United States and are often deployed throughout the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Suntken and Dana of Meservey were guests Sunday in the home of Mrs. Genevieve Suntken.

Army promotion to Howard Pals

FT DIX, N. J. (AHTNC) — Howard G. Pals, 23, son of Mr and Mrs Dick D. L. Pals of rural Belmond, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft Dix, N. J., Sept. 14.

The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

Private Pals, whose wife Connie lives at Fort Dodge, received a bachelor of architecture degree this year from Iowa State university, Ames.

Trio serving out time for theft

It has been called to The Independent's attention that an incorrect name was provided the newspaper by the Wright county sheriff's office in identification of suspects arrested as an outgrowth of a farm tool theft last month in Clay county. The individual identified as Kenneth LeRoy Ehrhardt should have been listed by the name Henry LeRoy Ehrhardt. The Independent regrets occurrence of the error.

Ehrhardt, with Wayne Lamfers and Dennis Trager, were heard Monday of last week in a Spencer justice of the peace court on charges of larceny under $20. Each was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 or serve a month in the Clay county jail. The fines not being paid, they are serving the time. The case of a fourth accomplice, age 17, was turned over to juvenile court.

Mr and Mrs Edwin Larson, John, Mary and Linda of LaCrosse, Wis., spent the weekend in the Russell Lonnevik home.

Group told about training center and its purposes

Members of the Wright County Association for Retarded Children on Wednesday evening of last week at Clarion heard an explanation of the objectives of the North Central Rehabilitation Center given by John Cocking.

This center, located at Fort Dodge, serves a six-county area that includes Wright. It provides training for both handicapped and mentally retarded children to the end of making them capable of gainful employment, if that is at all possible.

Housing is presently available for both boys and girls who might benefit from the training. The center is at 1615 First avenue N., Fort Dodge.

Present with Mr. Cocking were the center's director, Ken Heagy, and assistant director, Ralph Rotert. They invite inquiries regarding the services the center provides and said that visitors are always welcome.

A person must be at least age 16 to enroll at the center. Twenty persons are presently receiving training there, which occupies them five days a week from 8:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

The workshop is financed with federal funds plus matching funds from the participating counties. Wright's appropriation toward the center's upkeep amounts to about 10 cents per capita annually.

Scouts' Goodwill pick-up Saturday

This Saturday, Scoutmaster Ronald Steenblock, Jr., and the Boy Scouts will perform the last part of the annual "Good Turn Day Clothing Drive" for the Goodwill Industries. Filled bags and boxes from the homes in Belmond will be collected for pick-up next week by a Goodwill Industries' truck.

Contributors are requested to have their filled bags set out on their front step by 8:00 a. m., as the Scouts will not be ringing doorbells for them.

In the event a home was missed last Saturday when bags were distributed, discarded clothing and other contributions may be put in boxes to be ready for pick-up.

Badly needed articles are discarded clothing for men, women, and children; shoes, with the pairs tied together; linens, bedding, and electrical appliances and other household articles.

Funeral services for Simpson Frank Stout, known to his many friends as "Sim," were held Wednesday of last week at the Rowan Methodist church with Rev. Louis Aitken officiating. Burial was in Graceland cemetery at Rowan, a community which was Mr. Stout's home throughout his lifetime of nearly 98 years.

He was born Oct. 20, 1875, son of James and Clara Archer Stout, on a farm a half mile north of Rowan. In 1897, he moved to a farm two miles north of Rowan that was to be his home the remainder of his life.

This farm was originally owned by an uncle, Zephaniah Stout, who received it by government grant in 1865 as a reward for service to his country in the War of 1812. The patent conferring ownership to the 120 acres was signed by Abraham Lincoln.

In the year that Sim Stout moved to this farm he married Laura Watters, who died in 1928. Some 11 years after their marriage, Mr. Stout purchased the farm — which is now operated by Robert Leist. In 1937, Mr. Stout married Celia Wickman of Goldfield, who continues to live on the home place.

Besides his wife, the deceased is survived by two step-children for whom he held a deep affection, Mrs. Jack (Elizabeth) Row of Clarion and Boyd Wickman of West Des Moines. He also leaves seven grandchildren — Jack, Valerie, Jeffrey and Barbara Jane Row and Bill, Jeanne and Mary Kay Wickman.

Other survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Nelle Pepper of Toppenish, Wash., and Mrs. Jennie Eldredge of New Rockford, N. D.; and sister-in-law, Mrs. Roy Stout of Des Moines; also a large number of nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by three sisters and two brothers. Mr. Stout's death occurred Monday of last week, Oct. 2, at the Clarion Memorial hospital after a brief illness.

Pallbearers for the funeral were: Tom Groom, Bill Myers, Robert Leist, Wesley Boyington, Don Mathiason and Alfred Hansen.

Mrs. Stout relates that Sim liked to reminisce about the many changes that took place during his lifetime. He saw the railroads come to this part of the country and watched the virgin prairie sod broken to become the productive farmland that Wright county takes such pride in today.

Just shortly before his death, he remarked that no other generation had witnessed as many changes as had his; and he wondered if any other ever would.

Palma Hansen who is attending Wartburg College at Waverly spent the weekend in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hansen.

Mr. and Mrs. Bern Ketchum of Topeka, Kans., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ketchum and Linda of Oelwein visited in the home of Mrs. Elsie Reese Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schmidt of Allison visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hansen Sunday.

H. P. Ketchum honored at 92nd birthday celebration

Although H. P. Ketchum's 92nd birthday was Sept. 29, his relatives celebrated it Sunday. His birthday was acknowledged by a potluck dinner in the dining room of the schoolhouse.

Five generations were present. 80 people attended the celebration. Out-of-town guests were from Topeka, Kans., Clarkston, Mich., New Ross, Ind., Mt. Pleasant, Oelwein, Mason City, Rockwell, Alden, Sheffield, Eagle Grove, Clarion and Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rietz and Marc of Ames were Sunday guests in the homes of Wesley Boyington and E. A. Rietz.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Osier and family of Mt. Pleasant, A. K. Ketchum of Belmond, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Osier and Tom and H. P. Ketchum celebrated Mrs. Vey Osier's birthday Saturday evening.

HELLO, WORLD!

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ketchum are the parents of a baby girl born Oct. 7. She weighed 7 lbs. 1¼ oz., and has been named Michele Renee.

Maternal grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. G. J. Hruska of Belmond and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Ketchum.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wesenberg and Terry of Iowa Falls, Mrs. Ruth Bingham of Clarion and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Baker, Lence and Wade of St. Joseph, Mo., were Sunday dinner guests in the home of Rex Steffens.

Phillip and Bob Ketchum and Francis Carpenter of Hampton left Sunday evening on a fishing trip to Raddison, Minn.

Mrs. Alta Burt and Mrs. Dorthea Ketchum attended the Square Circle club meeting at Mrs. Ben Jacobsen's home in Clarion Friday.

OUT-OF-TOWN RELATIVES PRESENT AT STOUT RITES

Out-of-town relatives attending the funeral of Sim Stout were Arch Stout, Waterloo; Milton Stout of Albert Lea, Minn., and his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Stout of Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Forest Olson and Jane of Forest City; Mrs. Ula Schrader, Keister, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Burris and children and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Anderson, Des Moines.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pearce of Bentonville, Ark., and their son Bruce of Des Moines.

Jack Nicklin of Toppenish, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hansen, Mrs. Robert Hansen and Mrs. Orville Eliason of Kanawha; Mrs. Mary Hanken of Webster City and her daughters, Mrs. Edd Johnson of Alden and Mrs. Mae Bealmer of Woolstock; and Glenn Ingle of Des Moines.

ROWAN SCOUTS TO FINISH "GOOD TURN" SATURDAY

Scoutmaster Tom Groom and the Rowan Boy Scouts this Saturday will complete the annual "Good Turn Day Clothing Drive" for Goodwill Industries by picking up bags that were distributed to Rowan homes last weekend.

Any householder who was missed may substitute a box for the Goodwill bag. Contributed articles should be on front steps for pick-up by 8:00 a. m.

Badly needed articles include discarded clothing; shoes with pairs tied together; linens, bedding, electrical appliances and other household articles.

26 ladies attend WSCS meeting held Thursday

The WSCS met Thursday afternoon of last week in the Methodist church basement. There were 23 members present. Celia Groom, May Myers, Kay Aldrich and Ruby Osier were in charge of the lesson, "Biblical Basis for Ecumenism."

Barbary Drury conducted the business meeting. The WSCS bought a new water heater for the church basement and a new stove for the parsonage. During the meeting Grace Sellers announced that the Naomi circle is planning a luncheon from 11:30 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. Monday at the Methodist church.

Lunch was served by Lois Beyer and Mable Hackbarth.

Mr. and Mrs. Borge Jensen of Brookings, Ore., spent last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hansen. Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hansen took Mr. and Mrs. Borge Jensen on a sight-seeing tour through the Amana Colonies.

Hinckley family honors birthdays and 25th wedding anniversary

A week ago Sunday, the Hinckley family held a dinner in the Alvin Riis home at Sheffield. The occasion was to celebrate the birthdays of Mrs. Nellie Hinckley and her brother Harry Carter of Alden, both birthdays being on Oct. 2. 40 guests were present.

In the afternoon, a decorated three-tiered cake, made by Mrs. Larry Aldrich, honored Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Hokes of Des Moines for their 25th wedding anniversary which was Oct. 10. Mrs. Hokes served the cake and helped dismantle the silver tree which was a gift from the group. Out of town relatives were from. Viberg, S. Dak., Minneapolis, Minn., Prairie City, Des Moines, Burt, Cedar Rapids, Ames and Belmond.

We TRY to be a newspaper that "gets things done"

"Newspapers Get Things Done" may sound like a rather boastful theme for National Newspaper Week (Oct. 8-14). But perhaps as an excuse, the newspapers can point to the old saw, "If you don't blow your own horn, nobody's going to."

There is no question but what a majority of their readers take weekly, hometown newspapers very much for granted. Most of them — the newspapers — serve as public servants, defenders of freedom, educators, entertainers, and in any number of other roles in addition to the basic ones of news, advertising and sales media.

The Independent, like other newspapers that continually strive for self-betterment, regularly tests itself against the rank and file by participating in state and national press contests. While plaques and merit certificates on the wall are perhaps not too significant, they are at least a reflection of a newspaper's standing as rated against its peers; and The Independent derives a modicum of satisfaction from the fact that it has won 17 such awards in 15 year of competing.

Other measures of a newspaper's effectiveness produce less concrete evidence. When a project of distinct civic benefit comes along, it is taken for granted that The Independent will exert the greatest influence it can in behalf of the project.

"Isn't that what a newspaper's for?" would probably be the reaction if we did any particular feather-preening upon such a project reaching a successful conclusion. And there's no gainsaying the fact that that IS what a newspaper SHOULD be for.

On the other hand, there are newspapers that have earned enough esteem to possess leadership that is readily accepted when such issues are at stake; and there are those that exercise little initiative along such lines and are of small help when projects for community betterment are in need of a push.

The Independent has suffered its defeats, when campaigning for causes it firmly regarded as for the public's decided benefit. Weighing against them, we're happy to say, have been a much greater number of successes. Which, we humbly submit, entitles us to include The Independent among those newspapers that DO get things done.

We'd probably never have brought it up, except for this being National Newspaper Week. But there it is. So let us simply add that we are endlessly trying to put out the kind of newspaper that can perform for Belmond all the functions that a good newspaper SHOULD perform — as a news media, as an advertising media, and in all those EXTRA ways that enable a newspaper to "Get Things Done."

It took months for "the tornado" to become a secondary topic of conversation in these parts; but have you noticed how days now go by with no more than indirect references to the disaster that jolted our lives and shattered so much of Belmond just a year ago tomorrow?

Sure, we talk about it. But as recovery has progressed, the horror has diminished. Nerves have become calm again. And we've even ceased relating, except on rare occasions, where WE were and what WE were doing when "it happened."

Scars, there still are. Personal scars, both physical and of the spirit. Others dot the landscape, where reconstruction has not yet followed the destruction; and we stop now and then to wonder, "What was THERE?"

It's been good to forget (when it seemed for so long that we NEVER would). And it's been inspiring to watch with admiration and pride how our fellow townsmen have gone resolutely about the job of recovery. While we know how much STILL remains to be done, it is unquestionable that our achievements have far outstripped our most optimistic expectations in most regards.

On this first anniversary of "the Belmond tornado" it behooves us to relinquish for a couple of days the forgetfulness we so heartily wooed to purge ourselves of the desperation and discouragement that the disaster thrust upon us. Now, if briefly, comes a time for deliberate remembering.

Remembering those who lost their lives in the calamity; and remembering the inspiration and hope we gained from the helpfulness extended to us in so many ways from so many quarters when we hardly knew where to begin to undo the damage.

Saturday morning's union service at Luick Memorial Auditorium will give us an opportunity to mourn those who died; and to express thanks for the blessings of human brotherhood that made our plight tolerable.

Then, on Sunday, if our expectations are fulfilled we will have a personal opportunity to extend a hand of greeting to thousands of those hard-working, generous, thoughtful people who rallied to our assistance on a scope completely defying our powers of imagination.

To recall the community's deep gratitude of that moment, we'd like to reprint several paragraph's from an editorial that appeared in this column one year ago next week. We feel certain that we spoke for all Belmond in commenting:

" . . . As hordes of hard-working 'friendly neighbors' descended on Belmond in the wake of the tornado to help put us together again — a majority of whom had no connection with the community and its people, and some of whom even had no knowledge that it existed — a challenge was laid down to us that demands the most positive kind of response. . . .

"Even as we go ahead to become a better-than-ever Belmond, we should be enriched in spirit, having learned of the deep wells of goodness that exist in the people who make up this land of ours. Selfish? Calloused? Unfeeling? Don't try telling us Belmond folks that people aren't good . . . g-o-o-d . . . GOOD!

"Strangely — or, perhaps, not so strangely — many a Belmondite made it through his or her own private trials imposed by the twister, stiff-lipped and dry-eyed; but the magnificence of the friendliness extended to us in so many ways was what finally made lips quiver and eyes fill to overflowing."

Has that gratitude remained strong as ever, right to this day? We feel certain it has. A strong responsibility bears on us this coming Sunday to SHOW that it has.

Our visitors must be made to feel that they are royal guests on this anniversary occasion. Mingle with them; talk with them; and extend the hand of friendship and appreciation at every opportunity.

When these wonderful friends depart for home THIS time, let us make certain they leave with the conviction, "Good people, those Belmond folks. They were worth the trouble!"

Local guests at Central Soya's dedication "party" a week ago Saturday marking reactivation of the company's feed mill here could not have been other than deeply impressed by the sincere interest Central Soya has in Belmond.

President Dale W. McMillen, Jr., made this interest most apparent in his brief talk. But words are one thing; and acts are another. And such gestures as Central Soya's financing of the rehabilitation of the city park tennis courts and offer of similar backing for rebuilding the peewee baseball diamond manifest the sincerity of the interest expressed.

Moreover, Central Soya is not only willing but ANXIOUS to have its local personnel take an active part in local, civic concerns. Belmond was luckier than it knew, when Central Soya became a part of our community.

Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

What's it mean?

Jargon, sometimes called gobbledygook, has been defined as the use of language to conceal rather than to convey thought. Though long condemned by all leading authorities on style and usage, it nevertheless remains one of the besetting sins of our time, especially in academic and bureaucratic circles.

Among some choice current examples, taken from a Glossary of Meaningless Phrases being compiled by John H. Hightower, executive director of the New York State Council on the Arts, are "contextual dynamics of the Bronx," "innovational research planning" and "educational-awareness experience."

We're not sure how to preserve the language from such high-flown gibberish, but Mr. Hightower tells an anecdote that suggests at least one way to squelch persons who like to dress up ordinary ideas in ornate phrases implying profundity. The next time you hear people spouting jargon, try fixing them with an innocent stare and exclaiming, "Please, watch your language!" — Buffalo Evening News

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT

TJ, the office cat, had been esconced on our desk top looking over our shoulder as we banged out what he calls our annual "Hurray for Newspapers" editorial. It bugs us no end to have anyone intrude on our thoughts in this manner, a fact of which the feline is only too well aware.

As we wound up the effort and pulled the last sheet from the typewriter, he stared at the back of our neck until our eyes turned reluctantly his direction as helpless as iron filings arranging themselves around a magnet.

He no sooner gained out attention that his own eyes turned to the office wall and he quietly counted, "One, two, three, four, five, six."

FOLLOWING HIS GLANCE, WE didn't have to ask what he was up to. We'd just mentioned in the editorial that The Independent has had the good fortune to grab off 17 state and national press awards in the last decade and a half, just one-half dozen of which presently grace the wall of Ye Ed's sanctum.

"The rest of them — or at least, almost all the rest of them — are all framed and ready to go up," we assured him. . . . To which TJ responded, "And have been framed and already to go up since . . . ?"

"Since about the middle of last summer," we growled. "Not a capital offense that we haven't quite gotten 'em up yet, is it? . . . Never was able to get stuff hung straight, and been hoping the frau might take pity and come down to lend a hand."

"YOU MIGHT HAVE QUITE A bit of company this weekend," the cat noted, "seeing the Independent's invited all its helpful friends to pay a call on Tornado Day. And there was sure a scad of them came to bat for The Partners Three with cash, with offers of printing accommodations and what-not after the twister sailed through our printin' works.

"Besides, if you have the coffee pot on you might have quite a number of additional droppers-in next Sunday. So why not get the stuff up? At LEAST, for pity sake get up the one I won for 'Best Column' award last year. It's one of ol' TJ's few claims to fame, after all."

"Been too all-fired busy for such housekeeping chores," we grumbled, "but we'll try. Guess we'll never find a better excuse than National Newspaper Week to get around to it — not to mention, as you say, the Tornado Day company we're hoping will appear."

As his attention wandered, TJ eyed with some perplexity a duplicated letter on our desk singing the praises of our nation's newspapers. Finally he said, "This guy writes his signature just one notch better than Ron Courson. Whoozit?"

"If you'd been perceptive enough to note the letterhead, you mighta figured it out. It came from the tenant of The White House."

"YOU'VE GOTTA BE KIDDING," the cat exclaimed. "LBJ saying all these nice things about the press? At least, I read through the first paragraph, and it sounded much more complimentary toward the press than you'd guess President Johnson might be feeling these days."

"Would you like for us to read a bit?" we asked. TJ, who reads with all the speed and agility of a farmer sludging through a mucky cowyard, nodded.

"LBJ says," we began, "that 'Our papers are more than just an expression of an unfettered press; they are unsleeping sentinels of ALL freedoms.' "

TJ INTERRUPTED, WITH A grin, to comment, "The man should know about as well as anybody just HOW unfettered the American press is. Wouldn't wonder but what it's his honest opinion that a little fetter or two woudn't harm some of 'em."

"You going to listen?" we inquired, continuing, " 'They are ready, simultaneous interpreters between the government and the people. Their freedom to publish is our freedom to interpret — and both incur the responsibility and honor vital to the success of the democratic society that is our way of life.'

" 'In our nation, which spreads so far and wide across both continent and sea . . . ' " we were plunging ahead, when TJ hollered, "That's enough!"

"BUT," WE COMPLAINED, "HE goes on to say how newspapers have unparalleled power and significance, and how we are nerve centers of information and action, and . . ."

TJ snorted, "You know what he was saying under his breath? He was saying, 'Nerve centers? Bah! Pure, unadulterated nerve is what the confounded newspapers have — and too much of that.'

"Anyway, happy National Newspaper Week," the cat chirped, as he thumped to the floor. "And get that 'Best Column' award up in a prominent place, will you?"

(Ed's note: Our middle son, KCG, got those awards up after this column was written — so they're all now on display.)

AS REPORTED IN:
The Independent
The Herald-Press
And The Iowa Valley Press

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO—

Belmond's city council on Wednesday night of last week approved appointment of Ray Thompson as night marshal, to succeed E. W. "Curly" Lucas, who resigned to join the Clarion police force.

R. W. Courson was elected Boy Scout chairman of the Wright county district of Winnebago Council last Tuesday night at Clarion. He succeeds Marc Ihm of Rowan in the chairmanship.

Phil Covington, who graduated from the University of Iowa last spring, it now employed by the Maryland Casualty company in the bond department of its Des Moines office.

Among the organizations that will share in the Community Chest funds to be raised by the local campaign soon to get underway is the PTA summer recreation program. It will receive the sum of $300.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—

The Lyric treater is being extended to the alley to allow installation of nine more rows of seats.

—1937—

Roy Henderson was elected president and W. P. Tyrrell vice president as new officers were chosen Thursday by the stockholders of Clarmond Country club.

—1937—

Stanley Shahan, who went to Wisconsin several weeks ago for his health, is greatly improved. He is working in a lumber camp.

—1937—

On the junior high honor roll for the first six weeks were Daryl Hanson, Charlotte Foss, Leland Lieuwen, Bob Brady, Mary June Kinseth and Gloria Madsen.

—1937—

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—

Last Sunday when Guy Work of Kanawha was returning home from Belmond his horse and buggy were struck by an auto, knocking the horse down and overturning the buggy. Guy "went down with the ship" and received a badly sprained shoulder. The party of four in the car never stopped to see what damage had been done.

—1922—

In last week's World Series between the N. Y. Giants and Yankees, the Giants won in five games by gaining four victories and a tie. The Yankees being local favorites, interest dwindled rapidly after the first game and only hearing the games by radio kept any interest alive.

—1922—

Mr. George Smith and Miss Mattie Pals were married last Wednesday evening, Oct. 4th, by Rev. A. H. Waalkes at the Immanuel parsonage. Mr. and Mrs. Smith intend to locate on a farm in the spring.

—1922—

Charlie Johnson has in operation a taxi service for the men employed at the sugar factory and transports the laborers to and from their work each day.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—

Thos. Edwards daughter, Miss Cora, and two children of W. A. Meyers, west of town, had a runaway last week Tuesday. It smashed up the buggy some but fortunately did not injure the children very severely.

—1892—

A load of hay, a few bushels of corn, oats and potatoes will be taken on account at the Herald office if delivered soon. We need the hay and oats now.

—1892—

A good article for the city fathers to provide for the fire company would be a chain to drag down and away burning buildings. A fair sized building could be pulled down after or before it started to burn and greatly lessen the chances of setting fire to adjoining buildings.

—1892—

A number of our young people are preparing to enter the Northern Iowa Normal College at Garner, with the opening of the next term on Nov. 8.

NINETY YEARS AGO—

—1877—

Some terrible Indian fighting has taken place recently, in which the troops suffered severely. The latest is that Chief Joseph and his outfit of reds are prisoners.

—1877—

"What did you get?" she asked, as he returned from a two-day duck and goose hunt. "Got back!" was the curt reply.

—1877—

A drove of cattle, 140 strong, passed through town Monday en route to Hamilton county.

—1877—

The amount of fractional currency still in existence since the was is estimated at $4,000,000.

—1877—

The town schools commence next Monday, the 15th, Miss Mira Galer and Mrs. J. Brewsaugh the teachers.

—1877—

The "feathered minions" are on the wing — ducks, geese, brants, cranes, etc. The heart of the sportsman rejoiceth.

One "benefit" of tornado—

BHS students see landscaping opportunities

By Keith Carlson

BHS vo-ag instructor

This is first of a series of articles to be written by members of BHS Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America featuring landscaping of homes in the Belmond area. Recently the Belmond High school vocational home economics and vocational agriculture department completed a unit of study in home landscaping. Information gained will be applied to local and close-by farm homes to demonstrate its usefulness.

A home costing thousands of dollars may still lack features that a landscaping plan can provide. The many new homes, and in some cases businesses, that have been built since the tornado have given our high school class many opportunities to develop landscaping plans.

Carolyn McLaughlin and Janice Draper in the accompanying picture started by first drawing a map of Mr. and Mrs. Roger "Joe" Smith's yard. This sketch located the home, driveway, lot lines and existing plants.

Sketches permit experiments

On this sketch several landscaping plans could be experimented with at no cost. The effort is much less to move plants on paper than transplanting trees or shrubs that otherwise might have been incorrectly placed.

Almost all homes will have at least one side that the public should be invited to view. Here the landscaping should be done with the public in mind.

Generally, trees in the public area are planted to provide not only shade, but to frame the home. Trees that reach 30 to 40 feet in height are rarely centered in front front of the home, nor should they be in straight lines. Space for sidewalks often is provided.

Private area important

More leisure time has increased the importance of a private area near our homes. In this area, an attempt is made to isolate a portion of the yard from public view. Again the sketch of the home grounds is very important.

Trees play an important role in the private area, mainly to provide shade for the children at play. Ornamental shrubs and fences can effectively be used to give privacy and many times serve as a windbreak to increase the enjoyment of a patio or sand box. This area generally is located behind the home or at one end.

A small area for flowers can be effective in increasing enjoyment of the backyard. Besides serving as a source of fresh flowers, they many times serve as a focal point for visitors to your home.

The sketch will now develop into a full-fledged plan. The next step will depend on the homeowner and his budget. As money becomes available, the plan can become a reality as trees and shrubs are planted. Many people develop the plan over several years; planning ahead can save you time and money.

LAYING PLANS for landscaping the lawn of the Mr. and Mrs. "Joe" Smith residence are two FHA girls, Carolyn McLaughlin (front) and Janice Draper. After sketching yard area, they will draft a suggested lay-out for planting ornamental shrubbery and trees that will serve to beautify the lawn and enhance its various uses.

Postmaster gives advice on mailing

Postmaster Bill Walrod says some local post office patrons have been disappointed to find mail they've posted arrive a day late at its destination, when the fault lay with failure to get mail into the post office in time to catch the best star route connection.

He advises that mail for the Garner-Belmond and Mason City-Belmond routes should be deposited 20 minutes prior to dispatch time. The Garner truck arrives here at 7:50 and departs 8:30 in the morning and arrives 3:40 and departs 5:00 p. m. The corresponding Mason City route times are 8:05-10:10 a. m. and 4:40-4:45 p. m.

All mail deposited not in time for these routes, Postmaster Walrod adds, will be dispatched via the Fort Dodge-Mason City star route, which goes north at 10:30 p. m. and south at 2:15 a. m. For most mail, this will mean a day's delay in delivery.

It is also noted by the postmaster that the post office has been instructed to close the lobby daily at 5:55 instead of 6:00 p. m. and "late mailers" are urged to keep the five-minute difference in mind.

This will make lobby hours Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5:55 p. m. Saturday hours will continue to be 7:30 a. m.-5:30 p. m. tinue to be 7:30 a. m.-5:30 p. m., as will the lobby hours on Sundays and holidays.

Window hours also remain unchanged — 8:30 a. m.-5:00 p. m., Monday through Friday; and 8:30 a. m.-12:00 noon on Saturdays.

Feed 10 pigs, market 11

with GRUEL-OMATIC liquid feeding system

Whatever your present dry ration, Gruel-Omatic guarantees you'll use 10% less to bring your pigs to market weight. This means you'll feed 11 pigs with Gruel-Omatic for what it now costs you to feed 10. You'll also be able to market your pigs 10 days to a month sooner if they are fed by Gruel-Omatic. Gruel-Omatic's liquid feeding system makes the difference. Gives you a true high-profit edge, plus these extra advantages:

- ☐ Fits your farm, your facilities
- ☐ Completely automated, eliminates labor
- ☐ Eliminates all other feeders, waterers
- ☐ Wean pigs easily at 2 to 3 weeks
- ☐ Reduces sow feeding costs up to 50%

NORTH IOWA Peach OF THE WEEK!

Ilse came to the North Central Community School as an exchange student from Austria and will reside with the Don Smith family at Manly during the school year.

Time To Spare

By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

A Delicate Dilemma.

Dropped in on a couple of old friends the other day, Jack and Jean Baxter. Jack is retiring in a few weeks time and I wanted to hear their plans.

Well, I chose just the right day — to land bang in the middle of a lively family conference. Was all for beating a quick retreat, but Jean said "No, this is right in your line, and we need an unbiassed opinion."

"That's right" agreed Jack, looking slightly harassed. "Let me tell you the problem. John Jr. here, and Nancy, want us to move in with them. Plenty of room for all of us they say, and they'll be right on top if we want someone to talk to, break a leg, or whatever. We can save money too, spend it on that trip we've always wanted.

"I must admit I appreciate their wanting us, and I know Jean fancies herself in the role of live-in baby sitter — she just dotes on those three grandchildren of ours — but somehow I'm not sure it would work. I've always believed parents and their married children shouldn't live together. What do you think Gerald?"

I didn't even have to think what my answer would be, though I tried to make it tactful.

Had To Be Right.

To my mind Jack was one hundred per cent right. Unless you're a saintly kind of bird, and your wife an absolute angel, this kind of arrangement is probably not for you.

At our time of life we're fixed in our ways, aren't flexible enough to live in someone else's home — its difficult enough at any age.

At the same time we don't get any less touchy in our feelings. Maybe we're even more prone to pick up slights and insults, to feel ignored or neglected.

Can we keep quiet while our children discuss a problem to which we know all the answers — or think we do? Can we give up our privacy, adjust to a different schedule? Will we mind not having a place of our own to entertain our friends?

And how about that babysitting? Can we really tolerate so much healthy noise every day of the week?

Seems to me we're all better off on our own. That way no one gets upset. And when we do get together with our children and grandchildren it's lots more fun.

A Delicate Delemma.

So if your solicitous offspring beg you to move in, be pleased and grateful; but don't do it until you've asked yourself some searching questions — such as those I've just posed. In the end you may find yourself agreeing with your old friend, yours truly Gerald Andrews.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS

BY LINDA NORRIS

An apt followup to Andy Russell's current click single by the same title is his Such a Pretty World Today album . . . Included in the pretty package are such tunes as Mary in the Morning, the popular Release Me, Try to Remember, This Is My Song and Send Me the Pillow You Dream On . . . Russell spins each tune in his usual ultry-professional style — smoothly and modestly superb . . . Producer Al deLory collaborated with Mort Garson and Perry Botkin, Jr. in carving out the brilliant arrangements . . . Straight up!

What's a Teddy Neeley? I'll tell you . . . A Teddy Neeley is a five-foot, six inch, 125 lb. atomic reactor plant about to turn on the whole world . . . Thus spake Bobby Darin about the dynamic talent of a 22-year-old phenom from Texas . . . And that's the general consensus of opinion of those in the biz . . . Among the upcoming smashes on Teddy Neeley, his debut LP, are Young and Carefree, Where You Are, Slow Movin' Man, My Baby and I, Grand Hotel and Magic Touch.

The judiciously hewn album entitled Super Soul-Dees, featuring various artists, is comprised of some of the greatest "soul" songs extant . . . Each is sung by the artist that made them famous . . . Lou Rawls does Tobacco Road; Cannonball Adderley Quintet does The Sticks; Sam Cooke hits with You Send Me and Nat Cole sends with a delectable disemboguement of Send for Me, among others . . . Lay the needle down any groove and flip out!

WEDDING INVITATIONS AND ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wedding Stationery

are a specialty at the ALGONA ADVANCE

- LARGE VARIETY TO CHOOSE FROM Printed - Thermographed - Engraved
- SOCIALLY CORRECT STYLES
  Plain folders, paneled folders, fancy wedding bell designs, liturgical, etc.
- THANK YOU NOTES
- NAPKINS FOR RECEPTION

Price, quality and other things being equal, we feel that

TRADING AT HOME IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

There is no need to let a dressmaker sell you your wedding invitations and announcements. Your "home-town" newspaper is where you expect wedding pictures, detailed wedding write-ups, stories of showers and receptions to be used . . . and we are glad to print them. The out-of-towner gives you none of this. Think it over . . . if a wedding is in your plans for the near future, we'll be happy to work with you for exactly the correct style in printing, thermography or engraving.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 4 OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1967 OFFICIAL CITY PAPER 16 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

It's getting so that one of the nicest things that can happen to our day is to receive a letter from Lylle Dunlap, whose dad (Frank) 90 years ago last week "moved his 'tooth shop' from McAlpine's building to Pierce's picture gallery." Got a note last week end from Lylle at Eugene, Ore., asking, "Have you got that bridge painted yet?" It's the Main street bridge over the river he's concerned about — which DIDN'T get a new coat prior to Tornado Day.

"If you lay it on the ground so I won't fall off," Lylle offered, "I'll come back there and really dob it up good. I'm the world's best dobber but the world's worst painter. How's that for a record?

"Anybody that comes within 20 feet of us will tell you the same. The enclosed pictures show the main dobber and his helper. We paint everything; just look at those clothes." (The accompanying pictures offered proof positive!). In a PS, Lylle added "I don't think I'll be back in Belmond next year as I've just finished painting my house and it will take a year to clean the floors and window glass. Then I'm going to start out hunting the guy that invented the stuff."

Another of the contingent of orphans brought from New York to Clarion for adoption on Sept. 15, 1892, has checked in with the Mainstreeters after seeing a 'Way Back When item in The Independent. A note written by Bertha House from Redwood City Calif., reports, "I was one of those children. There were two girls and five boys came then." Bertha was six years old then; now is 81. She adds, "I never miss that part (the 'Way Back When "

Presence of a large weather balloon floating over town Tuesday morning in the glistening sunshine prompted reports of a UFO (unidentified flying object) on the part of some witnesses unfamiliar with these devices. While the balloon when seen by the naked eye seemed to be pursuing a majestically calm course across the heavens, when inspected through binoculars gave the appearance of dancing a wild hula. General Mills used to put 'em up from Minneapolis. Don't know where this one came from.

Received last week a renewal check for the Ben Griswolds' subscription, Mrs. G. sending it along from Webster City with the notation: "Hope things all go real well this weekend, and I'm sure people will once again have their faith renewed about the 'spunk' of the wonderful townspeople there. We moved the day AFTER the tornado and sure do miss it." We're assuming it's the town, not the tornado, that Mrs. Griswold misses. . . . While we always hate to see good folks like the Griswolds move away, we've got to admit that Ben and his bunch certainly picked the right time for it.

What a revoltin' development! With just about the prettiest Queen ever to hold the spotlight at a BHS Homecoming, doggoned if some mix-up in arrangements to get Debbie Misner's picture in the paper this issue didn't leave us with no engraving of same. But it's never too late to run a picture of the likes of Debbie, so we're planning on it for next week.

Game co-captains who drew the assignments of placing the crown on the Queen's brow and presenting her with the royal bouquet were Greg Fuller and Don Havens — who exacted the traditional kiss for their parts in the proceedings with no apparent reluctance.

First place in the parade float contest went to the juniors' locomotive, second to the freshman whale, third to the seniors' optical illusion and honorable mention to the sophomores' steam roller. It is TRUE that the freshman whale started out to be a horse; but on near completion, it looked more like a whale so they just laid it down and bowed to circumstances!

Belmond High's band, under the direction of Maurice Fahrney, will be rooting en masse for ex-Bronco Bobby Misner when Drake takes on Omaha university on the gridiron this Saturday at Des Moines. The BHS musicians were invited to be among 50 Iowa high school marching bands to take part in a halftime performance during the game. Each will be given a brief opportunity to demonstrate its marching skill and all will join in a mass playing of the Drake school song. Altogether, about 3,000 horn-tooters, drummers, etc., will have a part in the performance.

In some inexplicable manner the name of the former Diane Shobe's husband, Robert Rasmussen, was replaced by the name of his grandfather, Peter Rasmussen, in last week's write-up of the Shobe-Rasmussen nuptials. Since no reference to Grandpa Peter was in notes handed to The Independent, we're at a loss to deduce how the two-generation error occurred.

Less hard to understand was a mistake made in the age of the late Sim Stout of Rowan, whom we credited with 97 years.

Since his birthdate was correctly mentioned and made him just short of 93 years of age (not 98), the culprit in this error was obviously Ye Ed's — due to some very poor arithmetic. Mathematics never having been one of our sharp subjects, we're more dismayed than surprised. For the record, therefor, we wish to establish Sim's age as having been 92.

GIRLS, INTERESTED IN 4-H?

Any girls of eligible age who would like to join the 4-H are invited to come to the Elmer Waltz home this Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and meet with the Pleasant Peppy Pals.

Chapter Farmer degrees to ten

Ten members of the Friendly Service chapter of Future Farmers of America were advanced to the degree of Chapter Farmer and another 22 received the Greenhand degree at a Parents' Night meeting of the chapter held Wednesday evening of this week.

This steel tower was fabricated by some of the firemen, with Leonard Steenblock and Richard Kling "straw-bossing" the job, reports Fire chief "Bud" Packard. Under its top deck the fire siren will be installed, and the old fire bell will be hung below the middle deck.

An additional 20-foot antenna tower has been mounted on the steel tower, and on top of it will go an antenna that within a few months will enable the Belmond Fire company to become part of a countywide fire hook-up — which in turn will tie in with a statewide fire service radio network.

Chief Packard says the Wright county firemen hope the county system can be ready for activation by about the first of next year.

Nelson Gravel company's mobile crane was utilized to get the structural steel tower in place Friday; and Mr. Packard says it nearly had to stand on tiptoes to get the job done. As can be seen from the amount of the crane extending over the tower, there were only inches to spare when the tower was slid into position.

Drive kickoff next Tuesday—

Chest needs $6,075 to meet campaign goal

After graciously delaying the start of its annual fund campaign for three weeks to avoid interference with the solicitation of money to meet the costs of Tornado Day, the Belmond Community Chest next Tuesday will launch its drive for a record goal of $6,075.

Bruce Schroeder, Chest Council president, and the co-chairmen of the campaign, Mrs. Duane Anderson and Mrs. O'Larry Dorr, point out that Belmond has never faced a sharper challenge than this year in meeting a Chest goal — excepting last year, when the disaster created an impossible situation for the Chest drive.

From the time of successful, early campaigns that exceeded their goals the Chest had a reserve fund to fall back on in case a drive fell short of the amount needed by a moderate margin. This contingency reserve was wiped out when the '66 campaign fell far short of its goal and pledges to agencies were fulfilled only through generous, special support supplied by the Lions club, Jaycees and Jaycee-Ettes from disaster donation funds.

This time, the Chest leaders emphasize, the entire amount of the goal must be raised by contributions or the Chest will be unable for the first time to meet appropriations in full.

Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Dorr are guiding the campaign under Jaycee-Ette sponsorship, this being the third year in a row that the Jaycee auxiliary has undertaken conduct of the Chest drive.

A kickoff "coffee" will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Town House cafe, at which time supplies for the campaign will be issued to block captains and as many solicitors as can attend. All involved in the drive will be urged to get at their calls promptly and complete their territories at the earliest time possible, in view of the late start.

Four appropriations are slightly higher than a year ago. That of the American Red Cross was increased from $1,200 to $1,300 (the amount of $1,356 was requested); that of the Boys Scouts was increased from $1,200 to $1,275; the pledge to the Salvation Army was raised from $450 to $500 (whereas $525 was asked); and the Camp Fire Girls will get $800, which is $100 more than last year.

Counteracting these increases to a degree, the Belmond Loan Closet appropriation was reduced from $350 to $250 and the Kenney Rehabilitation Center ($100 a year ago) and Travelers Aid ($25) were dropped from the group of Chest agencies.

Appropriations remain the same for: Summer Recreation Program, $500 each for boys and girls; Iowa Childrens Home Society, $400; Wright County Association for Retarded Children, $125; Arthritis Foundation, Iowa chapter, $100; USO, $100, National dues remain $50 and miscellaneous expense was set at $175.

Chest President Schroeder says, "Last Sunday, Belmond earned the admiration of several thousand visitors for the community spirit and determination demonstrated by the manner in which our town has recovered from the disaster that listed the 1966 Community Chest drive among its casualties.

"It is going to take another such demonstration — in terms of generosity and community pride — to make the 1967 Chest campaign a success.

"Most of the agencies and activities that will share in the Chest proceeds are for the direct benefit of local people — particularly children. In fact, well over half of the money — $3,825 — will go for programs directly benefiting our young people.

"Pledges to the Red Cross and Belmond Loan Closet certainly could not prompt any controversy; and the other agencies, Belmond has made a practice of supporting over a number of years."

He admits, "It's a big job to undertake; but it's one for which Belmond has accepted responsibility. The job will be done if each contributor honestly gives his or her fair share, based on amounts given toward successful Chest campaigns in years past, bearing in mind that this year's goal is the highest ever."

Belmond gets OK on Title I funds

Owen Bateson, who as elementary principal has been serving as administrator of Title I funds received by the Belmond schools under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, announces that $24,197 has been allotted the local school system for the current school year.

Due to raising of the base that determines a family's classification as eligible for educational aid under the program and lowering of the allotment per pupil, the funds to Belmond this year come to $8,136 less than a year ago.

The local funds are being used mainly to conduct a remedial reading program during the school year for children in 1st through 6th grades who need assistance.

Salaries of three teachers, Mrs. Viva Parker, Mrs. Jack Steinberg and Mrs. Jack Manders, and one teachers' aide, Mrs. Bill James, are met with Title I funds.

What funds are not needed for salaries are expended for equipment, Mr. Bateson says. Items purchased this year for local use include a tape recorder, overhead projector, film-strip projector, transparencies, dictionaries and library books for use under the program.

TO THE PEOPLE AND ORGANIZATIONS OF BELMOND

Although we would like to write a thank-you letter to all for their contributions and hard work that made Tornado Appreciation Day a success, it will be impossible to do so.

We are therefore writing this one letter to ALL OF YOU to express our gratitude for your willingness to help.

When we were estimating the costs of an Appreciation Day program, we were wondering where the money would come from. We need not have been concerned, as so many of you graciously contributed.

When we needed someone or some organization to take care of part of the program, we did not know whom to ask for help. But as our program developed, many offers of assistance came to us, so there was no problem at all.

We commend the people of Belmond, and the organizations in Belmond, for their loyalty and for their demonstrated thankfulness for all of the good things that came our way.

Had we not been truly thankful, our Appreciation Day would not have been as successful as it was.

Again, we are grateful — and thanks.

Respectfully
Appreciation Day Steering Committee
By Ellis Elliott, Chairman

All right-of-way for 69 widening now held by city

As a matter of business at Monday night's meeting of the Belmond city council, the councilmen authorized Mayor Robert Misner and City Clerk Lois Hammond to sign contracts in behalf of the city for purchase of the final eight parcels of land needed for right-of-way widening along Highway 69.

Wallace Richmond of Armstrong began purchases for the city the middle of April and has just completed his assignment. This clears the way for carrying through on the widening project by the state highway commission next year.

Luin Cox appeared before the council with an architect's plan for construction of a drive-in banking facility for the First State bank on the property now occupied by the Belmond Candy Kitchen. No action was taken on approval of the proposal but consensus of the council was that it appears feasible.

Attorney K. H. Haynie, partner in a Des Moines law firm, outlined possible ways off-Main street parking lots might be financed by the city. The Belmond Industrial Development corporation has purchased certain properties for such use, and optioned others, with the understanding that the city would take them over.

A total cost figure is presently being obtained. An investigation of funds available for the purpose is to be made by the city clerk to determine if they could be legally used to the end of making a bond issue unnecessary to cover financing.

Mrs. R. H. Gowdy Alabama speaker

Mrs. R. H. Gowdy left Monday by plane from Des Moines for Huntsville, Ala., where she had been invited to speak at a workshop conducted by the Alabama Hospital association.

She was one of three speakers on the faculty of the workshop, conducted for the benefit of hospital auxiliaries affiliated with the hospital association.

The workshop was to be presented at four sites — at Huntsville on Tuesday, Birmingham on Wednesday, Montgomery on Thursday and Mobile on Friday.

SCHOOLS CLOSED FRIDAY; TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Friday will be a "day off" for teachers of the Belmond Community School faculty — and other teachers, the state over — so they may attend the annual convention of the Iowa State Education association at Des Moines. Classes here will run according to regular schedule on Thursday.

Tornado Day thorough success—

Dismal weather that had a threatening look until after the noon hour unquestionably reduced the out-of-town throng attending last Sunday's Tornado Appreciation Day, but it failed by a long way to put a damper on the event.

Many reminiscences about the busy days immediately following the tornado of Oct. 14, 1966, were exchanged as people who'd helped Belmond out of its "mess" trooped back to see the extent of the community's recovery progress.

Estimates as to the number of visitors varied a good deal. Ed Gabrielson figured on the basis of approximately 6,550 pieces of barbecued chicken served at the park that probably 5,500 went to guests. This made due allowance for local people eating with house guests, double-trippers through the line and feeding of the Jaycee chefs and others rewarded with a meal for efforts toward the day's success.

What was more important than the number present was the response of visitors to what they saw — and their praise of Belmond's hospitality. Taking into consideration that quite a number of guests did not avail themselves of the barbecue, and that others were "in and out" of town without making a stop of any length, it is possible that as many as 7,000 might have responded to the Appreciation Day invitation, altogether.

At the fire station, guests were registered from 53 different cities and towns and from three states in addition to Iowa — Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri — as the firemen served 1,300 doughnuts and close to 650 cups of coffee Signers from 60 to 90 miles away were not uncommon, and a number were from farther yet.

Erv Redder, Chamber of Commerce president, proved an adept master-of-ceremonies for the program held at 2:30 p. m. from the park bandstand. It was preceded by a parade of pleasingly surprising proportions as the Veterans' color guard and BHS band were joined by large groups of Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds, Cub and Boy Scouts and Explorers for the brief march from the Iowa Electric Light and Power company corner up Main street, past the city hall and to the south side of the park.

Rev. James Rozendaal of the Bethany Reformed church offered the invocation, after which the Veterans' squad presented the colors and the national anthem was played by the band.

Mayor Robert Misner capped his innumerable appearances as a spokesman for the community with a few words of welcome that summed up most effectively the gratitude felt by Belmond for the help provided by its many friends at the time of the disaster.

Mr Redder introduced the guests of honor who lined the front of the bandstand, representing groups, agencies and individuals who came to the community's aid a year earlier. Those present included:

Lt. Keith Campbell of Sheldon, Iowa National Guard; Frank Grupe of Iowa Falls, operations supervisor for Iowa Electric Light and Power company; F. J. Nekvinda, Fort Dodge, division commercial manager for Central Telephone company; Robert Blecker, Wright county sheriff; Bob Bernhardt, Wright County Extension Service.

Also State Senator Hugh Clarke and State Representatives Ray V. Bailey of Clarion and Leigh Curran, Mason City.

Mr. Bailey, following recitation of the Pledge of Allegiance by the Scouts and rendition of the songs "Green Trees" and "Taps" by the Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds, was called upon for a response in behalf of the guests. This he gave most graciously, emphasizing that he felt he could equally regard himself as "belonging to Belmond."

Following the program, all the coffee bars open to the public did an excellent "business." Approximately 200 Jaycee tornado albums were sold, Dick Bloemke, reports; and The Independent gave away all of its remaining stock of the two editions of the newspaper issued immediately following the tornado.

One of the largest gifts received towards financing the occasion was in the amount of $100 from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rosene of St. Paul, Minn. Friends of the Roseues were happy to see them among the former residents here for Tornado Day.

Donations not previously mentioned in the Independent included:

$30 — A. R. Dorr Sons; $25 — Mac's Feeder Supply; $20 — Luther Johnson and an anonymous gift; $15 — the A. W. Johnsons, Sena Ziska of Kanawha, Dave Kennedy; $10 — Chapman's Cafe, J & M Club, Don Faris, Paul Dorr, Bowl-Mor, the Robert Wilsons, J. A. Adams.

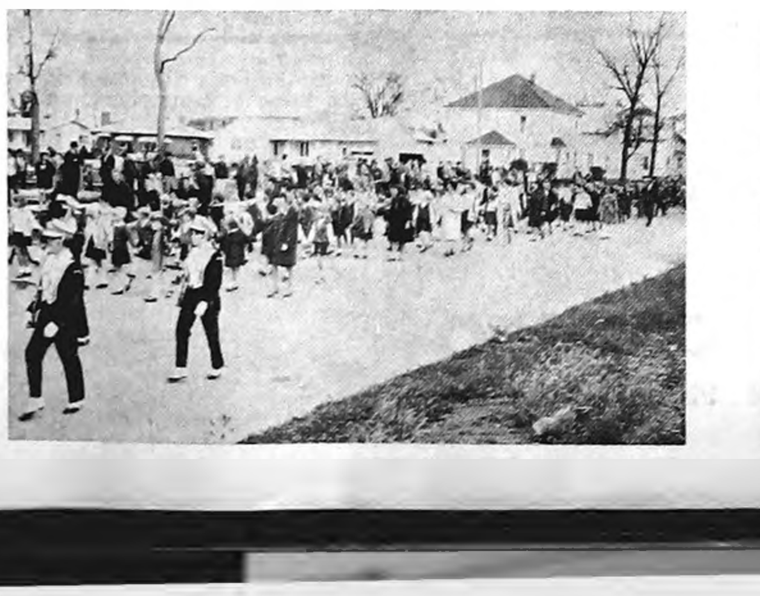
ATTEND SEABEE REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Walrod were in Des Moines weekend before last to attend the 21st annual reunion of the Sixth Seabee Association. The reunion activities were held at Hotel Fort Des Moines with 110 Seabees and the wives in attendance.

Views of Tornado Day activities

Views of Tornado Appreciation Day activities Sunday, shown below, suggest — correctly — that the occasion was well attended despite threatening weather that persisted until almost noon. Scene at left takes in busy shelterhouse and adjacent picnic tables while chicken barbecue was being served; temporary benches on tennis court also provided seating accommodations for the guests. Center, parade preceding the park program elicited attention as Veterans' color guard, BHS band, Camp Fire Girls, Bluebirds, Cub and Boys Scouts and Explorers marched to the band stand. Right, a crowd estimated at possibly 2,000 sat attentively during the program as special guests were introduced, Mayor Robert Misner extended a welcome to visitors and State Representative Ray Bailey responded in behalf of the day's guests.



Reconstruction Review

Belmond contractors and building supply firms pay their respects to the "new" Belmond — created since the tornado disaster of a year ago — in a special section of advertising in this issue.

Following the theme "Reconstruction Review," these businesses present by the use of 86 photographs (making this issue an Independent record-breaker for engravings) the story of the stores and residences that have gone up or undergone major repairs in the past year's time.

Sharing in the "Reconstruction Review" are: Ackerman Service, A. R. Dorr Sons, Pete Daniels, Paul Dorr, Eddy's Paint and Glass of Forest City, Fullerton Lumber, Kinseth Plumbing and Heating, Ted Meyer and Sons, Spahn and Rose Lumber, and Clarence Steenhard.

That some good fortune was mixed with the misfortune is indicated by the recollection of Doug Eddy, proprietor of Eddy's Paint and Glass, that he'd received a rail carload of plate glass just prior to the tornado. It took the equivalent of this entire supply to construct or reconstruct the 43 business fronts that called for Eddy's services.

Local suppliers were obliged to pull all strings imaginable to get lumber, windows and doors, plumbing and heating fixtures and all the other items left in short supply by the needs of the occasion — and did nobly.

Wright, Belmond receive Heart honors at banquet

Wright county in general, and Belmond in particular, just about stole the show at the annual awards dinner of the North Central division of the Iowa Heart association held last Thursday evening at Witke's cafe, Clear Lake.

Dr. Luke C. Chang of Mason City, president of the division, spent most of his time delivering laurels to Wright countians as recognition was given for outstanding service to the Heart association during the current year.

In the course of the presentations it was learned that the North Central district for the third year in a row led all districts in the state in per capita giving toward the Heart Fund with a 21-cent average.

Wright county led all counties in the district — and state — with a record-breaking per capita average of 37 cents (it was Wright's third straight year as top county in Iowa).

And Belmond topped the county average by a wide margin in achieving a per capita of 54 cents — which, it seemed a good bet, outstripped the performance of any other community in Iowa.

Mrs. Bill Shirer and Mrs. George Sharp were paid special honor as Belmond Heart Fund campaign chairmen in behalf of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, sponsor of the drive.

Mrs. Leo Woodley of Clarion and Dr. Dale Harding of Eagle Grove were honored as campaign director and president, respectively, of the Wright county Heart chapter.

Mrs. Leland Jenison also received a certificate of merit as chairman of the drive in Pleasant township, which topped all rural districts in the county in total contributions to the Heart Fund.

Mrs. Gail Cundall of Clarion was presented a 10-Year Award recognizing her loyal service to the Heart association for that period of time.

J. R. Gallagher, editor of the Independent, was also a Merit Award winner for efforts to gain favorable, statewide publicity in the Iowa weekly press prior to the 1967 Heart Campaign.

Larson services held on Friday

Funeral services for Carl Larson, 76, were held last Friday at the Dows First Lutheran Church with Rev. David Anderson officiating. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery at Dows. American Legion rites accompanied the burial and the flag was presented to a brother, Andrew Larson of Denver, Colo.

Pallbearers were: Oscar Holmes, Lloyd Lockman, Lloyd Gordon, Don Azeltine, Merritt Boyd and Kenneth Whitten.

Mr. Larson was born in Sweden, came to the United States in 1910 and had lived on his present farm since 1929. He was a member of the American Legion and the First Lutheran church at Dows.

He died Tuesday night of last week after being a patient for four weeks at Belmond Community hospital.

Survivors of Mr. Larson are four sisters and two brothers living in Sweden. He was preceded in death by two sisters and two brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Vollmer of Lamont, Okla., spent Friday and Saturday visiting Mrs. Celia Stout.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Halfwassen of Chapin were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Tillie Meylink, who returned to spend a few days with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rietz and Marc of Ames visited in the home of Wesley Boyington and E. A. Rietz last week. They also visited Arlene Boyington, a sister of Mrs. Reitz, at Bloomington, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Myers spent Friday through Wednesday of last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Myers and family at Washington and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Norton at Coralville.

Eight candidates file nominations for council posts

Only two of the present members of the Rowan town council have filed as candidates for re-election when voting on municipal officers is conducted Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Incumbents who are candidates are H. L. Pesch and Dean Fitz. There will be competition for all the council posts, however, as nomination papers were filed for six other candidates.

They are C. H. Lindsey, Charles Keith, Merle Gunderson, E. R. Harris, E. A. Rietz and James Staley.

The three councilmen who will be retiring at the end of the year are Mertel Myers, Rex Steffens and Maynard Azeltine.

Howard Box, who has served 12 years as Rowan's mayor, will again be a candidate for that post; and Karl Rietz, who has served even longer as treasurer, will also be a candidate for re-election.

Lake Mills next foe of Broncos

Belmond High's slim hope of retaining the North Iowa conference football championship for a 5th straight year will be on the line this Friday night as the Broncos travel to Lake Mills to tangle with Coach Chuck Nichol's Bulldogs.

By edging the hard-luck Britt Eagles 13-6 last week, Lake Mills stayed in the title running with a 3-1 mark to share the runner-up spot with Osage behind unbeaten Buffalo Center.

Coach Claude Post's Bison will be playing host to Osage in another key game that will find the visiting Green Devils still hoping for at least a share of the NIC crown. Since Buffalo Center has never won the football championship and the Imps best finish was a three-way tie for the title in 1960, both outfits will be going all out for this one.

Because Belmond managed only 12 decisions over Lake Mills in their first 34 meetings, the Broncos trail the Bulldogs in their 42-game rivalry 21 to 20. The only tie between the two schools occurred in 1925 in a battle that was scoreless.

Coach Nichol has 12 lettermen back from his fine team of a year ago, including a group of hefties that give him much the heaviest defensive line in the conference with a 200-plus average. This perhaps helps to explain the Bulldogs' achievement of allowing only 26 points in their first four loop games compared to 75 chalked up against Belmond.

On the other hand, the Broncos have scored 115 points against NIC foes while Lake Mills has managed only 58 — indicating Friday night's fray will be a test of the Bulldog defense against Belmond's ability to pile up points.

INDIA MISSIONARY TO SPEAK TUESDAY AT LOCAL MEETING

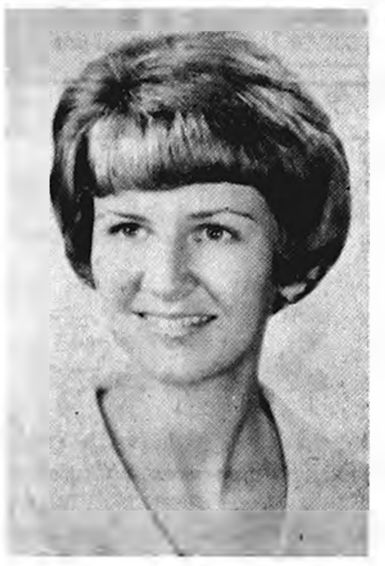
Marian Warner, a Methodist missionary and educational administrator who has served in India for 35 years, will be guest speaker at the Methodist church next Tuesday at 2:00 p. m.

Commissioned in 1929 as a regular missionary of the Methodist church, Miss Warner was assigned as principal of the Middle School and Hostel in Baihar, a co-educational school serving three political districts.

After 19 years of service, she was appointed vice principal of Hawabagh Women's college, a teacher's training college, in Jabalpur, which is now a part of Saugor university.

Miss Warner was born to Fairfield, and attended the State University of Iowa, receiving both the Bachelor of Arts and the Master of Arts degrees in education.

Invitations have been extended to several other churches to join the Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service members to hear the message to be brought by Miss Warner.



ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Lyle DeYong of the engagement of their daughter Charlene to Robert D. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Nelson. A June wedding is planned. Miss DeYong will receive an Associate of Arts degree in the spring from Northwestern college at Orange City. Her fiance has attended South Dakota State university at Brookings.

Wilbur Larsens, Sheffield, to mark 25th anniversary

Local friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Larsen of Sheffield are invited to attend a Silver Wedding open house being held in their honor this coming Sunday from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. at their home, 301 N. Sixth street, Sheffield. Their children, Mrs. John Kraft of Cedar Rapids, Charles and Barbara at home, will be host and hostesses for the occasion.

COMING EVENTS

THURSDAY, OCT. 19—

Past Noble Grand circle will meet at 2:00 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Floyd Doctor.

MONDAY, OCT. 23—

Chapter LV of P.E.O. will meet at the home of Mrs. Marc Ihm with Mrs. Ronald Courson as co-hostess. A report on the convention of Supreme Chapter will be given by Mrs. H. F. Reed of Clear Lake.

Grandmothers club will meet at 2:00 p. m. at the library basement. Installation of officers will be held.

THURSDAY, OCT. 26—

Wesleyan Service Guild will meet at 8:00 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Arlo Stoltenberg. Mrs. Louise Johnson will lead in the devotions and Mrs. Howard Jacobmeyer will present the lesson. Please note the change of date.

● Legal Notice

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

ROBBINS' SON-IN-LAW BAGS DEER WITH BOW AND ARROW

Marvin Abbott of Forest City, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Robbins, Sr., Goodell, recently bagged a 170-pound deer, the first one he has brought down in three years that he has hunted with bow and arrow.

Abbott made his kill east of Forest City near Pilot Knob State Park. He shot from a tree stand and killed the deer outright.

Our town has made an amazing recovery from the disaster of a year ago and it would be easy to coast along on our past accomplishments. But, I am sure we all can realize there is much work to be done and new goals to be set.

Belmond has set an outstanding example on how to work together in time of disaster and I believe this team work can be continued to make Belmond a leader and an example. A town, like a business or an industry, can and will grow when proper management, team work and a determination to progress are used as the main ingredients for growth.

With these goals in mind I wish to pledge myself to . . .

. . . be loyal to the city of Belmond of which I have had a humble part in the growth of and hope to now have a part in the governing of. I will do my utmost to be fair to all in working to provide a better community for us to raise our families in and uphold the best interests of the people of Belmond.

. . . cooperate with my fellow council members to the end that we may work as a team for the steady and sound growth of our community.

. . . to give of the best of my talents and the knowledge and management experiences acquired in the building of a sound and progressive business, for the good of all in our community.

Your vote for me for Mayor of the City of Belmond in the November 7 eity election will be greatly appreciated.

Our man with the Armed Forces

Because beer is such a favorite with service men, we brewers like to do all we can to keep its surroundings right. So USBA representatives serve as adviser members of the Armed Forces Disciplinary Control Boards throughout the country.

These men from the USBA operate hand in hand with service and civilian police, with malt beverage licensees, public boards and committees: military, civil, professional. Object: to protect those who are underage, and to insure strict observance of the law.

We're proud of the work they do.

EDITORIALS

But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace. — Ps. 37:11

Sure it's "one thing after another;" always will be

Is it "square" to be one's brother's keeper?

There are those with padlocks on their pants pockets and moths in their wallets who at least pretend to believe so. The "joke" on them, is, that a person never can be wholly certain that he won't be the "brother" some time.

Belmond, we're tremendously proud to say, has relatively few of this ilk.

Just four months after the tornado, Belmond gave more generously to the Heart Fund than any other community in the state! And right on the heels of the disaster, its people found enough odd change dispensible to give support to the annual UNICEF drive — which aids needy children the world over.

Kids with UNICEF coin boxes will soon be making their Halloween rounds again. And even before that, the delayed campaign of that all-important Community Chest will be getting underway.

"If it isn't one thing, it's another," snarl those who are personally offended every time they're approached for money to aid a worthy cause. But those causes and the needs they seek to fill ARE never-ending. The family that feels a responsibility for others than its members conscientiously budgets a regular share of the year's income to be thankfully shared with others less fortunate, to aid national health and charitable programs, to foster important activity programs for young people at home.

There will ALWAYS be "one thing" — and then, still "another." Mark it a privilege to be among those fortunate enough to be "givers" and not "receivers."

Musical by Belmond Theatre group was smash hit

Anyone who missed both performances of "You've Gotta Have Heart" at Luick Memorial Auditorium last week due to anything less than the best sort of excuse should be plagued with regret — and after hearing the enthusiastic reports of the spectators, probably is.

What absentees missed was one of the freshest, funniest entertainments to grace a Belmond stage in many and many a year. Its infrequent "draggy" spots only served to lend added zest to the high spots; and the end result was an evening filled with fun, plus an occasional touch of pathos, that did glorious credit to the Belmond Community Theatre group.

If the skits lacked a degree of professional slickness (and some of them did NOT), the fact contributed to rather than detracted from the effect. There wasn't an ounce of pretense to the whole affair. It was strictly all for fun and fun for all—and most assuredly not among the least in enjoying themselves were the members of the cast.

That the whole thing was conceived as a proposition to raise funds to help finance Tornado Day was commendable, in itself. A skimpy month and a half was all the time available to write the show, cast, costume and rehearse it. It speaks worlds for the combination of abilities melded into the production that it came off as such a resounding hit.

We hesitate to single out any such uproarious highlights as Ed Gabrielson's toothless impersonation of a hillbilly singer, Maxine McVey's side-splitting performance as a member of the mop-lady chorus, or "Doc" Rietz's dilemma with a tree-deprived pooch — because every member of the cast could be given an A-plus and a big red apple for his or her contribution to the evening.

Plaudits should most appropriately include the pleasing background to the proceedings provided by accompanists Jan Kinseth, Ginny Courson and Pat Sweeney.

Rather than satisfying the public's appetite for home talent fare for the time being, there can be no question but what "You've Gotta Have Heart" only whetted that appetite.

It left a suspicion that the theatre group encompasses talents that could be blended into a markedly successful musical show of a more formal nature.

Blessings on the Belmond Community Theatre. We're sure we echo the sentiments of all who enjoyed themselves so immensely last week when we demand . . . "MORE!"

When last Thursday morning's Des Moines Register cartoon indulged in a bit of fantasy by imagining via Frank Miller's pen what Governor Harold Hughes would look like sporting a beard, it incidentally underlined the fact that Hughes is is a mighty hard man to make fun of pictorially.

Possibly he has been the subject of political cartooning in the past — it seems inevitable that he MUST have been — but we can't recall the occasion. Artist Miller's effort with the beard joke made it clear why the governor escapes lampooning. There's just simply nothing funny about the handsome devil's looks.

President Johnson is, of course, a cartoonist's dream. And Ladybird! The lampooners have to exercise positive restraint when they depict the First Lady; because, like the unfortunate Eleanor Roosevelt, Ladybird — with her improbable nose — is a walking, talking caricature in the flesh.

The Register and Mr. Miller, thanks to GOP leanings (that may draw a protest — particularly from Cartoonist Miller) apparent in their general editorial approach, are fortunate in a sense. The existing crop of major Republican office holders from Iowa are a hopeless bunch as cartoon subjects.

Senator Jack Miller's youthful physiognomy might lend itself to the pictorial stature of an anxious-to-please office boy. Bourke Hickenlooper? Nothing there.

Now "Mighty Mite" H. R. Gross is a bit of something different. His banty rooster blusterings (be-it-all that they are occasionally to good point) could be reduced to pen-and-ink ridicule by any adept cartoonist.

But by and large, the Register apparently deems Iowa's Congressional crew unworthy of cartoon consideration; which saves Frank Miller from the chore of finding something funny about a batch of discouragingly bland faces.

We can well imagine that the major cartoonists live in a certain amount of fear that a collar-ad type like Hughes might by an unkind chain of circumstances gain the White House some day. If he does, it's a fair guess that he'll achieve office DESPITE the unanimous, negative vote of the pen-and-ink crusaders who'll be faced with four lean years of grist for their mill.

Clipped Comment

Better buckle up!

The proposition is that driving a car without your seat belt fastened is like driving without brakes. You have only yourself to blame if you go through the windshield.

Oklahoma's Insurance Commissioner, Joe B. Hunt, didn't put it quite that way, to be sure. What he said was that failure to use seat belts could result in inability to collect traffic injury damages.

IN WISCONSIN FAILURE TO fasten a seat belt is called "contributory negligence," and the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled in a recent damage suit that if failure to use a seat belt contributed to the injury, the damage was self-caused, thus reducing or barring the recovery of damages from the other driver.

COMMISSIONER HUNT SAID insurance companies are expected to seek a similar ruling in other states, possibly including Oklahoma.

Good for them. The scandal of the sat-upon seat belt has gone on long enough. Every new car comes equipped with seat belts, by law, but neither warnings from safety experts nor the instinct for self-preservation persuades some people to buckle up.

Tiny TV antennas

There's great news for the American sky-line. A new device designed by an Air Force-attached inventor is spurring 100 or more electronic firms toward commercial development of a small television antenna.

Best of all, the chances are good that the day of these miniature aerials — which might be only 12 inches high — . . . isn't too far off.

Television has brought many modern benefits, but the present antennas that shoot skyward like spindly scarecrows . . . aren't among them. Concerning the smaller ones, we say with a sigh of esthetic relief: The sooner the better. — Buffalo Evening News

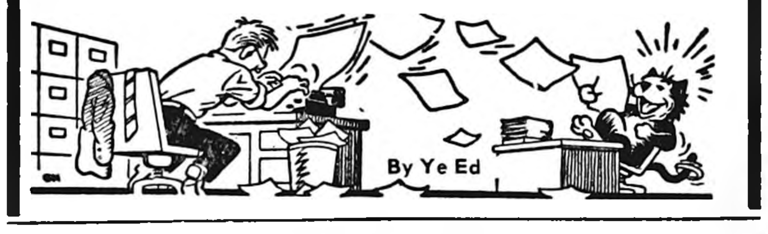
CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



There'd be a considerable amount of reading material miss our attention, were it not for TJ's occasional perusal of matter crossing our desk that is really none of his business. We've about got him trained to let us get first crack at our PERSONAL mail; but we've got to give him credit for stumbling onto items of interest in more routine sources that we'd probably never get around to, but for his nosiness.

Like for instance the other day when he let out a guffaw deliberately intended to derail our train of thought. Having thus gained our attention, he rolled a roguish eye our direction and observed, "You can't beat those Texans for gutsyness!"

Since we were far behind schedule due to the distractions of preparing for Tornado Day, we didn't relish the interruption. With a sigh of resignation, we grumbled, "OK! Give it to us quickly — we're already on the verge of having a Friday paper this coming issue, instead of a Thursday one."

"THIS ARTICLE IN THE SIGMA Delta Chi 'Quill' tells of a Texas newspaperman who has informed his subscribers that news accounts of weddings that deal with the last furbelow on the bride's gown and every other detail of nuptial ceremonies will no longer be published in HIS sheet."

"Wow!" we muttered respectfully. "There, we gotta concede, is a man with guts. We've endlessly wondered if anybody actually reads the seamstress's boringly — to us — complete account of how she gussied up the bride for her trip to the altar.

"It just seems to have developed into one of those 'things that are done;' and if you print it in one wedding account, you're stuck with doing it in all of them. My hat's off to the Texan."

TJ CONTINUED, "THIS BIRD says that in these days when the world is quaking in its boots and news of great significance is regularly swept into File 13 for lack of space, it's sickening to read paragraph after paragraph after paragraph about some little girl changing HER name to HIS.

"To back up his point, he offers this dose . . . 'Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a modified cage dress of silk organza and satin designed with a bateau neckline, half sleeves and a deepened band of Chantilly lace at the hemline. The bodice was adorned with lace trimmed with seed pearls. A lace petal headpiece was held in place by the bride's fingertip veil of illusion . . . ' "

"Desist," we begged the feline. "We get the point. . . . But what especially turns US off is the fact that, with all this folderol about the bride, the groom gets so little mention you hardly know he's there.

"THE MOTHERS ARE PRESENT and their beige ensembles with matching accessories duly accounted for. But the groom — unless he wears a cummerbund, he's DEAD! Might as well be fishing — or show up in a barrel."

TJ snorted with delight, suggesting, "It's a wonder some radiant creature doesn't reach the end of the aisle sometime, emit a polite scream of startlement, and back away from the male figure infringing on the proceedings with a starchy, 'Pardon me!'

"Whereupon the embarrassed intruder will be obliged to tell her, 'Excuse it please, but I happen to be the bridegroom.' — whereupon the star of the act will giggle, 'Oh, I AM sorry! I'd almost forgotten!'

"THIS TEXAS GUY," THE CAT continued, "has a good idea — if details are insisted upon. He suggests, if the bride wants every stitch described to the nth degree, why not cover every inch of clothing she's got on? That at least might give the male readership something to dwell on."

"He's really a mean fellah, isn't he?" we grinned.

"It's his contention," TJ said, with a happy nod of agreement, "that wedding announcements should be run as legal notices — payable in advance by the father of the bride."

"That," we interrupted, "would really seem to be carrying things a bit far. The little dears deserve something a bit better than THAT."

"The problem's going to prevail, that gent insists," TJ summed up, "until these double-ring ceremonies are recognized for what they are. . . . She's getting the one of her finger. He's getting the other in his nose."

Work in fall helps a lot—

Now's time to get licks in to beautify lawn

—By—
Carolyn McLaughlin
Janice Draper

Now is the best time of year to be taking care of your lawn. You might think that just because you can put your mower away that you can forget about your lawn until next spring. This is very much untrue.

The fall of the year is the best time to apply fertilizers and weed killers. In the accompanying picture are Julie Kinseth and Terry Boyd demonstrating the fertilizer applicator and knapsack sprayer.

This device enables the user to fertilize his lawn and kill the weeds at the same time. The results will show up in the spring on this lawn in front of the bus barn. The applicator was used on it about two weeks ago.

Use lawn fertilizer

If a few bare spots result in the spring, this can be taken care of very easily. Prepare a seed-bed by mixing in a small amount of a lawn brand fertilizer, then smooth the area with a garden rake. Sod can be laid on then to give a more uniform appearing lawn.

A good dense, healthy, vigorous turf is the first line of defense against lawn weeds. This doesn't mean that you lawn will be immune to weeds or that they won't come up if the seeds become planted.

Weeds continuing to grow, such an dandelions, mouse-ear and chickweed, can usually be killed by several applications of 2-4D.

Spraying in fall best

Spraying in the fall also eliminates the risk of killing your trees. Since they become dormant in the fall, there is less chance of killing them than there is in the spring when they are blossoming out.

Each year you should remove fallen tree leaves and generally give the lawn a thorough clean-up. This is a good practice to follow, as the removal of an accumulation of leaves and grass clippings can eliminate many problems.

If possible, rake the lawn in both spring and fall. Select a time when the soil has dried sufficiently to avoid excessive soil compaction.

Power rakes convenient

You can use hand raking equipment or one of the power lawn rakes that are available from a garden supply store or rental agency.

The use of power rakes or vertical mowers or thinning machines will make it easier to remove thatch and accumulations of grass clippings. This removes tree leaves, too, preventing smothering of the grass during the winter and spring months.

If you use a rotary lawn mower to mulch leaves, be careful not to add to a thatch problem.

If you're jealous of the lawn next to yours, you shouldn't be.

Easy steps can be followed to improve the looks of your lawn. The reason simply may be that your neighbor knows the amount of moisture his lawn should have in a year and supplements that from rainfall, if necessary. Don't let the neighbors make you look like you don't know how to care for your lawn.

The BHS students in the landscaping class have learned to improve the home by the outward look. We would like the people of Belmond to consider the things we have mentioned and take care of the necessities that will enable Belmond to beautify itself.

Pat Stokke wins UNI merit award

CEDAR FALLS (Special) — The University of Northern Iowa art department has announced the names of 26 merit award winners in the 1967 High School Summer Art Institute held in August on the UNI campus.

The institute was attended by 74 high school artists from throughout the state who each exhibited several pieces of art, including paintings, prints and crafts.

Studio classes in painting, printmaking, sculpture, jewelry, crafts, photography and drawing were held; and art films and slide-lectures by professional artists were also presented.

In addition to Miss Stokke, David Paule also attended the institute from Belmond.

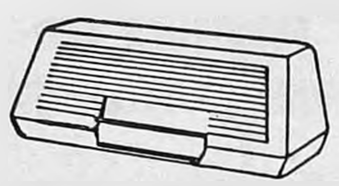
YOUR OWN PERSONAL

POCKET STAMP



PERMA-STAMP — the pocket stamp that goes wherever you go — neat and clean — ready for instant use WITHOUT AN INK PAD!
Your light-weight PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp is perfect as a personal signature stamp . . . a time-saving check endorsement stamp . . . or a name and address stamp for imprinting envelopes, identifying books and other personal or household items.
Every impression is crisp and clean — as if it came off a printing press. Smallest details and finest lines are reproduced with consistent clarity and cleanliness.
Best of all, a PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp costs little more than an old-fashioned rubber stamp.

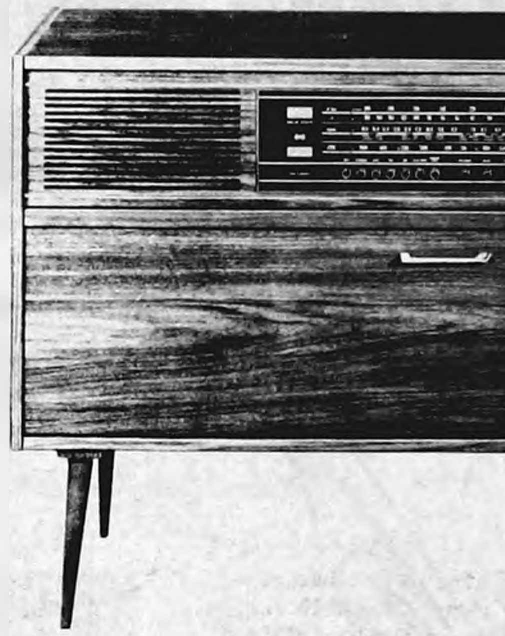
Want to be a Great Salesman Own a GRUNDIG STEREO

- 10 hi-fi speakers, front and side mounted
- Dual 1010 automatic changer with diamond needle
- FM/AM/SW tuner
- Top-loader record player
- Separate AM - FM Tuning
- Hand-finished Scandinavian-type wood cabinet with compartment for tape recorder and records
- Tape deck space provided for Grundig TM-245
- Multiplex automatic decoder built in



GRUNDIG owners have sure been successful salespeople. They send customers in all the time. Some tell of the fine old-world craftsmanship.

Some are technical and explain all that extra special GRUNDIG circuitry.

Many GRUNDIGS are sold as a result of someone seeing and hearing a GRUNDIG in someone else's home.

Watch your mail, you may get a lucky number to take to your GRUNDIG participating dealer in this area. Some people have and will win completely free stereos. Others will get an opportunity any stereo prospect should be very happy to get. More GRUNDIGS out mean more GRUNDIG SALES.

TRADING AT HOME IS TO YOUR ADVANTAGE

There is no need to let a dressmaker sell you your wedding invitations and announcements. Your "home-town" newspaper is where you expect wedding pictures, detailed wedding write-ups, stories of showers and receptions to be used . . . and we are glad to print them. The out-of-towner gives you none of this. Think it over . . . if a wedding is in your plans for the near future, we'll be happy to work with you for exactly the correct style in printing, thermography or engraving.

What was a fairly dull game in which Belmond was convincingly trimming Garner, but making no particular show of it, turned into a touchdown parade in the final four and a half minutes as a 17-7 lead for the Broncos turned into a 38-20 Homecoming victory here Friday night.

Much the better football was produced by the first 43-plus minutes of the battle, which saw Belmond push into a commanding 24-7 advantage with 4:24 showing on the clock. The score came on a pass, Don, Havens to Jim Studebaker, covering eight yards. From there on, things did get a little bit wild as four touchdowns were pushed across in a period of one minute and 35 seconds.

The Broncos made it 31-7 when the Blue-and-White subs entered the fray with about three minutes remaining and the ball on Garner's 15 — then notched a marker on a 20-yard pass play from Lennie Johnson to Bill Broshar.

Formanek tightens score

Speedy Dave Formanek found the Belmond reserves easy pickin's and on the first play after the ensuing kickoff raced 82 yards to make the count 31-14, John Mattis kicking the conversion.

Coach Chuck Stalker returned the Bronco regulars to the field, after that turn of events, and Garner attempted an unsuccessful on-side kickoff that went only to the Cards' 45. On the first running play, Don Havens passed to Lee Barkema and Belmond was on the board again to make it 38-14.

Again the Bronco substitutes took over after the kickoff, and again Formanek put on a one-man show. This time he took a short pass from Mike Barz and rambled 78 yards for another tally. That wound things up at 38-20 as Mattis sent the conversion kick wide. It also made a deceiving set of statistics for the game, showing Garner with 307 yards gained to Belmond's 387 whereas 160 of the Cardinals' total came on Formanek's two sprints against the reserves.

Somewhat more authentic as a measure of team difference was the first downs posted — 16 for Belmond and just three for Garner. But despite that disparity, Coach Gary Kubik's chargers clearly came to play and showed up the best of any Garner team in the past several years.

Belmond scored without losing the ball after the opening kickoff, but did it the hard way. Stan Korthas had returned the boot to the Bronco 30 and two 15-yard penalities were assessed against Belmond enroute to the goal line. That made the Broncos cover a total of 100 yards, which they did in 16 plays.

Paulo Canineu split the uprights with his first of five successful conversions during the evening — and in the second quarter he added a field goal to give him eight points for the night.

En route to that first tally, a 55-yard pass effort — Don Havens to Terry Nelson — that apparently yielded a TD was called back due to a personal foul; but it only delayed matters a bit. Rick Hawley finally hugged the ball over from the three.

On the third play following, Formanek outsprinted the Bronco secondary on an end sweep and scored from 21 yards out. Mattis kicked the point to tie the score at 7-all.

Once again, following the Garner kickoff, Belmond conducted a sustained march — this time going 65 yards for the go-ahead marker. It came on a seven-yard pass advance, Havens to Nelson.

As play resumed in the second half, Nelson snagged a Garner pass and returned the ball to the Cards' 34. A pass interference penalty against the visitors made it 1st-and-10 on the 16; but the Broncos then proceeded to draw a pair of illegal procedure slaps and with 4th-and-14 at the 19-yard line Canineu was sent in for a field goal try. It was a perfect effort, making the count 17-7.

Near the end of the third quarter, Belmond had a 1st-and-10 on Garner's 25 but the Cards tok over on downs on the 22. An exchange of 15-yard penalities as the final stanza started launched the Broncos on a 62-yard scoring march that was climaxed by the Havens-to-Studebaker pass mentioned earlier. Then came the deluge.

Belmond's superiority is indicated by the fact that the Broncos had possession of the ball for twice as many plays as Garner, approximately 80 to 40.

Hawley carries 25 times

Rick Hawley was the workhorse of the evening. The hard-driving Bronco fullback carried 25 times and gained a net of 118 yards for a 4.7 average. Mike Klinefelter was held pretty well under control, but nevertheless netted 61 yards on 17 tries for a 3.6 average. Formanek, with the help of his 82-yard burst averaged nearly 15 yards on nine attempts and with his long pass gain had 211 yards for the night — all but 96 of the Cardinals' total.

Havens connected on nine out of 15 passes for the game, to help keep the Bronco offense moving. Gene Pals, Greg Fuller and Dennis Knoll paced what was a generally tough Belmond defense.

Kanawha retains North Star lead

Kanawha's Bulldogs all but got a hammerlock on their third, consecutive North Star conference football championship by swamping Klemme last Friday night 47-0 to remain unbeaten in NSC play.

Norm Baker's flashing running again was a big factor as he scored on romps of 43, 25 and 17 yards and again went over from the one. Paul Christians got into the act with punt run-backs of 60 and 50 yards; and Steve Rietema flipped 10 yards to Larry Johnson for the other counter. Ron Liter kicked five conversions.

Sheffield and Boone Valley continued in a tie for the runner-up spot with 35-0 and 27-19 victories, respectively, over Meservey-Thornton and Ventura. CAL gained a 3rd-place tie with Ventura by nuding Corwith-Wesley on scoring runs of four and six yards by John Parks.

Coach Bob Erickson's Kanawhans have only CAL at home and Ventura and Meservey-Thornton still to meet on the road, with only Ventura figuring to provide much trouble.

A couple of young ladies who foresaw that Garner might rack up three or more touchdowns against Belmond here Friday night split the prize money based on the Homecoming contest. Darlene Meyer registered a guess of 33-24 for Belmond, which was a total of nine points off the mark. Diane Zeiger's crystal ball said 40-27 for the Broncs, which was also nine points in error. Truth to tell, the men didn't do too good a job of prognisticating where the Bronco-Cardinal fray was concerned. Next after the winners were a couple of feminine sports fans — Alice Busick and Susan Havens each with 34-14 for Belmond and 10 points off the right score.

Belmond's junior high gridders finally broke into the win column, Wednesday afternoon of last week, and did so with a vengence by drubbing Garner 33 to 0 on the Chix' home field.

Ken Robbins did all the first-half scoring, going over from 25 yards and then from 23, Jim Just running both extra points to make the halftime count 14-0

Steve Burt then took over scoring duties, rambling 30 yards for a third-quarter score and going 47 yards in the final stanza. Neither conversion attempt was good.

Ben Fuller accounted for the Colts' last TD on a three-yard plunge and also carried for the extra point.

II FIELD FORCE VIETNAM (10), Long Binh — In 1965 the American advisory in Vietnam celebrated its first anniversary in the program of placing advisory teams at the district level in Vietnam. When one of the advisors was asked to sum up his year's experience, he replied, "It was a great year, especially the three times that a Vietnamese regiment had to help us fight our way into the district."

Times have changed. So much in fact that in the district of Trang Bang, 30 miles northeast of Saigon, the strong VC force has been whittled down to squad and smaller groups. The district senior advisor is a civilian, Thomas J. Medlock; Staff Sergeant Patrick M. Dillon of Belmond is the security advisor.

Until recently, the U. S. military and civilian USAID advisory efforts were loosely coordinated. Today, the two efforts are closely woven into a single team. The basic plan calls for the military to provide security while the civilian aid agencies help the people build their economy, government and public service programs.

In Trang Bang district, the military did their job so well that now the civilian programs and manangement are being put in the driver's seat. Throughout the district, small cottage shops have been re-opened.

In one village, almost the entire population works producing kitchen knives, hatchettes and balance scales. In a nearby village, the local priest is teaching rabbit ranching. Animal husbandry and crop production is on the rise. Trang Bang itself even has a popsicle factory!

With the presence of ARVN and US battalions operating in the area for the past year, the main road to Saigon is heavily traveled by commercial traffic. But until recently the district was cut in two by a bridge blown by the VC in 1963. Today that bridge has been rebuilt and the road rebuilt to handle light vehicles even during the rainy season.

Sergeant Dillon is a familiar sight to the villagers of Trang Bang as he travels about the countryside. He is continually on the go, checking on the progress of the numerour projects: bridges, market places, road repair, schools.

The number of projects completed and underway would make impressive reading . . . if statistics told the story. But as those who work and live with the Vietnamese in the outlying countryside know, "Figures on a chart will never refuse to harbor a VC or tell us of his plans. Only a man who is convinced that peace and progress lies with the Government will do that."

Or put it more simply, "A man who has something to lose, has something to fight for."

THIS WAS THE SPOT where Postal Carrier Maynard Holmgaard lay for more than five hours following last October's tornado, almost wholly concealed by a grain bin that wrapped around the tree in the Leslie Whipple yard at 316 Second avenue SE by which Mailman Holmgaard is kneeling. He was just a block south and one west of his own home when the disaster brought his Oct. 14th mail deliveries to an abrupt halt. Accompanying photograph shows type of grain bin — presumably from Farmers Grain company — that clobbered Maynard. It came to a halt after colliding with a telephone pole and car a block or so to the east of where Maynard came to grief.

After being listed tornado victim, M. Holmgaard on road to recovery

"No sign of Maynard yet?" was a question heard a hundred times — perhaps, literally, hundreds of times — during a span of anguished hours a year ago last Saturday as search parties combed tornado rubble looking for the last suspected casualty of the disaster of Oct. 14th.

Six names were on the list of known dead, persons whose lives had been snuffed out by the roaring wind that levelled millions of dollars' worth of Belmond property.

It speaks for the sort of fellow that Maynard Holmgaard is that time and again after friends or family members had exchanged answers to "Where were YOU?" that the next question was, "Have they found Maynard?"

Vaguely recalls hail

The friendly, smiling mail carrier was hurrying through his delivery route in the south part of town when the twister churned into town. His lone, vague recollection of that awful moment when disaster struck is of hail bouncing off the bill of his deliveryman's cap. Then . . . nothing.

Clocks throughout Belmond pointed silently to the hour it happened, 2:55 p. m. Within minutes, the search for victims was anxiously on. Demolished homes and business places were carefully investigated and gave up their injured — in a few cases, their dead.

But night fell, and the whereabouts of the popular postman remained a mystery. The path of his route was covered . . . again, and again, and again. It was five hours after Maynard had been scurrying to complete his rounds before the rain could catch him that three firemen from Humboldt cast their flashlight beams on a large grain bin draped awkwardly around a tree in the Leslie Whipples' front yard at 316 Second avenue SE.

Just who it was — Roger Day, Fred Funk, W. E. Stow — Maynard doesn't to this day know. Searchers had repeatedly beaten the same path; but this time, one flashlight beam fell on a nearly concealed shoe. An excited, closer look revealed another shoe. They were occupied; and there, as last, was Maynard.

At the Belmond Community hospital, it was quickly found that a devastating injury to the back of his head has caused such an extreme loss of blood that a test registered no blood pressure whatever.

As Plasma dripped steadily into Maynard's veins and doctors worked feverishly to sustain a spark of life, the rumor circulated time and again that the tornado's toll was up to seven. Maynard Holmgaard, too, had died.

Each time the rumor was corrected faces broke into smiles. Meanwhile, the fight for the mailman's life went on.

Worked on till 7:00 a.m.

As an ambulance sped him to Mason City where he could get the attention of specialists a crisis occurred when the flow of plasma temporarily ceased. But the lifegiving fluid then resumed its course into the thirsty veins and Maynard arrived at Mercy hospital in a condition no better — but at least no worse — than when the trip was undertaken.

Doctors worked steadily over the horribly injured man until 7:00 o'clock the next morning, when emergency procedures to get him past the gravest crisis had met success. Then came a time of prayerful waiting to see if he would continue to hold his own, and progress to a point of perceptible improvement.

For a week Maynard lay in a coma. He knows of that anguishing period of time only what he's been told by his wife, Helen. But the weekend following the disaster found him feebly aware of his surroundings and the faces he saw passing by his bed.

Besides the injury to his head, his right arm had been so severely damaged by the ripping metal of the demolished bin that the doctors could only speculate whether the member could be saved — or whether amputation would be necessary.

It was not until Nov. 18, a month and four days after the tornado, that his general physical condition had sufficiently improved that surgery could be undertaken to preserve the arm. Bone from his hip was borrowed to be pinned to the shattered bone in his upper arm. It looked not only as if Maynard would "make it," but as if the arm might be salvaged, too.

Maynard was still no more than partially aware of the battle that had been going on in the hope of returning him home a whole man — or at least, a man entitled to hope that he might one time be whole again.

That rap on the head has deprived his mind of almost all recollection of the month that followed the storm. He remembers readily enough, though, the day he was permitted to return to his family. It was Nov. 28th, his 44th birthday.

Vision, balance affected

Maynard's vision had been seriously affected and he saw things as through a dense fog. Then, as the world about him brightened, he found that his distance perspective left him unable to tell if an approaching car was a block away — or 25 feet away. "Tunnel vision," he was told.

Now, not only is his distance judgment mending but he is able to read more and more extensively. The "fog," he says, has dwindled to merely a thin haze.

A disturbed sense of balance that gave him some rather nasty spills before he adjusted to it is also steadily improving. His speech, which was painfully halting and found him often grasping futilely for words that impishly eluded him, has returned almost to normal.

Maynard works with that arm, too. At first almost useless, regular exercise of various natures has made it a pretty useful piece of equipment once again.

"The Lord spared me"

During his long period of recuperation that now stretches back a full year, Maynard has refused to become discouraged. Never a particularly religious person, except to have faith that a Supreme Being has a hand in the way the world wags, Maynard accepts simply that the Lord chose to spare him and helped bring about his recovery.

In mid-December he is to return to Mason City for examination by the doctor who was principally responsible for his treatment when, hardly half alive, he was rushed to Mercy hospital what seems like ages ago. Maynard is anxious to go back to work, "just as soon as I can do the job right."

This does not mean, doing it "after a fashion," Maynard emphasizes with a grin. Then he goes on to explain that a nurse who had the care of him much of the time he was in Mason City used to chuckle

Twister prompted many transfers of land here

Ask a typical realtor in a typical Iowa town of 2,500 how many land transfers he might expect to take place in a year's time and the odds are very great that he would not guess 130.

That, however, is the number that took place in a period of about 50 weeks in Belmond between the last week in October of last year and the first week in the same month of this year.

It was a busy real estate year! Helping matters along no little bit, of course, was the rearrangement of a large amount of local property by the tornado that rampaged through Belmond just a year ago last Saturday — Oct. 14.

Not all of the transactions, by any means, developed as a direct result of the disaster. On the other hand, probably a majority of them did.

Last spring, The Independent published all the deed transfers pertaining to Belmond property recorded at Clarion between the date of the tornado and March 9.

Recorder Marje Mishler has kindly provided The Independent with the transfers that have been recorded since the latter date up to Oct. 7. If the dates appear out of order in some instances, that is due to the date of filing.

Here are the deed transfers for approximately the past seven months:

3-13 — Ethel Papousek to Amedeo B. Rossi and Don J. Barbieri for $1.00 plus other valuable consideration, W 2/3 of Lot 2, Blk 24, Original Town of Belmond.

2-21 — H. C. and Neva Hansen to Donald J. and Alpha J Olson for $1-plus, W 1/3 of Lot 1, Blk. 24, Original Town of Belmond.

2-21 — R. W. Courson et al and Methodist Church of Belmond to Donald J. and Alpha Olson for $1-plus, W 1/3 of Lot 1, Blk. 24, Original Town of Belmond.

3-16 — Iliah Sorenson to Cleatis J Harty for $1-plus, Lot 1, Blk. 21, Railroad Addition.

3-31 — Colonial Homes, Inc., to Kenneth R. and Constance Schmale for $1-plus, Lot 1 in Bel Chris Manor Addition.

3-10 — Russell J. and Maxine Dorr to Patrick Quigley for $1-plus, portion of Lot 2, Blk. 16, Railroad Addition and parcel of adjoining land lying west of Rock Island railroad right-of-way.

4-21 — Anna and Bert Lauen and Marie H. Lauen to Larry R. and Vicki L. Hansen for $1-plus, Lot 1 except E 28 ft. in Blk. 3, Bartholomew's Addition.

4-25 — Anna M. Soma to Sylvia E. Soma for $10,000, a tract of land in Blk. 7, Luick's Addition.

4-20 — Ethel Papousek to Belmond Industrial Development Corp. for $1-plus, N½ of Lots 1 and 2, Blk. 21, Original Town.

4-29 — Gordon and Sharon Morris to Harold D. and Celestia F. Loden for $1-plus, Lot 4, Blk. 2, Eastgate Addtion.

5-1 — Sena Ziska to Belmond Industrial Development Corp. for $5,350, S½ of Lots 7 and 8, Blk. 23, Original Town.

11-26-'66 — Lloyd C. and Grace Ridge to Lyle H. and Frances M. White for $1-plus, E 60 ft. of Lot 3, Blk. 19, Morse Brothers Addition.

5-3 — Spahn & Rose Lumber Co. to Jerry D. and Jerrilea J. Kaduce for $1-plus, Lot 5, O'Larry Addition.

4-27 — Walter W. and Vivian Saunders to Donald M. and Dona L. Cleveland for $1-plus, Lot 1 in O'Larry Addtion.

5-4 — Rex W. and Juanita E. Elphic to George H. and Janet M. Crawford for $1-plus, Lot 6, Blk. 14, Railroad Addition.

4-21 — R. W. and Virginia E. Courson to Kenneth W. and Janice R. Ollinger for $1-plus, Lot 3, Blk. 8, Town of Belmond.

4-26 — Carroll A. and Jeanne Bamford to Ted D. and Wanetta B. Behrends for $1-plus, E 60 ft. of N½ of Lot 2, Blk. 12, Morse Brothers Addition.

5-1 — Emma Johnson to Russell J. and Marvis Tideback for $1-plus, Lot 2 and portion of Lot 3, Blk. 1, Bartholomew's Addition.

● Holmgaard—

Not given to pessimism

Anxious to learn how he was improving, she would ask, could he now do "this" . . . or "that." And refusing to acknowledge pessimism, Maynard would reply with tempered enthusiasm, "After a fashion."

Now, resting the better part of three whole fingers in that dent in his skull to show where the bin "got him" and pumping his right arm to demonstrate how nicely it's coming along, Maynard is ready to speak confidently of his outlook for the future.

Maynard is making it — and you know he WILL make it . . . a lot better than just "after a fashion."

CHANGE OF SCENE hasn't really done much for the Belmond post office in the year that has passed since it fell in a heap (right). Its next location, shown below, is across the street from the city hall. That has received approval of the postal department; but the powers-that-be have so far not come forth with plans and specifications for the new building, and solication of bids for erection of the building awaits formulation of those plans. One thing WAS accomplished. Patrons, in general, weren't too happy with the old highway location and the approved, new location should prove more satisfactory — when, as and if it gets a post office on it.

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

This item could perhaps have gone in the editorial column. But since we're dubious about the extent of readership that the editorials receive and know for sure that Main Street is read much more extensively, we decided this is the place for it. (Now don't you go away!) It hit us with a "bang" between the eyes when we read in last Thursday's Globe-Gazette that Mason City's public school employees AVERAGED giving $23.69 toward the Community Chest. All told, the school system contributed $14,475 to the Chest — compared to $9,951 a year ago.

Of course, the M. C. Chest budget is ever so much larger than Belmond's; but since all things are relative, the remarkable giving of those civic-minded school folks across the way nevertheless has pertinence to the Belmond Chest and the sort of giving it'll take to achieve the LOCAL goal.

We are NOT pointing an accusing finger at local school personnel (school people the nation over averaged $12.16 per capita in Chest giving last year — which our teachers, etc., COULD perhaps use as a guide). We think it would be valid for ALL Belmond contributors to our own Chest to consider the Mason City example. Donations of $5 and $10 from a comfortable family income do NOT suffice to fulfill our local responsibility toward 11 worthy organizations and activities. PLEASE bear this in mind when you're called on. We simply MUST "give ENOUGH for ALL!"

YE Ed went over to Mason City on Saturday night to see how Rich Koolbeck is doing as North Iowa Area Community college's football coach. The answer is, "Mighty well." NIAC's Trojans have lost a couple of games, to nationally rated Ellsworth and unbeaten North Centeral (Fort Dodge), by modest margins. They racked Norfolk (Neb.) on Saturday, 75 to 14! Ex-Broncos showed up well. Rich Stadtlander, as reserve quarterback, scored a TD and passed for another; Dave Dirks, 1st-string center and linebacker, intercepted a pass and grabbed a Norfolk fumble. Pat Axeltine saw reserve action at guard.

Ever stop to wonder what your chances are of "outliving" an ordinary life insurance policy? The Lutheran Brotherhood Insurance society has had just two out of a million policyholders outlive such a contract in the firm's 50-year history. The second was August Pralle of rural Latimer, who achieved the distinction by reaching age 96 last May 26th.

Actuarial tables, which measure life expectancy at all ages, end for the type of "whole life" contract Mr. Pralle had purchased when he reached that 96th birthday.

Lutheran Brotherhood had a bit of a doin's for the retired farmer last Friday in the form of a family dinner at the Gold Key restaurant, Hampton. Among the guests were the insured's pastor, Rev. Orlan Zuberbier of Latimer's St. Paul's Lutheran church. A. Herbert Nelson, the insurance society's president, came all the way from Minneapolis to attend.

At the regular Lions club meeting on Wednesday evening of last week, Treasurer Marc Ihm reported receipt of a check for $685 representing money donated in Clarion following last year's tornado to assist with the the community's recovery. A deeply appreciated gesture! The Lions now have on time deposit a sum exceeding $3,000 still to be expended on civic projects having relation to the tornado. Several are under consideration, but the funds likely will be held in escrow for their intended purpose until next spring.

"Because only too often, 'a prophet is not without honor save in her own home town'," wrote G. C. Long, Jr., executive secretary of the Alabama Hospital association, to The Independent, "we want all the people of Belmond to know of the outstanding contribution we have from Mrs. R. H. Gowdy and the high regard in which we hold her. Our thanks to you for making it possible for us to know this very fine lady."

Mr. Long's note received last weekend was prompted by Miriam Gowdy's appearance on Tuesday through Friday of last week at four workshops conducted by the AHA for the benefit of Alabama hospital auxiliaries.

The southern gentleman explained, "The purpose of this brief note is to let you know that Iowa could not have a better ambassador to Alabama than Mrs. Gowdy. We only hope that we have been able to give her in return a portion of what we have received from her." Now THERE is praise that should warm the cockles of ANYBODY'S heart! We gather that Miriam cemented north-south relations in a most commendable manner.

Leroy Jenison recently got a letter from his daughter, Rosemary Gillen, reporting that in September she enjoyed an eight-day holiday from her duties in Spain and spent the time in England. Three days she had a chance to visit her daughter Vicky, who was spending a couple of months in England with a teacher and her family.

Rosemary was quite smitten by the beauty of the country and the lovely gardens. A week, she added, isn't enough time to see the sights of London.

"Except for the fact that they have quite a bit of rain and gloomy weather, I believe I would like to live there for a while some time during my life," said Rosemary's letter. Vicky, age nine, had a big time — learned to ride a bike, milk a cow, and "did all sorts of things she can't do in a crowded city."

Junior Future Farmers' program has as goal safer corn harvest

If farmers of the Belmond area don't get through the corn harvest season with all arms, legs, fingers and toes in their proper places it will not be for lack of admonition to "play it safe."

A newly-formed junior chapter of the Belmond Future Farmers of America has taken upon itself the responsibility for conducting a Safe Corn Harvest program to that end.

Members are traveling from farm to farm urging participation in the program. A nod of agreement from a farmer gets him a sticker to place on his corn-harvesting machine to serve as a continual reminder that "safety pays."

On the family mailbox goes a sign identifying the residents of the farm as "A Cooperating Family — FFA Safe Corn Harvest Program." There is also a placard to go on the dining table to keep the housewife reminded of her duties in helping get her man — or men, if there are also sons — safely through the harvest season.

Keith Carlson, FFA advisor and high school vo-ag teacher, says the boys hope to make participation in the program as comprehensive as possible.

He comments, "If this program saves so much as a finger — to say nothing of an arm, a leg or a life — it will be more than worth the effort that these young Future Farmers are putting into it."

Services Friday for Nell Delaney

Funeral services will be conducted Friday morning at 9:00 o'clock at St. Francis Catholic church for Nellie Julia Delaney, 80, a native of Belmond who died Sunday at St. Francis hospital, Crookston, Minn., after a lengthy illness. Earlier rites were held Wednesday at Crookston.

Rev. R. A. Ormsby will officiate over the services here, with Fulton Funeral Home in charge. Pallbearers will be Roger Keppers of Eagle Grove, Jack McLaughlin, James W. Barry, Ira Studebaker, Tom Quigley and Otto Dorr. Burial will be in the St. Francis cemetery.

Born here Dec. 11, 1886, daughter of Dennis H. and Mary (Sullivan) Delaney, Miss Delaney graduated from Belmond High school and later attended Rockwell Academy at Rockwell.

For many years she taught in Wright county rural schools and after that in the public school at Thornton. She left Belmond in 1947, after the death of a brother, Leo, with whom she'd made her home. Since then she had lived at Crookston with a sister, Mrs. Guy (Loretta) Milligan.

Mrs. Milligan is the deceased's only immediate survivor.

GREENS EXPRESS THANKS TO TORNADO-TIME FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Green held open house a week ago Sunday for those people who had helped them clean up a year ago after their home was demolished by the tornado.

Those who were able to accept the invitation included. Mr. and Mrs. Merle Miller of Thornton, Mrs. Hubert Miller and Clifford Miller of Hampton and the Gerald Van Langens family of Webster City.

Also the Harold Cunningham family of Goodell, the Lee Robbins, Jr., family and the Leland Barkema family.

Hello, World!

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wenzel, Jr., have named their new son Craig Sam. He was born Oct. 19 and weighed 8 lbs. 13 oz.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Baker received word of the birth of twin great grandsons on Oct. 20. The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lee Baker of Hillsboro, Kan., weighed in at six and seven pounds and were named Donnie and Ronnie.

A daughter, Jolynn Kaye, was born Oct. 22 to Mr. and Mrs. James Staley of Rowan. She weighed 6 lbs. 1½ oz.

Conferences set for elementary grades Nov. 3rd

Principal Owen Bateson notes that parent-teachers conferences pertaining to students in the Belmond Community School district elementary grades will be held Friday of next week.

An exception will be that the parents of kindergarteners at Ramsay Elementary will have their conferences on Thursday. There will be no classes for those youngsters on Thursday; the other elementary pupils will be free of classes all day Friday.

Mr. Bateson urges parents to make a point of being on time for their conference appointments, as a tight schedule has been set. Fifteen minutes is reserved for each conference.

Junior high and high school parent-teacher conferences will be a week later, on Nov. 10-11.

SEE UNI FRESHMEN WIN

Mr. and Mrs. "Coonie" Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Steenblock attended a football game Monday evening at Cedar Falls between the University of Northern Iowa freshmen and Luther college of Decorah. The score was 54-0 in favor of UNI. Wayne Smith and Les Steenblock play on the UNI freshman team.

Planning-zoning duties related—

Commission plays key role in city's future

(The following article was prepared for publication by Paul Jensen of Mason City, consulting engineer who has been working with the Belmond planning and zoning commission in drafting of immediate and future plans for the city of Belmond.)

Amid the activity of reconstruction in Belmond during the past year, 13 local citizens have been quietly working for the future improvement of the city of Belmond. The city planning and zoning commission, headed by Chairman C. C. Christie, has been meeting regularly with a consulting planner to discuss plans for the future of Belmond. The Mason City consultant engineering firm of Wallace, Holland, Kastler and Schmitz, was chosen by the planning commission to assist in this work.

At a meeting Wednesday of last week, the planning commission reviewed proposed amendments and additions to the Belmond zoning ordinance and subdivision ordinance. The planning commission intends to retain as much of the language and form of the present ordinances as is possible. The goal is to clarify these ordinances to make them more easily understood by the general public.

One of the major amendments is the addition of another zoning district (F—Flood Plain) to the zoning ordinance. The purpose of this district is to reduce property damage to a minimum and guard against the loss of life in time of flood on the Iowa river by regulating the kind of land development permitted within the flood channel of the river. Permitted uses would include parks and recreational facilities, stables, agricultural uses, extraction of minerals and similar uses.

Another proposed amendment is to the zoning district map. The proposed land use plan for Belmond has been revised by the planning commission to better conform to the land development which has taken place since the first comprehensive development plan was prepared for Belmond in 1959. Accordingly, a new zoning district map will be prepared to reflect the changes in the new comprehensive development plan for Belmond.

At its next meeting to be held on Nov. 5, the planning commission will review the proposed capital improvements program for Belmond.

A capital improvements plan guides construction or purchase of major public needs of the community. The order of acquisition is based on the priority of need and the ability of the community to pay. The capital improvements program includes a schedule for the purchase and construction of specific items during the next fiscal year, a more general schedule for items to be purchased or constructed during the next six years, and an overall list of community projects for the next 20 years.

The capital improvement planning program includes the review of the fiscal financial status of the city, the current indebtedness of the city and the life of that indebtedness, together with future sources of revenue.

The proposed improvements include items varying from a new truck for the street department, the new river park development and improvements to the water treatment plant, to a new rescue unit for the fire department.

The purpose of the capital improvements program is to assist the city council in forecasting the needs of the community and the amount of money required to meet those needs. By looking into the future, the planning commission and the city council can choose the most important items to be purchased first, with the less important to be deferred for future acquisition.

When these proposals have been approved and adopted by the planning commission, they will be forwarded to the Belmond city council with a recommendation that they be adopted for the city by the council.

Members of the planning commission in addition to Chairman Christie are: Mrs. A. C. Lieuwen, Mrs. Russell Schaal, Gene Griffin, Don Faris, Dr. A. M. Larson, Larry Flanagan, Ellis Elliott, Russell Reasoner, C. N. Hildebrand A. W. Loats, O'Larry Dorr and R. H. Gowdy. The terms of the last three named officially expired in September, so they are due for reappointment or replacement.

Funeral services of Merle Obrecht at Trinity church

Funeral services for Merle Obrecht, 47, were held Tuesday afternoon of last week at the Trinity Lutheran church with Rev. Oscar Laaveg officiating and Johnston Funeral Home in charge.

Military rites accompanied burial in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Walter Boyd, Elden Boyd, Orville Boyd, LaVerne Dickenson, Francis Ainger and Phillip Lowenberg. Honorary pallbearers were Harm Meyers, Harm Gruis, Bob Greenwood, Clarence Fleener, Don Stoffer and Frank Pruisman.

Died at Vet's hospital

Mr. Obrecht died on Friday, Oct. 13, at the Veterans' hospital at Des Moines, where he had been a patient for two weeks. He had been in declining health for a period of months due to a heart ailment.

Born at Belmond on Oct. 24, 1919, Merle W. Obrecht was the son of Charles and Orah Obrecht. He received his education in the local schools and graduated from Belmond High school in 1939. He distinguished himself as a versatile athlete during his high school career.

During World War II he served in the U. S. Air Force. He was married on Nov. 24, 1944, to Mabel Boyd. Four children were born to them: Sandra, now Mrs. Tom Grimm of Stewartville, Minn.; Gary, Midwest City, Okla.; Rozella and Paula, at home.

Was Central Soya employee

Mr. Obrecht was a long-time employee of General Mills and following lease and purchase of its facilities here by Central Soya had worked for the latter.

Surviving the deceased in addition to his wife and children are three grandchildren, Tommy and Chad Grimm and Michele Obrecht; two brothers, Edward of Belmond and Harold of Des Moines; and three sisters, Mrs. Vernon Swenson of Belmond, Mrs. E. L. South of Omaha and Mrs. W. L. Brown of California.

His parents, two brothers and a sister preceded Mr. Obrecht in death.

Hospital Notes

Entering for surgery on Oct. 18 were Mrs. Byron Ruter of Kanawha, Mrs. Dean Bruns of Alexander and David Beenen. James McMurray entered for medical treatment and Scott Grady of Klemme was an accident patient.

Entering for medical treatment on Oct. 20 were Elmer Hopkey of Alexander, Walter Lemke of Klemme, William Walrod and Mrs. Anna Gabrielson.

On Oct. 23 Mrs. Martha Hasty of Kanawha entered for medical treatment.

School directors to pick delegates to state assembly

Members of school boards from throughout Wright county will meet Wednesday evening of next week at 8:00 o'clock to elect two delegates and two alternates to represent this county at the annual delegate assembly of the Iowa Association of School Boards at Des Moines on Nov. 16.

Chief topic at the meeting, to be held at the Clarion junior high school, will be "Professional Negotiations and Relations" as the subject pertains to public school teachers.

A three-man panel will discuss the topic, including Luin Cox, member of the Belmond school board. The other panel members will be D. D. Ambrosen, superintendent of the Clarion Community schools, and Robert Nelson, mathematics teacher from Eagle Grove.

County Supt. C. W. Sankey says, "It is expected that the discussion will furnish guidelines for the Wright county delegates when they take part at the state assembly in determining the Iowa association's position on this No. 1 legislative goal of classroom teachers in Iowa."

DOERINGSFELD'S MOTHER SUCCUMBS AT HAMPTON

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the Methodist church in Hampton for Mrs. Francis (Bessie) Hamilton, 69, mother of Ernest Doeringsfeld, Belmond Community High school principal.

Mrs. Hamilton, who had been afflicted with cancer for two years, died early Monday morning at Franklin General hospital at Hampton.

Her first husband, Harry G. Doeringsfeld, died in 1953. She married Mr. Hamilton, a long-time friend of the family, in 1957.

In addition to her husband and son, Mrs. Hamilton leaves a daughter, Mrs. Lawrence (Martha) Smalley of Hampton.

Janet M. Blecker awarded divorce

Janet Mae Becker on Friday of last week was granted a divorce from Robert L. Blecker, Wright county sheriff, on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment.

Judge Edward J. Flattery approved a stipulation agreed upon by the principals in the action that child support of $75 monthly should be paid by the defendant.

The two parties to the divorce were married Oct. 20, 1964. A daughter, Kayla Beth Blecker, was born on May 24 of this year.

GUESTS FROM TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Lemke of Dallas, Tex., were weekend visitors in the Ralph Thayer home. Mrs. Lemke is a cousin of Ralph's. Monday morning callers at the Ralph Thayer home were his daughter and husband from Rose Creek, Minn.

Must clear hut of stored items

City Clerk Lois Hammond calls attention to the fact that the lease granted the city for storage of personal belongings and business equipment in a Quonset hut in southeast Belmond ran out Wednesday of this week.

Some stored articles are still in the grain storage bin and their prompt removal is urgently requested.

Ownership of some of the stored items is not known, says Mrs. Hammond, so it is up to the owners to take due action without other notification.

Ed Ackerman has now moved Ackerman Service into the new building recently constructed to house the business at 303 River avenue S, on Highway 69.

Mr. Ackerman was in the employ of Kinseth Plumbing and Heating for 11 years before launching his own business in June of 1964.

He plans to hold open house at his new establishment in the near future.

Mails out checks toward bus costs

Warrants to Wright county school districts for state transportation aid were recently distributed by County Supt. C. W. Sankey, aggregating $27,179. In the entire state, 468 school district were eligible for transportation aid for the current year.

Because the state appropriation for the purpose was far short of the amounts legally claimable, the claims had to be pro rated at 40.36 per cent of the amounts asked by the various districts.

Checks were mailed to Wright county schools as follows: Eagle Grove $8,252, Belmond $6,611, Clarion $6,491, Dows $3,912 and Goldfield $1,910.

Leo Woodley of Clarion will represent the Wright County Farm Bureau on Nov. 13-15 at Des Moines as the county group's voting delegate at the 49th annual convention of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation.

On the opening day, Mr. Woodley will meet with 99 other such delegates to consider proposed policy resolutions. The proposals will have been drafted in advance by a committee of 10 farmers and two farm women based on the results of questionnaires filled out by individual bureau members at the local level.

State resolutions will be adopted on Nov. 15 and those that pertain to national matters will be forwarded for consideration at the American Farm Bureau convention in Chicago in December.

Mr. Woodley will also participate in electing the state Farm Bureau president, three members of the state board of directors and eight voting delegates to represent Iowa at Chicago.

Pre-Halloween "Tricks or Treats" helps needy tots all over world

Members of the youth fellowships of four Belmond churches will join Monday night in the annual solicitation of money for UNICEF (United Nations Children's Fund), a goodwill project toward which local people have contributed $1,530 in the past 10 years.

Started in 1957 by the Methodist church, the yearly "Tricks or Treats" for UNICEF has for the past eight years been a multi-church undertaking. This year, the Congregational (United Church of Christ) and the Bethany and Immanuel Reformed church young people are also participating.

Mrs. Tyrrell Baker of the Congregational church is chairman of the party at the Congregational youth center that will be held at 6:30 p. m. The canvassers will be out from 7:00 to 8:00 p. m. and then reassemble for lunch and to count the money. They will be dismissed about 8:30 o'clock.

Collecting will be done in "official" orange and black UNICEF boxes. The largest sum realized here was donated the first year, when $210 was given. Only $34 was received the second year; but for the period 1962-65 the receipts averaged regularly about $185 per year. Last year, immediately following the tornado, the total slipped to $129.

Because recipient countries add to the funds provided by UNICEF, pennies perform small miracles of helpfulness. One cent, for example, buys six glasses of milk; or a nickel will buy enough penicillin to make two children well.

UNICEF also shows mothers how to take better care of their families, and teaches children to take better care of themselves. It also helps train teachers to teach children.

Other sources of UNICEF funds are greeting cards and note paper, which are purchased with regularity by some Belmond families. But the major source is the annual "Tricks or Treats" Halloween project.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ketchum, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Ketchum and children and Jean McLaughlin went to Oelwein Sunday where the Ketchum clan helped Paul Ketchum celebrate his birthday at his home.

One of the most heart-touching stories to come out of the Nazi pogroms against the Jews during World War II will be presented in dramatic form as the BHS fall play when a cast of 10 enacts "The Dairy of Anne Frank."

It is based on the best-seller, "Anne Frank: Diary of a Young Girl," based on a diary which the young Jewish girl herself had kept, telling of the horrifying existence of the little group. Anne ultimately died in a gas chamber after the hide-out was found.

Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett dramatized the diary. The BHS production will be offered at 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 7 and 8, under the direction of Lynn Sorum.

Elizabeth Cox, a BHS freshman and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Cox, fills the title role. Playing Mr. and Mrs. Frank are Paul Bamford and Jennifer Olson. Taking the parts of friends of the Franks, Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan and their son Peter, who are also in hiding, are Jerry Boelman, Luanne Paule and Steve Courson.

David Paule takes the role of Mr. Kraler, a Jewish dentist who is holed up with the Franks and Van Daans; Miep, a young woman who is an ally of the fugitives, is played by Judy Carwell; and Doug Tyrrell portrays Mr. Dussel, landlord of the building in which they are hiding and also a helpful friend.

In a prologue and epilogue, Mr. Frank and Miep are shown in the attic after the war. Only the former escaped death after the attic hiding place was finally discovered. Miep discovers and gives to him the diary his daughter had kept.

Averages 130 bu. per acre—

Oat yield of Gene Pals highest in contest

Eugene Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry "Hank" Pals, Thursday night of last week was given recognition as winner of top state honors in the annual Oat Improvement Program of the Quaker Oats company.

This contest is for vocational agriculture students throughout the state and attracted 48 schools, which submitted 163 projects for judging.

The Belmond youth was winner in the North Central district — the state being divided into four districts for purposes of the contest — and his yield per acre of 135 bushels was also the highest in the entire state.

Each contestant had to have a minimum of five acres, from which one acre was measured to make the yield determination. Gene planted Garland oats on which he got a total return of $88.95 per acre. His costs for fertilizer were heavy, going to $25.55 per acre, enabling five other contestants to net a higher per-acre return.

This was the fifth year that Quaker Oats has conducted the contest. Yield of the vo-ag students ran considerably higher than the general state average, which was 55 bushels per acre for the current year.

The improvement program stresses good cultural practices, the use of top quality seed of recommended varieties, and the use of fertilizer to promote good growth of the oat plant in the early growing stages.

Cash awards of a dollar per bushel for each bushel over a 70 average went to the two top projects from each school. Besides the $65 check to Pals, one went to Kevin Hadley of Rowan for placing second among the Belmond entries with an 87.6 per-acre yield average. He got a total return per acre of $59.22.

Two other Wright countians in the money were Gene Willis with a 107.9 yield average and Marion Denger with 90.6, both from Dows.

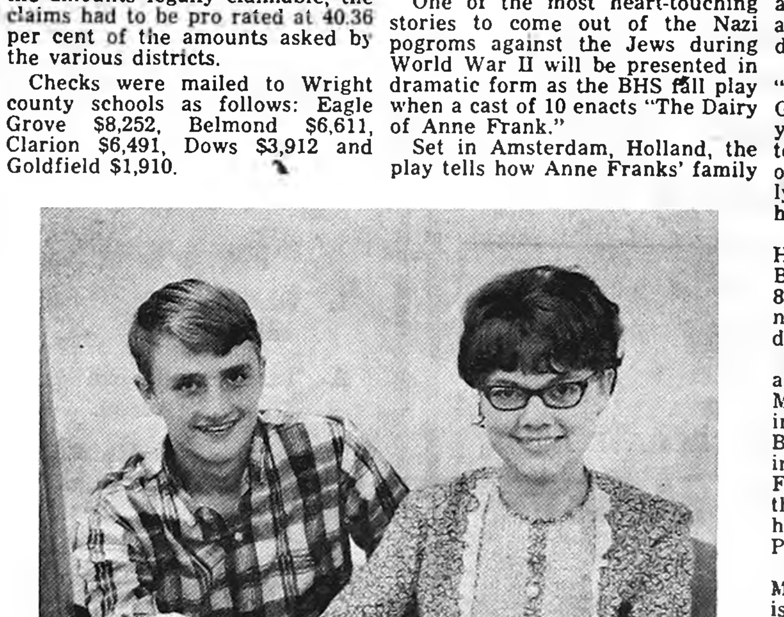
CHAMPION OAT GROWER award won in the Quaker Oats '67 improvement contst is being awarded (above) to Gene Pals, right, by Donald Schrickel of Chicago, the company's grain development manager. The BHS Future Farmer also won $65.

BACK FROM TRIP EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith returned Friday from a three-week trip of sightseeing through the eastern states and parts of Canada. They also visited their son Ellis and family at Auburn, Ill.

Arcade model on display

The Independent calls attention to display of the model of the proposed Main street arcade that will for some time be on view in the newspaper office. It was built by Allen Suby, BHS shop instructor, from actual photographs of the south side of the 200 block — plus the First State bank. When the window blind is up, it can easily be seen from the sidewalk. If the blind is down, feel free to stop in and take a look at this projected "Main street of the future," if you've not yet had an opportunity to do so.



HIGH SCORES ATTAINED in National Merit Scholarship tests administered nationwide last spring brought Letters of Commendation to two BHS seniors, Paul Bamford and Luanne Paule. They received the awards at a student assembly last week. Though the Letters of Commendation don't make recipients eligible for National Merit Scholarships, Principal Ernest Doeringsfeld says they are most helpful in obtaining college scholarships of various other descriptions.

MRS. ED OSIER

Canadian kin of Hansens claimed Saskatchewan homestead in 1915

A guest in the home of Arthur Hansen for several days last week and this was a relative, J. A. Mortenson, whose home is Pontrilas, Saskatchewan, Canada.

A native of Kewanne, Ill., Mr. Mortenson homesteaded a quarter section of land near Pontrilas in 1915 and some time after making good his claim purchased an additional quarter adjoining.

Originally, he says, wheat was the main crop grown in the territory; but some diversification has come with the passing years and much of the land there is now planted with rape. This is an oil-yielding grain.

Mr. Mortenson's home is about 300 miles above the U. S.-Canadian border and he says that winter temperatures ranging from 10 to 40 below are common. Since the air is dry, he adds, the low temperaures aren't nearly so uncomfortable as might be suspected.

He retired not long ago and his wife, who teaches school in a village about 70 miles from Pontrilas but comes home for the weekends, will retire at the end of this year.

Asked what he presently does with his time, Mr. Mortenson declared with a grin, "I'm the busiest man in the country; but it doesn't take much to keep me busy."

He planned to continue his visit at Rowan until the middle of this week, then go on to renew acquaintances with old friends at Kewanee.

Naomi circle met Thursday at church

The Naomi circle held a Scoop Luncheon at the Methodist church on Thursday, with their meeting afterwards. Mrs. Herman Frohling was in charge of the dovations.

Catch-up on council proceedings after delay by tornado

In the following columns appear Belmond city council proceedings covering the period from pre-tornado days of last fall up to May 1 of this year.

City Clerk Lois Hammond, for a lengthy time following the disaster, found herself so inundated with unanticipated responsibilities that the "official proceedings" were a phase of her job she was unable to keep up with.

She is now getting their publication back on a current basis (the last three meetings, along with eight-plus months of "catch up") and is determined to keep them so. The proceedings still delinquent will be published in the near future.

In conscientiously applying herself to the burdensome task of getting the proceedings up to date, Mrs. Hammond brought the first, large batch to the newspaper office embellished with a clipping from a recent Independent editorial column.

It stated: "Duty covers those tasks we anticipate with distaste, perform with reluctance, and brag about afterwards" — reflecting Lois's sentiments in the matter.

October 3, 1966

The first meeting of the month of October was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Mayor Misner presided and roll call showed all council members present.

The minutes of the meeting of September 19th, were read and approved.

A letter from the Planning and Zoning Commission listed the blocks they would recommend be included in a paving program.

Glen Eccles reported on the progress of the work at the sewer plant that water pipe was being laid to the highway on 5th Ave S. E.; that they were trying to determine where the leak was in the swimming pool; and that he would go to Charles City to see their water plant.

The bills audited and allowed were as follows:

The City Council held its first meeting of January at 8:00 o'clock P. M. in the City Hall. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call was answered by Churchouse, Crapser, Porter and Wiggins. Absent, Nelson.

The minutes of the meeting of December 30th, were read and approved.

Wm. McLaughlin reviewed the Planning Program as was put into effect at a fee of $15,000.00 — $10,000.00 to be paid by Federal funds, $4,400.00 by the Iowa Development Commission and $600.00 by the City of Belmond. Wallace & Holland had been retained to make a comprehensive plan outside the ten square block business area, and the firm of Veestra and Kim to up date the necessary ordinances. Mr. McLaughlin delivered the required books covering building codes, electrical codes and plumbing codes for study in connection with adopting these as part of the updated ordinances. He also brought out requirements of a demolition grant. Motion carried to approve "Contract for planning services" as presented by Wm. McLaughlin.

A communication from James E. Houser, Attorney, answered a number of questions the council had raised with regard to fire limits, building regulations, plastic pipe for sewer work, etc.

Glen Eccles gave a report of water pumped during 1966. The usual snow removal problems were discussed. Wallace & Holland are to make an inspection of municipal buildings before making any settlement with the insurance company.

The bills had been audited and were allowed as follows:

As regards the dump, the city clerk was given instructions that if Mr. McDowell did not appear by Thursday, to call off the deal.

City Attorney Henderson had looked over the contract left by Gjelten & Schellberg for the construction of arcades and canopies on Main Street and he had been in contact with Mr. Carpenter, bonding attorney in Des Moines, who pointed out the procedure for this venture should follow Chapter 391A, 1966 Code of Iowa.

The items of park bonds and architect's contract were tabled until the Action Committee could have more definite information as to costs.

Resolution No. 419, A PRELIMINARY RESOLUTION TO IMPROVE THE EXTENSION OF PRIMARY ROAD NO. US 69 WITHIN THE CITY OF BELMOND, IOWA, BY CONSTRUCTING A 4-LANE FACILITY FROM NEAR 5th STREET NORTHERLY TO NEAR THE C & GW RAILROAD TRACKS ALSO THE WIDENING OF THE SOUTH IOWA RIVER BRIDGE TO 4-LANES, was duly adopted.

Erwin Redder presented plans and specifications on a building he wishes to construct in the fire zone. Having met the requirements, a motion carried it be approved.

Plans and specifications on a building on the E 1/3 Lot 7, Original Town, and on a reconstruction of the old liquor store building, W 43' Lot 3, Block 24, Original Town, were presented by Pete Followwill and Floyd Broshar. Motion carried to approve both locations.

Motion carried to appoint Ted Zook as Zoning Officer and Inspector at an annual fee of $2,400.00 plus $300.00 car allowance, effective January 2, 1967.

The Council regretfully accepted the resignation of councilman Nelson effective as of this date. Resolution No. 420, A RESOLUTION EXPRESSING GRATITUDE TO THE RETIRING CITY COUNCILMAN, was duly adopted.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

The second meeting of the City Council for the month of January was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Members present were Churchouse, Porter and Wiggins. Absent, Crapser. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Misner.

The invocation was given by Rev. Jones.

The minutes of the meeting of January 3rd, were read and approved.

The Council convened as a Board of Health. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Misner and members in attendance were Churchouse, Porter and Wiggins. Dr. Hruska, local Health Officer, gave his annual report at this time. He stated there had been no epidemics despite the tornado. The water plant had maintained the pressure in the water system, thus cutting down the possibility of contamination. There had been no major problems. The school immunization program had been carried out, even to getting adult workers immunized. The tests on the water samples sent in were satisfacory.

No further business, the Board of Health was adjourned.

The council was again called to order by Mayor Misner.

Glen Eccles reported extra water pumping still continuing and got an okey to order a pipe finder-lead detector outfit rather than having the expense of getting a concern to come in to find any leaks. Mayor Misner reported the City was on full 24 hour police protection and the department was looking for another man.

One week vacation each year for the first two years of continuous employment. Two weeks vacation annually after three full years of continuous employment.

The City Attorney reported on his conversation as regards the Gjelten and Schellberg contract and this firm will furnish an engineer's contract instead of the architect's contract as presented inasmuch as the Code of Iowa under which the work would be done, Chapter 391A, specifies Engineer. There was some discussion on when to issue bonds for park facilities and other related matters. The City Attorney was instructed to set up a daytime meeting with Mr. Carpenter, in Belmond, so he could see first hand what is involved. The demolition fund contract is to be tabled until the meeting of January 30th.

The report from the Board of Adjustment questioned the advisability of a lease on an alley; therefore, Duan Thompson should pursue all possibilities of building on the lot before the City makes any legal commitment to him.

It was reported the dump contract with Lou McDowell had been terminated inas much as no action was being taken on salvaging. Jack Bayliss, local operator, is to be asked to meet with the Council on Monday, January 23rd.

City Clerk instructed to contact Belmond Industrial Development Corp. to get the legal description of the property wanted by National By-Products and the use of said property, and if favorable, the council will act immediately.

This was the time and place set for a Public Hearing on a change in the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Belmond, to rezone from R-2 Residential District to C-1 Commercial District, the following described area: Lots 1 and 2 of Block 10, Original Town of Belmond.

No written objections were filed and no oral objections were heard.

Thereafter, Ordinance No. 149, AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BELMOND, IOWA, AND CHANGING REAL PROPERTY FROM AN "R-2" RESIDENTIAL DISTRICT TO A "C-1" COMMERCIAL DISTRICT, was duly adopted.

This was also the time and place for a Public Hearing on a change in the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Belmond, to amend the general regulations of Article V by adding thereto the following section: Section 10. Trailers and Mobile Homes Prohibited.

No written objections were filed and no oral objections were heard.

Thereafter, Ordinance No. 150, AN ORDINANCE AMENDING THE ZONING ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BELMOND, IOWA, AND PROHIBITING TRAILERS AND MOBLE HOMES FOR HUMAN HABITATION EXCEPT IN DULY LICENSED TRAILER PARKS OR MOBILE HOME PARKS, was duly adopted.

Motion carried to approve the plans and building materials for the Fullerton Lumber Co. yard and office subject to approval of the Fire Chief.

The application and bond were in order and a motion carried to issue a Class "C" Beer Permit to Ed Gabrielson, Wilmer Gabrielson and Wesley Boller dba We 3 Markets.

With the last tax draw in for 1966, there were sufficient funds in the curb and Gutter Special Assessment Fund to call some bonds. Motion carried to call Nos. 4 and 5 in the amount of $2,000.00.

Her business having been demolished, motion carried to refund one-half year fee on both Beer and Cigarette permits to Naomi Downs dba Texaco Cafe.

No further business, the meeting was adjourned.

SPECIAL

A Special meeting of the City Council was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call was answered by Churchouse, Crapser, Porter, and Wiggins.

The minutes of the meeting of January 16th, were read and approved.

Cecil Carstons reported all lights to be changed and installed in the residential area are in. The location of the lights around the park was discussed. Representation from the Belmond Industrial Development Corp. discussed the property at the north end of the dump and its availability to National By- Products; they felt the contract with the engineers on the Main Street arcades should be signed; and they wanted to find out if funds for parks and land would be available.

Glen reported the heat unit at the Sewer Treatment Plant had been started. He stated the snow plow was in bad shape.

City Treasurer Luin Cox was concerned with the decreased tax base which would be a result of the tornado. Motion carried to send a letter to the League of Iowa Municipalities to work to get relief on taxes for 1968.

The Financial report for December was accepted.

The Hospital report for December was accepted.

The annual Library report was accepted.

A motion carried to accept the offer of $200.00 for the West 58 feet of Lot 1, Block 23, Railroad Addition to Belmond, made by Tom Quigley and to recommend the Board of Supervisors, Wright County, approve the sale.

SPECIAL 8:00 P. M.

A Special meeting of the City Council was called by Mayor Misner and held in the Council Chambers on the above date. Mayor Misner presided and roll call was answered by Churchouse, Crapser, Porter, Wiggins.

Due to the resignation of Councilman Alan M. Nelson, the order of business was to elect a replacement for Councilman-at-large to fill the vacancy created by the resignation. Frank M. Pollitt was nominated by Councilman Wiggins and declared duly elected by a unanimous vote of the Council. He was so advised and then took the Oath of Office as the newly elected Councilman-at-large.

The Belmond Industrial Development Corp. presented a resolution passed by the Corporation requesting the transfer of land owned by the City at the north end of the dump grounds to be used in the industrial development of Belmond.

Luin Cox reported on what the tornado might have done to our tax base and taxes and on his talks with parties who might be in a position to help head up some relief legislation. It was suggested a survey be made by Mr. Cox, Mr. Zook and Mr. Elliott to get some figures prepared from which we could get facts to present our case.

Motion carried to retain Ellis Elliott for the months of February, March and April.

Resolution No. 524, A RESOLUTION PROPOSING TO DISPOSE OF PROPERTY OWNED BY THE CITY OF BELMOND TO THE BELMOND INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT CORP. TO-WIT: Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the Auditor's Plat of the Northeast one-quarter (NE¼) of the Northwest one-Quarter (NW¼) of Section 19, Township 93 North, Range 23 West of the 5th P. The City Council met in the first regular meeting for February in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call answered by Churchouse, Pollitt, Crapser and Porter. Absent, Wiggins.

The possibility of getting "no parking" signs along the street by Bel Chris Manor is remote since it is a public street and there is room for vehicular travel while cars are parked on both side.

The Council members acting as a Board of Health, certified the operation and maintenance of the OK Trailer Park had been brought to the attention of the Council and was within local regulatory measures, and license now subject to the approval of the State.

Replacing of the "no parking" signs along the highway will be held up until such time as to the outcome on the highway widening.

SPECIAL

The City Council met in Special session at 8:00 o'clock P.M. in the Council Chambers. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call showed that all council members were present.

Marc Ihm was in the audiance and Mayor Misner complimented him on the fine report for the Hospital for the year 1966. Dr. Leinbach talked on the need of a retirement home in the low rent class. Willis Schellberg of Gjelten and Schellberg, Forest City, showed proposed plans for one that could be expanded as the demand was created, using the city park as the building site. A request was made that the City give this site as its contribution instead of having to raise funds by donations.

Larry Flanagan, Secretary of the Industrial Development Corp. presented its formal request to purchase the four lots known as 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Auditor's Plat of the NE¼ of NW¼, Section 19, Township 93 North, Range 23, West of the 5th P.M. Inasmuch as there had been a hold up in the publication of the proposal to dispose of this property due to a misunderstanding in the proper description of the real estate desired, motion carried to change the hearing date as given in Resolution No. 524, passed on the 30th day of January, 1967, from February 20th, to March 20, 1967.

Motion carried to table the matter of the retirement home site until the next meeting.

The minutes of the meetings of January 23rd., January 30th, and February 6th, were read and approved.

The Engineering contract from Gjelten & Schellberg was read by the City Attorney. Events and cost figures up to this date and the contract itself were discussed as length between the Council and Mr. Schellberg. Motion carried to instruct the Mayor and City Clerk to sign the contract with Gjelten & Schellberg for the arcade and canopy project.

The size of the project was then considered and a motion carried that the project be passed back to the Action Committee for their recommendation as to how much should be included.

No further business, the meeting adjourned.

February 20, 1967

The second regular meeting of the City Council for the month of February was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Mayor Misner presided and all the council members were present.

Glen Eccles reported the leak detector had been received and that they had found some leaks but the time of year hampered giving it thorough testing. The purchase of the detector is left to Glen's discretion.

Chief of Police Thompson gave his annual Police Department report.

Wallace & Holland, Engineers, recommended the acceptance of the maintenance garage rebuilding and the payment to Henningsen Construction Co.

Many visitors to a council meeting come with a complaint or a negative approach and it was very gratifying and spirit lifting when Wm. Stadtlander representing himself and Ernest, visited with the council, wanting some progressive action in regard to the four lane highway, a stop and go signal for Main St. and River Ave., getting the alley graveled which would be used for the property on River Ave., and sanitary and storm sewer to the property in West Belmond.

Mr. Michaels of Wallace & Holland gave his report on the completed STP improvement project with a recommendation that 90% be paid, withholding 10% for thirty days according to statute.

Proposals for televising the main sewer line down River Avenue and one block of Main Street were received as follows: American Pipe Services for a lump sum of $899.50; Soil Solidifiers, Inc. at a price of .26½ per feet (approximately 2400 ft). Motion carried to accept the proposal of Soil Solidifiers.

Motion carried to take the recommendations of the Action Committee and the engineer be notified the Main Street Project consist of three blocks of arcade and one canopy at the corner of 2nd Avenue and Main St.

Resolution No. 527, A RESOLUTION FINALLY ACCEPTING THE SEWAGE TREATMENT PLANT IMPROVEMENT AND THE SUM OF $35,094.28 OR 90% OF THE TOTAL CONTRACT COST BE NOW PAID IN FULL, THE REMAINDER OF $3,899.36 TO BE PAID IN THIRTY DAYS FROM THIS DATE, was duly adopted.

Motion carried to instruct the City Attorney to set up a referendum to utilize the City Park as a site for the future retirement home.

The city boys are to return the clothes racks and police helmets to Clarion, used after the storm.

Motion carried to approve the bond of the City Clerk in the amount of $3,000.00.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

March 6, 1967

The first regular meeting of the City Council for the month of March was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Mayor Misner presided; councilmen present were Churchouse, Pollitt, Porter; absent, Crapser and Wiggins.

A letter from State Representative Ray V. Bailey made note of the fact that the City's Resolution of Gratitude had been presented on the floor of the House of Representatives and recorded in the Journal under date of February 13th. The Water and Sewer Short Course Schools for this area will be held in Belmond for nine weeks beginning on March 13th, under the auspices of the Engineering Extension Service of Iowa State University.

A suggestion was made the City adopt an ordinance uniform signs.

A letter from Mr. E. B. Carpenter, Attorney, gave details as to the legality and method of disposing of the City Park. In line with this letter, Attorney Henderson read to the council an account of a Court case and the decision on giving away city owned property. It cannot be done if it is being utilized.

A petition of Disapproval and Protest to Arcades and Canopy project was presented. Since this was not on the agenda, the petition was tabled until some time as it would come before the council.

Glen reported the sweeper would need some major repair, Tomco was experiencing trouble with their sewer. With regard to the river rubbish, it is felt the City has done all they can and the property owners should assume some responsibility.

Pete Daniels requested that the alley in Block 10, Morse Bros. Addition be either closed or opened completely inasmuch as only half of it was being used at this time. The matter will be referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission for their recommendation.

The bills had been audited and were allowed as follows:

LOIS J. HAMMOND
City Clerk

March 20, 1967

The second regular meeting of the City Council for the month of March was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. In the absence of Mayor Misner, Mayor ProTem Porter called the meeting to order and roll call was answered by all council members.

The minutes of the meetings of February 13th and February 20th, were read and approved.

A letter from Tomco Genetic Giant told of the plight of the sanitary sewer servicing their establishment and requested information as to the procedure necessary to put in an adequate line before the highway widening. Notice of a license having been issued to Ivan Evans for the Overnight camping park was received from the State Department of Health.

This was the time and place set for the Public Hearing on the disposal of real property by the City, described as Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Auditor's Plat of the NE¼ of NW¼, Section 19, Township 93 North, Range 23 West of the 5th P. M. Wright County, better known as the dump ground property. The Mayor asked for any written objections of which there were none. Upon asking for oral objections, Harley Triggs, Clarence Triggs and Joe Dana presented arguments against the type of industry being considered for the area. James Havens, Bill Lanphere, Ardell Kaduce were for the sale and use. Duane Eyler, representative of the National By-Products Co. gave a very enlightening discourse on the industry. He was assisted by Mr. Lloyd Halton, S. [illegible] Vets FDA. Larry Flanagan and Duane Anderson reported on what they had found out in other towns. Ralph McDougle offered $100.00 for the property. City Attorney Henderson then read a letter from Attorney E. B. Carpenter of Des Moines on disposing of real estate. The sale for $1.00 would not be legal.

Resolution No. 528 was duly adopted as follows: BE IT RESOLVED that the proposal to sell the following tract of real estate, to-wit: Lots 1, 2, 3, and 4 of Auditor's Plat of NE½ of NW½ of Section 19, Township 93 North, Range 23 West of the 5th P. M., Wright County, Iowa, to the Belmond Industrial Development Corporation is not in the public interest for the price offered does not represent the fair market price.

After a short recess, the council again met in regular session.

The televising report on the sanitary sewer in the highway and one block of Main St. just off 69 showed the sewer in good condition and only replacement of manholes would be required plus a length or two of tile at the manholes.

Mr. Henderson gave a report of the meeting the previous week with Leonard Follman, Resident Construction Engineer, Howard Nye, District Office Technician, and Mr. O. C. Solem, District Urban En-

SPECIAL

A Special meeting of the City Council was called on the above date for the purpose of a Public Hearing on the proposal to dispose of real estate owned by the City. Mayor Misner called the meeting to order and roll call was answered by all council members.

A petition signed by 121 persons objecting to the disposal based on the use of the land, had been presented to the Council. Written objections were received from Helen D. Dorr and Aurelia Kernan.

When calling for comments from the floor, William Shirer requested the Protective Ordinance on Nuisances be read for all. He had gone to great lengths to get the wind directions for different times of the days and years and found the prevailing wind would be from the south during the time when homes might be opened.

Clarence Triggs had made an inspection of the Waterloo plant and it had not proved offensive. Ralph McDougle brought out the fact that 121 signers to a petition had been against the use of the land. Duane Anderson and C. C. Christie spoke in favor of disposal, Larry Dorr and Rita Schaal voiced their opinions.

Mayor Misner summarized the hearing, noting all pros and cons. He reminded the people, and the council members, that the council was elected as a group to make decisions in the best interests of the total City and the business at hand involved the disposal of property to the Belmond Industrial Development Corp.

Resolution No. 531 was duly adopted, a resolution authorizing and directing the Mayor and City Clerk to execute and acknowledge on behalf of the City of Belmond, a Warranty Deed conveying to the Belmond Industrial Development Corporation for the consideration of $2,000.00, the following described real estate, to-wit:

Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the Auditor's Plat of the Northeast one-quarter of the Northwest one-quarter of Section 19, Township 93 North, Range 23 West of the 5th P. M., Wright County, Iowa.

Larry Main was interested in closing the unused street west of his property. He was told to present a sketch at the next meeting.

A report on the status of the tractor was given by Councilman Crapser. Motion carried to get it repaired.

A preliminary survey and cost of laying a sanitary sewer line, from 2nd St. N. E. on north as is necessary to service the area, was presented by Wallace & Holland, Engineers. No action taken.

Councilman Crapser had studied the T-V report on the sanitary sewer and could find nothing to be done except new manholes and a few tile close to them

A letter from bonding attorney Haynie Board for the remainder of the term acknowledged requested information and would give his findings later.

No further business, the meeting was adjourned.

SPECIAL

A Special meeting of the City Council on the above date was held in the Council Chambers for the purpose of electing a councilman to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Councilman Wiggins.

Election was by written ballot and when counted, it was found four ballots had been cast for Gene Griffin He was notified, accepted the decision and took the Oath of Office.

Harold Michaels of Wallace & Holland made a report on the needed sewer extension long Highway 69 north of 2nd St. N E.

Robert Revland presented a copy of a contract resolution under which he would like to make a working agreement with the City to dispose of old car bodies using the dump grounds as a working site. The matter would be studied and action taken at a later date.

A letter from Attorney Haynie of Des Moines to the City Attorney in reply to certain information desired brought out the fact that the construction of the arcade and canopy could not be authorized under the present provisions of law. One alternative would be to seek an amendment to Chapter 391A during the current session of the legislature to specifically authorize improvements of the type considered. The city attorney will see how the Code is actually written and how it came about, and report later.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

Lake Mills made a hospitable effort to give the Belmond Broncos a victory on the Bulldog gridiron last Friday evening; but when finally it became apparent that the visitors weren't especially interested, Coach Chuck Nichol's battlers swept the marbles into their own bag and wound up with a 27-14 victory.

It was a fairly interesting ball game for about 30 for the 48 minutes of play. It definitely looked like one of those good nights for the Broncos when on the second play of the game, Mike Klinefelter burst loose on an off-tackle play that went 71 yards for the first Belmond score. Paulo Canineu's dependable toe made it 7-0 with a placekick.

Two exchanges of punts following the kickoff got Belmond in a hole as a Bulldog boot rolled to the Bronco eight and the Blue and White had an awful time getting decent field position for quite a spell thereafter.

Draw play brings score

The second exchange of kicks had Belmond back on the 12, then Lake Mills with the pigskin on the Broncs' 45. A draw play from that point found Bruce Helgeson going all the way for a touchdown and he then kicked the conversion to make it 7-all.

As the second quarter got underway, Belmond had to kick again and Lake Mills got possession on the Bronco 43. Fourteen plays produced a TD by Mike Sarno from the foot-line but a bad center pass on the conversion kept the score at Lake Mills 13, Belmond 7.

Klinefelter returned the kickoff 29 yards, to his own 43. There he picked up nine yards on each of three consecutive plays and another five for 1st-and-10 on Lake Mills' 25. Rather rubber-legged by this time from five consecutive carries, Mike got the ball for two more plays but was clearly out of gas and lost two yards on the last pair of attempts.

1st-and-10 barely missed

—SPORTS—

A pass from Don Havens to Lee Barkema in the flat gained eight yards and a burst by Hawley failed by an eyelash to net a 1st-and-10 on the Bulldogs' 15. No further threats developed before the intermission, with the hosts still enjoying a 13-7 advantage.

Lake Mills adopted the role of good host as second-half play took up and the first play after the kickoff saw a Bulldog fumble and Dennis Knoll recover for the Broncos on the Lake Mills 42.

Belmond's drive was about to expire on the Bulldog 35 when Mike Sarno was called for pass interference and the 15-yard penalty gave the Broncos a 1st-and-10 on the 20. Seven yards by Lee Barkema, three by Hawley and three by Havens gave Belmond a first down on the seven.

Penalty nullifies TD

A Havens to Barkema pass for a touchdown was nullified by an illegal procedure penalty; but in four plays Belmond negotiated the needed 12 yards as Havens sneaked over from a foot out. Again Paulo booted a perfect kick and the Broncs were in front 14-13.

After the next kickoff, Lake Mills went into its "good neighbor" act again, and Gene Pals grabbed a Bulldog fumble on the hosts' 45. Once again, when Belmond was having trouble advancing, a pass interference penalty — this time against Dale Haugo — gave the Broncs 1st-and-10 on the LM 20.

This time, though, Belmond didn't measure up to the opportunity and Lake Mills took over on the 15 after four downs gained but five yards. Helgeson was stopped for no gain — then, in tandem with another receiver, faded far behind the Bronco secondary and took a pass from Quarterback John Sorenson that was good for 85 yards and the go-ahead tally. Sorenson passed to End Vern Oakland for the point and Lake Mills was ahead 20-14 with five seconds left in the third quarter.

During the third quarter the Bulldogs had possession of the ball for only seven running plays, twice lost the ball on fumbles, but still put over the deciding marker.

Things were pretty much tit-for-tat in the fourth quarter until Belmond tried a fake punt on 4th and 4 at the Lake Mills' 46. Studebaker was creamed for a nine-yard loss, on Belmond's 45.

Sorenson was tossed for a two-yard loss; then Mike Knudtson romped for 47 yards, breaking three or four tackles on the way, to wrap it up with an off-tackle sprint that went the full distance. Helgeson's kick was good, and Belmond trailed 27-14.

Broncs advance to 25

Belmond, after the following kickoff, went to Lake Mills' 25 in three plays — but then passes began to drop to no avail and the Bulldogs ran out the clock after getting possession on the 25.

It wasn't a very good game for the Broncos. They had a good opportunity to win, but the Bulldogs were clearly the hungrier team. Lake Mills outgained Belmond 292 yards to 278. However, 177 of the victors' yards came on three of their scoring runs when defensive let-downs by the Broncos proved costly.

Lake Mills' hefty middle linemen kept Belmond from using the interior to any great advantage. The Belmond defense performed capably except when the Bulldogs made their three long scoring strikes.

MR. AND MRS. LYNN A. MENNENGA

Miss Sue Carol DeBolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Robert DeBolt of Pontiac, Ill., became the bride of Lynn A. Mennenga, son of Mr. and Mrs Harry Mennenga, Sept. 30 at 10:00 a. m. in the First Presbyterian church at Pontiac, Ill., with Rev. Glenn D. Strang performing the double-ring ceremony

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of corded lace and taffeta peau de soie, fashioned with an empire-style bodice of lace, a scalloped neckline and long sleeves. The A-line skirt of the taffeta featured back pleats which swept into a chapel train adorned by panels of lace. A lace, pearl and crystal crown held her veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a cascade of red roses and stephanotis

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs William E. Cole of Pontiac. The bridesmaids were Janet Hoffrichter of Pontiac and Maureen Busher of Litchfield, Ill. Their empire, A-line dresses of gold Larilan had scooped necklines and short sleeves. The high waists were appliqued with embroidered floral sprays accented by front bows and streamers of moss green velvet. They wore matching headpieces with short veils and carried hand bouquets of bronze and gold pompons

Larry Mennenga served his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Tom Hill and Bob Smith. The ushers were Robert DeBolt, Jr., and Roy DeBolt, brothers of the bride. The ringbearer was Michael Bailey of Pontiac, cousin of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Morrow Parish House for about 200 guests.

For going away, the bride wore an ensemble consisting of a loden green, turtle neck dress, complimented by a coat of gold and loden green basketweave fabric

The bride is a graduate of the Pontiac Township High school and Barnes Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo. She plans to continue her nursing career in Belmond Community hospital. The groom graduated from Belmond Community High school, served two years in the U. S. Army and is presently engaged in farming. They will make their home in Belmond.

Attending the wedding from Belmond were Mr and Mrs. Tom Hill, Mr and Mrs. Don Friesleben, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Mennenga and Duan, Mr and Mrs Robert Smith, Mr and Mrs. Loren Payne Dennis Pastour, Larry Severson, Mrs. Lloyd Cunningham and Mrs Kenneth Jenison. Also in attendance was Marlin Blau of Alexander.

The rehearsal dinner was held at the Palamar Supper club at Pontiac, Ill., on Sept. 29

Bond purchases in Wright still far under quota

Wright county skidded farther behind schedule in its losing battle to achieve its assigned U. S. savings bond quota for the year when August sales in the county came to only $28,437. That made the Wright total for eight months just $369,597 — which was only 44 per cent of its goal. This lagged far behind the state average of 57 per cent, which was also off the necessary pace to meet quota.

Of the counties adjoining Wright, only Hancock had a poorer record through August. Though it had sales of $35,390 for the month, Hancock's total of $295,984 for the eight months was only 42 per cent of quota.

Two adjoining counties were ahead of quota pace — Franklin with $341,463 through August for 69 per cent of its goal and Kossuth with $494,335 for 63 per cent. They had excellent August sales of $52,630 and $87,355 repsectively.

Other near-by counties stood as follows on their eight-month quotas: Webster $1,027,072 for 53 per cent; Cerro Gordo, $750,073 for 51 per cent; Hardin, $474,215 for 49 per cent; Hamilton, $420,495 for 48 per cent; and Humboldt, $299,878 for 47 per cent.

NIAD repeating business course

The "Basic Principles of Management" course presented earlier this year in the NIAD area will be repeated at Forest City and Mason City in November-December.

Taught by Iowa State university personnel from Ames, the course is being repeated on the recommendation of a NIAD planning committee, headed by Bill Pink of Hampton

The "Basic Principles" course will be taught in two-hour sessions, eight Tuesdays in a row, starting Oct. 31 at Forest City, and eight Thursdays at Mason City, starting Nov. 2.

COMPLETES FOODS COURSE

Thada Gahlers, an employee of Bel Chris Manor, has completed a correspondence course of 20 lessons on general nutrition, modified diets, food preparation and sanitation. The course is conducted by the Iowa State Department of Health to help improve the quality of food served in hospitals and nursing homes.

KAREN HEGWOOD WED TO PAUL HAUGE IN CEDAR FALLS RITES

Miss Karen Hegwood, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Wayne Hegwood of Cedar Rapids, became the bride of Paul Hauge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hauge, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 14, at 4:00 o'clock in the College Hill Lutheran church at Cedar Falls. Rev. Gustav Riggert performed the double-ring ceremony.

James Sandersfeld, a friend of the groom, was best man. The men wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

The couple is at home at 2119 College street in Cedar Falls. Both are students at University of Northern Iowa, the bride being a sophomore and the groom, a junior.

Camp Fire Girls candy sale "on"

Annual candy sale of the Camp Fire Girls was launched Tuesday of this week, after a year's lapse in local participation in this Heart of the Hawkeye Council fund-raising project.

The tornado of a year ago made it necessary for the candy sale to be cancelled here last October. However, sympathizing Camp Fire Girls from throughout the council area conducted a special sale for the Belmond girls and both the proceeds and Camp Hantesa attendance credit were passed on to local members.

This year a long-popular, favorite confection — Martha Washington chocolates — are being sold by the girls. The price is a dollar.

Because the candy drive provides money for the maintenance and improvement of Camp Hantesa, near Boone, the Heart of the Hawkeye Council has not had to conduct a capital funds drive in the past 38 years.

Knoll pays fine after smash-up

James Knoll, 30, of Belmond last Thursday in the court of Justice of the Peace Ross Stanbery at Clarion paid a fine of $25 plus costs as the outgrowth of an accident that occurred at 7:50 o'clock that morning at the intersection of Highways 3 and 69 east of Clarion. He was charged with failure to have his vehicle under control.

Jesse Castleman, 85, of Clarion was driving east when he slowed at the intersection to turn north onto the gravel road. Approaching from the rear, Knoll was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision with the rear of the retired farmer's car.

Deputy Sheriff Vern Elston estimated damage to the Castleman auto at $125 and to Knoll's, $150.

The heart of the righteous studieth to answer: but the mouth of the wicked poureth out evil things. — Prov. 15:28

UNICEF helps tots everywhere; is that BAD?

It's a funny thing about UNICEF (the United Nations Children's Fund). Some people get pretty exasperated because UNICEF regards that a needy child is a needy child, wherever he may be.

In urging you to slip a coin or two in the UNICEF collection box that will be brought to your door Monday night, we're going to level with you. There IS a chance that the "miracle drug" or the food purchased with the money you give MIGHT protect the life or help fill the tummy of some unfortunate tyke living behind the Iron Curtain.

Now wouldn't THAT be awful! Or would it? Just to look at them, if would be hard to pick out the "good guys" from among the 30,000 children in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East who represent the DAILY death toll of hunger, disease, misery and their elders' lack of basic education.

Being an international organization, the United Nations Children's Fund takes the view that suffering knows no borders, and that a sick or starving child is a responsibility of all people who feel that human brotherhood is an ideal to be perpetually encouraged.

On the night before Halloween, 3.5 million American boys and girls will become goodwill ambassadors when they "Trick or Treat" for UNICEF to the end of aiding sick and hungry children all over the world. They will be making their rounds in 13,000 communities and — on the basis of past experience — they will raise nearly $3 million.

We're going to toss our half-dollar in a coin box; and we're not going to worry whether the tot our four-bits helps lives in Honduras or Hungary. As the accompanying cartoon suggests, we'll permit ourself to feel just a little bit "good" in the knowledge that those pennies will mean a better chance for some youngster, SOMEWHERE. And we're really not too particular about WHERE.

Some strictly personal thoughts on Vietnam

It's been our privilege in the past couple of weeks to hold conversations with two young men of the community just returned from Vietnam and it was of considerable interest to us that both held essentially the same opinions as to the state of affairs over there.

Neither made any pretense of being any more of a political analyst than the next fellow. They told of what they'd seen, the people they'd met, and how the situation struck THEM. Though we talked to them separately, so there was no possibility of the views of one influencing the other, it was remarkable in how close agreement they were in their assessments.

Both expressed a conviction that the general population of South Vietnam could not care less how the war comes out — if it would only end and permit them to return to their normal pursuits. The minority that has business dealings with the Americans and for this reason never had it so good are happy about the whole thing; but the rest are much less concerned about the purposes of the fighting — if they understand at all, what it's about — than with the disruption to normal living that it causes.

It seemed quite apparent to both young observers that the political stakes are a matter of indifference to most of the people in whose behalf the war is ostensibly being fought. And while the impression was not gained by word of mouth, both of the servicemen gathered that a distinct feeling prevails among the ordinary South Vietnamese that their lot could hardly be worse under Communist rule than it is under influence of the war.

One of the young men had been engaged quite extensively in combat. He had few kind words to say for the South Vietnamese soldier. He said his contact with the "government" soldiers suggested they have little heart for battle, are poorly trained, and are distinctly inferior to both the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese troops as fighting men.

A news release from Vietnam last week pointed up that that more and more of the load in conduct of the war is falling upon the U. S. soldier — which backs up the Belmond man's contention that the South Vietnamese troops fight with little ardor and act as if it were much more a U. S. war than a war of their own.

It poses an awkward question. Why should the North Vietnamese soldier find challenge and purpose in what HE is doing while his Southern counterpart seems bored with the whole affair?

Surely our national leaders must suspect that keeping Uncle Sam on a multi-billion dollar treadmill is precisely the aim of the Communists, and that they have no desire to see the conflict brought to a conclusion. There are some good reasons for believing that we are playing much more into the hands of our international enemies by stubbornly seeking a way to "save face" at the cost of continued hostilities than we would by realistically bargaining for peace.

If the Vietnamese really care little whether their county is "Communist" or otherwise, is it up to US to "save" them from a fate they regard with indifference? It would be a different matter if were were fighting for a people being flagrantly denied the right of self-determination.

We can see that there COULD be a time and place for the United States to stem an UNWANTED imposition of Communism upon a helpless people. But we wonder more and more if this is the time — and Vietnam is the place.

Real cause of picker mishaps? Human actions!

Farmers blame machinery, animals, the weather, or almost anything else for corn picker accidents except the basic cause of accidents — the operator himself. That's what Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State university, has to say on the matter; and he has good reason to know.

"In past years, each corn picker accident in sample counties across Iowa was investigated by an agricultural safety engineer," Wardle says. "As each accident was reconstructed, the injured person usually recognized immediately the action that caused the accident. Many of the accidents resulted from two or more causes."

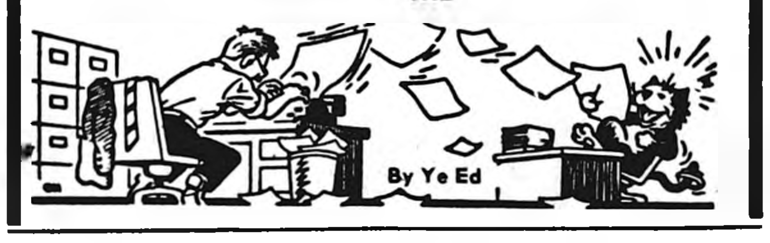
Getting in a hurry was a cause in about 30 per cent of the accidents. Using an unsafe method was an active cause in two-thirds of the accidents — although most of the injured farmers had not recognized the act as unsafe before the accident occurred. Then it was too late.

Characteristic unsafe acts were cleaning out the rolls by hand while the machine was running, brushing trash off the turning rolls, or pulling out a stalk caught in the rolls while the machine was still running.

"You can blame machinery for corn picker accidents," Wardle reminds. "but machinery is merely an agency; human actions are a basic cause of most farm accidents".

Belmond and vicinity have their full share of one-armed, one-handed, and minus-fingered farmers who will vouch that this is the case. Profit by THEIR mistake. Don't join them in becoming a statistic!

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



By Ye Ed

"Mail for you," we announced as TJ strolled into the office on the heels of a paper purchaser. "Private mail, apparently."

"How about that?" responded the delighted cat. "You got it opened?"

"Not until ordered to do so," we told him. "We haven't forgotten another time when we opened a letter of yours and you pouted for a week."

Slitting the envelope, we were about to flip the letter to the carpet, where TJ could inspect it at his convenience, when we noted:

"Either the sender has mice, or there's an intentional enclosure of some sort. Almost looks like seeds. You been ordering from a catalogue?"

DISREGARDING OUR PROFFERED information, TJ said very businesslike, "The letter. Let's have the letter. May be something I should make a prompt reply to."

Being careful not to lose the foreign matter, we plucked out the letter and passed it along, inquiring, "Who's it from."

Silently pronouncing each word as he progressed through the message, TJ finally looked up with a perplexed look on his face and asked, "Who the heck is Leon Jerome Schaal?"

"Leon Jerome is Russ Schaal's pedigreed English Setter," we informed him. "Since when did your fan club expand to include dogs? . . . Is that really from Leon?"

"THAT'S HOW IT'S SIGNED," the cat acknowledged, ordering sharply, "Don't tip that envelope!"

"We're not tipping the envelope," we grumbled. "What the dickens is this all about. Does it say what this stuff in the envelope is?"

"It certainly does," said TJ. "Those are marijuana seeds. What is this Leon? Some sort of a hippie?"

"Marijuana seeds!" we exploded, taking a quick look toward the front door to see for sure whether any strange figure was in view whose coat might conceal an FBI badge. "You gotta be kidding!"

"KIDDING, NOTHING, TJ INSISTED. "That's what they are! Marijuana seeds. Extracted from soybean samples by Russ Schaal in the course of testing 'em."

"What you going to do with 'em," we asked anxiously. "What you BETTER do is see if Timmy, the parakeet, likes marijuana — seed, that is. Either that, or dump 'em in the wastebasket."

"Just don't get in a hurry," the feline ordered. "It's my letter. They're my seeds. And I'll do with 'em as I see fit. . . . There wouldn't happen to be a flower pot in the back shop?"

"NOW LOOK HERE!" WE shouted. "We get in enough trouble around here, without looking for it. All we need is a federal rap for raising a pot garden! You outa your skull?"

"Who's going to know?" TJ demanded. "They oughta grow right nice in the sunshine that comes in the front window. We can say it's parsley, or somethin'. . . . Could make us a profitable little sideline."

With a groan, we muttered, "Sure! We could have Ed Gentry print us a neat sign on the window saying, 'Commercial Printing — Office Supplies — Pot.' . . . For Pete's sake! You act like you were on the stuff already!

"You might bear in mind," we added, "there's plenty of room in the basement for a cozy little still. . . . And if we could get Bob Wilson to run us off a batch of LSD at the high school chem lab . . . Gee! The possibilities are unlimited!"

"DON'T GET SARCASTIC," glowered the cat, "I'm just curious to see if I could get 'em to grow."

"Did you ever stop to think," we inquired, "that your pal Leon might be setting a trap for you? Since when did you get on such friendly terms with English Settlers?

"Go ahead," we spouted, "Plant 'em' PLANT 'em! But don't come crawling to us to be a character witness when that black wagon pulls up in front. We'll say we don't know you."

TJ GRINNED A WIDE CHESSIE-cat grin and said, "Boy! Do YOU get excited! Tell you what I'll do, I'll sleep on it. Just shove the envelope in the desk drawer there. It's already got just about everything in it BUT a potential marijuana crop."

Turning nervously to the typewriter and trying to regroup our thoughts for the purpose of cranking out an editorial, we muttered, "Things were sure simpler around here before YOU moved in."

Keep surroundings in mind—

Planned shade trees, shrubbery home assets

By
Julie Kinseth, Cindy Dickson
(Third and last of series)

Shade trees in many ways make our lives more comfortable, interesting and pleasing; so it is very important that trees should be chosen and located with care and good judgment.

Street trees may be set in a parking strip or just inside the sidewalk on private property. If the trees are in the parking strip, the city may have control over them, as to their selection and care.

Street trees serve not only those who live on the street, but everyone who passes by. Street trees should be located 40 to 100 feet apart, depending on conditions such as buildings and drive locations, and the mature spread of the trees. Avoid setting a tree directly in front of a building where it will block the view.

Keep poles in mind

Also consider utility poles and overhead wires in the parking area. A tree should never be planted directly under wires.

Lawn trees should be located so they will provide needed shade. Large shade trees are our best "air conditioners." The closer a tree is to a building, the less it will interfere with the view from the building.

Usually, shade trees close to buildings should be set 20 feet diagonally out from the corners of the buildings. Never locate a tree on center line with a window.

If a tree is not closely related to a building, it should be near a boundary planting or fence or close to a drive or walk. Do not set isolated trees out in the center of lawn areas.

Lawn size governs number

The number of shade trees on a property depends on its size. On small home grounds, there may be only one or two large shade trees, while on a large property there may be many, planted singly or in groups.

Avoid planting only one kind of tree. A variety is preferable. Combine trees that look well together because they have several characteristics in common. Use one kind of tree as the dominant variety and put in several of that kind.

The kinds of existing trees and their locations in the neighborhood must be considered when deciding on new tree plantings. A single property is not an island, it is part of a whole landscape.

Trees are the most permanent plants in a development. It takes time to grow mature trees.

Mature trees an asset

Fine, large, mature existing trees on a property increase its value. Their locations will usually determine the future location of structures, drives and walks, and the grading of the property. Only by careful, advance paper planning can they be preserved.

It is also necessary to plan the locations of new tree plantings carefully in relation to a whole development. This means paper planning in relation to everything that now exists and that can be anticipated as being needed in the fuure.

If trees are planted in the wrong places, later they may need to be moved or cut down. This will result in a great waste of time, energy and money.

Shrubs essential, too

Shrub borders are used as a background and screen for privacy for outdoor living. Plants in a shrub border should be varied in height, texture and numbers. The tallest shrubs should be selected so they will look well together and be interesting throughout the year (when in bloom, in fruit, in fall color and in the winter when without foliage).

Small ornamental trees, such as crabs, tree lilacs, hawthorns, along with large shade trees, may be planted in front of the border for added interest and contrast in size and form to provide shadow patterns on the lawn.

A fence with vines on it or a clipped hedge may be substituted for an informal shrub border. If the grounds are small, usually a fence is the best enclosure.

Individual shrubs and flowering trees may be put in at focal points to add interest along a fence or hedge. Flowers may be planted in front of shrub borders, hedges and fences.

In a gracious gesture, the people of Belmond said "thank you" Sunday to those who helped after the tornado struck their town on Oct. 14, 1966.

The formal program in City Park opened a year and a day after the great funneling wind took its toll of lives and property.

It was a gray, chilly day. There was a sharp wind with a bite to it as the program opened. "It wasn't quite so cold a year ago," Mayor Bob Misner said reflectively.

The hundreds gathered in front of the platform were silent, subdued. Their thoughts were fastened on the moment — 2:55 p. m. — when the funnel cloud touched down.

AS SPEAKERS BRIEFLY REcalled that day, the mood seemed to change. Speakers recalled the good things that had happened since. They told how this North Iowa community got off its knees, with help, and transformed itself remarkably in a year.

The eye could roam in all directions from City Park and find evidence of the new Belmond.

Rows of new homes, brightly painted, could be seen. The skyline had been altered as one-story houses replaced the older, taller ones.

THERE WERE REMINDERS, too, of the cruel force of the wind. Twisted steel beams and tumbled bricks still remain in one or two mid-town locations.

The most stark symbols of The Day are the Belmond "palms," the almost denuded trees that have only a cluster of leaves at the very top.

Oct. 14, 1966, will always be remembered. So will Oct. 15, 1967. This was a fine day.

The people of Belmond knew they didn't have to say thanks to anyone. They have done it already in many, many ways.

THEY SHOULD KNOW, TOO, that those who helped wanted to do so and, without question, got back much more than they gave.

All the repayment necessary is to drive through Belmond and see it alive and happy and ready to take on its troubles, one by one.

The proper benediction came The proper benediction came gram. The gray skies parted. The sun's rays lighted and warmed the town and a blue canopy soon overspread Belmond.

It was as though the elements were apologizing for the cruel happenings of Oct. 14, 1966. — Mason City Globe-Gazette

BC's Torkelson top man among gridiron scorers

—SPORTS—

A red-hot race for North Iowa conference football scoring honors has developed between Dewayne Torkelson of Buffalo Center and Dave Formanek of Garner, after the latter racked up three touchdowns last weekend against Forest City. Torkelson managed only one against Osage but kept a point in front of his Garner rival, 55 to 54.

They hold a wide edge over their closest pursuer, Mark Pederson of Osage, who has gathered 39 points. Formanek leads in touchdowns scored with nine, but Torkelson has regularly padded out his total with extra points.

One of the top 10 in NIC scoring has not a single touchdown to his credit. This is Paulo Canineu, Belmond's kicking specialist from Brazil, who has accumulated his 19 points on 10 conversions and three field goals — the latter a loop record for either a season or career.

Thirteen players have tallied more than 12 points, with 2 rounds of games yet to be played. No one is in a position to come close to the NIC one-season mark of 149 points amassed by Bob Misner of Belmond in 1964.

Belmond's is the only team with four individuals among these top scorers. Mike Klinefelter ranks 4th, Canineu 8th, while Don Havens and Rick Hawley are in a group of four tied for 9th.

Following are the scoring leaders (unaccounted for pat's from last Friday may make totals off a point or two in a few cases):

Jr. Broncs down Lake Mills 13-0

Belmond's froshmore gridders found Lake Mills a tough foe here Monday night but nevertheless kept their record free of defeat by taking the rangy Bullpups into camp, 13 to 0.

All of the scoring was done in the first half. Neither team was able to mount a sustained drive after intermission, although the visitors appeared scorebound once in the third period until stopped by a fumble after penetrating well into Belmond territory.

Dan Lonnevik finished off a Junior Bronc march in the first quarter with a one-yard plunge. A fumble after penetrating well into point, attempted on a run.

Lennie Johnson swept right end from about the 11 in the second quarter and also took the ball across for the point with a similar run to give Belmond its lead and wind up the night's scoring.

A pass picked off by Joey McLaughlin from between a couple of defenders was a key factor in the second touchdown advance.

Lake Mills' line gave up little yardage through the middle but did not defend equally well against wide runs. Johnson was the victors' best ground-gainer as he ran the quarterback option for consistent yardage.

Coach Jerry Kintzi's outfit will conclude its schedule next Monday night at Northwood. Despite tie games with Buffalo Center and Garner, the Junior Broncos can clinch at least a share of the NIC froshmore championship with a win over the Junior Vikings.

Prasch will head Lincoln schools

John C. Prasch, 48, a former Belmond High school teacher and coach, was recently selected by the Lincoln, Neb., board of education to serve as superintendent of the Lincoln school system.

Mr. Prasch has held a wide range of educational positions since his departure from Belmond. He was for a time associated with the Marion schools, later was in the educational field in Wisconsin.

He goes to Lincoln from Minneapolis, where he has been director of the Upper Midwest Educational Laboratory.

Cyclone backers again giving out tickets to games

The Wright County Cyclone club this year is again holding drawings among its members for complimentary tickets to the Iowa State university home football games.

Bill Sundell of Clarion got a free ducat to the New Mexico game and for the Kansas State contest, Charles Oldson of Eagle Grove got two and Bob Bernardt of Clarion, one.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Boyington of Clarion passed up last weekend's Missouri game, surrending their tickets to the Clarion Veterinary Clinic, drawn as an alternate.

Instead, the Boyingtons attended the Friday freshman game between Iowa State and Missouri so they could see their son Jerry play. He is a first-string linebacker for the Cyclone frosh.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Danker of Dows will attend the Nov. 11 game with Oklahoma on complimentary tickets they were awarded.

Injury-hampered froshmores tied by Garner 13-13

Belmond High's injury-ridden froshmore gridders on Monday of last week at Garner were held to a 13-13 tie, dropping the Junior Broncos into a tie for the conference leadership with Osage.

Tim Dirks suffered a broken thumb late in the first half, which ended with Belmond in front 13-0, and was unable to play the remainder of the game. Coach Jerry Kintzi's crew reached the end zone another time — in the first quarter — on a three-yard run; but the score was nullified by a backfield motion penalty and a second try on fourth down was no good.

Belmond scoring came on a 40-yard punt return by Lennie Johnson, Dirks running the point; and a Johnson to Joey McLaughlin pass of about 20 yards after which a plunge for conversion failed.

Garner score twice in the third quarter. The first TD resulted when one Garner player blocked a Bronco pass and a team mate grabbed the ball and ran it 60 yards for the marker. The point-after was scored on a run. A 35-yard pass play produced the second tally, after which the conversion attempt failed.

Dan Lonnevik suffered the recurrence of a leg injury in the second quarter and saw little backfield duty thereafter, which with Dirks' absence hampered the Junior Broncs' offense.

Randy Turner has been promoted to the varsity; John Greenwood, the other starting guard, was lost by an injury; and Dave Nelson was sick an unable to make the Garner trip. Rick Bonte has also been sidelined by a broken wrist suffered prior to the Forest City game.

Colts wallop FC in finale 28-13

Belmond's junior high Colts wound up their gridiron season Wednesday afternoon of last week with a 28-13 win over Forest City, concluding their slate with a 2-2 record.

It was 28-0 before the Papooses managed a couple of tallies in the final quarter.

Jim Just scored from eight yards out in the first quarter and on a six-yard jaunt in the second, also running both extra points. The first was set up by a pass interception by Nick Classick and the second by Ben Fuller's pass theft.

Mark Nelson also scored in the second stanza on a two-yard burst, Steve Burt running the point. Burt crossed the double-stripe from the five in the third quarter. Ken Robbins passed to Howard Beenken for the point.

Belmond opposes winless Vikings here on Friday

A pre-season poll of North Iowa conference coaches put Northwood among the teams touted as prospective challengers for the loop football title this fall. Bob Perry, the Viking coach, was not among them. He pointed to the presence of only five returning lettermen and suggested that a strong froshmore team from the year before could hardly make all that different with inexperienced juniors filling a number of key positions.

Perry proved right. The Vikings are soundly entrenched in the basement and have lost six in a row, including a 13-6 opener against St. Ansgar. Which adds up to making the Belmond Broncos the decided favorite when they play host to Northwood this Friday.

The fact nevertheless remains that the Vikings' junior-studded line-up could suddenly get into gear; and it was this possibility that Coach Chuck Stalker undoubtedly has had in mind in preparing the Broncos for their weekend engagement.

The Belmond-Northwood rivalry goes back 32 years and has been dominated by the Broncos in the past decade. Since 1957, Belmond has won nine of the 10 games played. Before the Blue-and-White ran off a string of eight consecutive victories beginning in 1959, the series was even at 12 games apiece.

THAT GLOWING SMILE on the face of Debbie Misner was prompted by her coronation as BHS Homecoming Queen a week ago Friday at halftime of the Belmond-Garner football game. The fact that the Broncos were in front 14-7 at the time — and that Debbie is customarily in cheerleader garb urging vocal support of the team — helped make the circumstances of the occasion just about perfect. The daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Robert Misner, Debbie was elected to reign over the Homecoming proceedings over two other nominees from the senior class, Jean Mennenga and Patsy Ainger.

with GRUEL-OMATIC liquid feeding system

Whatever your present dry ration, Gruel-Omatic guarantees you'll use 10% less to bring your pigs to market weight. This means you'll feed 11 pigs with Gruel-Omatic for what it now costs you to feed 10. You'll also be able to market your pigs 10 days to a month sooner if they are fed by Gruel-Omatic. Gruel-Omatic's liquid feeding system makes the difference. Gives you a true high-profit edge, plus these extra advantages:

- ☐ Fits your farm, your facilities
- ☐ Completely automated, eliminates labor
- ☐ Eliminates all other feeders, waterers
- ☐ Wean pigs easily at 2 to 3 weeks
- ☐ Reduces sow feeding costs up to 50%

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 6 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 12 PAGES AND SUPPLEMENT

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

We note by our exchange paper from Iowa Falls that a majority of the business and professional men there pride themselves on belonging to what is known as the "C Club" at Community Chest time. These downtown businesses pledge a minimum of $50 toward the Chest budget (quite a good-sized handful, representing the larger concerns, give more than that figure).

Canvassing of the "C Club" members had, by the first of last week, brought in $9,580 of the Chest's goal of $16,226 — with several of the major contributors still to be heard from. Iowa Falls' Chest goal of $3.00 per man, woman and child of the population. Belmond's — with the rural territory figured in — comes to less than $2.00.

That would make it appear that Belmond shouldn't experience too much difficulty in reaching its goal if contributors are fair and honest in deciding on the size of their donation. Iowa Falls' business people have accepted the fact that $5's and $10's WON'T do the job. We must, too! We're a community proud of itself. Let's make our Chest giving prove it.

Members of the NIAD tourism committee accuse Belmond of throwing them a curve. On the cafe place mats the committee put out last summer it was suggested that travelers make a stop at Belmond to view the tornado damage. Notes Extension Leader Martin Poe, who directs the NIAD setup: "They (the tourism committee) did not realize that the people of Belmond were going to work like a bunch of beavers and replace the town in much better shape than before, leaving hardly any tornado damage for sight-seers to view."

While our subscribers-from-a-distance may not like to see renewal time come around, WE do; and not just because it brings those renewal checks in. Pleasing us as much as the money (really!) are the notes that so frequently accompany the checks. Like the one from the Cort Morses out at Los Angeles, saying, "Although our generation are not very active, we still enjoy the Independent" — which we gather to mean that their contemporaries aren't making very much of the local news these days.

Keith Wiggins, from Fort Wayne, Ind., acknowledges that our "warning" card in saying "We're sure you won't want to miss a single issue" hits the nail right on the head. Keith admitted "we'd miss receiving the Independent, just as we miss the many wonderful people we knew in Belmond."

Then there was a note from the Gene Pearsons at Vandalia, Ill., kidding Ye Ed for the infrequency with which his bowling scores are appearing in the weekly "Top Tens." Gene wrote, "I am bowling some this year but for some reason I don't seem to be able to score too high. Must be some darned bowling operator using the wrong kind of grease (Ha! Ha!)." He, too, adds, "Still miss the many good Belmond people, but am able to keep up with the news thru your good paper." . . . We miss the gone-aways, too!

Chris Schulte of Alexander stopped in with an announcement from the McAllen (Tex.) Chamber of Commerce sent to past winter-vacationers there declaring that McAllen did NOT "blow away" during Hurricane Beulah. Chris was pleased to learn this, as he's been escaping Iowa winters down yonder for a number of recent years, and plans to go again this year. Belmond and vicinity are, as a usual thing, generously represented at McAllen and would have a problem of where-else-to-go if McAllen's hospitality were temporarily unavailable.

Mrs. Maurice Jones reports that Monday night's UNICEF canvass by the young people of four local churches yielded a dollar total surpassing all previous collections here for the United Nations Children's Fund. When the youngsters had completed their money count (helped by some donations of as much as $10) the receipts were found to total approximately $245.

This bettered the previous "best" of $234 that was collected the second time a UNICEF "Tricks or Treats" project was conducted here, 'way back in 1958.

The amount was also well over the average of recent years (omitting last year, when the tornado accounted for reduced giving and only $129 was taken in). Belmond, to our notion, can take a lot of satisfaction in this display of generosity; and the good that will be achieved in help for needy youngsters in many parts of the world will be considerable.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Hanson have received a letter from their son in Vietnam, Maj. Jerry Hanson, relating that he recently had a pleasant change from the usual types of cargo he flies aboard his Caribou. He was assigned to fly Martha Raye and the musical troupe of "Hello, Dolly" from base to base for their performances before service personnel stationed roundabout Vietnam.

As a general thing, his cargo consists of troops, ammunition, supplies — and on some unhappy occasions, wounded men or the bodies of combat victims.

The report reminded Ye Ed of an occasion during World War II that he had occasion to carry on a conversation with the same comedienne in a San Francisco bar. It was a brief one. Miss Raye stepped on our foot and begged, "Excuse me!" We'd noted her escort was an especially muscular gent and quickly assured her, "Quite all right." We were just glad we hadn't stepped on HER.

A TOUCHING SCENE from "The Diary of Anne Frank" is enacted here by Steve Courson and Elizabeth Cox, who have leading roles in the BHS fall play that will be presented next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings at 8:00 o'clock at Luick Memorial Auditorium. Based on the actual diary of a young Jewish girl hiding out from the Nazis in Amsterdam, Holland, during World War II, the dramatic story after being a best-seller was a Broadway hit and later a successful movie. Director Lynn Sorum believes the audiences will be impressed by the special stage setting as well as enjoying the excellent acting performances by what he considers one of his finest high school casts.

18 from Belmond listed for November jury duty

Eighteen persons with Belmond addresses have been drawn on the jury list for the Wright county district court term that will open on Monday, Nov. 20, with Judge Harvey Uhlenhopp of Hampton on the bench. It will be a four-week term.

Jurors will be instructed to report at 10:00 a. m. on Monday, Nov. 27.

Eagle Grove has 14 jurors on the list: Zoe Abrahamson, Claire Biondahl, Atta Christensen, Deloris Christopher, Virginia Egemo, Doris Franklin, Clara Gunderson, Patricia Johnston, Catherine Jorgenson, Ferne Larsen, Donald Newcomb, Alice Palm, Laura Taylor, John Terry, Elizabeth Theis.

Jurors were drawn from other communities as follows: Renwick — Elsie Clowes, LaVerne Hendriksen, Dorothy Thompson; Rowan — May Myers, Selma Riedel, Zelda Shaw, Cleo Tudor; Blairsburg — Maxine Bentley, Henry Evans; Woolstock — Joe Anderson; Williams — A. M. Otteros; Kanawha — Byron Ruter.

4 from Belmond on drama crews

Four Belmond High school alumni are working on stage crews assisting in preparation of the three-act comedy, "The Skin of Our Teeth," which will be presented by North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City on the four nights of Nov. 16-19.

Assigned to crews are Nancy Walrod, Don Kreitlow, Linda Hanson and John Faris.

This play, which was produced by the Belmond Community Theatre season before last, has a cast and staff of 55 for its NIAC presentation. In its successful Broadway production it starred Tallulah Bankhead and Frederic March.

Municipal voting next Tuesday—

Three contests promise lively election here

Belmond voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to cast ballots that will determine three contests for municipal offices and — barring write-ins in behalf of unannounced candidates for three council positions — return to office two present members of the city council ane one unopposed newcomer.

Opposing each other in the mayorality race are Russell Porter, who has served as councilman from Ward I the past four years, and Floyd Broshar, who will be making his debut as an office-seeker.

In Ward II the incumbent councilman, Glenn Crapser, who has represented that precinct since 1958, will have as an opponent Norman Pals, who is making his first bid for a public office.

Ward III will also have opposing candidates. The incumbent councilman, Bob Churchouse, first joined the city administration by appointment in the summer of 1958. Running against him is Don Smith, a candidate for public office for the first time.

Candidates running without opposition are: Frank Patterson, Ward I, who seeks to fill the vacancy left by Mr. Porter's decision to seek the mayorship; Frank Pollitt, who has served as councilman at-large since appointment to the council early this year; and Gene Griffin, who has been councilman at-large by appointment since last spring.

Mr. Porter has gained a degree of experience in guiding the city administration by serving as mayor pro tem under retiring Mayor Bob Misner. He served on the planning and zoning commission prior to his election to the council four years ago. He is assistant chief of the Belmond Fire department.

He has been a Belmond resident for just over 20 years, during which time he has been employed as an agent for Standard Oil company. He is a member of the Methodist church, of the American Legion and of the IOOF and Masonic lodges. He is a former Jaycee and for some time was active in Scouting.

Mr. Broshar has been a partner in the Followwill Implement company ever since coming to Belmond 16 years ago. He is a member of the official board of the Methodist church, has been an active member of the Belmond Jaycees and belongs to the Gridiron club. Following graduation from high school he attended Northeast Missouri State Teachers college at Kirksville.

Mr. Crapser for a number of years owned and operated his own garage business in Belmond and now is employed by McLaughlin Brothers Chevrolet, Inc. Belmond has been his home for 33 years. He is a long-time member of the volunteer fire department and of St. John Lutheran church.

His Ward II opponent, Mr. Pals, has lived in Belmond or vicinity since 1948 and graduated from Belmond High school in 1955. For the past 3½ years he has been employed by Central Soya in the maintenance department of the local plant and before that was for about an equal time an employee of General Mills. He has been an active member of the Bethany Reformed church and is a member of the National Rifle association.

Mr. Churchouse is a 20-year resident of Belmond and is manager and livestock buyer for Jacob E. Decker and Sons at that firm's local stockyards. He is a member of the Methodist church and of both the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars. He holds an honorary membership in the Future Farmers of America.

His Ward II rival, Mr. Smith, has been a Belmond resident since August of 1949. He was an employee of General Mills until the plant here was acquired by Central Soya. In 1964, when Central Soya leased the local facilities, he was president of Local 25 of the American Federation of Grain Millers. Mr. Smith is a member of the Odd Fellows lodge and is its current Noble Grand.

The only newcomer running on the same ticket with the incumbent council members, Mr. Patterson has made Belmond his home for the past 14 years. He is employed as a licensed federal grain inspector, testing grains coming into the Central Soya plant here. He is a trustee of the Trinity Lutheran church.

Councilman Pollitt has lived in Belmond for 11 years, coming originally as a member of the staff of Sheldon Chevrolet company. He is presently proprietor of the Superamerica Discount Service and Shopping station. He is on the official board of the Methodist church, a member of the IOOF lodge and Kiwanis club. He is also a member of the NIAD tourism committee.

Councilman Griffin has lived in Belmond 13 years, being employed as office manager for ACCO Seeds division of Anderson, Clayton company and before that in a similar capacity by Tomco Seed Corn company. He has served on the planning and zoning commission and is a member of St. Francis Catholic church and of the American Legion.

Polls will be open in the customary voting places: Ward I, library basement; Ward II, city hall; Ward III, entry hall to junior high building. Ballots may be cast from 8:00 a. m. to 8:00 p. m.

Only a small number will find themselves ineligible to vote due to residency restrictions. To qualify by residency, a voter need only to have lived in his present ward for a period of 10 days. Voting for county and state offices requires longer residency — 60 days in the county and six months in the state.

Voting will be done by individual paper ballot, not by machine.

Masonic 50-year honor to Townsan

T. A. "Ted" Townsan on Monday night of last week joined the growing number of 50-year members of King Solomon Masonic lodge at a dinner of that organization held at the Congregational church.

On hand to see him receive the plaque and pin denoting his long-time membership were five other local Masons who have been similarly honored in years past.

Among the 80-plus attending the dinner was a delegation of eight from the Masonic lodge at Osceola who brought with them a contribution in the amount of $174 toward the Belmond lodge's building fund.

Hospital Notes

On Oct. 25, Thomas Toft entered as an accident patient. Marvin Haukoos of Renwick and Herman B. Gruis entered for medical treatment.

Arnett Ostendorf of Klemme and Mrs. Curtis Morgan of Renwick entered Oct. 29 for medical treatment.

Mrs. Frances Jenison entered for medical treatment Oct. 30.

TALK SPONSORED BY FHA

Highway Patrolman James Bonnstetter of Milford was speaker at a special student assembly on highway safety Tuesday afternoon at BHS sponsored by the Future Homemakers of America. The FHA has a special project each month and arranged for the talk by the patrolman as a feature of their October project on "Safety."

Giving to Chest meeting schedule

Mrs. O'Larry Dorr, co-chairman of the Community Chest campaign with Mrs. Duane Anderson, reports that early returns from solicitors up to Tuesday noon of this week indicated giving to be close to the necessary pace to reach the $6,075 goal.

Of 108 workers with canvassing assignments, 18 had by that time turned in their envelopes with their territories completed. They had gathered in a total of $1,002.50.

Since approximately 16 per cent of the reports had yielded 16 per cent of the needed total, Mrs. Dorr regarded the campaign's start to be encouraging.

TURNER RATED "EXPERT"

FT. CAMPBELL, KY. (AHTNC) — Army Private Larry R. Turner, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Turner of Belmond, fired "expert" with the M-14 rifle near the completion of basic training at Ft. Campbell, Ky., Oct. 11. The expert rating is the highest mark a soldier can achieve on his weapons qualification test.

Two BHS girls officeholders in district FHA

Marlene Suntken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Suntken and a junior at Belmond Community High school, last Saturday at Clarion was installed as president-elect of District 3 of the Future Homemakers of America.

Thirty-five FHA members from Belmond High were among approximately 600 girls from the 18 schools in the district who attended the meeting. Accompanying the local delegation were Mrs. Carol Richards, homemaking instructor and FHA advisor, and Mrs. Maynard Johnston, the "Chapter Mother."

Miss Suntken will be presiding officer at the 1968 district meeting. Saturday afternoon, Laura Thompson, daughter of the Warren Thompsons, conducted the meeting as present district vice president.

Highlights of the meeting were a talk by Dr. Alberta Hill, head of the home economics department of Iowa State university at Ames, and a panel discussion of homemaking practices that featured a group of foreign students enrolled at ISU.

North Iowa conference schools in District 3 in addition to Belmond are Garner, Britt, Forest City and Osage.

SHIVVERS TAKES COURSE

Granville Shivvers, conservation technician with the Wright County Soil Conservation service, just recently completed a course in "Advanced Soil and Water" at the SCS training center at Lincoln, Neb. The two-week course is designed to enable the technicians taking it to better assist the public in applying conservation principles on their land.

Regional office to Dr. Leinbach

Dr. S. P. Leinbach last weekend was elected president-elect of the North Central Medical Conference as that six-state organization held its annual fall conference at St. Paul, Minn. He will assume the duties of the presidency next fall.

This latest recognition of the Belmond physician's standing in his profession follows numerous other honors that have come his way in recent years.

Year before last he was president of the Iowa Medical association. He has served on the state board of health and has held appointments to numerous other medical bodies, both state and national.

SP4 MIKE McLAUGHLIN, JR., RECEIVES ARMY DISCHARGE

Mike McLaughlin, Jr., arrived home Oct. 19 from Ft. Knox, Ky., where he had received his discharge. After two years of Army duty he was separated from the service with the rank of Sp 4.

Jaycees' parties for Halloween held 13th time

Belmond's Jaycees on Tuesday put on their annual parties for Belmond school children to the end of keeping the kids happily occupied and out of Halloween mischief. The boys and girls have come to regard this as a fair exchange, to the very extensive elimination of Halloween pranks by youthful ghosties and goblins.

Durwood LaRue was general chairman of the project, which has been an annual undertaking of the Jaycees since the chapter's organization in 1955.

Treats for lower-graders

On Tuesday afternoon, paper baskets of treats were distributed to the youngsters in kindergarten through 3rd grade (the morning kindergarteners getting theirs earlier). Each got an apple and a variety of candy.

From 7:00 to 8:30 p. m. the usual costume party was held in the junior high gymnasium for the children in grades four through six. There were prizes for best costumes and game winners and each boy and girl got a box of Crackerjacks on departure for home.

Skating party and dance

Junior high students enjoyed a skating party at the Skiye Roller Rink at Lake Cornelia, with pop as refreshments. Three school buses were used to transport the youngsters to the rink and back to town. This party lasted from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

There was dancing at the BHS student center for the high school students from 8:30 until 11:00 o'clock.

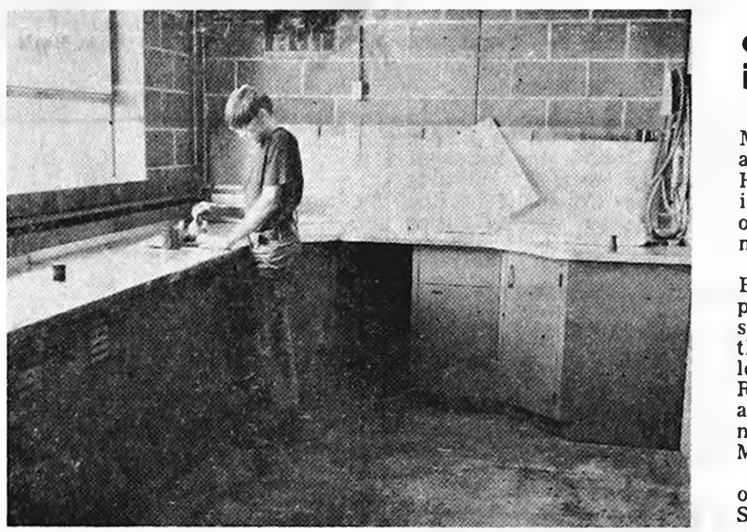
Because the boys and girls have learned that the Jaycee parties are real "fun affairs," there was good attendance at all of them.

Didio completes course in radio

CAMP PENDLETON, CALIF. (FHTNC) — Marine Private First Class Dennis C. Didio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlyle A. Didio of Belmond, has completed the field radio operators course at Marine Corps Base, Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The course teaches techniques in the reception and transmission of the International Morse Code, basic naval radio procedures and radio equipment maintenance.

All new radio operators receive a familiarization of all field radio relay systems and the working characteristics of all communication equipment.



FINISHING ROOM OUTFITTED WITH CENTRAL SOYA HELP

Allen Suby, BHS shop instructor, reports that materials and equipment donated to his department in recent months by Central Soya have helped greatly in better outfitting the department for the convenience of the students.

He estimates that an outlay of $850 in cash would hardly have sufficed to acquire from suppliers the items that have been contributed by Central Soya.

Pipe, which would be expensive to buy, was received in sufficient quantity to build handy racks for lumber and steel storage and to make three gas engine stands that have proved very useful to the manual arts students.

The articles also included a storage stand for small gas engines and a set of steel floor cabinets that completely fill the wall space along two sides of the finishing room.

Scrap pipe also provided the students with the material for a wide variety of projects, ranging from the making of an ice-chipper to the contruction of a picnic table.

In the accompanying picture is Mike Nelson, son of the Gene Nelsons, who is shown at work on counter space provided by the floor cabinets in the finishing room.

Mr. Suby says, "Central Soya's generosity and cooperation have enabled us to make important improvements in the shop department that could not have been fitted into its annual budget at all, or would have taken much longer to acquire. The boys and I are grateful to Central Soya for its helpfulness."

DAVENPORT GUESTS

Mrs. Harry Markham and Karleen of Davenport and Mrs. Louis Kramer, Debra and Gregory of Le Claire spent Saturday and Sunday at the Virgil Johnson home.

Applications needed now—

Wanted: AFS host family for '68-9

Belmond's chapter of the American Field Service is beginning its search for a host family to take into their home the AFS student who will be attending Belmond Community High school during the 1968-69 school year.

Mrs. Luin Cox, chapter president, says, "Belmond was very late this year in submitting the name of applicant families and ran a serious risk of not obtaining a visiting foreign student for the current school year.

"Applications are expected to be in to the American Field Service heldquarters in New York before the end the November. Consequently, we are urging that families interested in playing host to a visiting student to make that interest known now."

Both Belmond families who have taken an AFS student into their homes will enthusiastically recommend the experience as a rewarding one, Mrs. Cox comments.

Two years ago, the Hugh Clarkes played host to Valorie Bayley of South Africa, with whom they continue to correspond regularly and whose stay in their home they found most delightful.

This year, the Loren Bamfords are hosts to Paulo Canineu, a pleasant young man from Brazil who has readily achieved the friendship and respect of his BHS schoolmates.

A soccer enthusiast prior to his visit to this country, Paulo has made himself an important asset of the Bronco football team as a kicking specialist and presently ranks as the 11th highest scorer in the North Iowa conference.

George H. Edgell, AFS director of programs, advises Mrs. Cox that the Field Service has a special problem in obtaining families that can host a boy student. But the chapter president emphasizes that families of a make-up to accept either a girl or boy as a guest in their home are encouraged to apply.

The American Field Service's student-exchange program is recognized as a very vital force for better understanding between the U. S. and the 60 different countries that participate in the program.

Basic requirements for being a host family are not difficult to meet, Mrs. Cox notes. The parents should be at least 37 years old and have — or have had — children in the family of high school age.

It is desirable that the foreign student have a separate room and that a "brother" or "sister" of his or her approximate age be a member of the family, but neither is completely necessary.

Visiting students will range from 16½ to 18½ years of age and are selected with detailed care for adaptability and capability. The host family will provide food and lodging — but more important, they will be expected to provide affection, care and guidance.

Rev. M. L. Jones of the Methodist church heads the AFS committee on family selection. He will be glad to talk to any couples who have and interest in hosting an AFS student and to provide additional information.

Tornado took old garage—

Belmond Motors into new home

Belmond Motors, Inc., this week is moving into its handsome new building on the site of the old establishment that was very largely demolished in the tornado of a year ago.

Jack Granzow says that the square-footage provided by the 50x-122½-foot structure is a little less than the old building contained but the floor plan is so much better arranged that the new garage seems much more spacious.

All the building is of steel panels except for a stone undertrim that decorates the glassed showroom in the front. The showroom will accommodate from five to seven cars, depending on model, whereas the former showroom would hold only three.

There is floor heat in the showroom, provided by one of the three furnaces with which the building is equipped.

Compared to the single hoist that the old garage had, the new one has two stationary hoists and a third that is portable. There are eight service stalls, compared to the previous six.

Before Thanksgiving, four new illuminated signs are to be installed to embellish the garage and used car lot across the street.

A large sign at the southwest corner will read "Ford — Mercury;" over the overhead doors opening into the repair department will be one reading "Service;" and also on the south will be one reading "Belmond Motors, Inc." The fourth sign, "Used Cars," will decorate the lot north of Lloyd's Body Shop.

The cement block building that once housed Kennedy's Garage, adjoining the Congregational church property, will be torn down in the spring. After it has been removed, all the space to the north and east of the new building will be blacktopped to provide parking for customers and cars awaiting repairs.

Mr. Granzow says that an open house is planned in December, to coincide with the firm's 10th anniversary, at which time the public will be invited to inspect all the new facilities.

Belmond High's Broncos played slightly more than a half of football here Friday night, which sufficed to defeat Northwood 28 to 13. They looked like a pretty presentable ball team in the first half, netting 190 yards to a minus-10 for the Vikings and piling up a 21-0 lead.

In the third quarter, after another quick tally had stretched the Broncs' advantage to 28-0, the Blue-and-White managed only one 1st-and-10 in the balance of the period. As the quarter neared its end, Northwood was forced to punt from its own 33 but a roughing penalty gave the Vikings new life with a first down on their own 46.

As the period ended, the visitors were 3rd and a yard to go toward their first earned 1st-and-10 of the game (they'd gotten another on a roughing call in the first half).

Interception stops Broncs

Coach Chuck Stalker filtered some reserves into the line-up at this point and the Viking offense began to roll for the first time. Five plays took the ball to Belmond's 11 and the 1st-string line returned to action. Their enthusiasm of the first half was gone, though; four more tries gave the visitors their first marker on a four-yard flip from Jerry Roppe to Brian Bestul.

—SPORTS—

Belmond showed signs of going for a compensating touchdown after the kickoff and got to Northwood's 24 in four plays, a Don Havens to Joel Gabrielson pass netting 29 of the yards. But Dan Reeder then snagged a Havens toss on the nine and Broncos last push of the evening was ended.

Starting from Belmond's 43 after a fairly short Bronco punt, the Vikings marched to a second score in eight plays. Passes from Bestul to Redder gained 24 and 11 yards along the way, and Roppe finally swept into pay territory around right end from five yards out. Schutz kick was wide as the clock stood at 54 seconds left in the game.

2nd half Northwood's

Northwood outdowned the winners seven to three in the last half and outgained them 111 to 103, compared to Belmond's edge of six 1st-and-10's to one in the first half and a net yardage advantage of 190 to -10.

Belmond's opening touchdown came after about 7½ minutes of play, Havens going over from the one after Mike Klinefelter had stepped off 28 yards in two carries to get the ball there. Paulo Canineu kicked the conversion, and added three more later for a perfect night on points-after.

It took just a mite more than another 7½ minutes for the Broncos to tally again, the march starting after Greg Steenblock nabbed a Viking fumble on Belmond's 35.

Rick Hawley and Klinefelter divided carrying duties, with Lennie Johnson — who quarterbacked the team very capably during the second period — contributing six yards on a sweep. Klinefelter went over from the seven to climax the eight-play advance.

Johnson showed that he should be a bright spot in the Belmond backfield for the next couple of years when the sophomore later found Lee Barkema with a well placed pass that score from Belmond's 43 — a 57-yard pay-off play.

Hawley set up the final Belmond TD early in the second half by snaring a Bestul pass on the 50-yard line and dashing back all the way to the Viking seven.

Barkema gets 2nd TD

Hawley gained three before a Bronco offside delayed matters a bit; but a Havens-to-Barkema pass then negotiated the needed nine yards for the fourth marker.

Only 2½ minutes of the third quarter had elapsed. The rest of the way, the Blue-and-White brigade seemed unable to stir up very much interest in the proceedings, with the results already described that brought the final count to 28-13.

Gene Pals, Mac Gabrielson, Dennis Knoll and Greg Fuller were maily instrumental in Northwood's rough going during the first half, with Kevin Griffin — who helped set up the first Bronco score with a fumble recovery — also getting in some effective licks. Hawley added several sparkling plays as a linebacker.

Bulldogs clinch share of crown; tumble Ventura

Kanawha's Bulldogs clinched at least a share of their third straight North Star conference football championship by trimming Ventura last Friday night, 16 to 0. Coach Bob Ericksons Bulldogs have only Meservey-Thornton yet to contend with, and a victory over the Lancers at Thornton tomorrow night would wrap up exclusive claim to the '67 gridiron title.

After a scoreless first half at Ventura, Norman Baker broke loose for a 50-yard scoring jaunt in the third quarter and Ron Liter sped 20 yards with an intercepted pass for a fourth quarter TD. Besides converting the two extra points, the winners added another two an a safety in the final period.

Sheffield made use of a third quarter safety against Corwith-Wesley to avoid and upset loss at Corwith. The Spartans eked out an 8-7 decision to keep their share of No. 2 spot as Boone Valley handed Klemme its fifth defeat, 25-6.

CAL Community will seek to defend its No. 4 position in the standings at Ventura this Friday night after edging Meservey-Thornton at home last weekend, 12-6. Short plunges by John Parks and Kent Morton climaxed drives of 80 and 65 yards to even the winners' mark at 3-3.

CHIROPRACTIC BEST FOR WHIPLASH

Today "whiplash" is a common word, and in this age of frequent accidents, both major and minor, whiplash injuries to the spine have become a common and distressing problem. Automobile accidents must absorb the blame for the majority of whiplash injuries, but falls, blows to the head, and sudden jerking of the head can also cause a whiplash-type strain of the neck and back. Whiplash can and does have severe and far reaching effects on the human body. The effects may be noticed immediately, or develop slowly weeks or months after injury. The most common effects of whiplash are: headaches, pain or stiffness in neck or back, dizziness, fatigue, loss of balance, nausea, numbness of arms, feet or legs, muscle spasms, disturbances to the heart or stomach, periods of depression or irritability, double vision, and many, many more symptoms.

Unfortunately, most medical physicians do not understand the distressing effects whiplash holds for its victims. Whiplash correction requires special skill and experience, and today's doctor of chiropractic is best trained to care for this type injury. More than 500 insurance companies recognize the benefits of chiropractic care in the correction of whiplash.

ARE WE REALLY LIVING LONGER?

We are living as long as the statistical figures indicate. The medical statistical scientists have been erroneously saying that we have gained about 19 more years of life when it was anywhere from nothing to about 5 years, depending on our age. Now the indications are that those 5 years will soon be erased, due to cancer, cardio-vascular and other prevalent ailments. Hermalin, writing in The Science News Letter estimates that there probably will be a smaller proportion of people over 65 in the year 2000 than there are now. Dr. Rene Dubos of The Rockefeller Institute reports that: "Contrary to general belief, life expectancy past the age of 45 has not increased significantly any-where in the world." — From Prevention.

HINTS TO PREVENT BACK PAIN

1. Sleep on a good mattress that supports your weight. 2. When you first awaken, stretch your muscles. 3. Sit, stand, and walk straight. Be tall. 4. Don't work for long periods in a cramped position. Stretch occasionally. 5. In lifting, bend your knees, not your back. 6. In bending, bend straight, not in a twist. 7. In making long drives, get out and stretch every two hours. 8. Don't carry heavy loads on side of your body, balance the weight. 9. Don't try to lift excessive weight, get help. 10. Get regular exercise. 11. Consult your doctor of Chiropractic for regular spinal check-ups.

TRANQUILIZERS MAY CAUSE HEART DAMAGE

The long-term use of tranquilizers may cause heart damage that often ends in sudden death, according to an Arkansas research team. Writing in the Journal of the AMA, Drs. Howard L. Richardson, Kathryn I. Graupner and Mary E. Richardson, reported that studies of the hearts of four men — all long-time tranquilizer users — who had died suddenly, revealed degeneration of the inner heart muscle tissue and blood vessels. Similar defects were produced in the hearts of animals fed phenothiazine tranquilizers and subjected to conditions of stress, they explained. — From Health Bulletin.

Education Week query: "How Good are Our Schools?"

The theme of American Education Week, which will be observed nationwide during Nov. 5-11 beginning next Sunday, is "How Good are Your Schools?" On the domestic scene, there are probably few questions we can ask ourselves that are more important.

Teachers, themselves, have in the past several years become much more insistent than ever before in demanding that the communities in which they are employed give a fair and honest answer to the question. This is all for the good, because no one should be more keenly concerned with what the answer is than the people directly involved in the educational process.

An Iowa research survey in 1961-62 showed that people typically regard that their own schools are above average but that schools in other towns are not so good. This suggests that an unprejudiced assessment of one's own educational system is a rather difficult thing to arrive at.

One thing is certain, truly high educational standards are difficult to attain and must be unceasingly pursued.

That the Belmond Community schools are not without shortcomings is known as well by the administration and faculty members as by anyone — probably much better than by either the students or their parents.

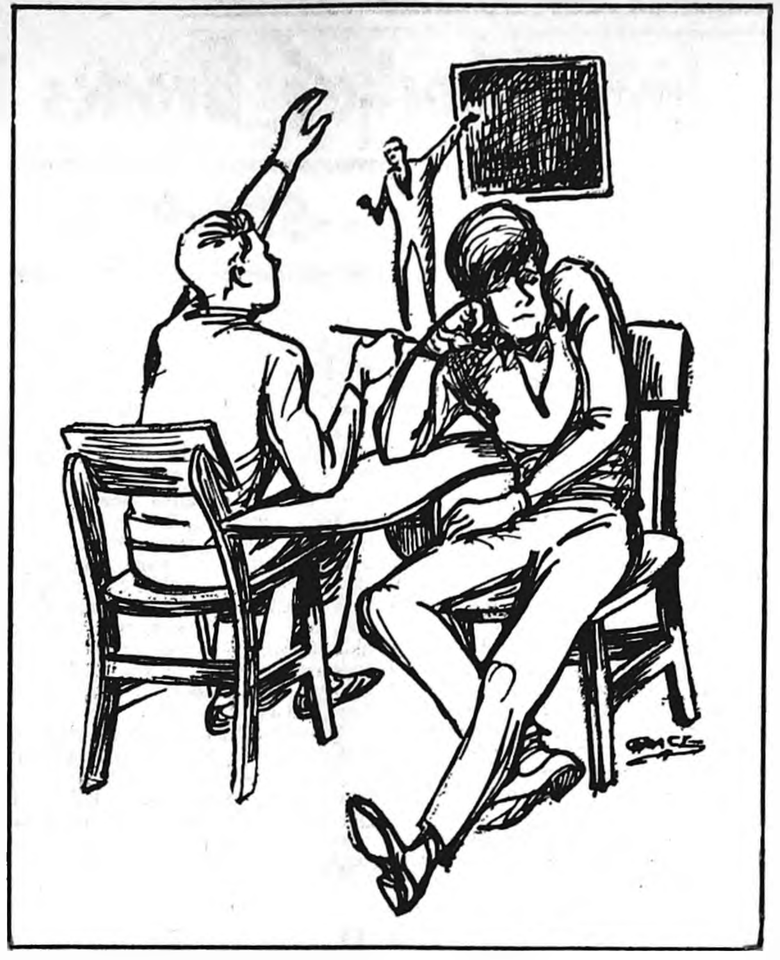
We believe an honest effort is made by the school board to follow recommendations of the administration and faculty for the betterment of our schools. And we'd guess that the determination of the administration and faculty quite definitely exceeds the average in a continuing resolve to bring about steady improvement in educational achievement.

There are few dependable methods for measuring one school system against another due to variables involved. One means provided is the Iowa Educational Development tests that place a class in a specified area in a rating percentile on both the state and national basis. This would seem a reasonably accurate measurement. But if one school tries hard to keep potential drop-outs enrolled, and another gives them short shrift and kicks them out when the first opportunity presents itself, the latter is going to benefit rating-wise by not encouraging the difficult and indifferent student to continue in class. Yet, the first school may be more fully living up to its educational obligations.

Two means of measuring the quality of local schooling are to keep an eye on how your students make out as collegians and to receive comments from parents who have either moved into or out of the local district and so have basis for comparisons with one other system, at least.

On both scores, we feel quite sure that Belmond Community district has cause for satisfaction. By and large, the BHS students going on to college appear well equipped to tackle higher education. And more often than not, families moving in or out of the community find that the Belmond teaching methods and pace of classroom progress compare very favorably with whatever system the children of the family have departed from or newly entered.

In summary, we believe that a quite satisfactory answer can be given by Belmond Community School district to question, "How Good are Your Schools?" We hope the parents of the 1,000-some students enrolled in the system appreciate this fact.



A difficult goal: meeting all students' needs

That "swoose" tax law's certainly raising hob

A month has passed since Iowa's horrendous sales tax law went into effect, and in the 33 days of its legal existence this "swoose" of a bill has probably been the subject of more conversation in the state than the Vietnam war, riots, civil liberty marches or even politics — all together.

We call it a "swoose," because if ever a legislative effort turned out to be "half swan, half goose," certainly this one has. Perhaps we're being too kindly. We're inclined to believe that the "goose" element outweighs the "swan."

The bill's major objectives were admirable enough — relief to the property tax payer by increasing the amount of state aid to education. But, ah! The implementation!

Nobody — but NOBODY! — knows with any certainly exactly all that is taxable under the law's provisions. Certainly our poor bookkeeper doesn't. There are enough foggy areas in the single business of printing-and-publishing to drive a bookkeeper completely distraught. And we can well imagine that our line of business has no monopoly on sales tax mysteries.

Some trades, like that of barbering, have found it possible to avoid all dilemma and inconvenience by simply adding to the pre-tax service charge a small additional even-figure from which the tax will be extracted with a slight profit bonus for the trouble involved. We don't make this comment critically; just enviously.

Other lines of business who have never had to before now are having to involve themselves in the game of penny-penny-who's-got-the-penny that merchants of retail goods have been participants in ever since the original Iowa sales tax went into effect. If they are providing a clearly defined service for local consumption, though, it's as simple as 1-2-3. Just add and collect that three per cent tax, keep accurate enough records to satisfy the tax inspector — and welcome to the club.

Now, if you're a well-digger, that's something different. The law itself specified drillers for water, oil, etc., etc., are providing a taxable service. But the tax commission ruled that drilling a water well is "new construction" — and although the bill clearly makes new construction taxable, the tax commission has ruled that it is NOT. Did we lose you?

However, this isn't really so much of a puzzler. Take one of ours, for example (just a SMALL one). We get our subscription to the Christian Science Monitor by publishing its approximate cost equivalent in advertising. The price is $25; but to meet it, we publish a seven-inch ad five times — which comes to $26.25.

While no money changes hands, do we pay three per cent on $25 . . . or on $26.25 . . . or, because it's out-of-state advertiser, do we just forget the whole thing? We've got some other quandaries that beat this one all hollow, incidentally.

To top it all off, a Davenport district court judge last Thursday suspended collection of the advertising tax by the state pending the outcome of a suit challenging it constitutionalty. Meanwhile, we go ahead and collect it, with the prospect of returning what we've collected if the supreme court rules this section of the law to be unconstitutional!

Although we appreciate what the legislators were trying to do for the property tax payer (what they ACTUALLY did, we suspect, was relieve him of some property tax at the expense of several times as much money in sales tax) and what they did in increasing state aid to the schools, we're plumb exasperated with the outcome.

Before they return to their lawmaking duties another time (some WON'T), we feel very strongly that every legislator who voted for the sales tax bill should have to copy on a piece of paper 1,000 times, " I will never again vote in favor of a bill unless I KNOW what is in it." And we'd say that "KNOW" should, just exactly as indicated, be carefully printed in capital letters.

Certify your "Griping Permit;" vote next Tuesday

Belmond voters next Tuesday will have an opportunity to renew their "griping licenses" when the biennial municipal election is held. We offer a reminder that if you don't vote on who is to run your city for the next two years, you lose any justified right to complain about how they do the job.

When all the furore arose over sale of city property north of town to National By-Products, a petition bearing 121 signatures was presented to the council in opposition to the move. A check of the poll books from the 1965 city election revealed that THREE of the objectors had voted at that time.

Any qualified elector is, of course, fully entitled to sign a petition of either protest or support relative to a proposed government action. But one can do it in much better conscience if he helped elect to office (or endeavored by voting to defeat) the officers he hopes to guide in this manner.

With contests for the mayorship and two council representatives, next week's election promises to be the liveliest in some time. We frankly believe the incumbents have been doing a good job; but their opponents are — happily — not expressing disapproval of the men they seek to unseat on the grounds that the administration has been "too progressive."

A forward-looking administration would appear in prospect, regardless of the election's outcome. On the other hand, experience is an asset of some value to ANY officeholder.

However the election comes out, there should be complaints on the part of no one if that outcome is decided by a strong, representative turnout at the polls.

Old courthouses

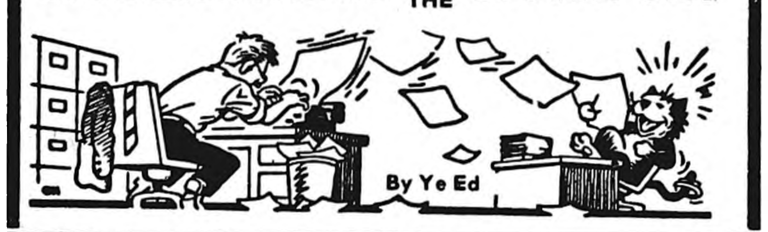
While Hardin county wrestles with the problem of what it should do about its rapidly deteriorating courthouse, it may be of some small comfort to know that Marion county in south central Iowa is in a similar "fix."

The Marion county courthouse at Knoxville is in much the same situation as Hardin's . . . old, in poor repair and a hazard to the persons who work there. Like the building at Eldora, it also figures that a remodeling job would cost about $450,000.

However, the residents of Marion county are contemplating the alternative of a new courthouse at a cost of some $650,000. Furthermore, some of them figure that a new building should be built not on the square in Knoxville, but on a site near the edge of town more accessible to all county residents.

One final similarity exists between Hardin and Marion . . . neither seems to be giving serious study to the idea of multi-county mergers. — Hardin County Times

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



"How were the stripes on the wooly bears this year?" TJ popped at us as we came in from a picture-taking assignment and settled in front of the typewriter.

"Beg your pardon?" we responded.

"The wooly bear. Isia isabellae. You know, those caterpillars that are supporsed to predit how rough a winter's coming," the cat explained.

"Don't go spouting Latin at ME," we told him. "Surprised you could remember 'isabella' whatever-itis, to say nothing of pronouncing it. Which you probably did wrong.

"TO GET TO YOUR QESTION, we can't rightly recall running into any whatchamacallems. Anyway, you don't believe that stuff, do you?"

"I read in a farm paper," the feline insisted, "that if the woolies have wide brown bands the winter'll be mild. If the black bands are widest, it indicates a lot of cold and snow. And if isabella shows up in an all-black coat — head for Florida . . . or perhays McAllen'd do."

"Never did place much stock in weather superstitions," we declared. "Like, take the squirrels. In the first place, if they're so durned smart why do so many of 'em manage to get run over?

"THE CLAIM IS, THAT IF THE squirrels are storing a lot more nuts than usual, plan on getting plenty of mileage out of your earmuffs. Or if they leave off hiding them in the ground and start storing them in a hollow tree high up, it means high drifts are on the way."

TJ gave us a quizzical look and said, "I'm probably different; but I've really never spent much time countin' nuts hid by squirrels. I can see where it might qualify as a pastime if a fellow didn't have much to do; but wouldn't it be simpler just to read the Old Farmer's Almanac to see what the weather forecast is?"

We admitted, "We've wondered about the squirrel bit, ourself. Any squirrel in our yard, whether he's got a nut in his mouth or not, is pretty apt to be high in a tree if Pup's on the jpb.

"OH, THEY DO CRAWL DOWN to a lower level now and again so they can look him in the eye while they read off his pedigree. We've always wondered if maybe Pup doesn't under stand a little bit of squirrel talk. He sure takes offense at some of the things those squirrels call him!"

"Which," TJ interrupted, "is entirely beside the point. We're trying to figure out what the weather prospects are, remember? Now, it also said that if the basement is pretty well infested with spiders, crickets or other crawling or hopping creatures, bad weather's a-comin'. How you fixed for hopping and crawling creatures up at the Gallagher manse?"

"WELL, THERE ARE THE TWO toads in the basement," we informed him. "But they're regular fixtures. Right now, they got their winter holes dug between the foundation rocks in the old part of the cellar. And there they stay until spring comes.

"Unless," we added, "one of 'em comes out now and again on a warm day just to see if the missus is in good voice. She KNOWS they're there. . . . And they don't bother her a bit, as toads. But if she just catches one out of the corner of her eye in mid-hop, it's always good for a "Yipe!"

TG chuckled, "They apparently got a sense of humor, even if they don't play the role of the witch in the weatherhouse so good. . . . Wierd people! Keepin' toads in the basement.

"NEVER MIND," WE GRUMPED. . . . "How about the number of foggy days in August?"

"In the first place, remember we were on vacation for the first half of August, out in Montana?" the cat responded, "and in the second place, what's that got to do with blizzards and such?"

"Just that the number of foggy days in August equal the number of snows that winter'll bring. That's all."

"Do tell!" the cat exclaimed. "Having missed so much of the month at home, guess we're plumb outa luck on that one."

"AFTER A BRIEF SILENCE, HE chirped cheerily, "All is not lost, though. We can BACK into it, if we play our cards right. All we got to do is keep careful count of how many snowfalls we get between now and next spring — and there you are!"

"There we are WHERE?" we demanded.

"We'll know how many foggy days there were last August!" TJ explained, whereupon he seemed to lose interest in the conversation. That suited us. For our part, we've always suspicioned that nature doesn't do much better at predictions than the weather bureau. And neither can beat washing the car or planning a picnic.

Histories of Goodell and Avery twp. related

(Histories of Avery township and vicinity were prepared by Vern Schluter, a present township trustee, for presentation at a recent meeting of the Hancock County Historical Society. Those for Goodell and Avery township are published here.)

GOODELL

The town of Goodell was founded in 1884 when the depot was built beside the railroad. It was named after John Goodell, one of the financial backers of the railroad.

Several houses east of the river at Amsterdam were moved near the station site. The first general stores were opened in 1885 by G. N. Elder, E. L. Tiede and J. McGuire. The post office was transferred from Amsterdam in 1886.

A tornado on July 4, 1888, destroyed part of the new village. William Stockwell, infant son of C. Stockwell, was killed when the family's home was destroyed. The pioneers were not discouraged, and they rebuilt their homes.

The town was incorporated in 1890.

Early-day businesses

Ole Sandberg operated an early blacksmith shop and continued in business for over 50 years. Henry Mayor had the first furniture store and undertaking parlor. He later sold out to Ed and Eliza Cashman.

John Lasher had the livery barn and B. F. Porter the harness shop. A. J. Bauman started the bank in 1892. He also built one of the first business buildings in Meservey and was the first in Goodell to own an automobile.

Goodell for a time had a weekly newspaper, "The Globe," and a movie theatre, "The Star."

A fire in December of 1919 destroyed the entire north side of the Main street business block and many of the businesses burned out did not rebuild.

1st GHS grad's in 1916

The school was built in 1893 and the first 12-grade high school class graduated in 1916. There were six in this class: Ivan Lowenberg, now of Clare; Walter Beier, Fort Dodge; Howard Kepner, East Moline, Ill.; and three now deceased, Lawrence Smith, Henning Sandberg and Florence McNulty.

Goodell High had championship teams in basketball and baseball in 1936-37.

AVERY TOWNSHIP

Avery township was settled by Anson Avery in 1854. His son George was born in 1857, being the first white, male child born in Hancock county. A baby girl was born to an immigrant family in Amsterdam four months earlier, but their name was lost after the family moved on westward.

On the first township board were: Thomas MacGill, B. C. Haskins and C. M. Church, with Cephas Church as clerk. The present boundary lines of this township were made by this board in 1862.

The first two schoolhouses were built in 1862 on Sections 20 and 33. The sites, 13 rods square, were purchased for five dollars apiece from Anson Avery and Orick Church. M. P. Rosecrans was the contractor. On the school board were Anson Avery, John Christie and Charles Church.

First election in '61

The first general election for the township was held on Oct. 8, 1861 at the home of Charles Church. The results of this election were: trustees — Charles M. Church, Thomas MacGill and B. Brockaway; assessor — H. W. Brockaway; road supervisor — Orick Church; clerk — Cephas Church.

Chosen as justices of the peace were C. W. Church and S. Brockaway. (Note — S. Brockaway was elected trustee, constable and J. P. at the some election. What a politician he was!)

No story of the township would be complete without mentioning James and Lorinda Preston, a Negro couple who lived on the farm now owned by James Carlson.

The bridge over the Iowa river by that place to this day is known as the "Nigger Bridge." The Prestons were born in slavery in Tennessee and moved to Missouri with their master while they were children.

Freed as wedding gift

When James and Lorinda were married, their master gave them their freedom for a wedding present and helped them get out of Missouri into Iowa. They lived in Avery township many years.

Mrs. Preston died in 1886 and is buried in the Amsterdam cemetery. The family moved to Minnesota and contact with them was afterwards lost. Jim was much in great demand at pioneer dances as he was a master of the violin.

The township has always been strongly Republican in politics. In the days before woman sufferage, the Democrat party in the township consisted of seven non-conformists who dared to defy the GOP elephant. They were John Costello, Frank McNutt, Jack Zelie, Frank McNulty, William Allaban, William Beier and Thomas Cashman.

Early township officers

The township had many different county officers in the early years of it's exisence. Some were: J. M. Elder and M. P. Rosecrans, county judges; Reuben Church and H. W. Brockaway, county treasurers; John Christie and George Elder, county auditors.

Benoni Haskins, county sheriff; A. D. Hiams, county recorder: Charles W. Church, county supervisor; C. M. Colver, county representive.

Martin Bachman, county supervisor, and Dr. George Snearly, county coroner, were the only Hancock county officials elected from Avery township in the Twentieth Century.

Avery township has many fine farms and has a present population of nearly 400. The present trustees are: Paul Kramer, Edgar V. Mayhew and Vern Schluter. Anson Avery, great grandson of the original settler, is township clerk.

Chance for revenge Friday—

Imps shocked Broncs back in '59

—SPORTS—

As the Belmond High gridders set forth tomorrow night for their final game of what has been a rather disappointing season, there may be some wondering in the ranks of their followers just how good the memories of the Broncos are.

Eight years back, none of them were even in junior high. Were they, nevertheless, following the BHS football team of 1959 despite their tender years? And if so, do they remember how Osage deprived Belmond of exclusive claim to the North Iowa conference gridiron championship that fall?

The Broncs had beaten a tough, Everett-coached Britt eleven 20-12 to have a clean NIC mark up to their finale at Osage. They held a 7-6 edge on the Green Devils with only a little more than two minutes showing on the clock and the ball in the Imps' possession but deep in Osage territory. Then on a fourth down came a long pass, a lateral — and an Osage touchdown that made the final score 12-7 and forced Belmond to share the crown with Osage and Britt.

Imps shooting for title

Friday night, the Broncos will no longer be a contender for the current NIC championship; but Osage will be hungrily pursuing a share of the title for the first time since that unhappy night in '59. If the Broncos' memories are keen enough, they should be well aware of the opportunity they have to even accounts for the 1959 disappointment — and to shove the Imps' title hopes into storage for one more season.

If they get the job done, they will have to cope successfully with 2nd toughest defense in the league. Coach Warren Dobry, in his first year as the Imps' mentor, has created a defense that's allowed an average of only 137 yards gained per game in conference play.

Bronco defense "leaky"

Osage emphasis has been on ball control. The Green Devils have averaged only 216 yards per game themselves — but that has sufficed to win all their starts except their meeting with Garner, when an accidental safety (a ball carrier's knee touching ground in the end zone) climaxed a successful 4th-quarter Cardinal rally, 14-13.

Against this rugged defense Coach Chuck Stalker will be pitting the loop's second best offense — an average of 317 yards per outing. But Belmond also has one of the leakiest defenses, one that has yielded an average of 264 yards per game and which may be hard-pressed to hold the Imps to their customary average of 216 yards gained.

Pederson tough to stop

In Mark Pederson, Osage fullback, the Broncos will be faced with stopping probably the hardest runner in the NIC this season. And if they key too closely on the all-conference ace, they may stir up the Imps' little used passing attack that was good for 78 yards on three completions out of four tries against Buffalo Center.

Since Belmond will be facing an outfit with a great deal to gain by a victory and a Bronco win will net little more than revenge, the psychological advantage will be mainly with the host team. Osage will also be bearing in mind that Belmond boasts five wins against only two defeats and a tie in this briefest current rivalry of the Broncos, giving the Imps a "revenge" motive of their own after four consecutive losses to the Blue-and-White.

One thing is certain. Win or lose, Belmond will be winding up with its poorest season's record since 1961. A victory over Osage would make it just a bit better than otherwise.

Broncos have second best offense, but also next-to-leakiest defense

That neither yards gained nor first downs are so important as defense is strongly suggested by a compilation of team statistics for the first five rounds of play during the current North Iowa conference football season.

Buffalo Center had made a potent offense the means of its title bid with the highest total yardage in the league — 1,653 yards for an average of 331 per game. But with all this scampering, the Bison held only a 64-57 advantage over the loop foes in first downs; and their string of wins was brought to an end when they ran into Osage's tough defense.

The Green Devils yielded the most yardage to Buffalo Center that any NIC rival has achieved against them — 256 yards — but were stout in a clinch and have given up only an average of 137 yards per game. Despite having only the fourth best offense, judged by yardage, the Imps have outdowned the opposition 43 1st-and-10's to 25 to set up their challenge for the championship.

Lake Mills has been just a little bit tougher on defense — 662 yards for a 132 average — and a bit more productive in yards gained than Osage with a 1,185 total for a 237 average compared to the Imps' 216. The Bulldogs have a 17 1st-and-10 advantage over their opponents, 54 to 37, as to Osage's 18.

Biggest spread in first downs belongs to Belmond, with 19 more than their NIC rivals, 64 to 45. The Broncos also have exhibited the second most potent offense with a 331 average per game on a total of 1,585. But counteracting Belmond's ability to pile up yards has been its inability to prevent foes from doing likewise. The Broncos' 264-yard defensive average is surpassed for leakiness only by Northwood's 278 and Forest City's 279.

Northwood has had the most unproductive offense, managing only a total of 527 yards for an average of 105. The Vikings have taken the worst whipping on first downs, also, chalking up only 29 to their adversaries' 75.

In compiling the statistics, it was found that some of the NIC game reporters set forth net yardage gained while in other cases it appears that full account is not taken of yards lost. The net yardage figures were used, insofar as possible.

Similarly, disagreement on first downs hints that in some cases a first down is credited if a scoring play from scrimmage covers more than 10 yards. An effort was made to omit such "1st-and-10's" and limit the number to bona fide first downs achieved.

There will be some discrepancies in the following summary, compared to individual team statistics in some cases, but they nevertheless reflect with quite close accurracy team statistics through the first five games:

	Yds. gained		1-10's
Belmond	1,585	1,318	64	45
Britt	937	1,242	50	57
Buffalo Center	1,653	1,158	64	57
Garner	1,099	1,052	35	62
Forest City	850	1,397	47	38
Lake Mills	1,185	662	54	37
Northwood	527	1,390	29	75
Osage	1,079	696	43	25

It will be noted that despite yielding over 500 more yards than they have gained, the Forest City Indians have outdowned their foes 47 to 38 — presumably due to the fact that long runs have piled up points against the Indians without being reflected in first downs. To the contrary, Garner has scored frequently on long runs and has slightly outgained their opponents although chalking up 27 fewer first downs, 35 to 62.

Average offensive and defensive yardage per game for the various teams is: Belmond 317-264; Britt 187-248; Buffalo Center 331-232; Garner 214-210; Forest City 170-279; Lake Mills 237-132; Northwood 105-278; Osage 216-137.

Two divide guessing prize

Alice Busick, an old hand at winning Independent score-guessing contests, had to share the prize on the Belmond-Northwood game when Joe Kaduce matched her 27-14 guess. She said afterward, "I should have known Paulo wouldn't miss any of his kicks." Marshall Janson had the prize in hand until Northwood scored a second time with 54 seconds left in the game. He'd posted a 28-7 guess. Other near misses were entered by Nic Classick and Ramae Busick, each predicting 24-13 for Belmond. Jim Jim Houser was next closest with 24-14.

2 Rowan churches give "yes" vote to yoke ministry

Last Sunday members of the United Church of Christ (Congregational) and the Methodist church in Rowan, balloting spearately, voted "yes" to a plan for a yoke field ministry for the future.

Under the plan, approved by the Iowa Conference of the United church, the two denominations in Iowa Conference of the Methodist Church, the two denominations in Rowan will be served by one pastor.

Initially, the present Methodist pastor will serve both churches and subsequent ministries will be alternated between the two denominations. The detailed plan brought to the voting meetings was prepared by committees from the two churches.

Assisting in drafting the arrangement were Rev. C. M. Hicks, Conference Minister of the United Church of Christ from Des Moines, and Dr. F. M. Shultz, superintendent of the Fort Dodge district of the Methodist church.

Serving on the local committes were: Congregational — Verle Crafton, chairman; Mrs. Kenneth Whitten, Mrs. Lloyd Gordon, Oscar Holmes and Howard Box; Methodist — Robert Haupt, chairman; E. A. Rietz, Clarence Lindsey, Clair Hill and Ralph Fitz.

Each of the churches will maintain its present demoninational identity and relationship, but will cooperate toward a more effective ministry in the community.

A parish council, to be elected by the two churches, will assist Rev. Louis Aitken in preparing the program for the new yoke relationship, which will begin with a part-time program by next January and become a full-time program by July of next year.

Thirteen BHS senior homemaking students were to receive certificates and pins today marking their successful completion of a home nursing course taught by their instructor, Mrs. Carol Richards.

Assisting in presentation of the five-week course was the school nurse, Mrs. Ardeth Paule. Cooperating in the project were Mrs. Ellis Elliott, retiring chairman of the Belmond chapter of American Red Cross, and the current chairman, Don Bunnell.

Mrs Richard says the course is designed to prepare those taking it to meet family emergencies created by the illness or injury of a member of family group.

"Today, self-help and family help in nursing care take on additional meaning in view of the many demands upon doctors and nurses, the aging problem, early dismissal of hospital patients and the growing emphasis on preparedness for natural or enemy-caused disaster," Mrs. Richards points out.

The home nursing course, she adds, teaches those taking it how to make the best use of time, energy and material, and how to carry out the doctor's orders when caring for the sick at home.

C. McNeal named police magistrate

Clark McNeal, son of Mrs. Dorothy McNeal, last week was appointed to fill an unexpired term as police magistrate at Iowa Falls after the incumbent resigned following a tiff with Police Chief Paul Hodgson.

Charles Wallace, the discontented judge, handed in his resignation after complaining that city cases were being taken to other courts by the Iowa Falls police.

Mr. McNeal, after getting his law degree from the University of Iowa last spring, joined E. L. Ackerman of Alden in conduct of his law practice last sumer. Clark makes his home in Iowa Falls, from which much of that practice is drawn.

The Iowa Falls council unanimously voted to offer Mr. McNeal the appointment, which would be for the balance of this year, when Judge Wallace's term was to expire.

In proposing the former Belmondite as successor to Wallace, Councilman E. E. McIntire commented, "McNeal certainly has the background for the job."

Extension group sets style show

"Fashions ABC" will be the theme of a fashion presentation to be given Thursday of next week at 2:00 p. m. at the community room of the First National bank at Clarion. It is being sponsored by the extension home economics committee.

Mrs. Geraldine Steele, county home economist, says the style revue will feature 21 fashions loaned by a New York pattern house. Anyone interested in welcome to attend.

First part of the revue will cover wardrobe planning for adults and will include a group of coordinated fashions in brilliant color combination to mix or match.

The second part will feature "Becoming lines and designs;" and the third will be concerned with "Children's coordinated clothes for school and play."

Wrestlers start drills for opener on Nov. 17

Belmond High wrestling workouts, without candidates still engaged in football, got underway this week in preparation for the opening of the 1967-68 mat schedule on Nov. 17. The Broncos will launch their slate with a home meet against Northwood.

Coach Don Jones will again be assisted by Jerry Kintzi in directing high school wrestling. Doug Heath will be in charge of the junior high mat squad.

A third North Iowa conference opponent appears on the wrestling schedule this year, Lake Mills having inaugurated the sport last season. The Broncos will pit their 2nd and 3rd string wrestlers against the Bulldog varsity and reserves in home-and-home meets and have single appearances against Northwood and Britt.

Seven of the eight schools in the North Central conference will provide Belmond with mat opposition, only Algona not being on the local card. The NCC foes are Clarion, Eagle Grove, Hampton, Humboldt, Iowa Falls, Clear Lake and Webster City. Alden and Newman of Mason City will be the other Bronco opponents.

As usual, the Belmond schedule will include two tournaments — the Alden Invitational, which the Broncos won two years ago; and the Bronco tournament here during Christmas vacation. Thirteen dual meets are slated.

Following is the schedule:

Nov. 17 — Northwood, here
Nov. 21 — Iowa Falls, there
Nov. 28 — Hampton, there
Dec. 5 — Humboldt, here
Dec. 13 —Newman (MC), there
Dec. 16 — Alden tournament
Dec. 22 — Clarion, here
Dec. 30 — Bronco tournament
Jan. 3 — Eagle Grove, there
Jan. 8 — Lake Mills, here
Jan. 17 — Clear Lake, here
Jan. 22 — Lake Mills, there
Jan. 24 — Britt, there
Jan. 30 — Webster City, here
Feb. 2 — Alden, here

Two from Belmond pledge UNI frats

CEDAR FALLS (Special) — Philip Rise and Blair Brandmeyer of Belmond are among 139 freshmen and upperclassmen who have accepted invitations to pledge fraternities at the University of Northern Iowa. The former pledged Sigma Alpha Epsilon and the latter, Phi Sigma Epsilon.

This fall, for the first time in many years, first-semester freshmen at UNI were permitted to become fraternity pledges, according to Dr. Edward Voldseth, dean of students.

Previously, the Interfraternity Council's requirement that a man must have earned at least a "C" average in 12 or more hours of credit kept freshmen from pledging until their second semester in college.

Under new requirements, a man may be pledged during his first semester at the university but may not be initiated until he has earned a "C" average or better in at least 12 credit hours.

Flanagan cited as top salesman

"Life Lines," monthly publication of Federal Kemper Insurance companies, offers congratulations to Larry Flanagan as the firm's top writer of life insurance for the month of September.

In the two weeks following the opening of his new office on Main street, Larry placed policies totalling over a half million dollars.

Commented the agency publication, "If Larry's new office is any indication, we would say Belmond has made a good comeback from its 1966 tornado disaster."

Jr. Vikings drop froshmores 12-6

Belmond's Junior Broncos saw their hopes of sharing the North Iowa conference froshmore football championship go down the drain Monday night at Northwood as they suffered a 12-6 defeat.

Northwood scored the first time it got the ball, after the opening kickoff, going the length of the field on short but steady line gains.

In the second quarter, Belmond traveled 60 yards on a scoring drive that was cashed on a three-yard pass from Lennie Johnson to Joey McLaughlin. The halftime score remained 6-6.

Coach Jerry Kintzi's crew were only 18 yards from touchodwn territory when the half ended and in the third period advanced to the Junior Vikings' 20 but were then stopped.

Northwood's go-ahead tally came with four minutes of game time remaining. Belmond made a good try at overtaking the Vikings and had gotten to the home team's 13 when time ran out.

A break during the Junior Vikings' second scoring march played a decisive role in Belmond's defeat. Facing a third down with long yardage to go, the winners got the benefit of a 15-yard penalty for a face mask violation by a Belmond gridder that put the ball on the Broncos' 20.

This was the Junior Broncs' first defeat, though they were tied twice.

Heartening Advice

I've just been reading what Dr. Paul Dudley White has to say about the causes and prevention of heart trouble. You must have heard tell of Dr. White, the Boston specialist. Seems as if he's had more famous patients than you can shake a stick at — including Dwight D. Eisenhower.

If you have any questions about the way your heart's liable to act up in the later years, Dr. White's a good man to listen to. His advice is — well, heartening, in every sense of the word. It's about your heart. And it's most encouraging.

Dr. White begins by pointing out that the heart is a fist-sized pump that beats about 100,000 times a day. Remarkable pump, as you might imagine, and if anything happens to it, you're in trouble. More and more Americans are finding themselves in deep trouble every year.

Why?

According to Dr. White, a number of causes appear to be involved in the development of heart trouble.

Why Overweight?

One obvious thing is excess weight, which puts a strain on the circulatory system because the heart has to send more blood to more pounds of flesh. After all, what happens when you overload any pump? And there are just too many Americans overweight because they overeat.

The eating problem is complicated by cholesterol, or fat in the blood, the precise effect of which is not completely understood. Dr. White, like most of his colleagues, believes that the less saturated fats you absorb, the better.

Nervous tension is a different problem, perhaps directly affecting the heart, perhaps indirectly by causing an eating compulsion that causes obesity. Cigarettes? That's a thorny question, but Dr. White does advise his patients to quit smoking. Coffee and liquor? Not so dangerous, but if you have any heart trouble at all, it would be wise to drop them.

Is heredity or environment the key factor? No one knows, although they're working on it. But it does seem that if your family has no history of heart attacks, you have a better chance of escaping one yourself.

Okay — but what to do about it? Dr. White suggests regular medical checkups so you can know where you stand. Follow the diet your doctor gives you, especially with regard to the avoidance of saturated fats. Take off that excess poundage. Control your tensions. And get some real exercise regularly.

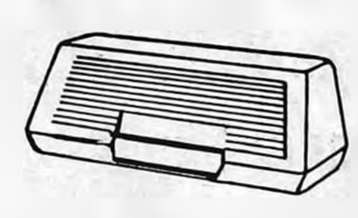
YOUR OWN PERSONAL

POCKET STAMP



PERMA-STAMP — the pocket stamp that goes wherever you go — neat and clean — ready for instant use WITHOUT AN INK PAD!

Your light-weight PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp is perfect as a personal signature stamp . . . a time-saving check endorsement stamp . . . or a name and address stamp for imprinting envelopes, identifying books and other personal or household items.

Every impression is crisp and clean — as if it came off a printing press. Smallest details and finest lines are reproduced with consistent clarity and cleanliness.

Best of all, a PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp costs little more than an old fashioned rubber stamp

Christmas is still almost two months away but our store is ready for the holiday season right now ... why not stop and browse through our 8,000 square feet of holiday-giving ideas ... see the many wonderful accessories including pictures, lamps, end and coffee tables, artificial plants, etc. before they are picked over ... and you know it is much more relaxing to browse for gifts early in November than it is in late December. Make READ'S IN ALGONA your headquarters for the unusual gift for the home this season.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 7 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1967 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | 12 PAGES

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Postmaster Bill Walrod last week received from regional postal headquarters preliminary plans for Belmond's new post office. Arrival of the plans was greeted appreciatively by the post office staff, which since the '66 tornado has been inconveniently housed in the basement of the Odd Fellows hall. The sooner the new facilities are ready, the better the staff will like it.

A note with the plans instructed that they were to be returned "immediately," and in view of the procrastination that has apparently delayed their preparation, Bill was most willing to comply with the urgency expressed.

He says the proposed building will extend north and south with then entrance on the north, in order that the loading dock will not detract from the office's appearance from First street or second avenue NE. Said dock will be on the west. There will be 1,000 more square feet inside than the old postoffice provided. Presumably contract will be let in the imminent future.

Shucks! We'd planned to use a picture of Dr. Harold Loden in conjunction with the story on this page telling of the honor bestowed on the director of ACCO Seed division's research by the American Society of Agronomy. We file engravings once used, so they're available for future use, and blithely went to the file to pluck out Harold's. It wasn't there; and an hour of searching failed to turn it up elsewhere. Such a distinguished honor deserves a picture to accompany the story. Our apologies to Doctor Loden for the omission.

A recheck of the proceeds from last week's "Tricks or Treats" for UNICEF showed the total to be $235, rather than $245 — but the amount nevertheless was Belmond's best yet. To provide an idea of the immense good this amount of money can achieve, Mrs. Maurice Jones informs us that: the checks and currency were in sufficient amount to free 40 youngsters of leprosy by tablets or injection; there were enough half dollars to buy vaccine to protect 360 children from tuberculosis.

Quarters? Enough to provide penicillin to cure 3,660 tots of yaws. There were dimes enough to buy antibiotic treatment for 340 cases of trachoma, the insidious eye disease.

The nickels were in supply adequate to protect 260 children from malaria for a year. And pennies count, too; there were enough to give 206 children a daily glass of milk for a whole month. Incidentally, UNICEF holiday greeting cards are now available (quite a few families in Belmond send them yearly) and can be obtained from Mrs. Jones or Mrs. Cleo Wilson. How popular they are is suggested by the fact that 35 million are bought annually in more than 100 countries. That's quite a bunch!

The Independent's back shop triumverate of Anderson, Foss and Meinders has been diminished by one this week and it's made things a bit thick, back there. Duane Meinders is in the Mercy hospital at Des Moines undergoing tests to determine the cause of a mysterious ailment that overtook him last week. It was suggestive of paralysis of the right hand — but wasn't really just that, either. At any rate, Duane is missed; and the Mainstreeters and others at the Independent hope the mystery will be promptly solved and that he'll be back with us soon, in good health.

Marc Ihm, Belmond Community hospital administrator, is about ready for the tornado and its impact on his establishment to be forgotten. He shudders to think back on the number of speaking appearances he's been called upon to make before hospital and related groups in the past year's time.

Another such engagement was filled last Saturday at Des Moines by Marc and Mrs. Helen Nelson, the hospital's food service director.

This time it was the Hospital, Institution and Educational Food Service Society that wanted to "hear all," as to how the Belmond hospital kitchen staff met the crisis when the hospital was abruptly filled to overflowing after the big blow. Marc and Helen told 'em how the trick was achieved.

We'd regarded that our "Conversations with the Office Cat" reflected mental eccentricities that made the style of writing fairly exclusive to Ye Ed. Then we got a note from June Beckett at Clarion apologizing for laxity in acknowledging services rendered by the Independent's cat-placement bureau (we'd wondered how the plug in "Conversation" had made out, but certainly regarded no apology due). With it was a column turned out by Mrs. B, herself. Though we had to condense it some, the column very largely as she wrote it occupies the "Conversation" space in this issue. Pretty good, we thought!

Trinity planning meetings 5 nights

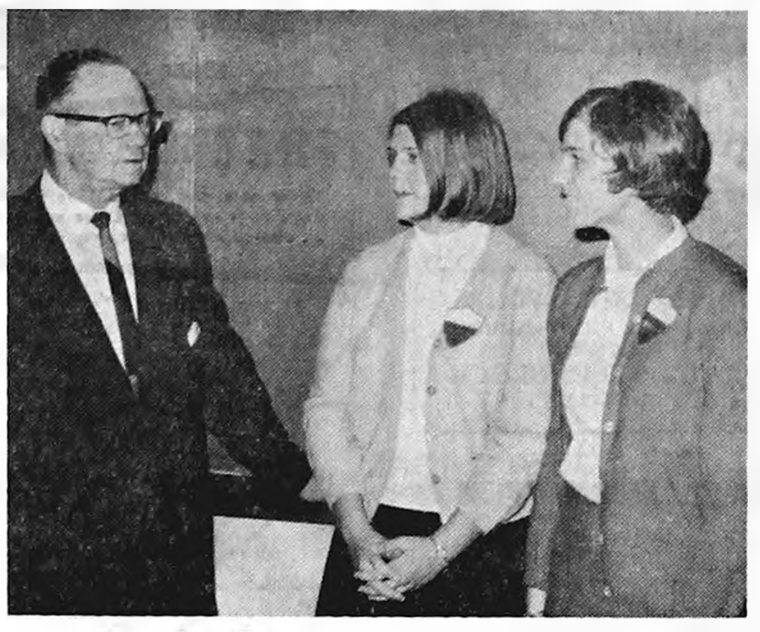
Evangelist R. Stueland of Renville, Minn., will be guest speaker for a series of meeting to be held at Trinity Lutheran church starting Sunday evening and continuing through next Thursday.

He will speak at the regular morning services of both the Trinity and St. Olaf churches on Sunday morning. The Sunday evening meeting at Trinity will start at 7:30 o'clock and those on the four nights following will start at 7:45 o'clock.

The general public is extended a cordial invitation to attend any or all of the evangelistic meetings.

One vote decides Ward I race—

Broshar edges Porter; Smith, Pals on council



DISCUSSING PLANS for their college educations with Otto Tonnenson, professor of education, are two members of Belmond High's chapter of Future Teachers of America — Marcia Dorenkamp and Ellen Bonte, the latter chapter treasurer. The girls were among 31 BHS Future Teachers who last week attended Prospective Teachers' Day at Waldorf college, Forest City.

Future Teachers visit Waldorf's campus as guests

Thirty-one members of the BHS chapter of Future Teachers of America on Wednesday of last week attended Prospective Teachers' Day held at Waldorf college, Forest City. Allen Suby, FTA advisor, accompanied the group.

President S. D. Fauske welcomed the visiting students to the Waldorf campus. They were then told something about the Student Iowa State Education association and heard a panel discussion of the attractions of teaching at the elementary, high school and college levels.

After lunch at the Campus Center, the visitors had an opportunity to hear either the Waldorf Concert Choir or Waldorf Singers in brief concerts.

In the afternoon, the guest students were invited to attend two college classes of their own choice to learn how college classwork is conducted. A tour of the buildings on campus, including the men's and women's dormitories, followed. After a period of evaluation, the guests left for home about 3:00 p. m.

CROP return this year exceeds 1966 by $400

County Chairman Hubert Heimstra reports that a record number of workers throughout Wright county have brought in over $2,800 worth of cash and soybeans to share with the world's starving through the Christian Rural Overseas Program. This is well over the $2,400 collected last year and there are still two townships to report.

County officers, meeting recently with Wes Albin, field worker for CROP, voted to ship a truckload of soybeans on Nov. 16 from Clarion. A dedication service will be held at 1:00 p. m. and the public is invited.

The beans will be processed into a multi-purpose high protein dietary supplement and distributed by the relief agencies of Christian churches.

Two interesting highlights of the drive this year were the "Trick or Treat for CROP" program in Eagle Grove and the Friendship Acres program.

Rev. Emmet Braselton, pastor of the United Church of Christ in Eagle Grove, reports that over $250 was collected by the Halloween project.

The Friendship Acres program allows a farmer to pledge an acre (or a portion thereof) to the annual CROP drive. This year six Wright county farmers participated in the program with an average contribution of about $85 per acre.

It is hoped this program will be widened in scope during the drive next year, says Mr. Heimstra.

The officers of CROP in Wright county express their thanks to all the area and local workers who did such a good job this year. It was a job "well done" by "good and faithful servants," remarked the county chairman.

Hospital auxiliary meeting scheduled

Fall quarterly meeting of the Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary will be held next Wednesday at the library basement, starting at 2:00 p. m.

Dr. Arthur Benetti, newest member of the Steele Memorial clinic medical staff, will speak on "New Advances in Surgery."

Marc Ihm, hospital administrator, will direct the auxiliary members at the meeting on a guided tour of the laboratory and x-ray rooms in the new addition to the hospital.

Following the tour, coffee will be served as the group reconvenes in the library basement.

An exceptionally large turn-out for Tuesday's municipal election prompted by a contest for the post of Belmond's mayor and opposition to two incumbent ward councilmen saw 616 ballots cast and the mayorship go to Floyd Broshar. He defeated Russell Porter, incumbent Ward I councilman, 324 to 284.

Both present councilmen who had opposition were unseated, Glenn Crapser losing in Ward I to Norman Pals by a single vote, 72-71; and Bob Churchouse losing to Don Smith in Ward III, 166 to149.

Frank Patterson, unopposed in Ward I to succeed Mr. Porter on the council, received votes on 114 of the 147 ballots cast in that precinct. Loren Greenfield and Bill Dieger each received five write-in votes and one each went to Russell Porter, Jim Peterson, Leo Smith and Mary Dorr.

Broshar wins every ward

Councilman-at-large Frank Pollitt and Eugene Griffin, running without opposition, got 471 and 454 votes respectively. Luin Cox, running for re-election as treasurer, drew 533 votes and L. C. Long was returned to the hospital board as a trustee with 560 votes. George Hinman got four write-in votes and Dave Kennedy one for treasurer.

Mr. Broshar got more votes than his mayorality rival in every ward, his edge in Ward I being 75 to 69, in Ward II 78 to 65, and in Ward III 171 to 150.

Besides the 147 ballots cast in Ward I, the other vote totals were 144 in Ward II and 325 in Ward III It is noteworthy that one of the 144 who voted in Ward II failed to mark his ballot for ward councilman — and the contest was decided by exactly that margin. Nineteen in Ward I failed to mark for either of the ward candidates; and in Ward III, 10 of the 325 ballots were marked for neither Smith nor Churchouse.

Vote among largest ever

There was a scattering of write-in votes for councilman-at-large: Rita Schaal and Walt Soll each got two votes and one each went to Norman Bertrand, Lloyd Stevens, Dr. A. M. Nelson, Loren Greenfield, Gene Janssen, Frank Patterson and Norman Pals.

Tuesday's vote total was by far the largest since 1950, with the exception of the number cast in 1957 when two complete tickets were nominated after Mayor Henry Hokel and the incumbent council declined to run for re-election. On that occasion, 628 ballots were cast and Lowell Trafford was — at age 39 — elected as Belmond's youngest mayor by a 349-258 edge over Clarence Kirkendall. The new mayor-elect matches that age.

Other elections recalled

An oddity of the '57 election was the fact that except for "Bud" Trafford, the entire ticket on which he ran was defeated. Of the successful candidates for councilman the top vote-getter was the present mayor, Dr. Robert E. Misner, who as a candidate for councilman-at-large drew 449 votes.

Next highest total of votes cast — far under the totals of this year and '57 — was in 1961, when a write-in campaign in behalf of Dr. A. M. Nelson defeated Guy McClenahan, who was a candidate for re-election as councilman-at-large.

In the uncontested elections of 1965 and '63 the votes cast numbered 119 and 133, respectively; and in 1959 the number was 200. Interest in municipal elections was at decidedly low ebb in 1955 and '53, each year bringing only 99 voters to the polls; and the total vote cast in 1951 was 161.

Tie vote marks Rowan election

Both incumbent councilmen running for new terms got the voters' approval, H. L. Pesch drawing 42 votes and Dean Fitz 37. Best vote-getter among the council candidates after Pesch was Charles Keith, with 41 votes.

James Staley, who ran unsuccessfully for a council post two years ago, this time was fourth high among the eight candidates with 31 votes.

Following Gunderson and Rietz, as unsuccessful nominees, were Clarence Lindsey with 23 votes and E. R. Harris with 17. Elba Cook got a write-in vote.

Mayor Box told The Independent that he didn't know how the tie vote would be settled. Presumably the winner would be determined by lot at the first council meeting, unless one of the two men figuring in the deadlock should decide to withdraw.

Meservey voters elect new mayor

In a reportedly heated election that brought 139 voters to the polls, Meservey's balloting Tuesday saw the incumbent mayor, Mervin Morris, defeated by Claude Cordell via write-in vote. Mr. Cordell was an unsuccessful write-in candidate for councilman two years ago.

Mr. Morris headed a duly filed ticket that included as council candidates Norman Boelman, William Fischer and Merlin Ruiter of the present council plus Jake Koenen and Alvin Kreitlow. Not seeking re-election as nominees were Robert Raecker and Bernhard Vierkant.

It was reported to The Independent by the Meservey election board that five write-in candidates drew considerable support — though they were not named — and that there was a scattering of write-ins for several other persons.

The board declined to divulge what vote totals were cast for either candidate for mayor and likewise provided no figures on the votes cast for councilmen.

COUNCILMAN L. ANDERSON LOSES OUT AT KANAWHA

Councilman Lester Anderson was defeated in his bid for re-election in Tuesday's balloting at Kanawha as newcomer Ernest Sansgaard drew 94 votes to the incumbent's 71. Sansgaard also attracted more support than present councilman Walter Moeller, whose 74 total nevertheless sufficed to return him to office.

Larry Cooper's name was marked on 111 of the 113 good ballots cast (one was spoiled) to lead all the candidates, including Mayor Oliver Thorson, who got 105 votes.

Councilmen re-elected in addition to Cooper and Moeller were: D. L. Knoll 99, and Marion Kreitlow 98. There was one write-in vote for Gene Carter for mayor and one for Leon Henning for councilman.

Kanawha's voter turn-out was well below the 261 of 1965, when there was a contest for mayor and some hot competition for the council positions.

ALEXANDER VOTE SMALL WITHOUT ANY CONTEST

There was a flurry of write-in votes as just 32 Alexander voters went to the polls Tuesday, but none of the incumbent officers came close to failing re-election. Orville Arends was returned as mayor with 23 votes. Two write-ins apiece were received by Roger Busma and Dale Johnson and one each by George Schulte and Eugene Draper.

Councilmen presently serving drew the following vote totals: Art Kern 29, Dean Gunderson and Willard Scott each 27, Dale Johnson 26 and Tom Jessen 24.

Write-in votes for councilman were cast as follows: Eugene Draper, four; Claas Modderman and David Pastour, each three; Willie Pals, two; Gary Jessen and Roger Busma, each one.

INCUMBENT OFFICERS ALL VOTED BACK AT GOODELL

Goodell's election was a quiet one, only 43 voters casting ballots to return the uncontested incumbent officials to their posts. Lee O. Robbins received 28 votes for mayor, Robert Hinman 10 by write-in, Larry Langlitz and Wes Boller — the latter a non-resident — one each.

Wayne Lein and Walter Boller each received 42 votes for councilman, Lew Waage 41, Dale Shelton 40 and Ernie Kurtz 32. Duane Davis got six write-in votes, Bernard Nolte and Wilmer Gabrielson one apiece.

FHA will serve supper next week

Annual supper of the BHS chapter of Future Homemakers of America will be held Wednesday evening of next week at the high school student center.

As has been the past practice, the meal will be served in half-hour shifts, the first to start at 5:45 o'clock.

This year's supper will follow a French theme, both as to decor and in entertainment, which will be in the form of a musical or dancing act.

Guest Night set by Toastmasters

Annual Ladies and Guest Night of the Belmond Toastmasters Club will be held this Sunday evening, marking the opening of the organization's new activity year. The banquet will be catered by Mary Moe of the Olde Belmond Inn but will be held at the Central Soya Men's club if reservations require more space than the tea room provides.

Guest speaker will be Sam Zickefoose of Ames, who as Iowa's representative in the International Toastmasters contest last year was awarded third place. He is recognized as an outstanding speaker and President Bob Wilson observes that the Belmond club was fortunate to be able to engage him for its annual banquet.

The Belmond club presently has 15 members but is interested in obtaining more as the new season gets underway. Persons interested in learning how the organization aids its members in becoming competent public speakers are welcome to attend the Guest Night dinner. To arrange for attendance, they are asked to contact either Chuck Stalker or Jack Manders.

SGT. QUANDT TRANSFERRED

Mrs. H. R. Bayliss has received a letter from her son, Sgt. 1/c Delmar Quandt, telling that he has been transferred from the Veteran's hospital at Knoxville to the Army's Fitzsimmons hospital at Denver, Colo.

50 YEARS' SERVICE by the Belmond chapter of American Red Cross is denoted by the certificate being here presented by Robert Schuelke to Chapter Chairman Don Bunnell as Mrs. L. M. Helland and Luin Cox, also chapter officers, look on.

Local Red Cross chapter marks 50th anniversary

"Fifty Years of Humanitarian Service" by the Belmond chapter of the American Red Cross were recognized Thursday of last week when a certificate marking the golden anniversary of the chapter's founding was presented to the local unit by Robert Schuelke, assistant regional director from St. Louis, Mo.

Don Bunnell, chapter chairman, received the certificate as Treasurer Luin Cox and Mrs. L. M. Helland, secretary, witnessed the presentation. The award was signed by E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the American National Red Cross since 1950, and Gen. James E. Collins (Ret.), the organization's president.

The Belmond chapter was chartered on July 6, 1917, and received its baptism of fire during World War I, Mr. Scheulke noted. World War II saw rapid expansion of the local volunteer staff, and during the peak war years an all-time high number of Red Cross volunteers provided service to the men in the armed forces and their families in Belmond.

Fifty years after its founding, the Belmond chapter is again reaching out to families of military personnel stationed in Vietnam and around the world, President Bunnell reported to Mr. Schuelke.

In addition, the Belmond chapter contributes directly to the community in a variety of ways, one of the most noteworthy being its conduct of the annual water safety program at Luick pool each summer.

Mr. Schuelke headed the Red Cross disaster relief program here for about six weeks last fall, following the tornado, and expressed both admiration and pleasure at the remarkable degree of recovery that the community has achieved.

Lions OK $100 Chest donation

Wednesday night of last week the Belmond Lions club approved a contribution of $100 to the 1967 campaign of the Community Chest. It was agreed by the majority of the members present at the regular meeting that a larger than usual donation would be appropriate this year, since the Chest's bank account was drained of all surplus by last year's tornado-hampered drive.

Earlier this year, the Lions gave $570 to the Chest from funds received to meet tornado-related needs through the generosity of other Lions clubs. This, with a special gift from the Jaycees and Jaycee-Ettes, enabled the Chest to meet all its obligations for the present year.

Ray Garrett of Eagle Grove, governor for Lions district 9-E, was a special guest at the meeting. He commended the club for its civic activities and continuing efforts for the betterment of the community.

Because of conflicts, arrangements could not be made to hold the Lions' sale of light bulbs during the usual period in October. After some discussion as to whether the project should be delayed until spring, it was voted to hold the sale in early December rather than further delay it or drop it.

Nelsen completes engineer course

FT. LEONARD WOOD, MO. (AHTNC) — Army Private Arlyn R. Nelsen, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nelsen, Rowan, completed advanced training as a combat engineer Oct. 27 at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

During his eight-weeks of training, he received instruction in combat squad tactics, use of infantry weapons and engineer reconnaissance. He also was trained in the techniques of road and bridge building, camouflage and demolition.

His wife, Lana, lives in Ames.

Jennie Bohning, age 80, died last Thursday at Bel Chris Manor nursing home. She had been in declining health for a period of three years. A stroke caused her death.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Immanuel Reformed church, Rev. Robert Vander Schaaf officiating and Fulton Funeral Home in charge. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Serving as pallbearers were Curtis Trager of Annandale, Va., Jerry Aldrich of Rowan, Roger Bohning of Story City, R. E. Lee Aldrich III and Kermit Bohning of Rowan and Clark Trager.

Born March 1, 1887, at Weener in Ostfriesland, Germany, Jennie Steenblock was the daughter of Peter H. and Swanette (Frohling) Steenblock. She emigrated to this country with her parents when she was five years old.

She received her education in a rural schol near Belmond. On March 1, 1905, she married William P. Bohning. Two sons and three daughters were born to them, one son and one daughter preceding their mother in death.

Mr. and Mrs. Bohning farmed in Pleasant township until they retired in the summer of 1939. She was a long-time member of the Immanuel Reformed church.

Surviving in addition to her husband are a son, William P. Bohning, Jr., of Rowan; and two daughters, Mrs. R. E. Lee (Edna) Aldrich of Rowan and Mrs. Carl (Faye) Trager of Belmond.

Mrs. Bohning also leaves a foster son, Arthur Connors of Klemme; one sister, Mrs. Benjamin Daniels of Belmond; 11 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Besides her son and daughter, she was preceded in death by two sisters and four brothers.

Turkey drawings on Nov. 18—

Holiday gift drawings will start Nov. 24

Distribution of Christmas Gift tickets will start Friday as Belmond business establishments launch their annual holiday trade promotion.

In addition, registration will start as the basis for giving away some 60 to 70 turkeys on Saturday of next week, Nov. 18, so the main fare will be provided free for as many Thanksgiving tables. Names of the winners will be posted on the store windows on Saturday.

Approximately $2,000 in retail value is represented by the large number of attractive and useful prizes that will be awarded to Belmond shoppers during five weekly drawings to be held during the Yuletide festival.

These drawings will be held each week on Friday from Nov. 24 through Dec. 15 and the final one will be on Thursday, Dec. 21. After the first four drawings, winning numbers will be placed at noon in the windows of the business firms participating and holders of those numbers will have until 9:00 p. m. the following Saturday to claim their prizes. Those not claimed before the deadline will be carried over until the next week and drawn for again at that time.

When the final drawing is held Thursday, Dec. 21, the holder of each winning number will have five minutes to make his presence known. Subsequent draws will be held at five-minute intervals until all the prizes have found claimants.

Prizes for the drawings have been set up as follows, on the dates designated:

Nov. 24 — Mr. and Mrs. matched chairs, $100 U. S. Savings Bond, two lots of 50 gallons of gasoline.

Dec. 1 — side of beef, food blender, two lots of 50 gallons of gasoline.

Dec. 21 — Zenith console stereo with AM-FM radio, two prizes of $100 cash each and $50 in cash; plus all prizes not previously won.

A special drawing is planned for the youngsters age 16 and under, to be held at 4:00 p. m. on Saturday, Dec. 23. There will be two bicycles for boys and girls from age eight through 16 and four tricycles for younger tots of age seven and under.

Children may register during the period extending from Saturday, Dec. 16, through Friday, Dec. 22, for chances at these prizes. The drawing will be held following the annual appearance of Santa Claus at the fire station at 3:30 o'clock.

When the treats have been handed out by St. Nick, the bicycle and tricycle drawings will be held at five-minute intervals to determine the winners. It will be necessary for the owner of a name drawn to be present in order to win one of the children's prizes. Registrants for the the bicycles and tricycles must put name, age and address on the slip.

The usual free movie programs for youngsters will again be on the Christmas promotion program. The 1:30 p. m. matinees will be held at the New Belmond theater on the Saturdays of Dec. 16 and 23.

Ellis Elliott, Chamber of Commerce secretary, says that much planning went into the Christmas festival program as the promotion committee held repeated meetings to devise as interesting a gift selection as possible.

Inquiry among shoppers indicated a preference for a number of valuable prizes rather than one decidedly major prize and a variety of lesser gifts.

"Every prize on the list will be very worthwhile winning," Mr. Elliott notes. "And by the time the turkeys, gifts and kiddie prizes have all found claimants, close to 100 families will find themselves handsomely rewarded for doing their Christmas shopping in Belmond. They will be doubly rewarded in view of the fact that Belmond business places have never had more attractive stocks of holiday merchandise than this year, offering ideal gifts for every member of every family."

All shoppers will be eligible to take part in the Christmas festival except participating Chamber members and their families.

AGENCIES CLOSING FRIDAY

Farmers in the area are reminded that offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration and Soil Conservation Service at Clarion will be closed this Friday. The closing is in observance of Veteran's Day, which falls on Saturday.

Hospital Notes

Entering Nov. 1 as surgical patients were Mrs. Kenneth Bailey of Rowan, Rick Johnson and Brian Wilson; entering as medical patients were John Hill of Alexander and Mrs. Anna Toftey of Kanawha.

Mrs. Emma Tomson entered Nov. 2 as an accident patient.

William Greimann of Goodell and Larry Dobson of Renwick entered Nov. 4 for medical treatment and Mrs. Harlan Buseman of Thornton entered for surgery.

Entering for surgery on Nov. 5 was Mrs. James Nelson.

Bob Wilson takes second in contest

Bob Wilson, president of the Belmond chapter of Toastmasters, was second-place winner in an Area I humorous speech contest held a week ago Sunday at Storm Lake. The winner was a Storm Lake farmer, Bill Bird, as representatives of seven clubs competed.

Ed Banning of the local club was one of the contest judges. Each club taking part had a representative on the judging panel, who graded all speeches except that of his own chapter's contestant.

Also attending the contest from Belmond were Jack Manders, Dick McFarlin and Frank Patterson, the latter as a guest.

Thomas S. Moore new accountant at ACCO Seeds

A recent addition to the staff of ACCO Seeds division of Anderson, Clayton and company as a cost accountant is Thomas S. Moore, who assumed his duties last month.

He is an exception to most of the recent newcomers at ACCO in that he is a native Iowan. His original home was Des Moines, where he graduated from North High school and then attended Drake university, where he was granted a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration in 1965.

At Drake, he was a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, and as a senior he was president of the Drake Accounting club. After receiving his degree, he accepted a position with Lennox Industries at Marshalltown.

After some time at the firm's headquarters, Tom was transferred to the Lennox plant at Columbus, O., where he was assistant to the controller and internal auditor.

Tom is married and he and his wife Karen are living at 412 Tenth avenue NE. They have two children, a son Robert, who is four years old; and a daughter Michelle, age two. The Moores are members of the Methodist church.

Mr. Moore is an enthusiastic model railroader and also enjoys hunting as a hobby. His wife enjoys sewing as a useful pastime.

THOMAS S. MOORE

Named "Fellow" by society—

Dr. Loden honored by agronomists

Dr. Harold D. Loden, director of research for the Belmond based ACCO Seed division of Anderson, Clayton and company, has been named a Fellow in American Society of Agronomy (ASA). Doctor Loden was honored for this distinction at the annual ASA banquet held Wednesday night during the society's annual convention in Washington, D. C.

Fellows are selected for professional achievements and meritorious service to the society. Nominations are made by friends and colleagues within the society and are carefully rated by the ASA Committee on the Nomination of Fellows. A total of 505 Fellows have been chosen in the past 43 years.

Loden was born in Colbert, Ga., where he attended public school. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia, where he received a B. S. degree in agriculture and in 1939 received his M. S. degree. That same year he became associated with the U. S. Department of Agriculture and engaged in soil survey work in the midwest until 1940, when he transferred to Alabama as an agronomist.

During World War II service in the Air Force, he spent a year in Brazil as part of an Air Force mission which mapped the upper Amazon Valley. Shortly after the end of the war, he served as director of agricultural experiment stations in South Korea and was awarded the Air Force commendation medal for work in developing a vegetable seed production program for that country.

Dr. Loden returned to the University of Georgia as assistant professor of agronomy in charge of cotton research after his discharge, but soon went to Texas A & M university on leave of absence to accept a fellowship to conduct cotton research and study toward his doctorate in genetics.

He joined Anderson, Clayton's Paymaster Seed Farms operations in 1951 as geneticist in charge of cotton breeding and related research. In 1952 he was named manager of the seed farms' research and production operations.

Under Dr. Loden's direction, the Paymaster Seed operation originated and developed eight outstanding cotton varieties adapted to the plains of Texas. He also directed one of the most comprehensive hybrid sorghum breeding programs in the world.

Professionally, he is past president of Texas Certified Seed Products, Texas Seedmen's association, Southern Seedmen's association, and National Council of Commercial Plant Breeders. He is now serving as 1st vice president of the American Seed Trade association.

During the past year Anderson, Clayton purchased the Tomco Seed, Inc., Tomco Genetic Giant, Inc., and Levi Haapala and Sons seed firms. These new acquisitions were merged with the Paymaster Seed operations, now known as ACCO Seed division of Anderson, Clayton.

Dr. Loden was named director of research of this new division. Harold and his wife, Celestia, reside at 916 Eighth street NE.

Imps share NIC grid title—

Osage, minus star, trims Broncos 25 to 14

It was said that Fullback Mark Pederson was the backbone of the Osage football team. If that were the case, the Imps operated amazingly well Friday night sans backbone. For three days prior to the Green Devil's important game with Belmond the Osage ace was kicked off the team for disciplinary reasons; but Coach Warren Dobry's warriors nevertheless beat the Broncos' brains out, 25 to 14.

Pederson was supposed to be Osage's big-gainer — the boy hard to tackle. The Broncos could contemplate that Fullback Lee Pullen averaged 7.5 yards on 16 carries, Quarterback Steve Stott 6.6 in nine tries, Wingback Don Field 6.3 on a dozen tries and Halfback Brad Havig 5.5 on 10 attempts — and utter a word of thanks that Pederson was on the sidelines.

Broncos lead 14-12

Hungry for their first taste of a football championship since figuring in a three-way tie for the NIC crown back in 1959, the Imps clearly wanted this one much worse than the Broncos. Belmond had its chance, leading 14-12 with 2½ minutes left in the third quarter. But there, the Broncs' enthusiasm abated and the Green Devils took fire — and it wasn't much of a ball game the rest of the way.

Toward the end of the game, when Belmond was forced to pass to have any hope of getting back in contention, Osage played a five-man line and those five created more havoc than the Broncos could with their full defensive forces going for the ball carrier. Osage's superiority of 16 first downs to eight and 331 net yards to 116 pretty well tells the story.

Lee Barkema, who put forth one of the better Bronco efforts of the night, set the stage for a cancelling TD by Belmond when he covered an Osage fumble on the Imps' 29. With Rick Hawley and Mike Klinefelter carrying the mail, Belmond went the distance in seven plays, Rick bulling over from the one. Paulo Canineu's kick was good and the Broncos led 7-6.

After the kickoff, the Broncos held for downs on their own 36 but fumbled the ball away after notching one 1st-and-10. Osage went 61 yards — including a 15-yard setback for clipping, in seven plays. Pullen again was the hero, sweeping for the final 30 yards. A pass for p.a.t. was no good, leaving the count 12-7.

Belmond holds on 11

Penalties helped keep the Imps from scoring territory between then and halftime, but an Osage threat was turned back just before intermission when the Broncos held for four downs after the Greenies had advanced to Belmond's 11.

After play resumed, Osage was forced for the first time during the evening to punt and the Imps stopped a Belmond drive with the help of penalties against the Broncos. Jim Studebaker punted to the hosts' 26, and four plays later when an Osage kick was forced a bad center pass gave Belmond the ball just 10 yards away from pay dirt.

Stan Korthas rammed for seven yards and Don Havens ran the option for the last three to put Belmond ahead 13-12. Paulo's kick made it 14-12.

Instead of discouraging the Imps, this only aggravated them, and after the kickoff they marched 63 yards in eight plays to regain the lead at 18-14 Stott went four yards for the score and carried for the point to add another digit.

Interception stops Broncs

Belmond hopes for another rally went down the drain when with 2nd-and-9 on Osage's 43, Tackle Tom Gast snared a Bronco aerial and gave the Imps possession on their own 40. Eleven plays sufficed to cover the 60 yards, Stott going over from the three.

The only other scoring threat of the uneven contest came with less than a minute on the clock when a 15-yard personal foul call against Greg Fuller — which got him kicked out of the game — advanced Osage to Belmond's 11. Hawley intercepted on the Broncs' one-yard line on the last play of the game to save the losers further humiliation.

Hawley turned in a fine, all-around game for Belmond. Havens played steady ball on both offense and defense; and Randy Turner, Greg Steenblock and Korthas — the latter in a reserve role on offense — measured up to expectations a fair share of the time. Most Belmond performances, though, were hit-and-miss whereas the Imps put the emphasis on "hit."

Against their NIC foes this fall, the Bronco defense gave up 140 points. A quick survey of the files didn't show anything to compare with that for quite a number of years back. In 1961, when Belmond's record was 2-3-2, the same as this year, the Broncos yielded only 70 points to league opponents.

Wrestling squad has five lettermen; Vikings first foe week from Friday

Belmond High's wrestlers were getting down to hard work this week, with their opening dual against Northwood slated for a week from Friday. Coach Don Jones has just five lettermen back, and only one of them was winner of more matches than he lost as a varsity competitor last season.

Robbie Dorr, one of this area's top 112-pounders a year ago and not far from being one of the state's best at the weight, won 17 matches against just five defeats. Jones expects him to be a tough one again this year.

Mack and Glen Gabrielson both were rated at 165 pounds last year. The former won two varsity matches, drew in two others and was beaten eight times. Glen had five losses against a win and a draw. Gene Pals, at 154, won once and lost four times; and Greg McClanahan, 95 lbs., won three and lost nine.

Another nine grapplers who saw varsity action on one occasion or another during the '66-67 campaign will again be available, most of them at the lighter to middle weights: They are:

Dave McLaughlin, Danny Ketchum, Brian Bateson, Lewie Schaal, Tom Wilson, Vance Jenison, Bill Broshar, John Greenwood and Steve Courson.

Most of these boys have grown considerably and will be up a weight or two from those at which they wrestled last season.

Another 10 boys who saw reserve action during last year's mat campaign will be vying for varsity berths this season. They are: Randy Turner, Les Andrews, Lynn Henn, Leland Thompson, Irvin Meier, Jim Eckhoff, Kevin Gallagher, Dennis Knoll, Bob Cullinan and Vernon Christie.

Here, again, natural growth will make it difficult for most of these candidates to attain the weight divisions at which they wrestled a year ago.

Coach Jones does not anticipate that very radical weight reductions will be in order for the very large majority of the boys. He says he would prefer that the candidates wrestle at close enough to their natural weights that they can retain their strength and not have to make too difficult an adjustment.

As the boys see who is going to be wrestling at what weight, some of them may have their own ideas on the matter. If the loss of an extra five or six pounds will put some of them in a division where they stand a better chance of wrestling regularly in either the varsity or reserve ranks, the generally accepted practice is to cut weight to get into the division where their chances are brightest.

Only three cage lettemen return to Bronco squad

Coach Ted Besch this week was girding his Bronco basketeers for their season's opener at Eagle Grove, slated for Tuesday, Nov. 21. Endowed with only three returning lettermen, he regards the Belmond cage outlook as very much of a questionmark at this stage, with its success largely dependent upon how well newcomers to the starting line-up perform.

In Terry Nelson, who was second team all-conference choice last season, the Broncos have a dependable if not flashy scorer and scrappy post defender. Veterans supporting him will be Greg Fuller at forward and Paul Bamford at guard.

Supplementing this trio are another pair who saw fair amounts of varsity use a year ago, Joel Gabrielson at forward and Jim Studebaker, guard. Other seniors who were on the squad last season but saw relatively little action are Don Havens and Allan Hansen.

A pair of junior guards who will be bucking for starting roles are Lee Barkema and Rick Hawley, who were important cogs in the froshmore cage outfit of last year.

Team shortcomings that are apparent are moderate average height and a general lack of speed. An early assessment of the Broncos' prospects suggests that emphasis will have to be placed on achieving the tightest possible defense if the Blue-and-White hopes to contend seriously for the North Iowa conference title.

Following is the schedule:

Nov. 21 — Eagle Grove, there
Nov. 25 — Clear Lake, there
Dec. 1 — Forest City, there
Dec. 8 — Britt, here
Dec. 15 — Lake Mills, there
Dec. 19 — Garner, here
Dec. 22 — Northwood, there
Dec. 27 — Clarion, here
Jan. 5 — Buffalo Center, here
Jan. 12 — Garner, there
Jan. 16 — Newman here
Jan. 19 — Osage, there
Jan. 26 — Northwood, here
Feb. 2 — Buffalo Center, there
Feb. 9 — Forest City, here
Feb. 13 — Britt, there
Feb. 16 — Lake Mills, here
Feb. 23 — Osage, here

Lake Mills and Osage share conference title

Osage and Lake Mills came through with victories in their final games of the 1967 North Iowa conference football season to share the conference title wth 6-1 records. While the Imps were outscoring Belmond 25-14, the Bulldogs handed Buffalo Center its third loss of the year 13-0 after a scoreless first half.

It was the first time Lake Mills had finished on top since 1956, when the Bulldogs had exclusive claim to the crown. Osage's only other title success was in 1959, when the Imps upset Belmond in the season's finale to share the championship with the Broncos and Britt, all with 6-1 marks.

Garner — 5-2 — enjoyed its highest finish since 1963, when the Cardinals finished as runners-up to Belmond with a 6-1 record. Buffalo Center, still seeking its first NIC gridiron title, had to settle for fourth place with a 4-3 mark after appearing to be a serious contender during the first half of the campaign.

Solid defenses were the key to the successful efforts of Lake Mills and Osage. Both showed less offensive power than Belmond — or than Buffalo Center, for that matter — but the Bulldogs surrendered less than six points per game on the average and Osage exactly eight. Belmond, on the other hand, allowed its foes an average of 20 points per contest.

Though he failed to tally in his last game, Dewayne Torkelson of Buffalo Center held onto top individual scoring honors with 61 points — one ahead of Garner's Dave Formanek. Mark Pederson of Osage retained third place with 44 points though inactive against Belmond due to a disciplinary suspension.

Belmond had five of the 15 high scorers, including Paulo Canineu in 10th place with a 25 total exclusively on field goals and point conversions. Mike Klinefelter shared 5th place with Lake Mills' Mike Knudtson with 36 points.

Kanawha's gridders found the going fairly tough against Meservey Thornton last Friday night but got past the Lancers 13-2 to chalk up their third consecutive North Star conference football championship.

Larry Johnson pitched a pay-off pass to Steve Rietema for one tally and reliable Norm Baker scored on a run to give the Bulldogs' the title as the Lancers' only points came on a safety.

A safety — there was an unusual number of two-pointers in NSC play this fall — also figured in CAL's 15-0 win over Ventura that gave Coach Everett Oliphant's outfit a fourth-place finish with a 4-3 mark.

Boone Valley and Sheffield settled nothing in their tangle at Renwick for runner-up honors in the loop. The host team racked up a 13-0 halftime lead, but the Spartans came back after intermission to earn a a deadlock that left the two teams tied with identical 5-1-1 records.

Corwith-Wesley trimmed Klemme 18-6 in the remaining NSC game.

MR. AND MRS. RANDALL LEE THAYER

Miss Constance Mae Benway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Benway of Oskaloosa, became the bride of Randall Lee Thayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Thayer, on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 22, at 2:30 o'clock at the Methodist church. Rev. M. L. Jones performed the double-ring ceremony.

Lighted candles and a bouquet of white baby mums decorated the altar; and two pedestal baskets of white baby mums and large fiesta pink pompons were placed at the front of the chancel.

Mrs. R. W. Courson, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Bill Buenting of Ankeny as he sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned in peau de soie and Venice lace. The scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves were edged in lace. Lace appliques with pearls and bows encircled the neckline of the sweetheart bodice and the softly pleated floor-length skirt that extended to a full chapel-length train.

The bride's pearl crown headpiece had re-embroidered lace with crystal trim and held a bouffant elbow-length, pure silk illusion veil. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of white roses.

The bride's attendants wore identical dresses of fiesta pink organza over taffeta with scoop neckline and long lily-point sleeves. The A-line skirts had pleats in front and back. They wore matching forward headpieces of fabric flowers, pearl edged and with a nose-tip veil. Each attendant carried a bouquet of white baby mums.

Ronald Middleton and Philip McLaughlin were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a three-piece suit in Bristol blue. The mother of the bridegroom wore a green knit dress. Each had a corsage of white mums and roses.

Mrs. Arlynn Boelman of Mason City was in charge of the guest book. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Steenhard of Meservey and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Brown of Austin, Minn., received the gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Showalter were hosts to the 200 guests at the reception held in the church parlors. Mrs. Mary Moe catered the reception.

Mrs. Dan Veeder of Boone served the punch and Mrs. Joe Zdenek of Rose Creek, Minn., served the coffee. Both are aunts of the groom.

Waitresses were Mrs. Bill Buenting of Ankeny, Corrine Veeder of Boone and Mrs. Richard Morris.

Mrs. Bill Walrod, Mrs. William Meints, Mrs. James McMurray, Mrs. Luther Proeger, Jr., and Mrs. Paul Steenblock aided in the kitchen.

After a short wedding trip to Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Thayer are living in an apartment at 315 First street NE.

Both are graduates of Belmond High school. Mrs. Thayer is employed at Central Soya and Mr. Thayer is employed at Lloyd's Standard station.

WEDDING VOWS are to be spoken this Saturday by Patricia May Matzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Matzer of Omaha, Neb., and Steven Lamfers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seabo Lamfers. The ceremony will be conducted at the Trinity Lutheran church. Miss Matzer's fiance is employed by a steel construction firm at Boone.

Camp Fire Girls entertain mothers as supper guests

Ki-Ya-To Camp Fire group a week ago Saturday entertained mothers of the members at a supper served at the home of Diana Larkin.

Under the direction of Mrs. Bernard Miller, their leader, the girls prepared and served the meal, which followed a Halloween theme.

Following the supper, an enjoyable evening was spent by the Camp Fire Girls and their guests playing Halloween games.

MESERVEY NEWS

MRS. VERGENA PALS

Library receives new Stalin book

Librarian Dorothy Nordman reports arrival of the new book, "Svetlana Alliluyva — Twenty Letters to a Friend," which was purchased for the Meservey library by the Meservey Federated Woman's club as a memorial to Edna Blewett.

Says Mrs. Nordman, "This is a sincere human document that shows a Stalin that no historian, scholar or other Russian could show as has the subject's daughter.

"It is a pathetic account of the tragedy of a strange family, which in turn reflects how Stalin terrorized a whole people just as he terrorized his wife, children, and his wife's family."

Mrs. Nordman and Evelyn Gaetzke on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week attended a North Iowa Library Workshop held at the public library and Hotel Hanford in Mason City. Fifty librarians from 13 counties found it a worthwhile meeting.

Rob and Rick Gross, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Gross of Thornton, spent a week ago Wednesday with Greg Raecker.

Mrs. Frieda Ruigh returned home Monday evening after spending about two weeks visiting her daughter and family, the Howard Muhlenbrucks, near Hampton and with her son and family, the Don Ruighs, at Iowa Falls.

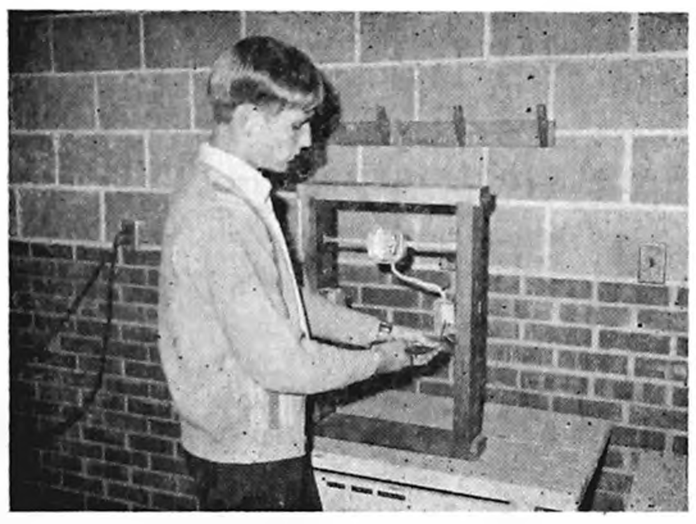
INDUSTRIAL ARTS

During American Education Week — November 5-11

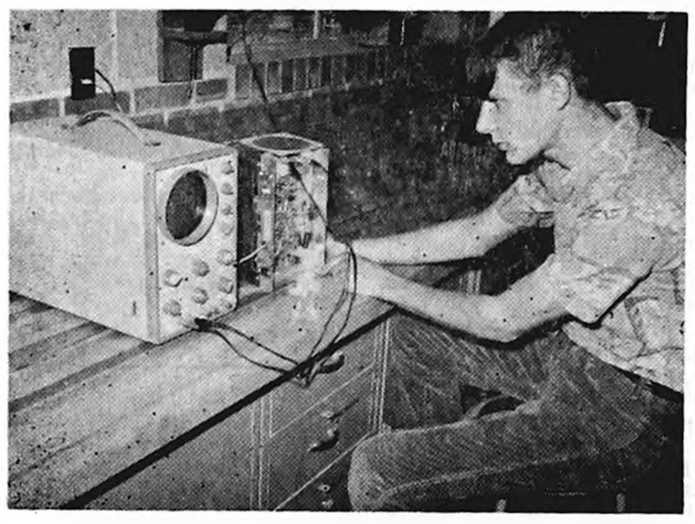
Industrial arts at Belmond Community High School is a study of the broad aspects of industry, such as construction, transportation, communication, manufacturing and research and development. More specifically "shop" includes woodworking, drafting, metals, power mechanics, electricity, electronics and research. Each of the preceding areas are further divided into units. For example: Metal work includes an opportunity to investigate sheetmetal, welding, foundry and machine shop.

Although industrial arts at Belmond is often referred to as "shop", it is more than that. It is actually a classroom-laboratory combination, providing the BHS students with the opportunity to study the materials, processes, products and related problems in each of the areas that he or she chooses.



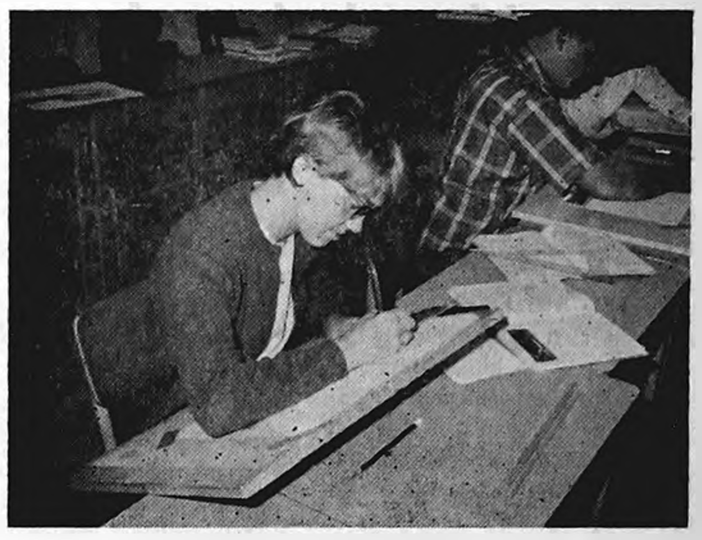
Proper techniques in stripping wire are demonstrated by JOHN REASONER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Reasoner. John is studying an electrical safety unit which is a four-week session.

PACKARD ELECTRIC, Inc.



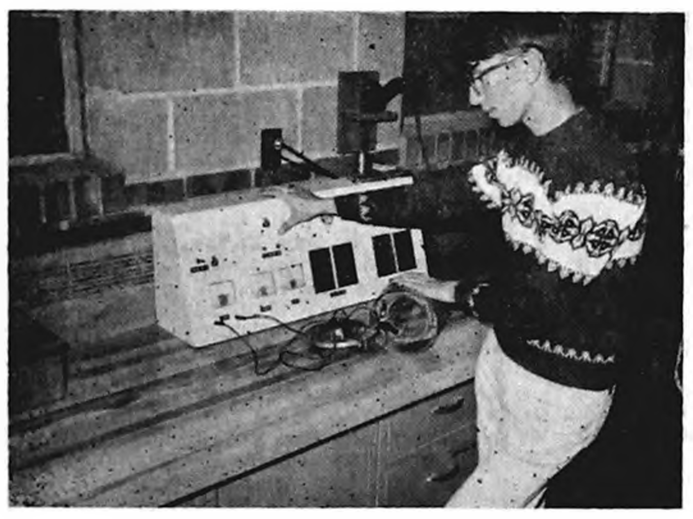
MARVIN BAILEY uses the oscilloscope to better understand electronic circuitry. He will also study Ohm's law and become familiar with electronic components. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bailey.

BUD'S TV—Your Sylvania Dealer



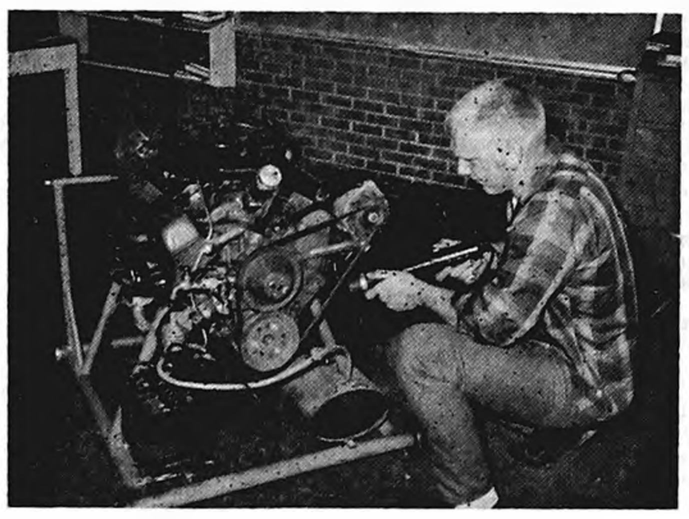
JENNIFER OLSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Olson, draws details of a metal casting in a unit in mechanical drafting. She also will study a unit in achitectural drafting and will draw a complete set of house plans.

Wallace, Holland, Kastler & Schmitz
ENGINEERS—Willowbrook Plaza—Mason City



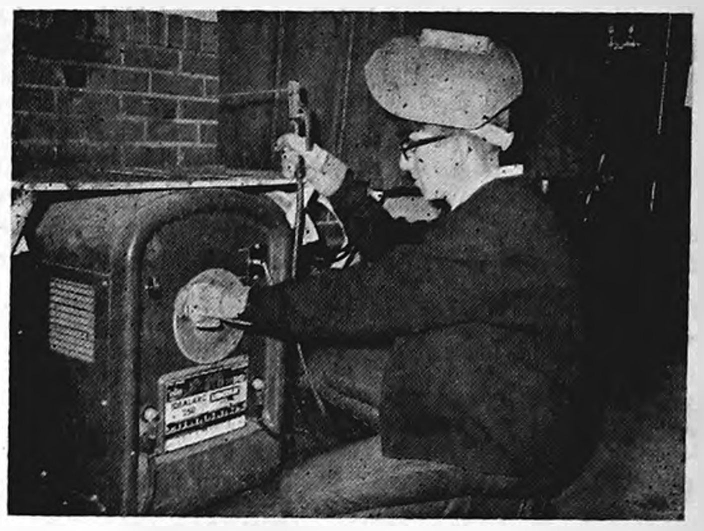
CRAIG TRACY uses an ohmmeter to test his electric motor for shorts during a nine week course in motor rewind. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tracy.

CLARION REWIND—Clarion



RUSS STEENBLOCK, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steenblock, uses an electronic timing light to check ignition timing. Russ also studies electrical theory and its applisation to engine tune-up.

McLaughlin Bros. Chevrolet



VERLYN BOELMAN is about to demonstrate his welding skill. Welding is offered for 11 weeks in Industrial Arts II. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boelman.

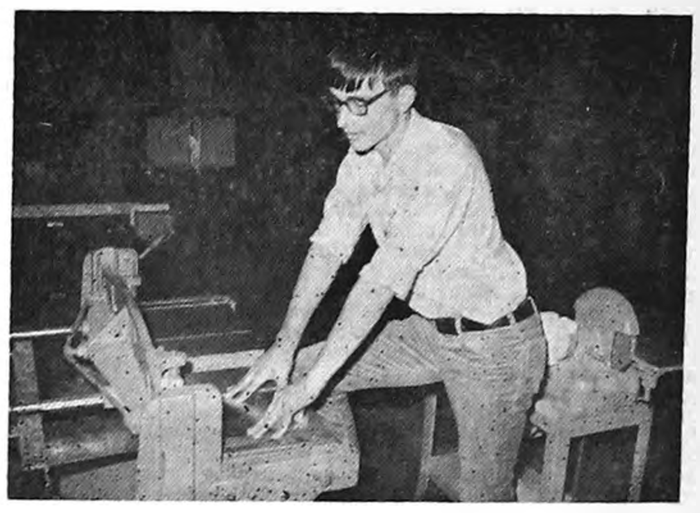
BRUNS & SMITH
GARAGE & WELDING SHOP — ROWAN

STEVE RIEDEL uses the drill press to cut dowel plugs. These are used to cover the heads of the screws used in his project. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Riedel.

FULLERTON LUMBER CO.

DOUG DORR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dorr, demonstrates a method for testing a varnished finish for its ability to withstand scratching.

GAMBLES



SAM McLAUGHLIN uses the squaring sheer to cut 28 gauge sheet metal, which will later be used for project fabrication in a sheet metal unit. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McLaughlin.

EDITORIALS

Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? And your labour for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. — Isa. 55:2

When government "automates" its waste, then what?

By an error in mathematical calculation we overcharged a lady customer the other day by a matter of 68 cents. It didn't bother her, because she didn't know it had happened. It bothered us, though, and we gave her a ring to inform her the money would be waiting for her the next time she happened to come into the office.

This incident was somewhat in contrast with some experiences that the procurement division of the Department of Defense has been having lately. They have had some real foul-ups; but the defense department powers-that-be seem undisturbed.

The taxpayer would seemed entitled to take a more concerned attitude. Two examples publicized by the Des Moines Register's Washington bureau cited a $1.60 handle for which the department has been paying $312.50; and another $2.00 item for which procurement has been blithely spending $120 per copy (oh, they DID save $12 on some of these when a cagy supplier aware of the buying practice offered a quantity at the "special price" of $108 and got a nice order).

Assistant Secretary of Defense Thomas Morris waved the whole thing aside with the explanation that if human errors are fed into computers, not only will mistakes occur but they are projected and compounded by the machine. And since the purpose of computerizing the procurement operations is to save millions, no dismay should be felt if booboos cause an occasional few thousands of dollars in actual waste.

Some members of the House Armed Services Investigating committee have found this explanation a bit difficult to swallow. These examples of cybernetics in reverse leave the Congressmen wondering out loud "who's in charge?" — the computers or the people who operate them.

Morris may be theoretically correct that in the broad view, the savings made possible by computerizing purchasing operations make the cited examples of waste insignificant. But the taxpayer, along with the Congressmen, are entitled to harbor some nagging doubts.

At what point does it become worthwhile for man to assert his rule over machine? When a $160 item due to someone's negligence begins to be acquired at a price of $3,125 . . . when a $1,600 item is hiked to a $31,250 defense department buying price? Is there no point where the computer's predominance over the people who run it should be challenged?

Excusing the department's employees for the "negligible" errors committed, Morris declared defiantly, "You can't have it both ways." In other words, you computerize and take pot luck with the results or you accept the inefficiency of human cerebration and pay the price.

Morris doesn't convince us. The human brain may be slow and fallible. But with all its faults, it has some advantages over a computer gone wild. The question, "Who's in charge?", has some merit to us.

Negroes to rural hinterland may be part of answer

Would you believe . . . six Negro families living in Belmond?

Employed how? One family head, a school teacher perhaps; another — a technician at the clinic? A couple at Central Soya; another at ACCO; and the last . . . a bricklayer?

How many times have you heard local discussions of riots and other civil rights disturbances conclude with the remark, "Thank goodness we don't have to contend with the problem HERE"?

And has it ever ooccured to you that there is small chance the problem will be overcome nationally until a community like Belmond is willing to become a part of the solution?

Underlying the rebellion that has developed as Negroes demand the opportunities and privileges that have been denied them from the time their ancestors stepped upon our shores as slaves is the fact that their freedom to migrate has been severely circumscribed by the very status they are now attempting to escape.

Rural America has had very few Negro residents because the economy has provided few of the limited occupational avenues that have been open to the colored man and woman.

The Goodell history printed on this page last week recalled a Negro couple who farmed in that community in its early days — a most exceptional situation.

In our own youth in an Iowa town of some 5,000 population there were two Negro families. The head of one was a "shoe shine boy" and porter in a barbershop; the head of the other held a janitorial job. These were "typical" occupations of the rare Negroes who found their way into small-town mid-America.

How many Iowa towns of 7,500 population or less do you know about that have any Negroes in their population? Manly comes to our mind. Then we're just about stumped.

As Negroes attain the opportunities for self-betterment of which they have been deprived, economic barriers to their unhampered migration to all parts of the nation and to their diffusion into all occupational fields will break down.

This may take quite a while to happen; but logically, it will happen — and both legally and morally, it must happen.

Other ethnic groups that voluntarily emigrated to this country have had to await the time of their social acceptance. But in varying lapses of time, it has come. The day of the Negro's absorbtion into the mainstream of American life will come, too.

It seems inevitable that that day will find the Negro seeking his rightful place in the sun in every geographic locale and in every type of community, as well as in all social strata.

There will be communities that will fight this trend to the last ditch. There will be others that will welcome their colored brethren into the full opportunities and privileges that are the right of every person and accept them as friends and neighbors. We'd like to think that Belmond not only may be among the first to extend the hand of brotherhood, when the day arrives, but also do what it can to help speed that day.

And if we needn't "defend" moon?

Watching the September moon from a friendly knoll behind our buildings one recent evening, I got to thinking about a radio broadcast of that very morning. An "expert" was discussing the problems to be solved if, when "we" get to the moon, we find that some interplanetary interlopers have already established themselves there. He suggested it was not beyond credibility that other locations in the universe have taken to travel.

He said any human beings who go to the moon must be ready to defend themselves on arrival, because there may already be settlers there from other worlds who, lurking on the dark side, might rush out and give us a hard time. (I heard this, and can state time and station.)

Somehow, as a peaceful moon watcher with a private knoll, this intrusion in the exercises bristles me up. I can stand for hours in one spot and look at the moon and never get the slightest thought about starting a fight up there.

BUT IN THE SPACE OF 10 minutes of modern know-how, as compared to long years of historical moon presence, man readily converts a whole saga of poetry, superstition, legend and lore into a battle. And cutely softens his beligerent premise by saying it would be "defense."

We would go to the moon, armed and ready, expecting to fight, and when we opened up on these moon creatures we would cry out that we had been attacked. What do defenders do when attackers defend?

I likewise pondered that this expert was using the word "we" with some presumption When he said "humans" he clearly meant citizens of the United States of America as contrasted with the lessor forms of life.

WHEN HE SAID, "WE MUST BE ready to defend ourselves" he meant that our military might is now pitted against the infinite, and whatever the outermost galaxy can array against "us" is the exclusive problem of West Point.

Contrariwise, as I stood there looking at my moon drifting peacefully across my sky, I began to admire the imagined skill of some astral creature who, without benefit of our constitutional system, had already surmounted difficulties that baffle us, and had got to the moon before "we" did.

Such a creature, I mused, would have engines and knowledge advanced of ours, would have a fairly good school system back home, and might deploy a kind of warfare with which our lesser skills couldn't cope.

This quickly led to another thought — possibly their superior philosophies have rendered them docile, and they may go about from star to star in meditative mood without the slightest thought of strife.

WE MIGHT WIND UP, THUS, in the unearthly situation of starting one of our good fights (defensively) with somebody who couldn't care less, and who would come out to greet our gunfire bearing baskets of fruit and exotic goodies in a gentlemanly gesture of love and good will.

You can't help wondering what the Pentagon would do in a case of that kind. It would be a blow. After you go to the expense of outfitting a good defense, the least anybody can do is stand up to you.

I'm trying to say that there was a time I could look up at the moon on clear nights and feel that I was just standing there looking at the moon. Oh, a poetic allusion or two, but nothing more. Shadows on the Acropolis, an old woman tossed up in a basket, a cow that jumped

I WOULD OBSERVE THAT THE features do look very like a man's, but now I must admit that to a nonearthling they might look very like a squash if a nonearthling's environment happens to shape nonearthlings like squashes.

You see what you look for, I suppose. And if you're looking for a fight I can see how the ridges and valleys of the moon make lovely fortifications.

September blackberries are the sweetest, and I had a bowl of them before I went to bed. The moon had climbed higher and was looking in my window, and before I fell asleep I thought a little about the sack of Troy. That was a good fight, too. — John Gould's "Dispatch from the Farm," Christian Science Monitor

TJ entered the office, cast a furtive glance around (we were waiting on an office supplies customer) and made himself as unobtrusive as possible in the obvious hope of getting a nap in without interference from Ye Ed.

Having made our sale — and collected the inevitable tax — we plumped down at our desk. . . . "Women!" we muttered, to no one in particular. "Do 'em a kindness and what do you get? Nothing! Won't even acknowledge a favor!"

"All right," TJ sighed with resignation, "what's with the ungrateful women bit? Who shook your cage?"

"It's about time you let the world know you're among the living," we snarled. "Resting up from a night out with one of Ginny Courson's strays, probably."

"NEVER MIND MY ROMANCES," the cat replied. "Get to the point. What female did you an injustice NOW?"

"Remember the plaintive letter we got about a month ago from June Beckett, over at Clarion?" we asked. "Had a household afflicted with cats, and too tender-hearted to dump'm in somebody's pasture?"

"Just a darned minute!" TJ ejaculated. "Mrs. B. happens to be a cat lover, and I'm on her side. And she DID offer to pay for her plight to be advertised in the North Iowa Peach. It was your idea to save personal brainwork by using her letter as column fodder.

"IT JUST SO HAPPENS," THE feline continued, "that I made a trip to Clarion recently and can give you a full report. . . . Don't look so surprised. In this jet age, a 14-mile jaunt isn't so much of a much, even for a cat who isn't particularly known for long-range wanderings."

"So TELL!" we cut him short.

"The woman has a family to look after, besides working at the Extension Office," TJ chided, "including a 10-year-old learning to play the trombone; an Airman son in Thailand for whom she's been preparing Christmas goodies; and a husband she tries to keep in shape — which shape he prefers to be ROUND, from good eating."

Beginning to feel a bit contrite, we replied with a meek. "Oh?"

"PLUS," THE CAT CONTINUED, "she's been learning to sew — sort of a Grandma Moses of the needle. And until Jack Frost stepped in she had a garden which, due to her Extension connections, she HAD to keep scrupulously free of weeds."

"So we hate ourself," we interrupted to ring-off the recital. "What about the Beckett cats?"

"Nature provided part of the answer," TJ announced, wiping a tear from his eye. "Fleas got into Old Fuzz's litter of four — she was the grandma, you'll remember — and literally ate three of 'em up, almost overnight.

"THAT LEFT ONE, WHITE fuzzball who for a while had to be hand-fed. Granny refused to have anything to do with the offspring after he'd been given a liberal ministration of flea powder. . . . Perseverance plus a few sharp words to Old Fuzz finally got him back on the spigot and he survived to join the John Bohman household at Alexander."

The only remark we could summon was a sympathetic, "Gee!"

"Then Duane Meinders, of our own backshop gang, claimed the yellow-almost-red kitten to pass along to his Grandma; and a Clarion lady who was a satisfied customer from a preceding time took the grey-and-white — seems his predecessor had chose an oncoming car and lost the contest."

A LOOK OF PURE WOE CROSSED TJ's face as he contemplated the tragedy and he had to get ahold of himself before he could go on.

"Finally, a kid whose folks run the Teenie Weenie Cafe badgered his folks until they let him bring the little calico critter home. That leaves the year-and-a-half-old one called Snowball as the Beckett's entire stock in trade for the time being.

"Good mouser; house-broke; and a pretty little thing, I might add," said TJ, thereupon lapsing into silence while he pinned us with a meaningful gaze before adding, "I don't suppose we could . . . ?"

"You are SO right!" we agreed quickly. "I don't suppose we could!

"YOU PROVIDE PROBLEMS enough here at the office. And Gata would never stand for an interloper at the Gallagher manse. Forget it!"

"Maybe the Becketts might consider taking ME in," TJ suggested, as what was intended as a threat. It didn't bluff us any.

"Might be worth a try," we conceded. "Why not hop another ride to Clarion and test the situation out?"

Giving us a baleful glare, the cat disappeared under the desk to have a good pout. Bachelor quarters though we may provide him, the scoundrel likes it here.

Amsterdam, Goodell churches' histories told

By Vern Schluter

AMSTERDAM

The first settlers of what is now Hancock county came in the summer of 1854. They were Anson Avery, his wife, son, and Mrs. Avery's brother, C. O. Philo. They came from Michigan by covered wagon, pulled by oxen.

Anson Avery, a native of New York, was born October 2, 1823. Mrs. Avery, nee Lovina Philo, was born on Kelley's Island in Lake Erie, September 9, 1831.

The George Nelson family settled near the Averys that same fall. By next year many more families had joined the settlement, first called Upper Grove. It was renamed Amsterdam, because most of the settlers were natives of New York.

Village platted in '58

The village was platted in 1858 and the officials were Thomas MacGill and Robert Irvin, trustees, and Charles Church, clerk.

Edward Rogers opened the first store in 1859. The Black Ox Inn was built in 1857 near the river and below the hill where the cemetery is now. Leonard Standring was the first proprietor.

He was followed by Robert Irvin in 1858, William Gilpin in 1859, Russel Wiley in 1880, W. A. Leizer in 1894 and J. N. Porter in 1905.

Inn torn down in '55

After this time it no longer served as a hotel and became a private home. The building was torn down in 1955, it being at the time the last remnant of the village of Amsterdam.

The first post office in Hancock county was established in the Benoni Haskins cabin in 1860 and he was the first postmaster. The post office remained in Amsterdam until 1886, when it was moved to Goodell.

Charles Robbins established the first blacksmith shop in 1860. He was a political refugee of his day. A native of New York, he left his adopted Missouri by request, because of his strong views against negro slavery.

First doctor in county

Dr. Charles Buffon became the first doctor to practice in Hancock county. He opened his office in Amsterdam in 1860.

The first courthouse of Hancock county was located at Amsterdam and the first term of court was held on May 24, 1860, with the Honorable Judge Porter on the bench. The first item of business was to admit C. D. Pritchard and S. Brockway to the bar. They became the first law firm in the county.

The first school in the county was taught by C. D. Pritchard in his cabin in 1860.

The county's first newspaper, The Independent, was published in Amsterdam in 1861. Its existence was of short duration; it closed its doors a year later.

Grist mill on river

C. J. Boughten opened a furniture store and Sylvester Stockwell a boot and shoe store in 1863. The same year A. D. Hiams built the grist mill on the river, which operated until 1890. J. N. Wilbar was the last operator.

The town was never incorporated. Instead, it was a township within Avery township and had it's own set of officers.

The first officials were elected at a general election held in the courthouse in Amsterdam on Oct. 8, 1861 with Thomas MacGill, Charles Church, B. C. Harkin and Ed Thorp as the election board.

First election Results

Results of this election were: trustees, William Gilpin, B. W. Culver and C. D. Pritchard; clerk, Ed Thorpe; assessor, Conrad John; constables, Henry John and Thomas MacGill.

Justices of the peace, Sewall Whitcome and Malcomb MacGill; road supervisor, George Savogue. In the old record book other and later election results are recorded.

In 1876, election of officials for Amsterdam was discontinued. Avery became the sole township and officials were elected for the entire township.

Railroad tax approved

On August 29, 1868 a special election was held in the townships on the proposition: "Shall a tax of 5 per cent on all taxable property be levied to pay the McGregor and Sioux City Railroad to build in the township?"

This carried, 21 "yes" and 17 "no." It was 15 years later before a railroad was finally built — and when it was built it missed Amsterdam.

The grade for the "Slippery Elm" railroad was built in 1875. The contractor absconded with the money instead of paying the workmen, and the road was never built. Some of the grade can be seen in the county to this day.

Rail line missed Amsterdam

In 1884 the B.C.R. & N. Railroad was built close to the old "Slippery Elm" route. This road later became the Rock Island. A station was built at Goodell, and Amsterdam began to fade away.

Thomas Elder, who ran the last store in Amsterdam, closed his business in 1888. He moved his building to Meservey and it is now the home of Mrs. Vergena Pals.

The homes in Amsterdam were moved away, torn down or burned and with the passing of the Black Ox Inn in 1955, Amsterdam became a quiet ghost town.

FIRST CHURCH SERVICE

The first church service in Hancock county was held in May of 1858 at the Benoni Haskins cabin in Amsterdam. The preacher was Rev. William McNutt, a Presbyterian elder who had come to the village in March of that year. He was the great grandfather of Robert McNutt and Mrs. Elmer Kienenberer.

He also preached the first funeral sermon in the county, at the home of George Savogue, when the Savogues' son died in June of 1863. He continued to hold services later in the schoolhouse in Amsterdam until his health failed in 1880.

The pioneers belonged to various denominations and could not agree on a common one, so no church was built for some time. In 1888 a Rev. Fennel, known as "the Cowboy Preacher," held evangelistic services in the Amsterdam schoolhouse.

First church built 1890

It was decided the next year to build a United Brethren church in Goodell and A. D. White donated the land for a church building, which was built in 1890. The first trustees were David Hunt, Ole Olson, Nels Pierson, George Elder and John Griggs. Rev. Fennel was the first pastor.

The present church was built in 1918. In 1957 it was yoked with Stilson, with the pastor living at the latter place. The Rev. Donald Thompson is the present minister.

The first Catholic services were held in the Goodell school in 1894, conducted by the Rev. Father Egan.

The church was built in 1895 on land that was donated by A. D. White. On the building committee were: E. J. Bauman, Wm. Cashman, Nicholas Conlan, John Smith and Patrick Monaghan. The church was dedicated in 1899. The first marriage performed in the church was that of Thomas Cashman and Julia Parker.

On Sunday, Dolvin's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Farnsworth, and family, Austin, Minn., came to spend Sunday with the Milands. Mrs. Marie Miland, Larry, Dolvin and Mrs. Farnsworth's mother, has been staying in the Miland home here for two weeks. The Farnsworths took Mrs. Miland with them to spend some time in Austin.

Mrs. Carl Green took Mrs. Daisy Green of Garner, Carl's mother, to St. Joseph Mercy hospital, Mason City, Monday, to admit her for eye surgery on Tuesday.

The regular American Legion Auxiliary meeting was held Thursday evening in the V. E. Harris home. Gifts for veterans were shown and are displayed in the store windows. These gifts will be sent to the V. A. hospital before Nov. 15.

It was decided to pack and send candy to servicemen and others on Dec. 12 rather than the regular December meeting as the Auxiliary is invited to the home of Mrs. Cecilia Bonnstetter in Ventura on Dec. 7.

After the close of the business meeting, Mrs. Harris gave a report on the "Flowers of Malaysia." The Christmas seal chairman, Mrs. Earl Michelson, brought the seals.

The letters were addressed and the seals put in. The Auxiliary sponsors this program.

Servicemen's new addresses are needed as the Auxiliary plans to send them candy. If you have someone in the armed forces the Auxiliary would appreciate it if you would leave the names and addresses with Mrs. V. E. Harris at the State Savings bank or with any Auxiliary member.

On Sunday of last week Mary Avery entertained her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pieper of Hubbard. Last Sunday, Mrs. Avery spent the day with her son Harwood.

Mr and Mrs. Carrol Heifner of Buffalo Center and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Nuehring and Ralph of Klemme were Sunday evening guests in the Warren Bier home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Boller enjoyed visiting Sunday in the Helen Latch home and also in the Wayne Latch home, all of Charles City.

Hinman among "inventors"—

Novel toys made out of tin cans

• • • • • •

Charles R. Mischke, professor of mechanical engineering, challenges his students in this course every fall quarter by assigning to them a project which will call upon them to use ingenuity in the construction or use of some skill to solve a problem which they may face as practicing engineers in the future.

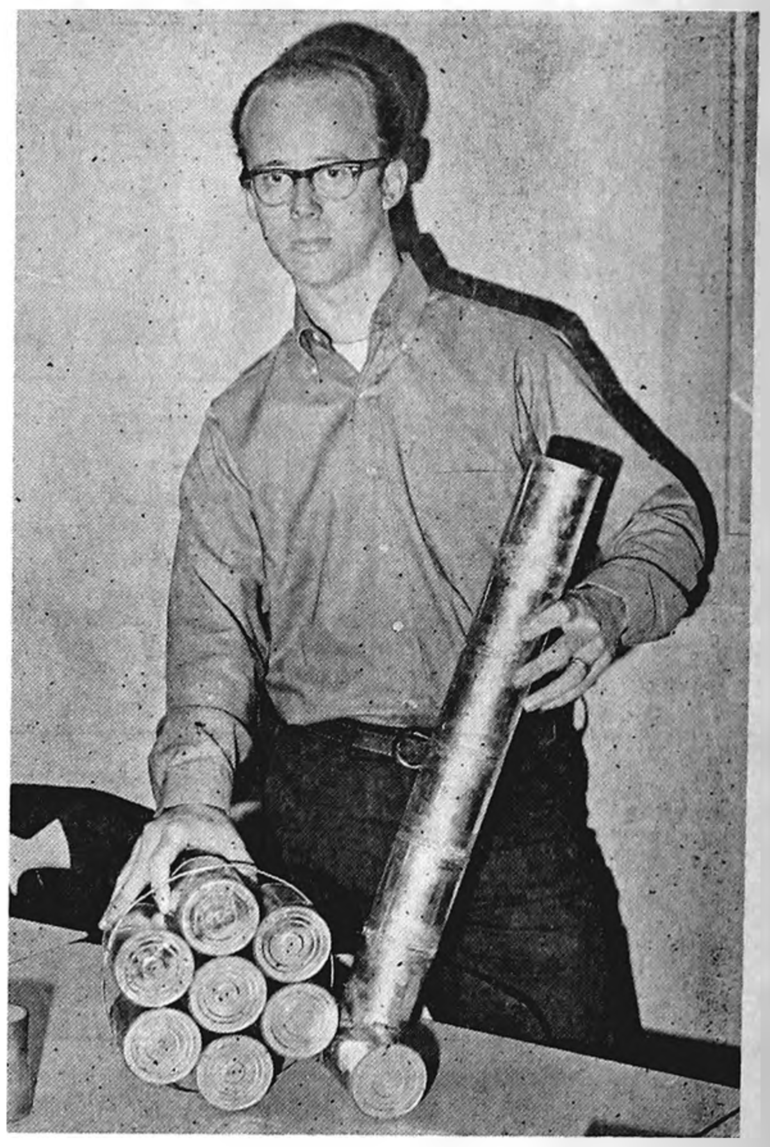
With the American public consuming material things at a rapid pace, it will become necessary, in the future, to find a second use for some articles which would otherwise end up in the scrap heap.

This year, the Continental Can company of Chicago "grub-staked" the students with a supply of tin cans. The project was to have each student construct a toy out of cans with the ultimate idea of passing along the design and techniques to servicemen in Vietnam so they could make toys for the children of that nation in their spare-time.

The supply of discarded tin cans in that area is huge. Passing along the designs to the men of the armed forces will not only give them some spare-time activity but will, theoretically, do a lot to cement relations with the young South Vietnamese.

This year's competition brought designs and finished models of a tin can banjo, pull toys, puzzles and games. A panel of qualified judges viewed the finished products to rule on the design, efficiency and feasibility of construction of the items "in the field."

A lot of thought and work went went into the project, as was evidenced by the finished products submitted by the 27 students for judging. Steve Hinman of Belmond created a croquet game from his allotment of cans. Another Wright countian, Robert Watts of Clarion, made a pull toy.



STEVE HINMAN SHOWS TIN CAN CROQUET GAME

First-place went to an imaginative helicopter toy fabricated by Steve Stith of Des Moines; second place went to a puppet designed by Francis Healey of Dubuque; and third to another variety of puppet made by Jim Burns of Des Moines.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY OF BRANERS HONORED

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Braner were surprised Saturday evening by friends who came to help celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary a few days in advance. They were presented a gift of money. The anniversary was Wednesday, Nov. 8.

Guests were the following couples: the Roger Boelmans, Alvin Braners, Henry Pals, Lambert Pals, Lloyd Fullers, George "Coonie" Smiths, Arnold Barkemas, DuWayne Kalkwarfs and Robert Misners.

A cash gift was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Hauge, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Ruka and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burk of Goodell, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pringnitz of Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Baker of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hauge, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barkema and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Sorenson.

Home Study club met with Mrs. Clarence Severson

Home Study club met Wednesday afternoon of last week at the home of Mrs. Sanford Severson with Mrs. Clarence Johnson as cohostess. Twenty members answered roll call with a ten-cent gift exchange.

Mrs. Sherman Ekeland gave the lesson on "November Meditations". Contests were conducted by Mrs. Eldon Eliason and Mrs. Russell Lonnevik and prize winners were Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Mrs. Leland Dorr, and Mrs. Galen Johnson.

WSCS had lesson on "Japanese Youth — A Study of Change"

Members of W.S.C.S. met a week ago Thursday afternoon at the Methodist church. The lesson on the "Church in a changing World" sub-title "Japanese Youth — A Study of Change" was presented by Mrs. Cleo Wilson. Mrs. Harold Ainger and Rhea Campbell. Mrs. Ainger gave an insight into her life in Japan.

Hostesses were Mrs. Howard Jacobmeyer, Mrs. A. R. Leebrick, Mrs. Donald Robinson and Mrs. Clair Bonte.

BOHLENS MARK THEIR GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

Approximately 160 people greeted Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohlen Sunday at the K Motel when open house was held in their honor on their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Keith Madsen of Ames, a granddaughter, presided at the guest book. Serving punch were Mrs. Don Barkema of Meservey, a granddaughter, Mrs. Dennis Scott of Mason City, Mrs. Danny Scott of Clear Lake and Mrs. Stephen Larsen of Minneapolis, Minn., granddaughters-in-law.

Mrs. Don Scott of Clear Lake and Mrs. Lyle Larsen of Royal, both daughters of the couple, poured coffee. The cake was cut by Mrs. Jack Campbell, another daughter.

Taking care of the cards and gifts was Timathe Campbell of Minneapolis, Minn., a granddaughter of the couple.

Guests were present from Minneapolis, Minn., from Wisconsin and the following Iowa towns: New Hampton, Ames, Ackley, Royal, Spencer, Mason City, Clear Lake, Hampton, Latimer, Alexander, Meservey, Garner, Dows, Goodell, Iowa Falls, Rockwell and Belmond.

The Belmond Independent

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL 49 NO. 8 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1967 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | 10 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

"The Front Row" column in Sunday's Des Moines Register told of a piece of good fortune recently befalling an ex-Belmondite, Don Toft (not Todt, as the item spelled the name). A freelance commercial artist now living at Des Moines, Don dabbles in song-writing as a hobby but has never tried to get any of his efforts published.

It was his hobby that paid off so handsomely — to the tune of a $1,000 cash prize and a week's vacation in Hollywood, Fla.

The Atlantic coast Hollywood conducted a contest for the best song praising the attractions of its locale and Don came up with a ditty entitled "Hollywood, F-L-A" that was declared the winner. Presumably he and the missus, the former Marlys Watermiller, will be enjoying a southern sojourn before long. Maybe Don should switch trades?

Good golly! We did it again! Found ourself afflicted with Pals-itis, that is. In the honorable mentions with the North Iowa all-conference selections published in this issue, we went and got "Gary Pals" down in place of Gene Pals. And after Gene probably lowered the boom on more opposing ball carriers for losses than any other Bronco defensive lineman. Hear, ye, to-wit: it was GENE Pals to whom the recognition came. Sorry about that.

Top-flight attractions are closely available to local music lovers (of every variety) in great quantity this season. For example, next Sunday night the famed Roger Wagner Chorale — possibly the best in the business — is appearing at Wartburg college's Knights gymnasium at 8:00 o'clock. A trip to Waverly isn't too much of a jaunt to hear such a group as this.

All next week, Nov. 20th thru 25th, the delightful "Fantastiks" is on at St. Paul Auditorium. Any who saw this musical at Cobblestone Theater a couple of seasons ago will recommend it highly. It's a pip!

Then, next Tuesday night "The Mitch Ryder Show" is being presented at Mason City's Roosevelt Fieldhouse by NIAC college. "What Now, My Love" is Ryder's latest big hit. Then, NIAC has the "Young Americans" coming in February and "The Association" in March. And our own BHS Thespians have "Guys and Dolls coming up in February. Something for everybody, by golly . . . and then some!

Families of Belmond men in the armed services are asked to contact Mrs. Sid Swenson with their current addresses for the benefit of local organizations wishing to remember the servicemen at Christmastime. Mrs. Swenson particularly wants the addresses of those serving in Vietnam, to whom the VFW Auxiliary will be sending packages. Several other groups, however, are also interested in having current files of the military addresses, and Mrs. Swenson will see that they receive such names and addresses as they wish from those phoned in (6127) to her. She asks that phone calls be made to her after 6:00 p. m. — as promptly as possible.

Received a most welcome note this week from Mrs. Len Sheldon noting that Len has sold his Chevrolet business at Oskaloosa and the family has moved to Altoona (their new address, for the benefit of friends, is — 400 Eighth street SW, Altoona, Ia. 50009). They pulled stakes last Friday.

Len has leased a big Pure Oil Truck Stop (big? just the largest this company his in the U. S.!) at the Altoona exit from Interstate 80.

Dorothy says Len has had this "bug in his ear" for a long time and when this opportunity came along, he jumped at it. The construction on the station will be completed about Feb. 1. The Sheldons are enthused about the deal and hope Belmond passers-by on Interstate 80 will remember them.

Mrs. Richard Woodin notes that a "For Men Only" book section has been set up at the Belmond library, intended to cater to the reading preferences of male patrons. It features volumes on hunting, adventure, biography, do-it-yourself and like topics. She observes that its stock has thus far seemed to hold equal appeal to feminine readers, much to the staff's surprise; but at least it was established with the men primarily in mind.

May we suggest to our farm friends that we take another squint at the "tough situation" that is forever plaguing the tillers of the soil? A recently released census of agriculture showed farms in NIAD had average sales in 1964 that came to $17,519, compared to $10,572 just 10 years earlier. Of course, we've got to admit that larger farms were no small factor in the increase (there was a 20 per cent decrease in the number of NIAD farms during the decade).

Total farm product sales over the 10 years went up from $148 million to $196 million — a jump of 33 per cent. While the over-all increase was 33, the percentage per-farm was much greater (again, we assume, because of the dwindling number of farms).

Franklin had the highest percentage increase in NIAD, up 88 per cent in the 10-year span. Wright was close behind with 85 per cent greater income per farm in '64 than in '54. Increases in the other NIAD counties were: Hancock 80 per cent, Cerro Gordo 69, Winnebago 66, Butler 60, Mitchell and Floyd each 48 and Worth 43 per cent. Of course, the bigger the farm, the lower the relative expense. Last year it cost $15,000 more to operate 2½ farms of 240 acres than one of 1,600.

Weather station planned by ACCO Seed division

R. J. "Bob" Richardson, production and processing director for ACCO Seeds division of Anderson, Clayton and company, last weekend advised The Independent of ACCO's intention of establishing a weather station here for the benefit of Belmond and vicinity.

He explained that the ACCO center for research and also the firm's production operations here will be able to make good use of data provided by the station. Regular weekly records will be made available to the public via The Independent, along with monthly and annual compilations that should be of general interest.

Some equipment is already in ACCO's possession and other necessary instruments will be purchased in order that all pertinent information can be gathered. All told, the instruments and the shelter to house them will represent an investment of $750 or more.

It is ACCO's aim to have the station in operation as promptly as possible. It will permit The Independent to resume weekly weather service to its readers after a lapse of more than a year, since the former Armour Agricultural Chemical company's weather station was destroyed by the October tornado last year.

Included in the equipment which ACCO will install are: strip chart temperature recorder, which will record not only continuous temperature readings but barometric pressure and relative humidity as well; and an auxiliary thermograph recording temperatures only.

There will also be a maximum-minimum thermometer to provide a daily check on the accuracy of the two recording devices; a rain and snow guage to measure precipitation; and eventually, a wind velocity guage.

All of the instruments will be housed in a regulation wooden shelter 32½ inches high, 30¼ inches wide and 20¼ inches deep, with a wooden support that raises the shelter four feet above the ground.

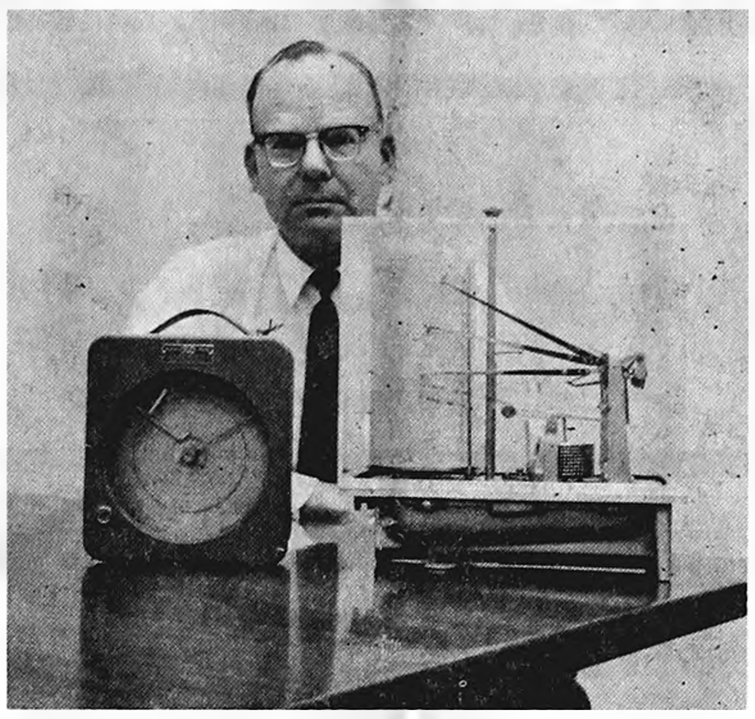
An observer will be appointed from among ACCO personnel to take the daily readings and a member of the clerical staff will be made responsible for tabulating the readings on monthly charts.

Readers of The Independent found the weekly weather reports a matter of unvarying interest when they were published regularly prior to loss of the Armour weather station.

Speaking for the newspaper's publishers, Editor J. R. Gallagher says, "The Independent is delighted that it will soon be enabled to resume this weekly feature through the generosity of ACCO Seed division. It speaks for the civic-mindedness of Anderson, Clayton and company that planning of the station is being done with the public's benefit expressly in mind."

C. D. Lamoureux, meteorologist in charge of the U. S. Weather Bureau at the Des Moines municipal airport, has provided advice relative to the establishment of the ACCO station.

Also, the assistance of State Climatologist Paul Waite has been promised in proper location of the station and its errection to assure maximum accuracy.



WEATHER INSTRUMENTS that will comprise part of the equipment of the new weather station that ACCO Seeds division plans to establish here soon are exhibited by Bob Richardson, who has been the moving spirit behind the project. At left is thermograph, which keeps a continuous record of daily temperatures; and at right is strip chart temperature recorder, which also will simultaneously record hour-to-hour changes in barametric pressure and humidity.

8 BHS gridders admit gym thefts

Eight Belmond High school football players have admitted to stealing items of physical education apparel while in an Osage High school dressing room prior to the game with Osage on Nov. 3, or damaging items in an attempt to take them from lockers.

Principal Ernest Doeringsfeld says the unfortunate pre-game activity was brought to light in a letter from Al Swenson, Osage principal, telling of the articles damaged.

A pair of track shoes, some gym shorts a couple of warm-up sweat shirts and several T-shirts were turned in by the boys responsible for their theft. Also recovered was a 50-yard line marker from the football field, taken by a non-player.

Mr. Doeringsfeld says the value of the items torn but not taken came to $20, and the eight having a hand in the escapade are being assessed the replacement expense, equally. The other articles are being returned.

A letter of apology is to be sent to the Osage principal over the signatures of the Bronco team captains, Greg Fuller and Don Havens, and the BHS Student Council president, Glenn Gabrielson, none of whom had any part in the incident.

Mr. Doeringsfeld condemned the thefts and vandalism as "giving the entire Belmond High school a black-eye" and expressed the hope that a lesson may have been learned that will prevent the repetition of any such actions by BHS athletes in the future.

Future Farmers will sell fruit

As has been the Belmond FFA's practice prior to the winter holidays for the past several years, the Future Farmers are again conducting a sale of Texas oranges and grapefruit. Proceeds go toward financing a number of chapter activities.

This tree-ripened fruit is sold in 40-lb. boxes containing approximately 40 grapefruit or 80 oranges, the price in either case being $5.00. The boxes are holiday decorated so they might appropriately serve as gifts.

A phone call to the high school vo-ag office (7121) between 9:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. this Friday or next Monday will serve to place an order. Delivery will be made between Dec. 11th and 15th.

Gay sets of 10, this year—

Christmas Seals into mail today

Those harbingers of the Christmas season, the colorful seals issued yearly by the National Tuberculosis and Health association to raise funds for its fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases, were to go into the mail throughout Wright county on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Warren Thompson, who heads local distribution in behalf of the Culture Study club — which for some years has sponsored the local seal campaign, says this year's holiday stickers are different from any previously designed for the purpose.

They actually comprise a 10-unit design featuring a bright, gay Victorian train printed in red, green, blue and yellow. Between the ornate, rococo engine and caboose are laden flatcars of presents, Christmas trees, candy canes, a sleigh bearing Santa Claus and other "freight" appropriate to the season.

The train chugs merrily from right to left in one row, and reverses itself in the row underneath. Mrs. Thompson says the officers of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association were delightedly surprised at the new format of the seals and believe the design should assure their generous use in adding to the gayety of Yuletide mail.

"Such use of the seals," she points out, "will not only support the fight against tuberculosis but give impetus to associated efforts against emphysema, bronchitis, fungus infections, tumors, asthma and other pulmonary diseases."

"Christmas seals," she added, "are also helping to seek scientific know-how relative to air pollution in an effort to rid the atmosphere of poisoned air which in some areas threatens human inhabitability."

Last year, only a limited campaign to sell Christmas seals was conducted in Belmond, due to the recency of the tornado disaster. The response produced only $221 in contributions.

This was far under the usual rate of giving in Belmond, which in the preceding five seal campaigns had come to a total of $3,453 — or an average of $690 per year.

Seal distribution in townships in the Belmond vicinity is being overseen this year by the following county directors: Mrs. Don Friesleben, Pleasant; Mrs. Joyce Markham, Belmond; Mrs. Harry Hinckley, Iowa; Mrs. Glenn Russell of Kanawha, Norway. In Rowan, H. L. Pesch is the seal chairman.

Mrs. Markham is president of the county association. Others from this vicinity who are on the executive committee are: Mrs. Friesleben, treasurer; and Mrs. Clarence Whitten of Rowan, county seal chairman.

MAYE TRACY AT HOME AFTER EYE OPERATION

Maye Tracy has returned to her home in Clarion after having eye surgery done at Mason City this past week.

Miss Tracy, who has lived in Clarion the past 20 to 25 years, formerly made her home in Belmond. A letter simply addressed to Clarion — zip code 50425 — will reach her.

ROBINSONS ADOPT SON

Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson announce the adoption of a baby son, born Oct. 30th, whom they have named Ricki Alan. The Robinsons have another adopted son who will be two years old in January.

Need employee? Contact Elliott

Secretary Ellis Elliott calls attention to the fact that the Belmond Chamber of Commerce is continuing to operate an employment exchange. It will be happy to be of service, if possible, both to employers and to persons seeking work.

If you are needing an employee and wish to have the Chamber's files of help available checked, phone Mr. Elliott (5212). Likewise, if you are looking for employment, let Mr. Elliott know what type of work you wish to obtain. He may be able to help you.

Tornado incident recalled by filing of suit in court

Another chapter in one of Belmond tornado-time's unhappier incidents was opened last week when suit was filed in Wright county district court at Clarion by Larry Bitker of Mason City against the First State bank.

He does business as Bitker Tree Service and asks judgment of $1,146.40 — the amount of a city warrant in payment for tree trimming and removal done by a crew here directly after the tornado.

This warrant had been approved for payment after the recipient identified himself to City Clerk Lois Hammond as authorized to cash it as a Bitker representative — so the bank, to the best of the officials' knowledge, had dispelled its obligation by honoring the endorsement.

Subsequently, several members of the tree crew were involved in a dispute at Algona over division of the money. One was killed, another badly hurt, and several criminal charges were lodged as an outgrowth of the episode.

Now, Bitker contends that he had given no authorization for cashing of the warrant and that he received no part of the money. He is asking the court to require the bank to pay him the amount of the warrant plus interest from Oct. 27 of last year.

Meeting set next Tuesday evening to further retirement home plans

Dr. S. P. Leinbach announces that preliminary groundwork for the establishment of a retirement home for elderly and handicapped people of Belmond and vicinity has advanced to the point that a permanent organization can now be formed to implement plans and carry the project through to completion.

As a consequence, an organiztion meeting at the First State bank's board room has been called for next Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. to which have been invited the pastors of all Belmond churches and the chairmen of the various church executive boards.

Out of this meeting it is hoped that the foundation can be laid for the establishment of a board of trustees that will oversee the actual building of the proposed retirement home and its operation when completed.

Impetus for the construction of such a facility originated with donations totalling some $8,000 to $9,000 for this purpose that were channelled to the community through Dr. Leinbach following the tornado last year. The gifts came primarily from professional friends and acquaintances of the Belmond physician, who at the time was president of the Iowa Medical Society.

This money was placed in escrow in the Luick Memorial Hospital Trust awaiting use for its intended purpose. At a meeting of an informal group of ministers and others held early this year, a consensus of the gathering authorized development of preliminary plans, retention of an architect for that purpose and the drafting of tentative articles of incorporation and by-laws for a governing corporation.

Some of the money has been used to obtain an option on the Baxter Estate property north of First street NE and east on Highway 69. This land, along with the adjoining Methodist church property that was for some years site of the peewee baseball diamond, is the intended location of the retirement home.

Dr. Leinbach says the prospect appears good for receiving a federal grant of money to finance the project.

The interest of churches in some surrounding towns whose membership might benefit by the construction of the proposed facility is being solicited, as well as participation of local churches.

Dr. Leinbach emphasizes that cosponsorship of the project will in no wise involve in any degree of financial responsibility such churches as agree to participate.

He pointed out that the corporation formed to handle the affairs of the retirement home will require an administrative body and its membership will have to be drawn from some source.

Those who have had an informal hand in planning of the project to this point regard that the problems of the elderly fall logically within the province of the church, and that churches therefore might appropriately provide the organizational medium for bringing the retirement home corporation into being.

Chest's goal now 2/3rds attained

Mrs. O'Larry Dorr reports that as of Tuesday of this week, the Belmond Community Chest's current campaign had achieved two-thirds of its $6,074 goal.

About half of the solicitors had made their reports, said the co-chairman of the drive. Since most of the donations from business and industry were in, however, she does not expect that the last half of the workers will bring in an amount very closely approaching the $3,983 received to date.

Most of the solicitors yet to report have residential or rural territories. If the persons still to be seen give with the same generosity that has been shown by those having already made their contributions, Mrs. Dorr regards the campaign should be certain of success.

She urges all workers with envelopes still out to complete their assignments promptly so the drive can be brought to a close as soon as possible. The deadline for completing assignments was to have been last Saturday.

Christie Johnson and Rebecca Stoffer, a pair of 8th-graders, topped the junior high school honor roll for the first quarter of the school year with straight A's in their subjects.

Principal Albert Olson reports that 23 students, altogether, earned places on the 8th grade honor roll and 18 on the 7th grade.

Besides the two top scholars, those in 8th grade were:

Norine Andrews, Russell Barkema, Diane Bemrich, Jo Ann Churchouse, David Charlson, Robert Cline, Kathryn Gordon, Marilyn Hill, Charlotte Kalkwarf, Connie Kessler.

On the 7th grade honor list were: Melanie Buchanan, Diane Cooke, Mark Janson, Marshall Janson, Brad Jenison, Julane Jenison, Timothy Jenison, Dallas Johnson.

Adult education classes to begin on November 27

Supt. Don Faris announces that the Belmond Community schools' annual adult education classes are to start on Monday, Nov. 27, with a choice of seven different courses at present. Should there be sufficient demand for a specific course of a different nature, the adult education council will give the request careful consideration.

Each course having enough enrollees will be given over a 10-week period, with classes weekly on Monday evenings starting at 7:30 o'clock. There will be a $5.00 registration fee for all courses except that in agriculture.

Art will be taught by Lynn Thorpe, with instruction in ceramics, sculpture and oil painting. He says the course will be planned for beginners as well as more accomplished artists and that a registrant may pick a special field or get some instruction in all three.

Allen Suby in his shop course will concentrate on electric motors: types, and their applications; reversing of motors; two-speed motors; and basic electrical theory. Time will be allowed, he adds, to examine different types of motors and to make minor repairs.

Mrs. Hale Mason will again instruct the course in tailoring. Mrs. H. T. Williams will teach both knitting and crocheting, as separate subjects. The typing class will be under the instruction of Jerry Kintzi.

Keith Carlson, in general charge of the agriculture course, says his adult education committee has outlined an interesting and informative schedule which will cover a variety of topics that should have a wide appeal for farmers.

A registration blank appears in the adult education advertisement in this issue. Mr. Faris asks all interested to fill out the blank and return it by next Wednesday.

Appreciation Day was $$ success

Belmond's Tornado Appreciation Day on Oct. 15 proved not only a successful event from a program standpoint, but was a financial success as well, reports Ellis Elliott, chairman of the project's steering committee.

Without even collecting a pledged $1,000 from the Jaycees or the proceeds promised from the musical show, "Reconstruction Revue," Appreciation Day wound up $1,457.56 to the good.

This resulted from support by local businesses and professional people in excess of the amount anticipated and much more generous backing from organizations and individuals that had been expected.

Initially, a $3,500 budget was set by the steering committee. Anticipated was $1,000 from the Jaycees, $2,000 from business, industry and professional people and $500 from individuals and organizations. Actual receipts from business sources came to $2,470 and from organizations and individuals, $1,106; total, $3,576.

Expenditures were estimated at $3,275 but actually came to only $2,118.44. That left a balance of $1,457.56, as noted.

Mr. Elliott says the steering committee has devoted much discussion to how the unexpected balance may be put to uses that would be acceptable to the donors.

An illuminated sign on Highway 69 at the Main street intersection is proposed by the Chamber of Commerce, which would have a 12x4-foot section at the bottom to carry announcements relative to local events of general interest.

Because this would be useful to the school, churches and other organizations as well as to the Chamber, it is regarded that some financial backing toward purchase of the sign could appropriately be given.

In addition, a Tornado Memorial in the city park is planned that would utilize the granite column that will be salvaged when the old bank building at the corner of Main street and Second avenue is razed. To create of the column an attractive, permanent memorial will involve quite a bit of expense and it is proposed that this project receive a share of the Appreciation Day surplus, too.

Division of the money will be determined by a careful analysis of its sources. The pro rata share of the surplus derived from businesses and organizations, the committee suggests, would go toward the highway sign. The portion of the surplus received by private donations would be earmarked for the memorial. Just what the split would be has not yet been determined, says Mr. Elliott.

He reports that budgeted Appreciation Day expenditures and amounts actually spent for the designated purposes (in parentheses) were as follows:

Meals $2,660 ($1,700.18); pictures $140 ($50.16); invitation cost $100 ($5.00); Red Cross income sign $25 ($20.91); placards $50 ($58.56); miscellaneous (including highway sign, invitation advertisements in daily papers, etc.) $300 ($283.63).

Mr. Elliott says the steering committee regarded that the more than adequate financing given the event by Belmond business, organizations and individuals, plus more than a few former residents who sent donations, did credit to all concerned. The committee asked that its thanks be expressed to all who had a hand in making Tornado Appreciation Day a thorough success.

CO-CAPTAINS of this season's BHS varsity wrestling team are Glenn Gabrielson (left) and Rob Dorr. They are demonstrating a device called an Energenie which operates by an isometric principle and helps the Bronco athletes keep muscles strong. The Energenie can be used as illustrated, or installed on a wall for operation by one boy, alone. See story in sports section.

Classicks move; Ames new home

Dr. and Mrs. Leslie Classick today (Thursday) were moving to Ames to make their future home, Dr. Classick having accepted a position as a research veterinarian at the National Animal Disease Laboratory there. The Classicks have lived here since Les joined in partnership with Dr. R. E. Misner in the Belmond Veterinary Clinic following the death of his father, Dr. H. G. Classick, in November of 1958.

The Classicks' sons Nic, age 13, Charles, 10, and Harold, seven, will be starting school at Ames next week. They have a fourth son, Craig, who is three.

Their address will be 412 - 26th street, Ames, Ia. 50100.

Dr. Classick says that in addition to dissolving his partnership with Dr. Misner in the clinic he has sold the latter the interest he has had in Purina SureFeeds Service.

While working at the animal disease laboratory, Dr. Classick will be taking some courses at Iowa State university.

County's firemen in meeting here

Thirty-seven firemen from eight towns attended the November meeting of the Wright County Firemen's association held here Thursday evening of last week.

R. G. "Bud" Packard, Belmond fire chief, told of the advancing plans for setting up a countywide radio network for use of the fire departments and discussed the equipment that will be needed.

Departments from over the county reported a total of 28 fire calls answered during October. The estimated loss caused by fire was $7,284.

Presented 20-Year Award—

ACS honor goes to Clarion woman

Mrs. Lynn Thompson of Clarion, who was the key figure in organization of Wright county's chapter of the American Cancer Society, was one of three pioneers of the Iowa Division honored at last Saturday's ACS state convention at Des Moines with a 20-year award. Few individuals in Iowa still active in the Cancer Society have equalling records of service.

Mrs. Thompson's 20-Year Certificate was presented to her by one of the founders of the Iowa Division, Dr. Harold Morgan of Mason City, long-time treasurer of the organization.

Reports given at the convention relative to the record-breaking 1967 Iowa Cancer Crusade once again put Wright county in the limelight as a leader in support of the ACS. Per capita giving at the rate of 42.3 cents this year placed the county as No. 7 among all 107 chapters in the state in average donation per man, woman and child of the entire population.

In addition, Wright succeeded in surpassing its quota of $6,495 with a Crusade total of $7,929.82 — 122 per cent of its assigned goal. Wright has never failed to meet its quota in the 18 years that chapter goals have been assigned.

Mrs. Thompson recalls that in 1947 she was asked by Dr. S. P. Leinbach, when the Belmond physician was an early figure in the state organization's establishment, to accept responsibility for forming a Wright county ACS chapter.

An organization dinner was held Oct. 22, 1947, under sponsorship of the Wright County Medical Society after a chairman had successfully been obtained for every township and town. Dr. Leinbach was the initial medical chairman on the board.

A service program was established the following year, which lends aid in the way of sick room equipment and certain other assistance to cancer patients in the county. Wright in 1952 initiated a policy of limiting the financial cost of such aid to $100 — subject to review, in extended cases — and the Iowa Division later adopted the policy on a statewide basis.

For a time, Mrs. Thompson served on the Iowa Cancer Scholarship committee while that group was annually awarding 50 scholarships to Iowa girls needing financial assistance to launch nursing careers.

In 1956, Mrs. Thompson was named on the Iowa division's cancer service committee, which establishes the regulations governing the performance of service by the chapters. She is still a member of this group.

When the Wright chapter experienced organizational difficulties in 1954, Mrs. Thompson once again assumed the chairmanship and got the chapter past this crisis by interesting younger people in its activities. These included a number who had had personal experience with cancer in their own families.

She also served once again as education chairman, a post she had filled when the chapter was first organized, and built interest in the fight against cancer by showing educational films before many groups the county over.

Mrs. Thompson looks back over her 20 years of affiliation with the ACS with satisfaction, saying "They have been years well spent, doing something worthwhile in the service of people."

Matmen open card against Vikings

Belmond High's wrestlers will start their 1967-68 campaign this Friday, playing host to the Northwood Vikings. This is Northwood's fourth season at the sport and Coach Don Jones anticipates that the visitors may present a considerably stronger team than the one that the Broncos drubbed 47 to 5 last year.

A new 24x24-foot mat has been acquired for the wrestlers and the basketball court in the junior high gym has been moved to the north part of the floor to give the wrestling program much more room than it previously had.

Starting this week, the varsity grapplers were moved from the gym downstairs to the regular wrestling room for their workouts. The reserves and junior high wrestlers wil use the new accommodations in the gym.

A handy muscle-building device, called an Exergenie, has been put to use by the mat competitors and Coach Jones believes it will help them add to their strength. Several of the gadgets were purchased in time for use by the football players during the season just concluded.

Due to the brief time that has been available to date for workouts, Jones said his decisions as to who will fill varsity and reserve roles against Northwood would not be decided until the middle of this week. He is pretty well equipped with contenders at most weights and at several the competition is decidedly keen.

This year's squad numbers only 40 boys, compared to 65 who were out for wrestling a year ago. The coach believes it will be an advantage, rather than a detriment, to the team that there are fewer candidates as they will be able to engage in more effective workouts considering the limited space available.

With the class of each indicated numerically (a freshman is 1), Jones named the contenders for the varsity and reserve positions against Northwood as follows, by weight class:

103 — Jim Cullinan (1), Bob Berns (1), Jon Crawford (1).

165 — Gene Pals (4), Phil Meier (2).

Hwt. — Denny Knoll (3), Don McAlpine (4).

Coach Jones says the squad suffered a costly loss last week when Dave McLaughlin, one of the top 133-lb. candidates, cracked an arm bone during practice and will be lost to the squad for about six weeks.

Several of the boys, he added, may not wind up wrestling at the weights above indicated as the season progresses. Jones would like to see Glenn Gabrielson pare down to 145 weight before certification time (Dec. 1) if possible. In a few other cases, boys may experience some difficulty in reducing to the weight at which they would be the most useful, the coach admitted.

He also noted that the freshman ranks include a number of boys who may be challengers for varsity or reserve action as the season progresses — or at least give promise of being valuable squad members in seasons to come.

'68 outlook not too bad—

Grid letters to 25; 11 returning

—SPORTS—

Coach Chuck Stalker reports that 25 Bronco gridders are receiving letters for their efforts during the 1967 football season. Ten juniors and a sophomore are among the monogram winners and will be back next season with high hopes of improving on the disappointing 4-3-1 campaign just completed.

Greg Fuller was the only BHS player earning a football B for the third time. Eight other seniors lettered for a second time: Don Havens, Mike Klinefelter, Jim Studebaker, Glenn Gabrielson, Mack Gabrielson, Joel Gabrielson and Terry Nelson; and Rick Hawley picked up his second gridiron B, though only a junior.

Six seniors won letters for the first time: Gene Pals, Mike Sheriff, Les Andrews, Don Goeman, Vance Jenison and Paulo Canineu. Only Canineu, of this group, was a 1st-year member of the squad; but the Brazilian AFS student was a highly regarded contributor to the Bronco offense and was third-high scorer with his 17 point conversions and three field goals.

Coach Stalker is hopeful that, with a year of experience behind them, his returning linemen will give Belmond High an appreciably tougher defense next season than the Broncos were able to show during the campaign just concluded. He will have a pair of hefty tackles in Dennis Knoll (222 lbs.) and Kevin Griffin (185).

Dennis Followwill and Randy Turner saw considerable action as guards and Greg Steenblock turned in some good performances as defensive end. Bill Broshar picked up line-backing experience and Marc Middleton at defensive half. Rick Hawley, Lee Barkema and Stan Korthas were among the best of this year's secondary defenders and should be better yet a year hence.

Dick Thompson got in most of his game time in his frequent appearances holding the ball for Canineu's placekicks.

Hawley could be one of the North Iowa conference's premier fullbacks in '68 and both Barkema and Korthas showed development as ball-carriers. Lennie Johnson, as froshmore quarterback and in occasional varsity showings, stamped himself as a good roll-out passer and better than fair runner.

Another sophomore who, like Johnson, failed to letter but showed potential varsity calibre as a backfield man was Tim Dirks.

Wright sends two women delegates to IFBF parley

Several Wright County Farm Bureau Women were scheduled to participate in the women's activities of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation convention in Des Moines on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Two women were to represent Wright in the business session of the women's conference on Monday. They were Mrs. L. W. Sellers of Clarion, county women's chairman, and Mrs. Verven Reichter of Goldfield, secretary and publicity chairman.

These delegates and the delegates from the 99 other county Farm Bureaus voted on the five members of the state women's committee. They also selected the eight Iowa delegates to the American Farm Bureau women's conference in Chicago in December.

The Wright County Women's chorus again took part in the Music Festival on Monday. Mrs. Robert Kay directs the Wright Chorus and Mrs. Don Schroeder is the accompanist.

At the Monday vesper service, the combined choruses from county Farm Bureaus sang and Dr. Paul M. de Freese of Kountze Memorial Lutheran church in Omaha was the speaker.

Ames, Iowa

To the editor:

A 4-3-1 football season is a moderately good season and may even have been called successful had it not come in the shadow of four consecutive undefeated campaigns.

Nevertheless it is time now to put things in their proper perspective which is finally possible — now since it has come to an end. Many questions may be asked such as "Why did we win?", "Were the athletes better?", or "Was it superior coaching?", all of which are relative to pre-winning days.

Yes, this success was relative all right, relative, for the most part, to an outstanding young football coach named Richard Koolbeck. Coach Koolbeck was hailed, and rightly so, during and immediately following his reign as Belmond's football mentor, as a very fine football coach. Just how fine is certainly now evident.

This man picked up Belmond's relatively unsuccessful football program by the bootstraps and made the Broncos winners in '59 and '60 and it became apparent that he could do so consistently. When he returned in '62 he won again and started something the last game that year that has only now ended, now that his influence is finally gone.

Without taking anything away from his successor, Koolbeck must be given credit even down to the sophomores playing with the varsity; the attitude which carried these youngsters far beyond their ability to more successful seasons.

Though all this is history, it remains that Koolbeck was responsible for Belmond's coming to the front in North Iowa football. In this light, too, never let it be said that the conference wasn't tough when we won; names like Busch, Grau, Boller, Kiewitt, Misner, Laaveg are remembered when thinking of the cream of the crop and some are still found on college gridirons today. He won when other teams were at their best.

In retrospect, then, let's give credit where it is due and give another round of applause to the guy who gave Belmond winners. Hail to R. K.

Just under $200,000 in state general aid has been received by C. W. Sankey, Wright county superintendent of schools and distributed to districts in the county. To be precise, the total amount came to $199,266. This was very appreciably more than the county received as its first general aid payment in 1966-67 in spite of the fact that settlement was made on the basis of 126.16 per cent of amounts claimed compared to more than 145 per cent a year ago.

Supt. Don Faris says he cannot explain the drastically increased allotment. The last legislature very materially increased the amount of state aid to be made available to the schools; but it was anticipated that the difference would not be noted until taxes came in next year.

Belmond's general aid voucher was for $45,785 this time, compared to approximately $29,500 a year ago as first-half payment. Making the latest payment more perplexing was the fact that Belmond's average daily attendance — on which settlement is based — was lower for the current payment than a year ago; plus the fact that the pro rata settlement figure was lower percentagewise this time than the time before.

Mr. Faris was to attend an area meeting for superintendents on Wednesday evening of this week, at which time he expected to obtain some clarification on the matter.

Eagle Grove Community district received a first-half payment of $71,431; Clarion, $49,809; Dows, $18,823; and Goldfield, $13,377.

Mr. Sankey reported that 476 school districts, including 20 non-high school districts, received first-half payments for the 1967-68 year out of an appropriation of $24,816.000 made available by the 62nd General Assembly.

For the 1966-67 school year, Belmond received $48,119.77 in state general aid. If next spring's draw equals the one just distributed, the Belmond district will receive a total of $91,571.08 for 1967-68.

Suit for $5,000 filed by Trager for defamation

A petition asking judgment in the amount of $5,000 for defamation of character was filed recently in district court at Clarion against Arvid Hansen of Rowan. Plaintiff is Dennis A. Trager, in whose behalf the suit was filed by Mrs. Grace Trager as his mother and next friend.

Basis of the suit was Trager's arrest on a charge of tampering with a motor vehicle after charges had been filed by Hansen on Sept. 10. Damage had been done to the defendant's car when his son Darwin had it parked outside the Win Mil Inn the night before.

Subsequent investigation of the matter established Trager's innocense of any part in the vandalism done and when he appeared in the justice of peace court of John Van Gerpen on Sept. 23, the case was dismissed in favor of Trager.

The district court petition asks judgment of $2,000 for money spent in defense, loss of time from work and defamation of reputation suffered by the plaintiff and damage to his standing in the community. An additional $3,000 is asked in punitive damages, alleging that the defendant entered the charges with the malicious design and purpose of injuring and damaging the plaintiff.

Specifically, Trager's petition alleges "that in instigating said prosecution the defendant acted without probable cause, knowing the charge was false and intending to injure and defame the plaintiff and intending to expose the plaintiff to public scorn and ridicule."

In his annual message to shareholders, Mr. McMillen noted that despite the unprecedented sales volume the net earnings of $9,248,283 represented a decrease and earnings per share after taxes came to $1.47 compared to $2.35 in 1965-66.

Helping produce the sales increase of $58 million plus, said Central Soya's president, was the addition of several facilities during the '66-67 fiscal year. Enumerated among them was the feed mill reactivated at Belmond.

Mr. McMillen explained the drop in earnings as being chiefly due to the lower soybean processing margins and depressed broiler prices throughout the year.

FRED ALLISON IN HOSPITAL

A note from Mrs. Fred Allison at Iowa Falls reports that her husband was taken ill last week and is a patient at Mercy hospital, Mason City. Mail addressed to him should specify Room 529, 5th floor. NSC all-league gridders chosen

Three players from Kanawha High's championship football team were named by North Star coaches to both the offensive and defensive all-conference teams for the '67 season. This year, the coaches picked both an offensive and defensive 1st team and a 2nd team based mainly on offense.

Paul Weigand, Monte Ryan and Steve Reitema of the Bulldogs made both top teams. Matching their achievement were Jim Schipull and Dave Hoffman of Boone Valley, Mark Bacon of Ventura and Pat Harris of Sheffield.

Following are the coaches' selections:

First team defense: Ends — Reitema and Bacon. Tackles — Ryan and Harris. Guards — Hoffman and Ahrens, Sheffield. Linebackers — Weigand, Cal Bruggeman, Klemme, Gary Lutgen, Meservey-Thornton. Halfbacks — Ron Liter, Kanawha, Schipull.

MEN WHO HELPED GET OSTENDORF'S CORN PICKED

Ostendorfs aided in corn harvest

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Arnett Ostendorf gathered at their place Thursday of last week to harvest about 65 acres of corn that Mr. Ostendorf had been about to pick when he suffered a heart attack on Oct. 29. He was sufficiently on the road to recovery last Saturday to be released from Belmond Community hospital and allowed to return to his home.

Bringing with them pickers, combines, wagons and such other essentials as needed to get the job done, the following men assisted with the "good neighbor" deed:

Women who did their part by preparing and serving lunch for the workers were:

Girl Scouts get Camper badges

On Monday of last week, the regular meeting of the Girl Scouts was held at the Goodell school. The girls have been stuffing toys to send to hospitals.

Mrs. Bernard Nolte substituted as leader for Mrs. Larry Hanson, who was unable to attend.

Saturday, the Girl Scouts met in the Basener home and worked on Christmas gifts for their mothers. Plans were also made for the Dad-Daughter Date Nite to be held in February.

Tammy Dresbach spent the weekend with her grandparents, the George Stilles. Tammy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mac Dresbach of Mason City, came for Tammy Sunday. Mrs. Dresbach is the Stilles' daughter Maxine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slining entertained guests for Sunday dinner. They were Mrs. Slining's mother, Mrs. Bertha Benson, her sister, Mrs. Connie Whitaker, both of Belmond, and her aunt, Mrs. Maxine Benson of Clarion.

Mr. and Mrs Donald Abbas and family of Kanawha were dinner guests Sunday in the Arthur Ruka home.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Boller and family were Sunday supper guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Boller and Helen Latch at Charles City.

Mrs. Helen Mead of Oakland, Calif., left Tuesday after spending three weeks with her sister, Mrs. Leo Kearney.

Rev. and Mrs. Park Miller visited Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Schroeder at Galt.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Suntken attended the wedding Sunday of their nephew, Larry Suntken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Suntken, to Marilyn Pals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Pals. The wedding took place in the St. John Lutheran church at Belmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Robbins, Sr., were guests Sunday in the Carl Robbins home at Belmond. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Juan and children and Bruce Fuller of Newton and Glen Fuller of Melrose Park, Ill.

AVERY SUNBEAMS

Diane Carolus was elected as president of the Avery Sunbeams 4-H club at a meeting held Nov. 4 at the home of Judy Smith. Other officers for the year were elected as follows:

Velma Basener, vice president; Evelyn Basener, secretary; Mary Ellen Anderson, treasurer; Cindy Peterson, historian; Doris Avery, reporter; Jolene Lowenberg, photographer; Evelyn Anderson, music chairman.

Diane Carolus gave a talk, "Vegetable Plate Luncheon;" and Velma Basener gave one entitled, "Vitamins — Do We Need Them?" A talk by Doris Avery had the title, "Read Your Labels" and Judy Smith talked on "Tips for the Waitress." Judy also demonstrated making Rice Krispy cookies.

Names were drawn for a Christmas gift exchange. Next meeting will be Dec. 2 at the home of Mary Ellen Anderson.

Doris Avery
Reporter

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Nuehring and boys of Kanawha were afternoon guests Sunday in the Herman Brunes home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burk were Sunday evening guests in the home of their son, Kay Burk, at Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kemp and Paula of Hampton were Sunday evening supper guests in the Mrs. Frank Kemp home.

Mrs. Zelma Bachman enjoyed spending the weekend in the home of her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Trager, at New Virginia. On Sunday, the families enjoyed a pre-Thanksgiving dinner. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Trager and family of Ankeny and Mrs. Jim Trager and Tammie Jo of West Des Moines. Mrs. Bachman returned home Sunday afternoon.

Details provided on town election

More complete details on the outcome of the Meservey town election than were made available to The Independent on Tuesday evening of last week have been supplied by one of the unsuccessful write-in candidates.

As reported, the incumbent mayor Mervin Morris was defeated by a write-in campaign conducted in behalf of Claude Cordill, 72 to 60, as the unusually high total of 139 ballots were cast.

All five official candidates on the ballot survived the flood of write-ins, but by decidedly narrow margins in several instances.

Jake Koenen got the most support of any council candidate with a total of 84 votes, followed by Merlin Ruiter with 77, Bill Fisher with 70, Norman Boelman 69 and Melvin Kreitlow 68.

Missing success as write-in candidates by meager margins were Nathan Pals, who received 66 votes; Dean Lauen, 65; and Andrew Pals, 63. Trailing this trio were George L. Dirks with 56 and Bernie Vierkant with 27.

C. J. Wendel had no opposition of consequence for the office of treasurer and was returned to that post with 110 votes.

Garden club show attended by 80

Meservey's Garden club held its annual Holiday Flower Show on Tuesday of last week at the EUB church Fellowship Hall. Approximately 80 people were in attendance from Thornton, Garner, Ventura, Alexander, Clear Lake, Belmond, Hampton and Meservey. Judges were Mrs. Richard Ax, Ventura; Mrs. Howard Barger, Hampton; and Mrs. Tom Nelson, Clear Lake.

They awarded blue ribbons in horticulture to Mrs. Ardis Shaw, Evelyn Gaetzke, Mildred Floy, Alverda Koenen, Mark Steenhard and Effie Obrecht. The Award of Merit was won by Evelyn Gaetzke.

Although Lake Mills and Osage tied for the 1967 North Iowa conference football championship with 6-1 marks, all-star selections made last Friday night by NIC sportswriters seemed to reflect slightly greater depth on the Bulldog squad that squeezed past the Green Devils 13-6. At any rate the "picks," made on the basis of coaches' recommendations, gave Lake Mills four men on the first team and three on the second compared to Osage's three-and-two.

Buffalo Center, which dropped out of the title race after a seige of injuries, matched Osage with three 1st-team and two 2nd-team choices. Garner's respective representation was two-and-one; Belmond's, one-and-two. Britt got two men on the second team. Northwood was blanked. The Vikings' fine junior halfback, Jerry Roppe, had all the necessary credentials but unfortunately found himself opposed by a bumper crop of halfback talent.

Formanek, Torkelson picked

Adhering to past policy of leaving out of consideration athletes dismissed from their teams for disciplinary reasons cost Osage Fullback Mark Pederson a cinch 1st-team berth although he played against all but the Imps' final foe.

As noted, the league had a plethora of halfbacks stars and the simple lack of enough spots to put them all deprived several of recognition they very well might have received in other seasons.

There was little argument over the top two at that position, for they finished one-two in loop scoring and played capably on defense as well as offense. Dave Formanek, Garner junior, chalked up 60 points had a 6.6-yard average on 1,066 gained and nabbed six passes intended for opposing receivers.

Dwayne Torkenson, Buffalo Center senior, tallied 61 points, averaged 5.2 yards per carry and caught 12 passes for 251 yards. The Bison co-captain also made 66 tackles and assisted on 19 others.

Berhow gets q. b. nod

On voting for both quarterback and fullback, a two-way tie was recorded two times before Randy Berhow of Buffalo Center edged John Camp of Britt for quarterback and Mike Sarno of Lake Mills nosed out Rick Hawley of Belmond at fullback. The Eagle senior was hampered throughout the season by a knee injury but nevertheless won the hearty respect of all Britt opponents.

He was placed on the second team upon losing out to the nifty Bison junior, whose achievements included passing for nine touchdowns on plays averaging 16 yards. Altogether he connected on 39 tosses for 425 yards. Like Camp, Berhow played regularly on defense in addition to his offensive chores.

Sarno was unable to equal his junior Belmond rival on fullback statistics but made a heavier mark as a defensive player. The Bulldog senior lugged the ball 69 times for 183 yards compared to Hawley's 538 yards on 115 tries plus another 53 yards on 10 pass receptions. Sarno was a linebacker, Hawley a defensive half.

Battle of Bulldogs

Bruce Helgeson, another of the NIC's fine halfbacks, narrowly beat out teammate Mike Knudtson of Lake Mills for 1st-team utility backfield honors. Helgeson carried for 622 yards, added 146 on passes; Knudtson had 653 in rushing yardage and 33 on passing. In conference scoring, Knudtson had a slight edge, 36 to 29. Mike was a solid choice for 2nd team.

End honors were allotted to Sherman Beye, Osage senior, and Bill Erdmann, Garner junior. Beye was an was adept blocker, adequate pass receiver when the occasion demanded, and played tackle on defense. Erdmann snagged 11 passes for 138 yards and a pair of TD's. As a secondary defender he stole two opposing aerials and was credited with 37 tackles.

Mark Fjone of Lake Mills, heaviest man among the all-stars, and Tom Gast of Osage were shoo-ins for the 1st-team tackle assignments. Fjone, playing his third year as a Bulldog regular, was a 2nd-team choice last year and is regarded a top college prospect. Both tackles were tough to block on defense and dealt out blocks that were extremely hard to avoid on offense.

Three guards amke it

Ike Garst of Buffalo Center, another 2nd-teamer in '66, was teamed with Tom Niess of Osage at guard on the first team. Just a notch behind them in the voting was Belmond's Mack Gabrielson, who moved from 2nd-team guard to 1st-team utility lineman.

Along with 78 individual tackles and 21 assists, Garst recovered five opponents' fumbles, blocked a punt and was leading blocker for the Bison. Niess's and Gabrielson's coaches regarded these two as the top linemen on their respective teams — and rival mentors didn't seem inclined to disagree.

There was little competition for 210-lb. Pat Nerby for the 1st-team center spot. Besides playing the pivot on offense, he was middle guard on defense and got sole credit for 46 tackles.

With Hawley, Camp and Knudtson in the 2nd-team backfield were Gary Rippentrop of Buffalo Center at halfback and Brad Havig of Osage at the utility spot. Powerful despite only 165 pounds of weight, Havig was a strong runner, and excellent blocker and the co-champion Imps' No. 1 linebacker.

135-lb. "Mighty Mite"

"Mighty mite" Rippentrop (5-3 and 135 lbs.) averaged 8.2 yards on 56 carries, returned kickoffs for a total of 265 yards and punts for an additional 188. Surprisingly enough, he had 39 tackles to his credit, too.

Though nipped at every turn for all-star laurels, Northwood's Roppe boasted statistics deserving of notice. He accounted for 66 tackles during the Vikings' season and assisted on another 37. He nabbed 14 passes for 172 yards, carried for 312 and posted four touchdowns.

Belmond's Terry Nelson and Forest City's Gary Severson edged Dennis Dontje of Buffalo Center by a meager margin for the 2nd-team end positions. Nelson snagged 11 passes for 119 yards, ran his blocks well and was a dependable defensive player. Severson was the Indians' best blocker in the line and performed capably as corner linebacker. Dontje beat 'em both on tackels with 9.8 average per game.

3-way tackle contest

Wayne Johnson of Britt and Craig Clement of Garner won a three-way contest for 2nd-team tackles. The third man, like Clement a junior, was 148-lb. Gary Helgeson of Lake Mills, whose 69 tackles as a strictly defensive player helped him get the 2nd-team utility lineman spot. Johnson and Clement both played both ways and were sharp blockers on offense.

Lowell Storby, the "peewee" in the middle of Lake Mills' line at 160 lbs., and Bruce Gast, 155-lb. Osage junior, had the speed and drive required of good guards and filled the 2nd-team slots at that position. They had a challenger in Roger Gerber, Garner senior.

Eight juniors win honors

That lively times should lie ahead when the '68 NIC gridiron season rolls around is suggested by the number of juniors winning all-star team laurels for the past campaign. Whereas a year ago, seniors had a monopoly of 1st-team spots and only three juniors made the second team, this year's 1st-team includes three juniors and another five earned 2nd team positions.

The one junior from a year ago who didn't move up or retain a place on the 2nd team was toughluck Danny Schmidt of Forest City. His promising quarterback career came to an unhappy end against the Indians' third loop foe after he'd broken a bone in his passing hand in the game preceding.

Cagers will open Tuesday evening at Eagle Grove

With only three lettermen back, Coach Ted Besch has been trying a number of combinations in preparing his BHS cagers for their first action of the new basketball season, Tuesday evening of next week at Eagle Grove.

Terry Nelson is without a challenger for the center assignment, Greg Fuller is a sure starter at one forward slot and Paul Bamford is the lone carry-over letterman at guard.

Coach Besch will probably start Joel Gabrielson opposite Fuller at forward, but predicts that Greg Steenblock will see a good bit of action, too.

Last year, the Broncos held on for a 62-56 win over the Eagles after having a 16-point lead quite late in the game. Coach Joe Rupp has two seniors and two junior back as lettermen and believes his outfit will be better than that of a year ago.

GREG NOT ONE "BOUNCED"

It has been called to The Independent's attention that due to a press-box misidentification, the wrong Bronco was named in the story on the Osage game as the player "tossed out" for unsportsmanlike conduct near the end of the contest. The offender was Mack Gabrielson, not Greg Fuller. Our apologies are offered to Greg for the unintentional error.

Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. — I Cor. 13:8

Election points up need for assured continuity

Last week's municipal election here underlined an error made by the voters of Belmond several years ago. It was in 1961 that the Jaycees petitioned to have as a special election issue the question of whether our elective city officials should serve four-year terms, with those of the councilmen staggered so some with a minimum of two years' experience would always be a member of that body.

As a result of the latest election, Belmond the first of next year will have as the senior member of its administration a councilman with slightly less than one year on his job. A second councilman will have about eight months' experience to draw on. The mayor and the other three council members will be obliged to learn the ropes "from scratch."

We wish to make as clear as we possibly can that we question the competence of none of these men. We are convinced that they are resolved to conduct a progressive city government. Mayor-to-be Floyd Broshar specifically pledged during his campaign, "The continuation of Dr. Misner's policies and leadership to the best of my ability."

There is no good reason to be dubious of either the motives or the general objectives of the newcomers to the administration. But there is justification for some concern that they may find it more difficult to implement a program of their own — or even to follow through on plans initiated under Mayor Bob Misner's regime — than might be readily expected.

It might be worthwhile to re-examine the reasons the proposal for longer, staggered terms was brought to a vote. When Mayor "Bud" Trafford and the council serving under him took office in January of 1958, all hands were new at their jobs. In the years that immediately followed, the city fathers found it a distinct handicap to them that there was no element of continuity bonding their administration to those that had preceded.

These were able men (Mayor Misner was a councilman at large on that council) and they were striking out on numerous paths that had not been followed by their predecessors, yet they found their lack of administrative experience a distinct handicap.

When petitions were circulated by the Jaycees requesting an election on the special issue, they were signed by 230 electors. Ironically, when the election was held and the votes were counted, the proposition had been defeated 134 to 50.

It was equally ironical when the reason for this unexpected outcome became known. Those who had opposed the change explained their stand mainly on the reasoning that two years was long enough to have "a bad mayor," should such a one be elected. They seemed to have no particular quarrel with four-year, staggered terms for councilmen.

Actually, the mayor has much less influence on city legislation than any of the council members. He has no vote. He can beg, wheedle and persuade; but the council DECIDES all issues. Consequently, a strong council could "carry" a weak mayor, but a strong mayor would be helpless to guide an incompetent council in any direction other than that in which it might wish to go.

At any rate, the proposal was defeated. And the result is that starting next year Belmond will have a council that is to a large degree faced with the necessity of "learning the ropes" together.

We repeat that these comments intend not the slightest reflection on the two councilmen who HAVE had a period of months in office; nor on any of their new associates. It is our guess that within a year's time all of these gentlemen will agree with the administration that took office in 1958 that some continuity in experience is most desireable on any sort of governing body.

An important link with past policies and aims, and also with plans broached for the future, will be City Clerk Lois Hammond. The council will find her services invaluable. But administrative responsibility will still lie with the mayor and council.

We would suggest that adoption of four-year terms for our city officers and staggering of the councilmen's terms should be given reconsideration. We'd about be willing to bet that within a year's time, the men who will be governing Belmond during 1968-69 will be ready to agree.

Spray paint doesn't make friends, influence people

At the rate things are going, the day may come when a person must (or at least, SHOULD) sign his name in a register when buying a can of spray paint just as if he were purchasing a few ounces of arsenic or cyanide. Neither should be used irresponsibly, and certainly spray paint has become a "poisonous" medium of thoughtless vandalism.

Of late, Belmond has been relatively fortunate in escaping the vandal's "whoosh" — which speaks well for the self restraint of the very large majority of our young people. The press box at Faris Field got a dose, around Halloween time, and will require a coat or two of fresh paint (making the rest of the structure look dowdy, unless the whole thing gets a re-do).

Much worse was the deplorable spray job done at Luick Memorial Swimming Pool — a place that all young people of the community should hold in respect. Not only was repainting of the front of the check-room made necessary, but brickwork on the west side was violated — which poses a difficult problem of erasure.

Administrations of spray paint, along with a few broken windows and other malicious mischief, helped get tempers on edge and an indirect factor in the shooting of a coupkle of Garner "boys" (we use the term loosely) old enough to have outgrown the sort of hijinks that got each of them a peppering with buckshot.

That thoughtless use of spray paint for vandalistic purposes is decidedly NOT funny was recently brought home to Northwestern university when it faced $5,000 expense to erase "protest" slogans and symbols from a number of campus buildings.

Ye Ed's memory is not so short but what he can recall the spray job done on his front sidewalk a couple of summers ago that in due time brought both embarrassment and some unexpected expense in fine money to several youths who thought a dandy joke had been played on you-know-who.

Spray paint is not all that extensively used but what a little sleuthing might now and then bring to an accounting those responsible for making too free with a spray can.

The Garner and Northwestern incidents are probably repeated somewhere 'twixt coast-and-coast, border-and-border every day of the year. There are adequate laws to penalize vandalism, and it wouldn't be surprising if the spray paint can might very soon bring about their more assiduous enforcement.

Spray paint is a mighty poor method of favorably influencing public opinion for a cause, or for a high school class . . . or whatever.

Again we note that good judgment has been very predominantly exercised by Belmond's young folks in refraining from this nasty type of mischief. But we'd take the deepest delight in seeing the culprits responsible for the swimming pool vandalism brought to prompt and EXPENSIVE justice.

The hippies have suffered a visible decline in prestige, in enthusiasm, in following. Somehow the bloom is off the Flower People. Credit October's chill winds, overdoses of publicity, reaction against drugs, or the violent behavior of the non-genuine brand. Anyway, the "happening" has slowed down.

The murder of two youngsters in New York's East Village caused a good many parents to wake up and wonder where their wandering teen-agers might be closeted.

Next spring another cult may spring up, and be glamorously publicized — and imitated, invaded, and misused. The new cult may again be vaguely devoted to friendliness, to freedom of living, to the "beautiful life."

BUT NEXT YEAR, MEMBERS are likely to be a little tougher-fibered, a little more ready to answer back to insults and actual physical violence. For this year the hippies discovered that handing a flower to an opponent — a Vietnam critic, neighborhood gangster, or someone in the district who had worked a 12-hour day while the cultist sat and played — didn't always work.

It's all very well to talk of making love and not war. Hail to a beautiful sentiment! But the hippies — even as with many statesmen more learned in years — failed to have a sufficient awareness of evil, a salutary alertness to what evil would claim to do. As a result, they laid themselves open to trouble and exploitation and silly imitation, and attack.

WHEN ONE UNDERTAKES TO drop out of society, one had better be pretty strong, mentally, and experienced, or one will find that he is prey to the wolves and Indians which society's wagon-circle holds at bay.

H. G. Wells wrote of a future class of hippies, most graphically, in "The Time Machine." They were the beautiful people — upper middle-class no doubt — who wore flowers in their hair and were youthful and sang and loved.

But those weirdies who managed the machines that made things and who lived underground, came out at night and carried off the terrified fair maidens, to a degrading end.

THE "HIPPY REVOLT" HAS reminded humanity to heed the beauties of nature, the virtue of kindness and the value of individuality — as against the organization man, the mass-produced culture, the exploitive society.

But the hippies needed something besides good intentions to pave their route to Utopia — such necessary things as viable goals, workable plans for the future, help for the underprivileged — and a realization that the "Establishment" they condemn is a lot less "square" than they believed it to be. — Christian Science Monitor

TJ was perusing with interest the election returns in The Independent as we came back from our morning coffee break and he paid us no mind until he got down to the out-of-town results. Once in a while he reacted with a "Hm-m-m" and at one point we heard a chuckle — we'd guess it was when he learned of the tie vote for councilman down at Rowan.

Then his attention suddenly sharpened, and after mouthing his way through a particular paragraph, he shot a questioning glance our direction.

"What sort of reporting is this?" he demanded. "It says, 'In a reportedly heated election . . .' at Meservey. I thought it was the business of a news writer to let the facts speak for themselves.

"WHAT THE HECK SORT OF an adjective is 'reportedly'? An election is either 'heated' or else it's NOT 'heated' — right? You didn't call Belmond's a 'heated election.' You just reported the voter turn-out was the second greatest since Hector was a pup; that one race was decided by a vote, another by 17 and the third by only 40 votes and let the folks figure it out for themselves."

"Do you read Donald Kaul's 'Over the Coffee' in the Demon Register?" we inquired.

"Do pretty regularly," TJ replied. "Enjoy his stuff. But what's that got to do with the Meservey election, pray tell?"

"THIS MORNING," WE ELABorated, "he's telling about a public opinion poll that WHO-TV conducts that tells how voting on a question is split — but says NOTHING about the number of votes received.

"He summed up his opinion on this by remarking, 'Learning how the vote was split without knowing what the vote was is like bobbing for apples without the apples'."

TJ grinned appreciatively, then responded, "But you reported flat out that 139 votes were cast at Meservey. In a village of 330 population, that's pretty good. Fact of the matter is, it puts to shame Belmond's 616 vote in a town of 2,500."

"TRUE," WE ACKNOWLEDGED. "We even did a little pencil work and discovered that 42 per cent of the entire town of Meservey went to the polls compared to less than 25 per cent of Belmond's residents. In terms of qualified voters exercising their right of ballot, Meservey had us beat all hollow."

Heaving a sigh of frustration, the cat grumbled, "Would you mind getting to the point?"

"The point is," we informed him, "that if you know the number of votes but DON'T know how they were split — you're still bobbing for apples without the apples!"

TJ's mouth fell open a smidgeon as he gazed at us intently, awaiting further elucidation. He seemed to be holding his breath, too, so we decided we'd better go ahead before his eyes glazed.

"THE TRUTH TO TELL," WE continued, "we didn't find the election board very communicative. We succeeded in learning that a write-in candidate beat the only nominated candidate for mayor — AND their names. Mayor Mervin Morris was the loser and Claude Cordell was the darkhorse.

"Then, we were also advised that five other fellows gave the council nominees a pretty tough go with write-in votes — but we DIDN'T manage to learn who THEY were. Neither could we find out WHO'd gotten HOW MANY votes."

"For Pete's sake, why not?" inquired the cat.

"Well, we were told by one member of the election board that he'd discuss the matter with the others; but he didn't think they'd look too kindly on divulging how the votes were cast.

"APPARENTLY HIS GUESS was correct, because we asked for a call-back if this private information were to be made available, and we never got any," we concluded.

TJ stared at us, speechless, for a considerable spell before finally exclaiming, "Darndest thing I ever heard! If the public can't find out from the election board how the voting went, how ELSE can they?"

"You know somethin'? It's got us stumped, too," we admitted. "Every other community in which The Independent circulates seems to take for granted that a newspaper has the right to give its readers in the town full particulars on the election returns. Names and numbers — votewise — of all the players, including write-ins."

"BUT NOT THE MESERVEY board?" TJ sputtered. . . "But not the Meservey board," we acknowledged.

TJ pondered a moment, then commented, "Wonder what the county attorney's reaction to this rather eccentric practice might be?"

"Might do to find out," we admitted. "Yes sir! It just might to to find out."

"Diary of Anne Frank" praised—

Excellent acting, stage set highlight play

By J. R. G.

It is not reasonable that a bunch of kids ranging from 14 to 18 in age should be able to put a lump in your throat with a dramatic production that requires acting skills well beyond the accepted adolescent level. But spectators at the BHS Thespians' presentation of "The Diary of Anne Frank" last week were left peeking out of the corners of their eyes a bit self-consciously to see if their neighbors had been as swayed by the pathetic story of the little Jewish girl as they, themselves.

The covert looks quickly established that it would be all right to admit to that embarrassing lump with a gulp — or even flick away a tear. Everybody was feeling the same way.

It was without any doubt, something of a landmark occasion in amateur theatrics in Belmond. To start things off, when the curtain swept back it revealed much the most elaborate and effective stage setting that it's ever been our personal pleasure to see as the background for a high school play.

Stage set excellently done

Lynn Thorpe and his Art III class members did themselves proud in creating so realistically the dreary, meagerly furnished attic in which eight Jewish fugitives hid out for over two long years during the Nazi occupation of Amsterdam in 1941-44. The sense of bleakness and quiet desperation that the staging purveyed was a perfect complement to the tenor of the drama, itself.

Then there was the emotion of persisting faith in better and happier days to come that was so adeptly keyed by young Elizabeth Cox in her enactment of the title role. To say that the part "fit her like a glove" would be true; but it would do an injustice to the sensitive interpretation she gave the role under the capable direction of Lynn Sorum.

Fine cast, exceptional setting made school play a hit

Roles adeptly portrayed

As a foil to little Anne's insistent optimism was the despair and feeling of youthful inadequacy that Steve Courson brought to the role of Peter Van Daan. No viewer could have been left untouched as Anne's impatient derision of her lone near-contemporary in the hideout turned to compassion and tender affection that touched a response in the boy that he didn't dream could be there.

Paul Bamford filled the exacting role of Mr. Frank with skill decidedly surpassing mere competence, making very real this man who was a constant bulwark to his discouraged companions — and who, in the end, was the only survivor among the forlorn little group.

Miep played outstandingly

Luanne Paule and Jerry Boelman, as the selfish, quarelling Mr. and Mrs. Van Daan, successfully avoided making caricatures of parts that could easily have been overplayed to the detriment of such sympathy as their roles properly deserved.

As Miep, the kindly Dutch girl who gave aid to the fugitives at great personal risk, Judy Carwell made the absolute most of a relatively minor role. Her sensitive portrayal was one of the highlights of the production.

Jennifer Olson as Mrs. Frank and Deb Misner as the Franks' older daughter both showed keen understanding of their parts. Jennifer's adept enactment of Mrs. Frank's one departure from loving patience that otherwise characterized the Jewish mother's response to the trying ordeal was done with particular skill.

Production much above par

Both David Paule, as the Dutch benefactor of the fugitives who inherited an understandable ulcer for his trouble, and Doug Tyrrell, as the Jewish dentist who was given refuge at the cost of reducing the already meager food supply of the others, contributed capably to the over-all effectiveness of the play.

All of the staff work — background sound, lighting, costuming and the rest — also contributed importantly to making "The Diary of Anne Frank" a theater experience that its witnesses are likely to remember for a long time.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 9 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

That "baby-faced kid," as Drake's football coach, Jack Wallace, impishly calls Bobby Misner, has been named as the Bulldogs' "most valuable player" for the gridiron season just completed. This should come as a surprise to no one — except for the fact that Bob is only a junior this year and this coveted honor as a general rule goes to a senior. In addition, he was chosen along with John Lynch of Downers Grove, Ill., as co-captain of the '68 Drake team.

This wasn't as good a season for Bobby as might have been expected — though through no fault of his. The Bulldogs just weren't so strong a team as it had been hoped they'd be, and opponents were able to give Misner very special attention as a pass receiver. He was "double-teamed" the season through; which means two men were continually assigned to cover him on pass plays.

Only up to a point did this prove effective, however. As the season progressed, Bob was used increasingly as a ball carrier — and a good share of the time he was the Bulldogs' top ground-gainer. Take their closer with Southern Illinois last Saturday. Beaten 45-17 (after a 17-17 halftime tie), Drake netted 332 yards on the ground and in the air. Bob carried the ball for 95 yards in 21 tries and caught five passes for 51 yards: total, 146! A REAL star, that "baby-faced" kid!

Lively interest in major college football around the state will continue next season for Bronco gridiron fans. Plus Bobby Misner making it big at Drake, Paul Laaveg clearly established himself as a tough man to push out of a starting offensive end assignment at the University of Iowa; and Craig Boller will be counted on heavily as a defensive lineman at Iowa State.

Good news comes from Iowa City in the form of a progress report from the surgeon who operated on Sterling Laaveg's knee last summer. Now gone from the Iowa campus, the doctor was back briefly this month and after examining Sterl predicted an 85 per cent chance that the ex-Bronco star would be able to perform for the Hawkeys next fall. If so, there's a good chance you'll find him as the Hawks' starting center.

Over at the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, Wayne Smith was second-best ground-gainer for the Panther freshman team this fall; and Les Steenblock was a frosh starter at tackle. At Mason City's NIAC college, Rich Stadtlander and Dick Dirks are likely to attract college scholarship offers with good performances again next fall. Quite a mother lode of talent, BHS has been!

Cec Carstens handed us a piece of IEL&P publicity to the effect that Iowa Electric on Wednesday night of last week put into commercial operation a new generating unit at Prairie Creek in Cedar Rapids. Construction of the unit, which was started in the spring of '65, cost the tidy sum of $20 million. The plant — Unit 4 of the Prairie Creek station — adds 140,000 kilowatts to IEL&P's generating capacity, which is more than the other three units, all together. This is Cec's way of telling us that IEL&P is determined to take care of its power and light customers in A-1 fashion.

It's been called to the Mainstreeters' attention by admirers of scrappy Mike Klinefelter, a 150-lb. chunk of determination who was sometimes worn to a frazzle carrying the mail for the Broncos this past season, that what they regard as a grievious oversight was comitted when he was not the recipient of honorable mention when North Iowa all-conference picks were made. As a staunch fan of Mike's, Ye Ed would be decidedly inclined to agree. And a glance at the BHS gridiron statistics for the '67 campaign confirm that a disservice was done the gutsy little halfback.

For one thing — Mike was the Broncs' top point-producer for the season with seven touchdowns, 42 points. And all of them came "the hard way;" because of his light weight, Mike wasn't called on to punch 'em over when there was only a yard or two to go.

And in addition? Well, Mike was also the No. 1 ground-gainer with 716 yards on 135 carries for an average of 5.9 yards per try (that average was second only to Lee Barkema's 14.6, which involved just five trips with the pigskin). Mike had the Blue-and-White's longest scoring run of the fall with a 71-yard romp — against the co-champion Lake Mills Bulldogs (with about the toughest defense in the league!). Though not very often a pass target, Mike snagged five aerials for 26 yards — bringing his yardage total to 742. Mike may be mad at us for shining the light on him this way. But he casts a pretty big shadow, for 150 pounds.

A note from the Stanley Shahans at Las Vegas, Nev., where their address now is 2038 Palm street, Space 319, Echo Drive (Las Vegas zip — 89101). They have acquired a mobile home and have it stationed at a facility for such, called Riviera Adult Park. Mrs. S. says the park provides over 300 spaces for homes, has a large recreation building, swimming pool and convenient laundry rooms. The Shahans approve of the Nevada weather, which supplies daytime warmth in the 75-80 degree range, descending at night to 45 or 50.

SGT. MEINTS TO VIETNAM

Master Gunner Sergeant William D. Meints left last Thursday by plane en route to Vietnam after spending a two-week furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Meints. Sergeant Meints, a career soldier, most recently was stationed at San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. MAURICE DILLON

BELATED OBSERVANCE OF ANNIVERSARY SET FOR MAURICE DILLONS

In the belief that "late" is ever so much better than "never," the children of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dillon plan to hold open house Sunday in honor of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary.

Preliminary preparations for a Golden Wedding reception were being made last fall, when the October tornado made necessary a delay. Maurice "Barney" Dillon and Francis Ruka were married on Nov. 23, 1916, by Father Eardley at St. Francis Catholic church.

Friends and relatives are invited to greet the honorees at the Olde Belmond Inn on Sunday afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock.

Mr. Dillon in 1961 retired as an employee of the state highway department at the age of 70, after 27 years with the department. Subsequent to his retirement, he served for three years as a relief officer on the Belmond police force.

He has possibly the longest period of service as a volunteer fireman of any man in the state, having been a member of the Belmond Fire department for 56 years.

Two of the Dillons' three children will be present as host and hostess for the open house, Daryl R. Dillon of Hampton and Margaret Dillon. A second son, SSG Patrick M. Dillon is in the U. S. Army serving in Vietnam. The Dillons have four grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Meeting held on Tuesday evening advances plans for retirement home

During a meeting of 17 church representatives held Tuesday night at the board room of the First State bank, plans were made for the formalizing of a corporation that would be the foundation for establishment of a retirement home in Belmond.

Luin Cox served as chairman of the meeting. Attorney R. A. Henderson presented proposed articles of incorporation and by-laws, which would be subject to approval by corporation members.

Willis Schellburg of Forest City, a member of the architectural firm of Gjelten and Schellburg, was present to advise on what tentative architectural planning has been done and to draw on his experience in helping to arrange federal grants for other retirement homes.

Also on hand was Dr. S. P. Leinbach, instigator of the project as recipient of funds approximating $9,000 sent to him following last year's tornado by medical associates who foresaw especial need for a retirement home here due to the affect of the disaster on some of the community's elderly people.

Dr. Leinbach, Mr. Cox, Mr. Henderson and certain others have operated for some months past as a temporary, informal committee endeavoring to get the project "off the ground."

Mr. Henderson was retained to draft the suggested articles of incorporation and by-laws. The articles provide that the initial membership of the corporation be comprised of the lay leaders of the 10 churches in Belmond:

The Belmond Bible church, Bethany Reformed, Congregational, Calvary Baptist, Immanuel Reformed, Methodist, St. John Lutheran, St. Olaf Lutheran, St. Francis Catholic and Trinity Lutheran churches.

The 10 men presently serving in the chief lay offices of their churches agreed to sound out their congregations on the nominal participation in the project for which the articles of incorporation call. They will meet on Tuesday evening of next week, each prepared to nominate from his own church's membership two persons to serve on the corporation's board of directors.

If this job is accomplished, as those present had reason to hope at the end of Tuesday night's meeting, the directors will then take charge of planning the project and proceed with making the retirement home a reality.

Persons of age 62 or over and handicapped persons (not so incapacitated but as to be able to care for themselves) would be eligible to obtain housing in the proposed home, subject to certain income limitations.

The only change suggested for either the articles of incorporation or by-laws was an amendment that would limit directors to serving two, consecutive three-year terms on the board. Otherwise, the provisions that had been drafted by Mr. Henderson received the ready approval of the group.

Name of the corporation would be River Avenue Apartments, Incorporated. It was explained by Mr. Cox that this name was rather arbitrarily selected, due primarily to the fact that the Baxter Estate property facing River avenue (Highway 69) just north of the Hill Motel appears the likeliest available site to qualify the project for a federal grant.

He reported that an option good until mid-January has been obtained on the property at an outlay of $250, with $15,000 the price agreed upon for purchase of the site. It occupies approximately four acres and the price would include the house at 115 Third street NE. There has been a suggestion that the Methodist church property that was for some years the location of the peewee ball diamond might also be available to the corporation.

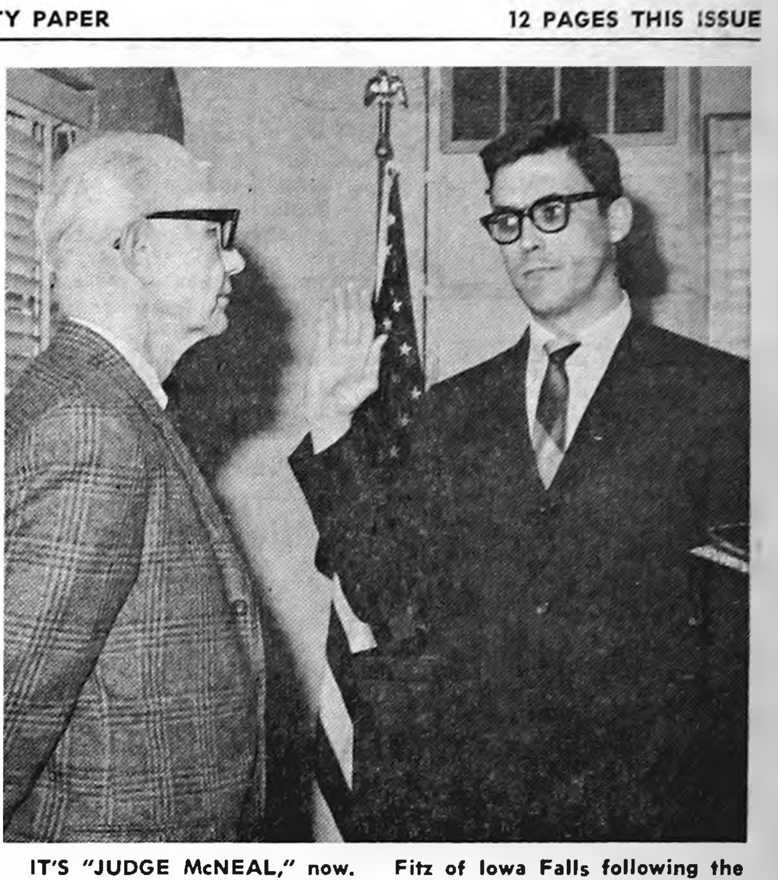
It would be up to the board of directors to determine the number of apartments that the unit would contain, based on interest in the accommodations as determined by a survey. The initial unit, the temporary committee surmised, might vary from eight to possibly as many as 16 apartments.

The ministers and lay churchmen present at the bank meeting Tuesday expressed very general interest in and approval of the movement to establish a retirement home.

It was emphasized that the churches, by informally being the medium for forming the corporation, would obligate themselves to the project in no way, financially or otherwise.

Mr. Cox pointed out that the church format for arriving at a corporation membership was utilized for the combined reasons that it would assure good cross-section participation in the project and that the churches logically should have interest in seeing desirable living accommodations provided for the elderly and handicapped of the community.

Should other churches within a 15-mile radius of Belmond be interested in having a part in establishment of the retirement home, provision is made for them to join in the undertaking either by application or invitation.



IT'S "JUDGE McNEAL," now. Clark E. McNeal, son of Mrs. Dorothy McNeal and the late Clark H. McNeal, is shown being sworn in recently by Mayor Earle Fitz of Iowa Falls following the former Belmond man's appointment as police magistrate for the Hardin county community.

Larger share to Belmond—

Division of library tax adjusted

Librarians and library trustees of Wright county met Wednesday evening of last week at Eagle Grove to reach agreement on division of the quarter-mill county library tax money for the coming year. A modification of the apportionment followed for 1967 was approved by those present, which will give the libraries at Belmond, Clarion and Dows somewhat more than for the current year and Eagle Grove and Rowan somewhat less.

At the request of the county board of supervisors, the libraries had been requested to keep track of rural patronage over a six-month period as a factor to be considered in arriving at a fair apportionment. The tax funds give rural dwellers free use of the various libraries.

Since the Belmond library has been given rural tax levy support since 1959 — much longer than any of the others — its rural patronage proved to be the highest by a considerable margin.

On the basis of the six-month study, using total rural cardholders in the county as 100 per cent, Belmond was shown to be accommodating 35 per cent of the rural patrons, Eagle Grove 22 per cent, Clarion 16, Dows 14 and Rowan seven per cent.

It was agreed by the Belmond representatives that the local library could not fairly expect that full portion of the county library tax; but the local delegation did contend that the apportionment for 1967 was not fair, either.

During the current year, 35 per cent of the tax money was allotted to Eagle Grove, 24 each to Belmond and Clarion, 9.5 per cent to Rowan and 7.5 to Dows. The quarter-mill levy figured to yield a total of $10,956 for the year, of which the libraries have received $10,112 to date.

Under the new agreement arrived at last week, Eagle Grove in 1968 will receive 28 per cent of the tax money, Belmond and Clarion will get 26 per cent each, Dows 12 and Rowan eight per cent.

Mr. Schaal, reporting on the meeting's deliberations to Ed Kennedy, chairman of the board of supervisors, commented, "It is quite evident that we are developing a strong, complete and efficient library program for the rural people of Wright county."

A representative of the Iowa State Traveling Library from Mason City was on hand at the county meeting and informed those present that starting the first of next year book van service will be provided rural people in Norway, Wall Lake and Woolstock townships and those of Grant in the vicinity of Lake Cornelia.

There will be no additional cost for this service over the funds already being supplied the traveling library by the various local libraries from municipal tax funds.

VICTOR FLEENER DIVORCED

On Nov. 10 in district court at Clarion, Judge Ed J. Kelley awarded an absolute decree of divorce to Verla A. Fleener from Victor A. Fleener. By stipulation, the defendant agreed to pay the plaintiff alimony of $20 each week for the period of one year or until the latter's remarriage, whichever occurs the sooner. The defendant also was instructed to pay $250 attorney fee for the plaintiff and meet court costs.

HARVEST FESTIVAL NOV. 30

Annual Harvest Festival Bazaar of the Alexander Community Methodist church will be held next Thursday evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock. There will be an auction of antiques, baked goods and fancy work, a parcel post sale, and lunch will be served.

Walrod emphasizes full address "must" for overseas service mail

Postmaster Bill Walrod today urged the citizens of Belmond to be sure to use the correct address on their letters and packages going to servicemen overseas to avoid serious delays in delivery.

Postmaster Walrod reported that millions of letters and packages going overseas have been delayed because they were insufficiently addressed. He said that one of biggest problems has been the failure of persons to include the very important five-digit APO or FPO number in the military address. Mail not containing this number is incorrectly addressed.

He said that last year more than nine million pieces of mail were delayed in delivery. Of this number, 3½ million pieces failed to include the complete five-digit APO or FPO number in the address. This improperly addressed mail had to be sent to a military locator directory where time-consuming searches were made to determine the proper addresses.

"As the Christmas mail volume going overseas is expected to increase up to 30 per cent or over four million pounds above last year, every precaution should be taken by friends and relatives of servicemen to address their letters and packages properly to assure rapid delivery to their destination," Postmaster Walrod said.

There are four essential elements to an overseas military address, the postmaster emphasized, and omission of any one is certain to delay mail delivery. They are:

1. The serviceman's identity — grade, full name and service number.
2. His military unit — complete.
3. Gateway post office — New York, San Francisco or Seattle.
4. APO or FPO — a five-digit number.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. Roger Heitland of Thornton and Otto Vestweber of Rowan entered Nov. 14 for surgery. Mrs. May White entered as a medical patient that day.

Medical patients entering Nov. 15 were Mrs. Martha Hasty of Kanawha, Mrs. Joe Meyer of Corwith and Elton B. Albro of Rowan.

Ward A. Martin entered Nov. 16 as an accident patient and Fred Loeffler entered as a medical patient.

Entering Nov. 19 for medical treatment were Mrs. Raymond Blank of Kanawha and Bill Heginger of Latimer.

Time to get busy on Santa letters

Children in the Belmond Independent's and Buyers Guide's circulation area are being invited for the 20th year to mail their letters to Santa Claus through this newspaper.

Eleven business firms are joining with The Independent to put up $35 in prize money to be awarded to the youngsters writing the six best letters to be divided: $15 for 1st place, $7.50 for 2nd, $5.00 for 3rd and $2.50 each for the next three places.

These firms are: First State bank, Morehouse Implement, Iowa Electric Light and Power, Belmond Coop Creamery, Belmond Greenhouse, McLaughlin Chevrolet, Farmers Grain company, Joe's Skelly Service, Courson Agency, Central Telephone, Spahn and Rose Lumber, Iehl 66 Service and Coast to Coast.

Any boy or girl age 10 or under may enter the letter-writing contest, which will close on Tuesday, Dec. 19 at 6:00 p. m. Letters must be held to 100 words or less or they will be disqualified. Neatness and originality of thought will count most in the judging.

As many of the letters as space permits will be published in The Independent.

Sixty-two BHS scholars who earned mention on the first-quarter honor roll were led by two juniors, a sophomore and two freshmen who achieved straight-A averages for the period.

Evelyn Basener and Marlene Suntken were the juniors, Irvin Meier the sophomore, Susan Pals and Michele Roberts the freshmen. Juniors topped the honor roll in numbers with 21 students on the list. There were 13 seniors, 17 freshmen and 11 sophomores.

Earning scholarship recognition in addition to the five mentioned were the following students who had minimum averages of "B":

Juniors — Linda Aitken, Ellen Bonte, Shirley Buterbaugh, Judy Carwell, Phil Chapman, Wanda Davids, Nancy Johnston, Rachel Kalkwarf, Greg McClenahan, Shannon McNulty.

Also Marge Meyer, Nancy Mickelson, Karen Nelson, Carol Sharp, Ray Stockseth, Dick Thompson, Linda Trager, Tom Tyrrell and Tom Wilson.

Broncos nose out Eagles 59 to 58

Belmond's Bronco basketeers got their season started with an entry on the winning side of the ledger by edging Eagle Grove on the Eagles' court Tuesday night, 59 to 58. The froshmores had a decidedly easier time of it, trimming the Eaglets 66 to 46.

It was nip and tuck during most of the varsity game, Belmond leading 15-13 at the quarter, trailing 27-30 at the half, and reinstating a 44-40 advantage by the end of the third quarter.

Scoring was evenly divided. Terry Nelson and Greg Fuller each posted 13 points, Paul Bamford and Joel Gabrielson eight apiece, Lee Barkema and Rick Hawley each six and Don Havens two.

The froshmores led at the half 38-21 and at the end of three quarters, 53-30. Ron Ginapp paced the victory with 19 points.

Gridiron banquet on December 6th

Arrangements have been completed for holding the annual Gridiron club banquet, honoring members of the Belmond High school football squads, at the BHS student center on Wednesday, Dec. 6.

Marc Ihm, secretary of the club, advises that an outstanding speaker from the field of coaching has been engaged to give a talk before the players and club members following the banquet.

The speaker's identity, and information regarding his background, will be reported in a story next week.

Three boys named in $28,000 suit

An 11-years-old Eagle Grove boy and two juvenile companions have been named defendants in a suit filed Monday in district court by Iowa Corn Products company of Colo asking judgment in the amount of $28,466.

Cause for the suit was destruction by fire on Sept. 1 of last year of a cob pile at Eagle Grove, which the plaintiff alleges was set ablaze by a bonfire built near-by by the three boys.

Value of the cobs was specified to be the amount of the judgment. Interest at five per cent from date of the fire also is asked by the plaintiff.

Named defendants were James Mohr, Linn Copp and James Dyas. In a petition filed by Mohr's father, James G. Mohr, the lad's age was said to be 11.

The elder Mohr asked the court to appoint Robert D. Blue, Eagle Grove attorney, as guardian at litem to defend his son in the action. The father stated he was ill, had lost his hearing, and is unemployed.

Faculty members at ISEA parley

Four representatives of the Belmond school faculty attended a North Central District Representative Assembly held Wednesday evening of last week at Hampton's Drierdale restaurant. This is the governing body of the North Central district of the Iowa State Education association.

In the Belmond delegation attending were: Shirley Malek, president of the Belmond Teachers association; William Mittelstadt, secretary-treasurer; Jeannette Hall, vice president and local representative to the ISEA's State Delegate Assembly, to be held next February in Des Moines; and Allen Suby, alternate state delegate.

Chest still has $1,100 to raise

Belmond's Community Chest had $1,100 dollars still to go this week in order to reach its 1967 goal of $6,075, according to Mrs. O'Larry Dorr, co-chairman of the campaign.

Contributions up to Wednesday came to a total of $4,970. All workers who have not yet turned in their collections were assigned to rural or residential territories, says Mrs. Dorr.

She and her co-chairman, Mrs. Duane Anderson, retain hope that the goal will be met; but it will require continued generous giving on the part of persons yet to be seen.

Some organizations are yet to be heard from, the co-chairmen add; and follow-up solicitations will be conducted by the sponsoring Jaycee-Ettes to reach families who were not contacted by solicitors who have already returned their envelopes.

For ag' adult education—

"Soybean success" theme of class

"Soybeans and success" will be featured at this year's agricultural evening school to be held under the adult education program. Ten evening meetings will emphasize success with the soybean from planting through harvest and end with the products that are manufactured from the bean, says Keith Carlson, vo-ag instructor.

Dr. R. L. Mitchell from Iowa State university, Ames, will keynote the series by a presentation on how the plant grows at the first meeting next Monday. Following meetings will offer discussions and slide showings by seed growers, comments by progressive farmers as panelists, and slides and plant specimens illustrating soybean diseases.

Harvesting of soybeans will feature adjustment of combines in the school vo-ag shop by local implement dealers. Also the results of a harvest loss survey will be presented. This will include slides taken from the attending farmers' fields this fall.

The classes will not stop with harvest, however, Mr. Carlson notes. Belmond being the location of one of Central Soya's soybean processing plants, the soybean success series will feature a discussion of buying principles used in the industry, a plant tour, and a discussion of products that are manufactured from soybeans.

The concluding meeting will feature exports and market development by Chet Randolph of the American Soybean association. Following the meeting series, a banquet for the farmers and their wives will be held featuring vegetable-protein meats and milk.

Other features will be a commodity futures market contest where the farmers speculate on paper each week by selling or buying soybean futures contracts. Awards will be presented to the most successful market analyst and to those who are just lucky.

Plans call for a contest next summer by four farmers following plans made by teams selected from the adult class. After the meeting on seed selection the farmers will meet in groups and determine the variety of beans they wish to plant on their group leader's demonstration plot. Plans call for a July tour of these plots and careful yield checks in the fall.

These meetings were planned by the Vo-Ag Advisory Council, of which DuWayne Kalkwarf is president. Enrollment fee for the 10 weeks is $2.00. Meetings are at the vo-ag room.

"SNIP" WENT ANOTHER ribbon Friday morning of last week as Don Olson applied the scissors to mark the formal "grand opening" of the Coast to Coast store after major repair and remodelling necessitated by the '66 tornado. With the time-consuming project now completed, Don's store looks "the fanciest ever." As fellow Chamber of Commerce members looked on, President Erv Redder — bracketed by Mr. and Mrs. Olson — held the ribbon and Don did the honors.

Varsity wins by 50-7—

Bronco matmen trounce Northwood

While pleased with his wrestlers' easy victory over Northwood here Friday night, 50 to 7 by the Bronco varsity and 46 to 10 by the reserves, Coach Don Jones observed, "It would have pointed to a long hard season if we'd been unable to beat the Vikings decisively."

Belmond's matmen clearly had a big edge over the visitors in experience, this being only the fourth year for Northwood at the mat sport. The shoe will be on the other foot when the Broncos travel to Hampton next Tuesday. A year ago, the Bulldogs took the measure of the Blue-and-White varsity grapplers 26-19 and edged the reserves 24-21.

Northwood's slim squad was obliged to forfeit at one varsity weight and in three reserve divisions for lack of men to fill the spots.

Top matches of the evening were Rob Dorr's 127-lb. tussle with Viking Brad Flo and Gene Pals' draw with Wayne Black. Dorr had to give away a good deal of height and reach to Flo, who gave the Bronco ace a good go before losing by a fall early in the third period. Pals had to rally from a 2-0 deficit with a third-period reversal to break even with Black.

Varsity results were as follows:

—SPORTS—

95 lbs. — Lynn Henn (B) dec. Curt Flatness, 11-6; 103 lbs. — Jim Cullinan (B) pinned Dave Hansen, 1:15; 112 lbs. — Greg McClenahan (B) pinned Dave Kelly, 3:50; 120 lbs — Tom Wilson (B) pinned Ben Helgeson, 4:35; 127 lbs. — Dorr (B) pinned Flo, 4:14.

New high series rolled recently

New high individual series in Belmond league bowling have been set for both men and women for the current season during the present month at Bowl-Mor Lanes.

Donna Cockram surpassed the previous high for women with a 616 series, aided by a 213 game. Roger Kinseth wiped out a 652 high posted by Don Busick when he rolled a 661 last week on games of 221 232 208

● Belmond Locals

Sp 4 and Mrs. Curtis Trager left Thursday for their home at Annandale, Va., after spending two weeks in Belmond and Waterloo. Specialist Trager is stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va. The evening before their departure, he and his wife visited Mr and Mrs. Roger Leist and Stephanie at Dows.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Paladino of Ames, Susan Thompson of Waverly and Fred Muller of Rudd will be Thanksgiving Day guests in the Warren Thompson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Markham attended funeral services for Mrs. Leo Piper held a week ago Tuesday at Marshalltown.

Heart Bowl team meet at Clarion

Belmond league bowling teams had the opportunity last week to compete in the qualifying round of the Wright county Heart Bowl tournament. Finals, presumably matching men's and women's winners from Clarion, Eagle Grove and Dows against the local qualifiers, will be next Sunday afternoon at HiHatt Lanes, Clarion.

The women's roll-off will be at 1:00 p. m. and the men's finals at 3:00 o'clock.

Representing Belmond in the women's division will be Printing Service company with a 3,021 qualifying score and Rich's Tap with 2,941. Men's qualifiers from here were the Belmond Independent with 3,091 and Kinseth Plumbing and Heating, 3,025.

MAKE STATE PIN FINALS

District competition in the Family Adult-Junior Bowling Tournament of the State Junior Bowling association was held at Bowl-Mor Lanes last Sunday. Two Belmond pairs won the right to compete Dec. 9-10 at Des Moines in the state finals. Roger Kinseth and Lee Gordon top the senior "father-son" group with a gross doubles score of 1,190 and best junior "father-son" score was posted by Jack Lobdell and Dennis Johnson, a 1,068.

Cagers take on Long's CL Lions Saturday night

Belmond High's cagers will get their second test of the new basketball season Saturday night at Clear Lake — and it promises to be a tough one.

Ex-Bronco Dave Long is at the cage helm for the Lions this year. He has 6-6 Ken Grabinski, a 2nd-team all-state player a year ago, plus a couple of other senior lettermen as the foundation of his team.

Along with them he has some promising talent from the Lion sophomore ranks of last season who may be good enough to displace the senior candidates — Granbinski excepted, of course — from starting positions.

Last season the Broncos bowed to Clear Lake 73-54 in regular season play and lost in the first round of the sub-state tournament to the Lions, 75-54.

Fjone, Lake Mills, gets IDPA third team berth

Lake Mills' 225-lb Mark Fjone was the only North Iowa conference gridder to earn a place on one of the Iowa Daily Press association's five all-state teams announced last Friday; but several other NIC candidates, including Mack Gabrielson and Terry Nelson from Belmond, ranked among the top players at their positions in the honorable mention listings.

Fjone was regarded by NIC coaches as perhaps the loop's likeliest college prospect. His rugged aggressiveness won him a 3rd team position with the IDPA.

Mark Pederson of Osage, who was withheld from NIC all-star consideration after being dropped from the Imp squad for disciplinary reasons, rated second among the backs getting IDPA honorable mention. Dave Formanek of Garner wasn't far behind, rating 7th on the honor roll on vote count.

John Camp of Britt, Gary Rippentrop and Quarterback Randy Berhow of Buffalo Center also made the honor list.

Pat Nerby of Lake Mills, though considered a center in winning an all-NIC 1st team assignment, topped the IDPA's guard honor roll; and the Broncos' Gabrielson was right behind him. Ike Garst of Buffalo Center also received mention as a guard.

In the press association's poll, Belmond's Nelson rated No. 7 among the end honorable mentions and Pat Costigan also was listed as a wingman. Neither of the NIC 1st team ends, Sherman Beye of Osage or Bill Erdmann of Garner, drew enough support to make the honor roll.

Besides Belmond's pair, four other Wright county gridders earned IDPA mention — John Jetmund and Randy Green of Dows as backs and teammate Craig Russel as tackle, along with Loren Simpson of Clarion.

7 FROM NIC AWARDED MENTION BY REGISTER

Seven North Iowa conference players were awarded honorable mention by the Des Moines Sunday Register last weekend, but no NIC gridder managed to make any of the Register's seven all-state teams.

Backs on the honor roll were John Camp of Britt, Dave Formanek of Garner and Mark Pederson of Osage.

Two Belmond players were among the four linemen cited — Terry Nelson at end and Mack Gabrielson at guard. Lake Mills' Mark Fjone also won tackle mention and teammate Pat Norby was on the guard honor roll.

Fire destroys hay at Mennenga farm

Between 2,500 and 3,000 bales of hay were destroyed by a fire that broke out in a pile of bales on the Harry Mennenga farm east of town a little after 1:00 a. m. Monday.

The Belmond Fire department was faced with quite a problem in fighting the blaze, for farm buildings were near-by the flaming bales on one side and fuel tanks on the other.

Meservey's fire department came to the local firemen's assistance to augment the water supply available from the Belmond trucks.

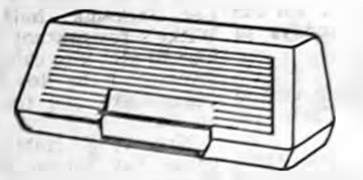
It was Mr. Mennenga's guess that the fire may have been caused by an electric fence near the piled bales.

On Monday evening, the Belmond firemen engaged in another "exercise" in the form of burning an unwanted building. It was on property at the north end of Second avenue NE which Gerald Walrod, Latimer contractor, bought from Oliver Goodwin. Mr. Walrod reportedly plans to move a house onto the lot.

GOODWILL TRUCK COMING

Toys will be welcomed, along with the usual discarded clothing, shoes and repairable household items when the Goodwill truck visits Belmond on Thursday of next week. If you have some articles to donate, a call to Rev. M. L. Jones will provide information on where they should be left.

YOUR OWN PERSONAL
POCKET STAMP



PERMA-STAMP — the pocket stamp that goes wherever you go — neat and clean — ready for instant use WITHOUT AN INK PAD!
Your light-weight PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp is perfect as a personal signature stamp . . . a time-saving check endorsement stamp . . . or a name and address stamp for imprinting envelopes, identifying books and other personal or household items.
Every impression is crisp and clean — as if it came off a printing press. Smallest details and finest lines are reproduced with consistent clarity and cleanliness.
Snap-top lid protects your stamp until you're ready to use it. Attractive jade-green plastic case keeps stamp safe from dust, lint and dirt. Available in your choice of ink colors: violet, red, black, green and blue.
Best of all, a PERMA-STAMP Pocket Stamp costs little more than an old-fashioned rubber stamp.

Belmond singers score resounding hit at UNI fest

A dozen singers from Belmond Community High school and their vocal director, Stan Norson, last Saturday attended the 2nd annual Tall Corn Theater conference held at the University of Northern Iowa Music Hall, Cedar Falls. Twenty-eight high schools had delegations at the conference.

Among highlights of the event was the presentation of excerpts from musical shows under preparation by five of the schools represented.

Mr. Norson reports that the longest and most enthusiastic applause was won by Glenn Gabrielson and Jerry Boelman in a song and dance routine from "Guys and Dolls," which the BHS music and drama departments will present next semester in lieu of the traditional spring play.

Choreography for the bit was devised and coached by Mrs. Jim (Betty Clare) Houser and piano accompaniment was provided by Judy Carwell.

Among other attractions of the conference was a performance of "The Threepenny Opera," fall production of the UNI Music Theater, following an evening dinner for the high school guests.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

Services on Thanksgiving Day will be held at 8:00 a. m. at St. Francis Catholic church for all members of St. Francis parish, Rev. R. A. Ormsby advises.

● Belmond Locals

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Thompsen and Doug will spend Thanksgiving Day in Princeton, Ill., with the Jim Thompsen family.

Doug Thompsen of Ames is spending the quarter break and Thanksgiving vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Thompsen.

Paulo available to present talks

Paulo Canineu, the likeable young Brazilian who is the American Field Service student at BHS this year, will be available for speaking appearances before clubs and other organizations after Dec. 1.

Mrs. Luin Cox, president of the local AFS chapter, says that scheduling of talks by Paulo should be done through Principal Ernest Doeringsfeld.

It is also reported by Mrs. Cox that no applications have been received as yet from any families interested in hosting the 1968-69 AFS student. Such aplications should be in to AFS headquarters for consideration within the next month, so local AFS chapter members are hopeful that some will be forthcoming very soon.

Any families wanting more information as to the requirements and responsibilities of being host to a foreign student can obtain a pamphlet on the matter from Don Cleveland, BHS guidance counselor.

4 students get averages of 4.0; top honor roll

Taking five subjects didn't slow down two Kanawha Community High school juniors and two freshmen who topped the honor roll for the first quarter of the current school year with 4.0 grade averages. The juniors were Angela Johnson and Karen Schroeder; the freshmen, Jodine Friedow and Jill Harie.

MARINE PRIVATE MEYER ENDS RECRUIT TRAINING

SAN DIEGO (FHTNC) — Marine Private Jerry D. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Meyer of Kanawha, on Nov. 7 was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo from two to four weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Anderson of Des Moines were weekend guests of the Lester Andersons and Elmer Liters.

● Belmond Locals

Rex Fetrow went to Ottumwa over the weekend to get Mrs. Fetrow who had spent 10 days in the Ron Hansen home.

Fred Hill of Minneapolis, Minn., spent the weekend with his sister, Mrs. Cato Griesy, and she returned to Minneapolis to spend Thanksgiving with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson and family and Dr. and Mrs. R. D. Warrington and family of Marshalltown were dinner guests Sunday in the Harley Thompson home.

9-mo. bond sales In Wright barely exceed 50% mark

Robert McKee of Clarion, volunteer county savings bonds chairman, reports that sales of Series E and H savings bonds and Freedom Shares in Wright county during September were $60,418. This gives Wright a nine-month total of $430,015 for 52 per cent of its 1967 quota.

Lyon county continues to lead the state with 104 per cent of quota attained followed by Clayton and Van Buren counties, each with 90 per cent, and Decatur county with 88 per cent.

Sales in all of Iowa during September were $6,727,823, giving the state a nine-month total of $76,327,193 for 63 per cent of its goal for 1967.

Nine-month sales and per cent of quotas attained are shown for other counties in the area: Franklin, $357,835 for 73 per cent; Kossuth, $542,378 for 69 per cent; Webster, $1,122,690 for 58; Cerro Gordo, $807,512 for 55; Hamilton, $469,515 for 54; Hardin, $516,107 for 53; Humboldt, $326,566 for 51; and Hancock, $313,790 for 44 per cent.

Christmas fruit for sale by FFA

The Kanawha chapter of Future Farmers of America is selling Christmas fruit again this year. The fruit consists of oranges and grapefruit and is shipped to Kanawha for delivery by the FFA approximately one week before Christmas.

The fruit was of excellent quality last year and everyone purchasing the fruit seemed well satisfied, the Future Farmers report.

The fruit sells for $5.00 per box and can be split into a half-box of oranges and half-box of grapefruit, if desired.

Anyone interested should call one of the following FFA members to place orders: Mike Beukema, 762-3786; Paul Christians, 762-3477; Keith Allen, 762-3686; Steve Rietema, 762-3963; Doyce Pringnitz, 762-3693.

The money received from the fruit sales is used in carrying on the various activities conducted by the FFA throughout the year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Yeakel returned home Friday from a short vacation in Detroit, Mich., where they visited with the Robert Nye family.

Chuck Christenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Christenson, who attends Iowa State University in Ames is spending the quarter break at home with his parents.

St. John church burns bank note; all clear of debt

Last Sunday was a day of rejoicing for members of St. John Lutheran church, marking retirement of all debt against the church after the construction of a new educational unit and other major improvements to the church.

Burning of the bank note that had aided in financing of the project was a highlight of the occasion, taking place during the morning worship service.

Rev. Leo Andersen reports that a recent appeal to the congregation for funds to make retirement of the debt possible prompted a response that brought in more than the amount of money that was needed.

Arthur Pringnitz was in charge of the note-burning ceremony, with other church council members assisting. The others participating were Edward Frohling, Warren Thompson, Richard Kling, Clarence Vestweber, Roy Hanson, Harm Katuin, Wayne Bell and Harold Erdman.

Cost of the church improvements, including the educational unit, came to approximately $26,000. Work on the addition was started in November of 1964 and its construction along with major changes to the church interior and other improvements were completed by the following summer. Dedication of the new facilities was held in July of 1965.

Pastor Andersen extended his personal word of thanks to all who had made contributions toward the project in time, money or work.

Dave Robertson in MC hospital following crash

Dave Robertson of Belmond suffered extensive, serious injuries in a collision with a farm trailer hauled by a tractor two miles south of Ventura about 5:15 p. m. Tuesday. With him was a nephew, Richard Ray Robertson, age 20, who was less severely hurt.

Patrolman James Thalacker of Clear Lake, who investigated the crash, says both parties were traveling south and that there were no lights on the rear of the trailer. Driver of the tractor was Keith Christians, 23, of rural Garner.

Robertson tried to miss the trailer but struck the rear left corner and all of the vehicles ended up in the ditch.

First brought to Belmond Community hospital, Robertson was later transferred to Mercy hospital at Mason City. He suffered a fracture of the left arm, jaw fracture, numerous facial lacerations and other cuts. The younger Robertson was admitted to the Belmond hospital for treatment of facial lacerations.

Patrolman Thalacker said an estimated $1,000 damage was done to Robertson's car and $500 damage to the grain trailer. He added that charges in the case were pending.

Frank Drury, 76, seriously injured in multiple crash

Frank Drury, 76, farmer living six miles south of Belmond, suffered severe injuries in an accident on Highway 3 just east of the Latimer-Coulter corner about 5:45 p. m. Tuesday.

He was driving alone when his car struck the rear end of a pickup truck traveling slowly behind a tractor drawing a farm wagon. In the truck was Dean Borcherding, 38, of Coulter and his 12-year-old son Larry was driving the tractor.

Mr. Drury was brought to the Belmond hospital for treatment and then transferred to Mercy hospital at Mason City. His injuries included a fractured kneecap, severe facial lacerations and contusions of the chest.

The elder Borcherding was taken to the Hampton hospital for first aid and then released. The boy was unhurt.

Patrolman Richard Bakey of Iowa Falls, who investigated the accident, said charges would be filed against Mr. Drury for failure to stop within an assured, clear distance. There will also be a charge against Mr. Borcherding for having no taillight on the farm wagon.

The latter was driving behind the tractor and wagon to provide it with a "rear light," he said. The pickup rammed the farm wagon after being struck by the Drury car.

Frank Jacobchick dies at 70 years

Frank Jacobchick, 70, who for three years was manager of Anthony's department store here, died suddenly Monday of last week at St. Francis hospital in Breckenridge, Minn., a short time after suffering a coronary attack.

A funeral mass was held Thursday morning at St. John's Catholic church at Wahpeton, N. D., where he and Mrs. Jacobchick moved following his retirement as an Anthony employee in 1964.

It was at Wahpeton that Mr. Jacobchick was born on Nov. 28, 1896. He attended the State School of Science there following high school and served in the U. S. Army during World War I. He married Cele LeDuc on Aug. 12, 1924.

He became an employee of the J. C. Penney company at Wahpeton in 1933 and later managed a store for the chain at Oakes, N. D. While still living there he changed jobs and became a manager for C. R. Anthony company, in 1951 being transferred to Mandan, N. D., and in 1961 to Belmond.

Surviving in addition to his wife are a daughter, Mrs. William (Donna Lou) Ferrel of Lynnwood, Wash., and a son Richard, of Mandan; also three brothers and six grandchildren.

PATRICIA M. MATZEN, STEVEN L. LAMFERS WED HERE NOV. 11TH

Miss Patricia Maye Matzen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Matzen of Blair, Neb., became the bride of Steven Lynn Lamfers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seabo Lamfers, at the Trinity Lutheran church on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 11, at 2:00 o'clock with Rev. Oscar Laaveg performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of crepe and lace and a shoulder-length veil. She carried a bouquet of mint and white pompons.

Rex Boyd of Boone was best man. David Lamfers, brother of the groom, and Jim Just were groomsmen.

The mother of the bride wore a gold suit and a corsage of green flowers. The groom's mother wore a royal blue suit and a corsage of white flowers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. A four-tiered cake, trimmed in mint green and white, centered the bride's table.

The bride graduated from Blair High school and has just completed her second term at Commercial Business college in Omaha, Neb. The groom is employed in Boone, where the couple will be at home.

Guests from a distance were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Matzen of Blair, Neb., Karen Cooper of Omaha, Neb., Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Broomley of Albert Lea, Minn., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beer of Winnebago, Minn.

Shirley will become the bride of Doug Stoffer on Nov. 25.

HOW TO KEEP TRACK of the whereabouts of books loaned out to local libraries by the North Iowa Library Extension service is no small trick. How it is done by means of a new Card-veyor was demonstrated recently as 103 area librarians and library trustees held a workshop at the NILE headquarters, the Mason City library. Helping demonstrate the new system was Mrs. Wanda (nee Jenison) Cuponi of the extension service staff, former Belmondite who is at left in the picture above. Attending the workshop from Belmond were Mrs. Richard Woodin, librarian, and her assistant, Mrs. Roy Carwell; and two trustees, Mrs. Carl Robbins and R. B. Thompson, the latter accompanied by Mrs. Thompson. Meservey's library had as representatives its librarian and assistant, Mrs. Vic Nordman and Mrs. Russell Gaetzke.

Lylle Dunlap, erstwhile Belmondite who is taking on the appearance of being The Independent's Eugene, Ore., correspondent, recently wrote to us regarding his experiences with the finny tribe in the great northwest. To-wit . . .

Now I know I didn't stay in Belmond long enough this summer. I didn't meet a single fisherman.

When I was sitting in my boat the other day waiting for my reel to cool off, I got to wondering where you fish around Belmond and for what kind of fish. Out here we have several kinds and I ALWAYS catch fish — most of the time.

For instance, my last trip. I got up at 5:00 a. m., ate my breakfast and went to the garage to get my boat. When I started out, the boat rolled off the trailer into the back of the garage.

After I finally got it back on the trailer, it dropped in front of the back roller; and all told, I lost about one hour of VALUABLE time getting away. I stopped for gas and a car got out of the station ahead of me — and a gravel truck took the right-of-way from the car.

It took five slow miles for the car to finally get ahead of the truck. Having the trailer, I needed more room. When I finally started to pass, the truck driver decorated my windshield with sandwich wrappings, a paper cup and plate, having completed his breakfast.

In another 50 miles, I was at the dock, thinking, "Boy! Am I going to slaughter 'em today!" I started out into the river, hit a sunken log, and had to be towed back in. More valuable time lost.

I could just feel the fish with my name on 'em hightailing it up the river. In about 30 minutes I was on my way again. I ran into some driftwood and was standing up in the boat trying to push it away when a guy in a hurry went by and his wake nearly put me in the river.

Well, I trolled four miles up the river and four miles back, and was singing "Cruising Down the River" when I looked at my reel and about 100 yards of line had gone out. I thought sure my luck had changed and started winding in. In about 10 yards, the end showed up. I stopped the motor and tipped it up, and there was the whole caboodle wrapped around the prop.

You oughta seen that loused-up spinner! It looked like it had been rammed down a musket barrel and shot at a concrete barn!

I thought I'd call it a day and lit out for the dock, a mile away. When I went into the slip to the hoist, that sunken log was waiting for me and I sheared another pin. I couldn't slow the boat, because the tide was running fast, and I rammed that dock corner and punched a hole in my boat.

By now, I was getting hungry as I hadn't had any dinner and it was 4:00 p. m., so I thought I'd stop and get lunch in a little town on the way home.

A sign in the restaurant window said, "SORRY, WE ARE CLOSED." I'll bet they had tears running down their cheeks, they were so sorry. I wasn't, though. Shucks, I could get eats in another 45 miles of mountain driving. . . . Like I said — I ALWAYS catch fish . . . sometimes.

The day ended happily, though. I didn't have to clean any fish that night. Which was good, because I was beginning to get tired.

P. S. — If you find any misspelled words in this, excuse it please, 'cause I was a kindergarten drop-out.

YAKETCHINANY

I had to build a 14-foot boat, so I'd have room for the name.

Cadets trounce Belmond Matmen

Belmond High's wrestlers found themselves badly outmanned Tuesday evening at Iowa Falls, the varsity team losing 30 to 12 and the reserves taking a 40-to-6 trouncing.

Coach Don Jones reports that the Cadets had clearly cut weight much more sharply than the Broncos, with the result that many of the Belmond wrestlers were simply running up against stronger boys.

Varsity winners were Lynn Henn at 95 pounds, Robb Dorr at 127, Glen Gabrielson at 154 and Gene Pals at 165.

Complete results of the matches will appear next week.

Teacher salaries topic of seminar

Three representatives of the Belmond Teachers association attended a seminar at Iowa State university, Ames, last Saturday held by the Iowa State Education association relative to teaching salaries in this state.

In the local group were: Mrs. Audrey Tiss, chairman of the local association's salary committee; Mrs. Jeannette Hall, vice president of the Belmond group; and Mrs. Helen Soper, publicity chairman.

Major speaker was James R. Thurston, special salary consultant to the National Education association, whose topic was "The Professional Status of Teachers."

"The Role of Educators' Salaries in Iowa's Expanding Economy" was the subject of a panel discussion intended "to encourage unity of thought and action between the faculty, administration and school board."

Spokesman for school administrations, educators, school boards, legislators and the ISEA comprised the panel. Blythe Conn of Des Moines, executive director of the Iowa Association of School Boards, gave the school directors' point of view and Senator Joseph B. Flatt of Winterset was the legislator.

Leonard Roberts of Jewell, superintendent of the South Hamilton Community schools, represented the administrators; Larry Kelly of Charles City, the teachers; and Mrs. Dorothy Brazzle of Des Moines, the ISEA staff.

Donations asked for fire victims

Fire early Monday afternoon at the Henry Johnson residential property which Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hoopingainer and children have been tenanting destroyed practically all of the family's belongings. In sympathy for the disaster, the Alexander Commercial club is soliciting help for the fire victims in the way of cash, clothing and furniture. All of the loss was uninsured.

Mr. Hoopingainer had gone to the Robert Pals farm, where he is employed as a farmhand, and his wife and three children were away visiting friends near Dows when the fire broke out about 1:15 o'clock. Despite efforts of the Alexander Fire department, the interior of the home was almost completely gutted.

The Hoopingainers have three youngsters, a daughter age four and twin son and daughter three years old. Friends say they lack the necessary finances to replace the possessions that were destroyed. The house was rented for the family from Henry Johnson by Mr. Hoopingainer's employer. Faulty wiring is suspected as cause of the fire.

Persons who would like to help the family in their need may leave donations of clothing, furniture or money at Aldinger's store, the Alexander branch of the Latimer State bank, Dale's Barbershop, Gary's Farm store, Shear's station or Alexander cafe.

Saturday afternoon coffee guests in the Merlin Braun home were Mrs. Lawrence Hamilton of Hampton, Mrs. Larry Hamilton of Cedar Falls, and Mrs. Lamb of Cedar Rapids.

Let me protect your new car warranty.

Today's new cars come with broad, generous warranties. Because of this, car manufacturers quite resonably demand certain "warranties" of you, the car owners.

What they ask, principally, is that you have your new car serviced periodically. Without this regular servicing, in fact, your warranty could be voided.

I suggest you let me help keep your car warranty in force by driving into my ular intervals. Whatever servicing is called for in your car manual, I'm qualified and equipped to handle.

In any event, by all means keep your new car warranty in effect with the checkups and servicing car manufacturers demand.

It would be my pleasure to help you do so.

The tongue is a fire, a rod of iniquity. . . . It is an unruly evil. . . . My Brethren, these things ought not so to be. — James 3:6, 8, 10

Some things stay same — like "Animal Crackers"

In a world that finds few things the same when the sun comes up as they were when it set, it's comforting to discover once in a while something that remains unchanged.

Some time ago, we happened upon a radio interview with an executive of the National Biscuit Company. One thing he had to say, gave us heart. It had to do with that popular cookie delight known as "Animal Crackers."

First introduced on the market in 1902, "Animal Crackers" today are exactly the same little cut-outs in the shape of 13 different beasts that they were 6½ decades ago.

The recipe is the same. Only the box is different from the original — and since this change was made in 1911 and the red circus wagon container has remained the same for 56 years, we feel Nabisco can be forgiven on this score.

We operate a business that is largely dependent upon the usefulness of advertising, so perhaps we shouldn't mention another point brought out in the interview.

The Nabisco spokesman stated that at no time since "Animal Crackers" were introduced have they benefited by a nickel's worth of their producer's huge, annual advertising budget.

Nabisco products — by and large — have changed in variety extensively since 1902; and today they number more than 300 Yet "Animal Crackers" outsell all but 24 of their NBC companions!

National Biscuit Company is at a loss to explain the undiminishing popularity of this unique goodie. Today they are being consumed by a generation that never saw, and never will see, a circus parade of the sort recalled by the little Barnum boxes.

Gone are most of the merchandising "verities" of our childhood. We've never ceased to miss the intriguing Niagra Falls street scene from the Shredded Wheat box. The sailor boy and his dog are still to be seen on the Cracker Jack box, but reduced in size and no longer the focal point of the carmel corn container (and gone are the delightful surprises that really WERE prizes, nestled in the toothsome contents).

But "Animal Crackers" are still "Animal Crackers," any way you look at them. Somehow, we have become just a little more encouraged about the future in general, knowing this.

Dow Chemical company unfairly cast as villain

Dow Chemical company has been catching what-for on a number of college campuses in recent weeks as personnel representatives have been interviewing prospective employees from the ranks of next spring's graduating classes.

It has been the purpose of the demonstrations to make Dow out as the typical "heartless corporation" because the firm produces napalm, the nasty, inflammable gunk that has become an implement of modern warfare

Dow spokesmen have plaintively explained that the manufacture of the unpleasant stuff was requested of the company by the government; what profit it produces represents the meagerest pittance measured against the firm's multi-billion annual product; and that Dow would be only to happy to get shuck of the business, if it did not feel obligated to fill the government orders received.

The huge industrial establishment could very well have made capital of an opposite phase of its business that shows the other side of the coin — but chose not to do so. It was only through some digging by a Christian Science Monitor reporter that the contrasting undertaking recently came to light

Inspired much more by humanitarian that profit motives, Dow has been quietly building a plant in India to produce a high-protein peanut-base food to alleviate rampant malnutrition in that country. It is apparent that Dow's enlistment in the War on Starvation was on a much more voluntary basis than its participation in the war in Viet-nam.

We share the demonstrators' antipathy toward the ghastly deaths that are produced by napalm. But it is clearly unfair to paint a concern such as Dow as a "merchant of death" on the basis that it's been done. Dow research and widely varied products have done much to help produce "the good life" for the youthful protestors.

We're not given to questioning the sincerity of many of the anti-war demonstrators (some, we're NOT so sure of); but their attacks on the integrity of the Dow Chemical Company illustrates the short-ranged vision that prompts some of their conclusions.

Some grid pros providing dubious hero images

Guess we might as well check in as a fuddy-duddy, and make no bones about it, because we hold to the belief that professional athletes owe an obligation to the host of small-fry to whom they are heroes.

We don't question but what any one of these rough, tough gents could put us straight in a minute — to their satisfaction. They are grown men; they are where they are because they're the antithesis of panty-waists; their bodies are their stock in trade, and they'd be foolish to maltreat themselves to the extent of endangering their livelihood.

Last Friday's Des Moines Register reported the hijinks of Detroit Lions Quarterback Karl Sweetan. In the wee, sma' hours of the day preceding he'd swung a fist through the storm door of his girl friend's apartment when denied entrance by her roommate, cutting a six-inch gash in his arm. If he wasn't sauced, he was giving a good imitation. He's had a record of juicing it up to his embarrassment. (Embarrassment? He probably hasn't blushed since kindergarten.)

Did this bring reproval from the Lions management or coach? Said the general manager, "To my knowledge there has been no police action. We plan no disciplinary action as things stand now." . . . And Coach Joe Schmidt loyally put in his two-bits' worth with, "It's a personal thing as far as I'm concerned."

We'd like to think that when the Lions in their appearance against the Minnesota Vikings broke all records by committing 11 fumbles it may have indicated SOMETHING relative to the Detroiters' playing condition and/or powers of concentration on the field. But they'd call us nuts.

Then an interviewer talking to the Green Bay Packers' new star, Donny Anderson, related how this gridiron ace told of his accomplishments while dragging on a cigaret — interrupting the recital only to relight another from the butt of the first. . . . That's how you do it, kiddies!

They've barred the pros from huckstering beer and cigarets on TV and radio. But their testimonials get into print with pretty good regularity on an unpaid basis.

On the other end of the spectrum from the good time Charlies are the small minority of pros who are ardent members of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. They try to sell the good, clean life to the youngsters — and most are of a calibre to suggest that it DOES pay off. But we fear they're fighting a losing battle. There are just too MANY Sweetans and Andersons.

It's a pity. When a stunt like Sweetan's is pulled without so much as a "naughty, naughty!" finger wagged at him, how's a high school coach to sell sensible hours, abstinence from smoking and dedication to the team to kids on his sports squad? . . . It surely doesn't HELP!

Just plain gosh awful

Iowa income taxpayers this year will not get an instruction book. It is being delayed because the new tax law is so fouled up no one can figure out what the instructions should be.

This may or may not be a boon to the taxpayer. Usually the tax instruction booklet is more confusing than any help.

One tof the bugs in the tax law is the provision Iowans who do not make more than $1,000 a year are entitled to a "refund" of $12. This applies to everybody — as the law is written — and even children who get a buck for cleaning up a room can claim the refund.

THIS REFUND DEAL IS A PART and parcel of the same bill that produced the monumental mess in regard to services tax. If ever a bill was written that should have been buried this new bill is it. Unfortunately it was rammed through the legislature by threats of a veto of other legislation. No discussion was even permitted.

The present tax commission, struggling with interpretation of a bad law, is a lame duck commission. It will be replaced January 1 by a single commissioner as head of a new department of revenue.

WHAT THIS NEW COMMISIONER will rule is a puzzle, but the lame duck commission must interpret the law now so taxpayers can have some idea of how to proceed.

Governor Hughes has indicated the new commissioner will follow the governor's idea of what the tax law says. This just means more confusion. It discounts the present tax rulings. It adds confusion on confusion. No one can be sure what the new rules will be — and even the "old rules" are not yet written.

This new law is the most gosh-awful mess ever perpetrated on the suffering people of Iowa. — Algona Advance

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT

It usually adds up to trouble if TJ, the office cat, is merely awake and in a mood to talk. If we come into the office and find him snickering, it's a particularly bad sign. And if the levity is prompted by his reading our mail we can just about count on it being to our embarrassment.

As it turned out, he'd been reading his OWN mail this time — a letter datelined Roam-N-Alley and signed "Purr-sonally yours, The Cat's Meow." TJ pushed it our direction, saying, "Here's a wedding write-up that should suit your fancy. Read In fact, read it out loud. I only got part way through."

A glance at the accompanying letter advised us that what we had in hand pretended to be a report on Ye Ed's wedding. Clearing our throat and taking a quick look to make sure there were no eavesdroppers in the office, we proceeded:

"PAT GALLAGHER, SON OF his mother and father, was wed this afternoon to Betty. The ceremony took place at the church. He was attended by a friend."

(We grumbled under our breath, "It was in the evening — at the bride's home—and we were friendless!")

"As the groom approached the altar, he was the cynosure of all eyes. Blushing prettily, he replied to the questions of the minister in low tones, but firmly.

"He was charmingly clad in a three-piece suit, consisting of a coat, vest and pants. The coat of wooly white material was draped about his shoulders and tastefully gathered under the arms.

"A PRETTY STORY WAS CURrent among the wedding guests that the coat was the same worn by his father and grandfather on their wedding days.

"The vest was sleeveless and met in front It was gracefully fashioned with pockets, and at the back was held in place with a strap and buckle. Conspicuous at the front of the vest was the groom's favorite piece of jewelry, a large safety pin, which was given to him in his infancy and which has a useful as well as a sentimental history.

"From the upper left-hand pocket was suspended a large Ingersoll watch, the bride's gift to the groom, which flashed and gave the needed touch of brilliance to the costume, in perfect taste and harmony.

"THE GROOM'S PANTS WERE of worsted material and were suspended from the waist, falling in straight lines to the floor. The severe simplicity of the garment was relieved by the right trouser leg, which was caught up about four inches from the floor by a Boston garter worn underneath, revealing just an artistic glimpse of brown shoes laced with strings of the same color

Beneath the vest, the groom wore blue suspenders, a charming and useful part of the costume. The customary bit of blue would have passed unnoticed had not the groom muffed the ring when the groomsman passed it to him. When he stooped to recover the errant circlet, the delicate blue was prettily revealed.

"HIS ATTENDANT'S COStume was essentially like the groom's, and as the two stood at the altar a hush of admiration enveloped the congregation at the complete and wonderful harmony of their raiment.

"Actually, you could hardly have told one from the other, had it not been for the patch of adhesive worn by the groom over the nick on his chin made by a safety razor

"Neither Pat nor his attendant wore a hat at the ceremony

"AS THE NEW MRS. GALLAgher led the groom from the nuptials, it was noted that she wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms. The bride had an attendant."

TJ pretended to wipe a tear from his eye as he sighed, "My! That must have been somethin'!"

We were obliged to grin at the wit of "The Cat's Meow" — even though that WASN'T how it was, at all

In the first place, our knees were shaking at a rate that would NEVER have permitted that pants-leg to have remained hung up on our garter. Not for long!

AND THERE WERE A FEW non-ceremonial details that had escaped the reporter's attention; like how we'd burned out a bearing in the car rushing home at the end of press day to dress for the doin's and set out on the honeymoon in a borrowed vehicle yclept "Gallahad," for having come so nobly to the newlyweds' rescue.

"Notice," TJ ordered, "what it says, here in the letter: 'I just love your purr sonality. You really get off some scratchy remarks to that boss — oops — partner of yours. Keep up the good work' (adding with a smirk) a real perceptive cat, you'll have to agree."

Coaches see Viking, Bronco prospects best

Northwood and Belmond are given the nod by most of the North Iowa conference basketball coaches as top challengers for the 1967-68 loop title with Forest City and Buffalo Center touted as possible dark-horses. The crystal ball of only one mentor had Osage in the title picture, although there is reason for a certain amount of suspicion that Coach Bob Matthias may not be so willing to count his Green Devils out.

There have been few cage seasons of late that have found NIC squads in general so drained of letterman talent as this year. Best fixed for returning veterans is Britt, winner of only one league game a year ago, with six. Coach Gary Johnson is convinced that the Eagles are going to turn on their tormentors one of these times and is hopeful for an upturn in Britt fortunes this season.

Garner, which has also been having its troubles in recent seasons, has five lettermen to form a sturdy nucleus for Coach Alden Berkenpas to mold his first Cardinal aggregation around.

It's the first season in the NIC for Berkenpas, as it is for Robert Hilmer at Forest City and Larry Dillinger at Lake Mills.

Three Bronco vets back

Coach Ted Besch, with just three lettermen back, is not convinced that his Belmond outfit warrants the rating that rival mentors have tended to give the Broncos. He has 6-4 Terry Nelson, last year's 2nd-team all-NIC center, plus Forward Greg Fuller and Guard Paul Bamford

Joel Gabrielson may share the other forward slot with Greg Steenblock, a junior. Two other players up from last season's froshmore ranks, Rick Hawley and Lee Barkema, along with Don Havens will be contending with Bamford for guard duty. Except for Nelson, the Broncos won't have much height and neither will they have any better than very average speed.

Respect for Northwood stems from the potential of a fine lot of juniors, rather than concern over varsity veterans available. Coach Maynard Midtgaard's only letterman is 6-5 Brian Bestul, a starter last year as a sophomore. The only senior prospects are Dave Carlson, 6-3, and Barry Bendickson, 5-9.

Vikiang cage squad small

Dan Reeder and Ron Skellenger, both good prospects, are hampered by football injuries. Back from the Junior Vikings' 11-3 outfit of a season ago are Dennis Reeder, Jim Tanner and Steve Schutz. Midtgaard at present has only 11 boys on his varsity squad and foresees he may have to fill out by dipping into the froshmore ranks.

At Buffalo Center, Coach Bill Prochaska has only Paul Gray (6-2) and DeWayne Torkelson (5-10) back from his championship crew. However, he views Juniors Randy Berhow (6-0) and Dennis Dontje (6-1) along with Senior John Holland (6-2) as outstanding prospects.

Prochaska predicts the championship race may well hinge on how fast some of the untried hopefuls on several of the squads come along; and on past performance, the Bison can be expected to be among those showing the most noticeable improvement.

Injuries hamper Indians

Bob Hilmer brings to Forest City an excellent record stacked up at Fredricksburg and is not too dismayed despite the presence of a lone letterman in Danny Schmidt, who's still nursing a hand injury from football. Ron Albertson would have been a certain letter-winner last season but for chronic trouble with a weak ankle and his 6-2 height will be useful at one forward position.

Another excellent prospect, Frank Kamish, is in a cast from an ankle injury suffered on the grid-iron and won't be available until after the holidays. Likely to pair with Schmidt at guard is speedy, little (5-8) Tom Sheimo, while 6-1 John Gahan may be opposite Albertson at forward. Jeff Nissen, at 6-2, appears to have the inside track at center.

A pair of 6-4 boys on the Indian squad, Tom Forslund and Mark Brunsvold, could be useful if their corordination improves as the season progresses. In general, Hilmer won't have over-average height but should have one of the faster outfits in the loop.

Osage has tall boys

Although not attracting much pre-season attention from its NIC rivals, Osage could turn out to be a "sleeper" in the championship race. Coach Matthias will have a height advantage over loop foes with Dan Cockrum (6-5) and Sherman Beye (6-4) abetted by some competent associates in the 6-plus range.

Only seniors among the top prospects besides Cockrum and Beye are 5-10 Don Field and a promising transfer, Dave Mensing (6-2), who came from Dows. From Osage's title-winning froshmore crew of last season that posted a 12-2 mark are Forwards Phil Hoven (6-2), Tom McSweeney (6-1) and Steve Stott (6-1); and at guard, Keith Mayer (5-10) and speedy Brian Hart (5-8).

Coach Dillinger at Lake Mills has burly Mark Fjone (6-3) as his only returning letterman. His top prospects include only three other seniors, 6-5 Larry Prescott and a couple of 5-8 shorties, Glenn Kilen and Mike Sarno. Juniors he is counting on are 6-2 John Sorenson, John Nepsted and Dave Ericson, both 6-1, Allan Thompson (6-0) and Lon Christiansen (5-9).

LM Improvement expected

The new Bulldog coach says, "Being inexperienced, we will come slowly; but I expect the boys to be tough later in the season and we may have something to say about who wins the conference."

"Lack of height may hamper us," reports Garner's Coach Berkenpas, "but we should have a lot of depth with nine or 10 kids of about equal ability."

He adds that, despite the presence of five lettermen, there should be sharp competition for starting assignments. His veterans are Gail Stark and Gery Lemke, each 6-2; Chuck Roe, who extends to 6-3; Greg Schoneman (5-10) and Al Berge (5-11). Besides these boys, he has eight other seniors on the squad and some promising talent among eight junior candidates.

Six veterans at Britt

Gary Johnson went extensively with non-seniors last season at Britt and has six lettermen with extensive game experience as a result. With John Camp and Mark Adix, each 6-2, as his "tall boys" Johnson will not have too much in height. Carl Thompson is 6-0, Bob Welford and Pete Dallman each 5-10 and Chuck Keiser 5-9.

Coach Johnson believes his Eagles will cast off their doormat role this season, after several years at or near the bottom of the ladder. He warns, "They won't be an easy touch after this year."

Last season wound up with the North Iowa conference standings as follows:

	W	L
Buffalo Center	12	2
Forest City	10	4
Lake Mills	10	4
Belmond	9	5
Northwood	7	7
Garner	4	10
Osage	3	11
Britt	1	13

Clarion, Iowa

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, met in adjourned session at the Court House in Clarion with the following members present: Ed Kennedy, Chairman, Walter Weidemann, George E. Heard, G. C. Whyte and Wendell Duitscher, with the County Auditor in attendance.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Trustees from Pleasant, Eagle Grove Blaine, Dayton, Norway, Boone, Liberty, Woolstock, Belmond, Wall Lake, Vernon, Lincoln and Iowa Townships met with the Board and County Engineer to discuss matters pertaining to roads and bridges in the respective townships.

Motion by Weidemann, seconded by Heard, to abate the 1966 taxes payable in 1967 in amount of $45.50 on West 58' of Lot 1, Block 23, Railroad Add., Belmond, taxed in name of Dick TerHark, as property was acquired by Wright County by Tax Sale Deed. Also to abate $32.82 of the 1966 taxes payable in 1967 of Eli C. Aikens on Lot 10 and 33 feet adjoining on North, Block 28, Wright's 3rd Add., Eagle Grove due to fact that property has been damaged by hail a couple of years ago and assessment was not adjusted until this year. Motion carried.

The Auditor read the following letter dated October 23, 1967, addressed to the Wright County Board of Supervisors from Melvin Peterson:

"Having secured employment elsewhere I am today tendering my resignation as Courthouse Custodian effective November 7, 1967."

Motion by Heard, seconded by Weidemann, to accept Mr. Peterson's resignation. Motion carried.

Motion by White, seconded by Duitscher, to approve applications for beer licenses by Claude Johnson, d/b/a Lake Cafe, and Ben Prince & Yvonne Prince d/b/a Flutzwald. Also to recommend to State of Iowa Liquor Control Commission that a liqour license be granted to Ben Prince & Yvonne Prince d/b/a Flutzwald. Motion carried.

Motion by Whyte, seconded by Heard, that the supplemental road construction program for 1967 be, and is, hereby adopted. Motion carried.

Motion by Weidemann, seconded by Heard, to adjourn. Motion carried.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY G. PALS

Eileen LaRue, Jerry Pals spoke nuptial vows at Clarion, Nov. 11

The Church of Christ at Clarion was the scene of the wedding of Miss Eileen LaRue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn LaRue of Clarion, and Jerry G. Pals, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. L. Pals. The double-ring, candlelight ceremony was performed Saturday evening, Nov. 11, at 7:00 o'clock by Rev. Calvin Milan.

Two baskets of blue and white mums with gladioli decorated the chancel, along with a set of candelabra decorated with greenery and bows. There were candles in the windows and bows marked the pews for the parents.

Music was furnished by Carl Weitmon.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of peau de soie, featuring an empire waist, scoop neckline and long fingertip sleeves. Lace appliques were used on the shoulders, bodice and skirt of the gown. A detachable train was attached at the shoulders. The illusion veil fell from a headpiece. She carried blue and white mums.

Brenda LaRue of Clarion, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Shirley Smith of Eagle Grove, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Their floor-length gowns were of blue brocade. Bows formed their hats and they carried bouquets of blue and white mums.

Charles LaRue of Clarion, brother of the bride, was bestman and Richard Morris was groomsman. LeRoy LaRue and Tom Marchant of Clarion were ushers and candlelighters. The men of the wedding party wore black suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Maggie Petrie, punch was dipped by Mrs. Barbara Sandman, cake was served by Mrs. Howard LaRue and Darlene Dow was in charge of the guest book.

As the couple left on a trip to Lake Michigan, the bride wore a blue and white dress with matching coat and navy accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Pals will be at home in Belmond.

The bride graduated from Clarion High school and the groom from Belmond Community High school. Mr. Pals is employed by Farmers Grain and Feed company in Rowan.

JANUARY NUPTIALS are planned by Sonja Ann Boysen, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christian H. Boysen of Clinton. She will wed Jay Warren Mennenga, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Mennenga. The ceremony will be Jan. 7 at the Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, Clinton. Miss Boysen is a graduate of Mount Saint Clare college at Clinton and is now attending the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls. Her fiance attended Luther college, Decorah, two years and graduated from UNI. He is teaching government at Clinton High school.

Miss Marilyn Pals, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick D. L. Pals, became the bride of Larry Suntken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Suntken, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 12, at 2:00 o'clock at St. John Lutheran church. Rev. Leo Andersen performed the double-ring ceremony.

The altar flowers were white glads and mums. Tapers in candelabra, decorated with greens and white satin bows, lighted the chancel.

Mrs. Bert Kalkwarf, aunt of the bride, was organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of lovelace acetate and nylon, styled with a fitted bodice, scalloped neckline, long, pointed sleeves and a corded V-ed waistline. The full skirt featured a large back bow. The illusion veil fell from a crown of Chantilly-type lace, trimmed with sequins and crystal beading. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations with white streamers on a white Bible.

Mrs. Roy Johnson of Peterson, Minn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mrs. Howard Pals of Fort Dodge, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid. With their light blue, empire-style dresses, having lace bodices and soft sheer rayon georgette skirts, misted over acetate taffeta, they wore headpieces of dainty Swiss braid rosettes to which short veils were attached. They carried crescent bouquets of white pompons with light blue streamers.

Roger Robb was best man and Richard Hoppel of Mount Prospect, Ill., was groomsman. The ushers were Art Larson and Neal Rabe. The men of the wedding party wore dark suits and white carnation boutonnieres.

The mother of the bride wore a fuchsia colored dress with black and white accessories, the groom's mother wore a brown suit and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Enno Suntken, wore a black dress. Each had a corsage of red roses and white carnations.

Jolene Waltzing presided over the guest book. Vicki Suntken, Suzanne Suntken, Marilyn Waltzing and Janice Waltzing opened and displayed the gifts.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Jelto Dirksen and Mrs. Lambert Pals, aunts of the bride, cut the cake. Mrs. Bertha Kalkwarf, aunt of the bride, dipped punch and Mrs. Carl Mennenga, aunt of the bride, poured coffee. Waitresses were Anita Olson, Pat Dorr, MaDonna Luick and Linda Hanson.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Belmond Community High school, he in 1965 and she in 1967. He is employed by the State Highway commission.

PUBLIC FORUM

Letters to the Independent are welcomed. Please try to limit to 250 words or less.

To the Editor:

As a member of the 1967 football team, I wish to convey my sympathy to all my uptown coaches for a very disappointing season. Our team lost three games because of five mistakes — five mistakes our coaches warned us not to make before each game we lost.

I feel Coach Stalker did an excellent job with the team, with the kind of "attitude and spirit" we had. The "rumor" tells me you gentlemen have decided he has had enough.

A coach who has had a 20-3-1 record for three years at Belmond shouldn't coach any more for Belmond? If this is any indication of what future Belmond coaches have to look forward to, I'm sure the "Era of Football" at Belmond is over.

Sincerely
Mike Klinefelter

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 10 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Banker Luin Cox and his missus are to ejoy a "Pampered in Purple Weekend" in Minneapolis, this Friday night through Sunday afternoon by virtue of Lu being a better guesser than he ever imagined. The weekend's entertainment is for a group of customers of banks belonging to the Northwestern Bank corporation AND a similar group of bankers whose institutions patronize the corporation's member banks. The First State bank does business with the First National of Mason City, which made Mr. C. eligible to participate in the contest.

Lu didn't realize that the banker-winners were being picked on the basis of coming closest to the Minnesota Vikings' aggregate score for the past three weekends. HE was merely guessing the scores of the three games, insofar as he was concerned.

As it turned out, he was off by quite a bit on the first two Viking scores that he guessed. But last weekend, he was off just as far in the opposite direction with the end result that he missed the actual aggregate score of 61 by just two points (his total came to 63). So he and Mary Jane are to be wined and dined — including having breakfast in bed at the North Star Inn and a variety of other red-carpet treatment climaxed by attendance at the Viking-Green Bay game this Sunday. Oh, well, Lu. Those who live right, you know!

Mrs. Sid Swenson says that the response to her call for servicemen's addresses has not been good. Quite a few men in uniform — including more than a few who are in Vietnam — will be left out when local organizations send out Christmas boxes . . . unless those addresses come in PRONTO. The deadline for getting them in to Mrs. Swenson (phone 6127) is this coming Monday. If you have a boy in uniform, you'll be doing him a disservice if you fail to get his address in. How about doing it right NOW, while it's on your mind?

Belmond's Jaycees advise that they have purchased the stock of Christmas trees that had been ordered by We 3 Market and now have them on sale at We 3's parking lot.

They urge the public to purchase their trees from this selection, as the proceeds will go toward a couple of excellent causes.

Profits will go toward financing Christmas parties for local underprivileged children and elderly folk. Pretty good bargain; a nice tree — and the good deeds to boot!

Lynn Jenison got sort of a "going away" present as he played his final round of golf on the post links at Fort Campbell, Ky., a week ago Sunday. Using a No. 2 iron on a 199-yard hole, Lynn whacked the ball far and true. It apparently hit the cup on its first bounce and settled therein. He wasted some time looking for the pill to the rear of the green, since he didn't see it disappear.

TJ, the office cat, has been in a state of mind approaching euphoria this wee due to attention paid him over the weekend by Jack Shelley, who has a taped broadcast over radio station WHO at Des Moines that is comprised of column excerpts from Iowa weekly newspapers.

Jack read the "Conversation" column from our Oct. 19 issue that dealt with the excesses the weekly press is compelled to indulge in, in the description of bridal apparel.

The blamed feline was hard to get along with for weeks when "Conversation" was named Iowa's best weekly column at the 1966 state press convention. He does not accept recognition humbly. We presume we're in for some lofty treatment now, for a while. . . . So it goes.

Sheriff Bob Blecker on Monday evening at Fort Dodge attended a meeting of the Northwest Central Peace Officers association, of which he is retiring president, and took the limelight in a manner he hadn't exactly planned on. He'd invited a salesman to demonstrate a lately developed disabling gas to be used in riot control and asked the gent to put on a demonstration.

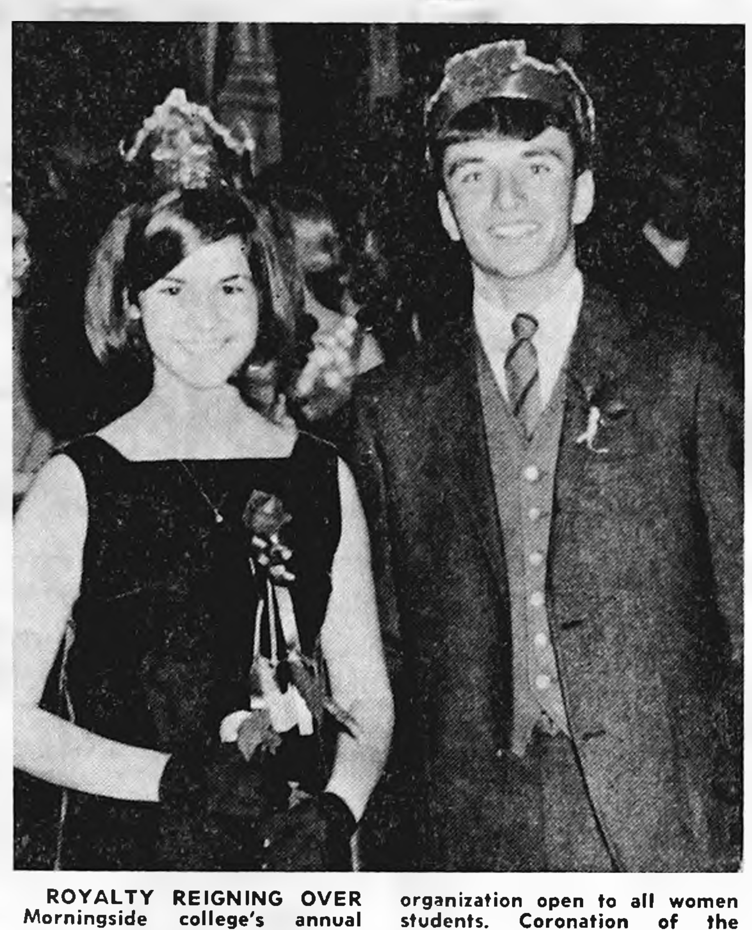
Bob [illegible] invited to enact the role [illegible] being surprised from [illegible] — whereupon he was to get a dose of the gas. He went through his part adeptly, but made the mistake of crouching as he wheeled around.

Result: he got the gas (which also has the qualities of tear gas) full in the eyes. Such a dose is SUPPOSED to floor a victim, in addition to robbing him temporarily of his vision. Bob didn't go down; but it took about 10 minutes of eye-washing before he could see again. The onlookers thought it was a fine demonstration. Bob advised them, "That stuff works pretty good!"

Melody Courson will be making her first "big time" appearance as a ballet dancer on Sunday, Dec. 3, when she appears as a member of the corps that will dance in Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker suite" as presented by the Kansas City Civic Ballet.

"Name" guest artists will fill the major roles in the 2:00 p. m. performance, which will be televized in the K. C. area. Melody will be among some students from the ballet school of the University of Missouri at Kansas City chosen to supplement the dancing chorus.

It's a distinct honor for the neophyte danseuses from the ballet school. Mrs. R. W. "Ginny" Courson plans to witness her daughter's stage appearance, possibly accompanied by some Belmond friends. Maybe we'll get a picture of Melody in her tutu, huh?



ROYALTY REIGNING OVER Morningside college's annual Agora Carnival held recently on the Sioux City campus were Candy McClenahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy McClenahan, and Marshall Olson of Sidney, Mont. Agora is a Morningside organization open to all women students. Coronation of the Prince and Princess climaxed the dance, a traditional feature of the fall social season. The two students serving as royalty for the evening are both sophomores.

Dual wheels of semi come loose and cause three-vehicle smash-up

It started with a tractor-trailer driven by George Knecht, 44, of Paola, Kans., losing its rear left set of dual wheels and finished with two people in the Belmond hospital, three cars bashed up — and the offending dual wheels knocked so far from the scene of action that they couldn't be found until the following morning.

Patrolman Bill James described the unusual accident that occurred at 6:00 p. m. Monday on Highway 69 in front of Followwill Implement company.

Knecht was driving south in his semi loaded with farm machinery when the wheels came off. His rig stayed upright (he thought he had a "flat") and as he eyed his rear-view mirror while slowing down to pull onto the shoulder the following ensued:

Donnie Harriott, 33, of Ames approached from the south and whammed into the runaway wheels, which released the hood of his '67 Ford and left him "flying blind." The wheels bounded in front of another '67 Ford driven from the north by Joseph Harding, Jr., 41, of Story City.

Unable to see where he was going, Harriott veered into the west lane and collided with another southbound car — a '63 Ford — driven by Alice K. Gruis of rural Garner. Both the Gruis and Harriott vehicles were demolished beyond repair and the drivers had to be taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Harding's car got a bent fender and radiator leak out of its encounter with the dual-mount wheels but was still in driveable condition. Harding was unhurt.

Patrolman James said it was the third time during his seven years with the Highway Patrol that he's covered an accident caused by trailer wheels coming off. None of the others, though, incurred the variety of action that Monday night's produced.

Only one prize went last week

Gladys Wilson, bookeeper for Ackerman Service, was the lone winner in the first Christmas Gift drawing conducted by the Belmond Chamber of Commerce last Friday. She claimed the $100 U. S. savings bond.

No one presented the winning numbers on the Mr. and Mrs. matched chairs or either of the two 50-gallon lots of gasoline. Consequently, these three prizes will be drawn for along with four new ones this Friday.

The added prizes are: a side of beef, a food blender, and two more 50-gallon lots of gasoline.

Again, winning numbers will be posted in the windows of participating stores at noon on Friday and numberholders will have until 9:00 p. m. Saturday to claim their prizes.

PLANNING YULE DANCE

Belmond chapter of the Future Homemakers of America plan to sponsor a formal Christmas dance at the BHS student center on Saturday, Dec. 9. It will start at 7:30 p. m., music being provided by The Shades, from Webster City. The FHA girls will be selling tickets at a price of $1.00 per person.

TOOK IN ICE FOLLIES

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Baker spent Thanksgiving Day in the Clair Baker home at Grinnell and also attended the Ice Follies in Des Moines.

D. Kalkwarf on county council

DuWayne Kalkwarf will be Pleasant township's new representative on the Wright County Extension Council as the result of a recent election held at the home of George Hinman. The retiring council member is Mr. Hinman.

Eight townships conducted elections during November to choose representatives on the Extension Council to serve two-year terms beginning the start of next year.

Three were returned to the group after having completed first terms on the council. They were: Mrs. Richard Sebert, Grant township; Gilbert Smith, Dayton; and Mrs. Ralph Borel, Lincoln.

Joining Mr. Kalfwarf as newcomers on the council will be: Allen Boyington, Blaine; Earl Odland, Jr., Lake; Telbert Tonderum, Vernon; and Arliss Nielsen, Woolstock.

Belmond matmen lose at Hampton

Belmond High's wrestlers caught another Tartar at Hampton on Tuesday evening, the varsity team losing its meet by a 31-16 score and the reserves taking the short end of a 31-11 count.

Rob Dorr, competing for the first time this season at his '66 weight of 120 pounds, managed a third-period fall. Terry Boyd, making his debut in the varsity ranks, came through with a 12-5 decision over his opponent.

Gene Pals at 165 and Mack Gabrielson at 180 each posted a 4-1 decision. Belmond's only other varsity points came on a 2-2 draw achieved by Vance Jenison at 138 pounds.

As members of corporation meet—

Board of 20 appointed for retirement home

Tuesday evening, members of the newly formed non-profit organization that will proceed with plans for a proposed retirement home in Belmond, River Avenue Apartments, Inc., named a board of 20 directors who will be responsible for bringing the retirement home into being.

Members of the corporation, by virtue of being chief lay officers of their respective churches, are: Belmond Bible church, Raymond Clark of Galt; Congregational, J. R. Gallagher; St. Francis Catholic, Dr. A. M. Larson; St. Olaf Lutheran, Reuben Nelson; Trinity Lutheran, William R. Johnson; Calvary Baptist, Gary Meyer; Bethany Reformed, John Davids; Immanuel Reformed, Ben Mennenga; Methodist, Dr. R. E. Misner; St. John Lutheran, Arthur Pringnitz.

All but Mr. Clark were present at the meeting Tuesday and affixed their signatures to the articles of incorporation, which will now be filed with the secretary of state and the Wright county recorder.

If successors as chief lay officers are elected by the various churches next year, they will replace the present church representatives as members of the board.

Nine of the 10 churches representatives submitted two nominees each for the board of directors, Mr. Meyer not being prepared to name the Calvary Baptist candidates until later in the week. It was agreed that the two Baptist directors would be given advance approval, making unnecessary another immediate meeting of the corporation members.

The other directors, by churches, are: Belmond Bible church, Paul Hickman and Diedrich "Dick" Dirks; St. Francis, Erv Redder and Steve McLaughlin; Methodist, Guy McClenahan and Russell Porter; St. John, Clarence Steenhard and Fred Vestweber; Bethany, A. F. Bohning and John Davids.

Immanuel, Lester Buseman and Bert Heykants; St. Olaf, Archie Stockseth and Everett Anderson; Trinity, Leland Jenison and Curtis Rise; Congregational, Luin Cox and Mrs. Dwight Tyrrell.

All of these directors will serve until the first annual meeting of the corporation on the second Tuesday of September next year. At that time, barring necessity for withdrawal on the part of any of the board members, the same directors will be elected to continue their activities.

Seven of the directors will be elected for terms of three years, seven for two-year terms and six for one-year terms, the length of respective terms to be decided by lot.

Mr. Cox agreed to call the first meeting of the board as soon as the corporation has gained legal recognition. At that time, the board will elect officers to serve until next fall and enter upon the necessary planning to make the retirement home an actuality.

Door slams shut when girl seeks aid after crash

Deputy Sheriff Vern Elston's investigation of a Wright county auto accident that occurred Monday night left him wondering if rural midwesterners really have more compassion for their fellow men than calloused metropolitanites, or whether they don't.

Gail Ellen West, 17-year-old daughter of County Auditor Ethel West, had the mishap about 8:45 p. m. Monday when she ran into a horse loose on the County R blacktop 3½ miles east of Woolstock.

In unsuccessfully endeavoring to miss the animal, she lost control of her mother's car — a recently purchased '67 Pontiac — and it rolled into a 14-foot ditch a short distance from White Fox Creek.

Painfully bruised and badly frightened, Gail went to a near-by farmhouse to solicit help. In response to her knock, the occupant turned on the parlor light and came to the door. When she'd explained her plight, the man shut the door in her face, turned out the light, and ostensibly returned to his TV program.

It was some little while afterward, as the girl was trudging along the road, that a passing car (the sixth to come along) stopped and offered her aid.

The horse was one belonging to a Webster Citian, Laurent Grandgeorge, who keeps several pastured on the John Carroll farm. It survived the collision with car; in fact it came out better than the auto, which was quite extensively damaged in its tumble down the steep bank.

Lawrence speaker for Gridiron fete

Ted Lawrence, freshman football coach at the University of Iowa, will be guest speaker next Wednesday night at the annual banquet of the Gridiron club honoring the Belmond Community High school football squads. The meal will be served at 7:00 o'clock at the BHS student center.

Mr. Lawrence has filled his present position at Iowa City for the past two seasons, having previously been coach at Jefferson High school in Cedar Rapids. His Jefferson team ranked No. 1 in Iowa in 1965 and helped him to compile an outstanding won-lost record during his high school coaching career.

His top quarterback on the Hawkeye freshman squad this year, regarded as probably the finest frosh group the University of Iowa has ever recruited, was his own son Larry.

As Gridiron president, Don Burt will be in charge of the program. Coach Chuck Stalker will introduce the members of the Bronco varsity squad and Jerry Kintzi the freshman-sophomore squad members.

Home decorating contest on again

Belmond residents are once again being urged to help beautify the community for the holiday season by taking part in the annual home lighting contest under sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. Cash prizes in the amount of $25 will be awarded to the home decorations judged deserving of the first four places.

Windows, porch, roof or yard — or any combination — may be decorated by entrants in the contest. Homes will be judged on the evening of Sunday, Dec. 17.

Chamber Secretary Ellis Elliott says, "With so many attractive new homes in town, the lighting contest this year could easily be the most successful held yet, if homeowners will just participate."

The best decorated home will receive a $10 prize and the others, in order, will be $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50.

3 local Masons will join Shrine

A Ladies Night dinner will be held Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at Lynn's Lounge by the Wright County Shrine club, following which eight new Shriners will be initiated. A social hour will precede the dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Members of King Solomon lodge who will become Shrine members are Ray Wright, present Worshipful Master, Cecil Carstens and Karl Rietz, the latter of Rowan.

Other initiates will be Maynard Miles and Roger Burras of Clarion, Gerald Larson and Henry Meyer of Britt, and Maurice Kness of Minneapolis, nephew of Mark Kline, president-elect of the Shrine club.

Shriners of the area are cordially invited to attend the dinner. Reservations should be phoned to Mr. Kline.

Britten numbers added feature of Yule concert

An innovation of this year's Christmas concert of the Belmond High school and junior high choirs will be a section devoted to contemporary choral music appropriate to the season.

Stan Norson, director of the choirs, says the concert on Dec. 17 will feature a group of 10 brief numbers written by Benjamin Britten, 54-year-old English composer thought by many leading musicians to be the greatest of all contemporary writers of music.

Originally intended for presentation by a boys' choir with harp accompaniment, the Belmond production will instead be by mixed chorus with piano accompaniment by Judy Carwell.

Carol Sharp, soprano, and Barbara Olso, alto, will be heard as soloists and as a duet combination, Marlene Suntken and Barbara Finn.

Since the songs were originally in medieval English, the verses have been converted to contemporary English by Mr. Norson for better understanding by the audience.

Mr. Norson says the Britten group, excerpted from a larger group of 15 numbers entitled "Ceremony of Carols," was chosen for this year's concert in part because this is the 25th anniversary of the selections' first presentation.

The director adds, "Undertaking a major work such as this is a definitely ambitious undertaking, but I feel this year's choir is good enough to respond to the challenge."

ED OLSON ON MAT SQUAD

Ed Olson, son of Mrs. Eva Olson, is listed on the wrestling squad roster of Dana college, Blair, Neb. He was a student at Waldorf college, Forest City, last year. Coach Bob Simpson expects Olson to see some intercollegiate action during the current season as a heavyweight.

Three landlocked "astronauts" in 48-hour "flight"

Three local Boy Scouts lived the lives of astronauts for a 48-hour period over the Thanksgiving holiday, confining themselves to a simulated space capsule and limiting their contact with the outside world to two-way radio.

Mark Dirks, Greg Johnson and Steve Shirer, all 12 years old, were inspired to undertake the experience when they read of three girls who had done similarly.

They equipped a shipping carton four by eight feet in dimension and four feet high to serve as their capsule. For the sake of weather protection, it was located in the garage of Mark's parents, the William Dirks.

Two widths of plywood were propped at a 45-degree angle against one side of the carton as the flight seats of two of the boys, while the third situated himself in the space beneath.

The trio "blasted off" at 5:00 p. m. Thanksgiving evening and — much to their parents' surprise — remained "in flight" until the same hour on Saturday.

By walkie-talkie, they made contact with the Dirks kitchen three times daily by prearrangement, at 7:00 and 9:30 a. m. and 10:00 p. m. Sleeping bags kept the boys comfortable at night; and they mapped out full schedules for daytime activities that kept them more-or-less occupied.

Sandwiches, fruit, potato chips, some canned goods and ample quantities of pop, milk and water were stored in the "capsule" in preparation for the landlocked voyage.

A lightbulb provided illumination so the boys could read and otherwise entertain themselves during the two rather long days "in flight."

When the boys emerged Saturday evening, they weren't particularly hungry, but were pretty tired from their 48 hours of cramped inactivity.

Actually, their only contact with the outside world was not ENTIRELY by walkie-talkie. One regular message to Mrs. Dirks when voice contact was made was to the affect, "The pail in the escape hatch better be emptied again."

The boys thought of everything.

Ward Martin, who would have reached the age of 95 on Dec. 23 and was one of the earliest graduates of Belmond High school, died early Tuesday morning at Belmond Community hospital. He had been in failing health for some time, due to the debilities of old age.

Funeral services were to be held this (Thursday) Morning at 10:00 o'clock at the Methodist church, Rev. M. L. Jones officiating and Johnston Funeral Home in charge. Burial will be in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers' names were not yet available at the Independent's press time.

Mr. Martin was born Dec. 23, 1872, at Belmond, son of S. D. and Harriett (Lamb) Martin, who were among the community's early settlers. He attended the local schools, his education extending through high school, which was unusual for a boy of that period.

He later attended a business school at Cedar Rapids. He was married on Nov. 23, 1905, to Anna Anderson. They farmed together west of town until her death in 1933. Mr. Martin remained on the farm until retiring in 1937 and moving to a home in town.

One child was born to them, a daughter, now Mrs. Harriett Simons of Omaha. Mr. Martin is also survived by a grandchild and two great grandchildren.

In addition to his wife, he was preceded in death by two brothers and one sister.

Entering Nov. 27 were Mrs. Lee Gruis of Garner and Don Harriott of Ames as accident patients; Mrs. Gertie Wessels and Mrs. Lester Hopkey of Meservey, LeRoy Jenison and John Christenson as medical patients.

Mrs. Anson Avery of Goodell entered Nov. 28 for medical treatment.

Hello, World!

Mr. and Mrs. (nee Carole Thompsen) Larry Kinports of St. Paul, Minn., announce the birth on Nov. 25 of twin boys, weighing 5 lbs. 6½ oz. and 5 lbs. 4¾ oz. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Thompsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schlichting of Thornton are parents of a 9-lb. 14¾-oz. baby boy born Nov. 22. He has been named Bruce Allen.

Roger James is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Gary DeWaard of Kanawha for the son born to them Nov. 21. At birth he weighed 7 lbs. 12 oz.

A 6-lb. 8-oz. baby girl, Melva Joy, was born Nov. 24 to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Joenks of Rossie.

J. Trees business to Kenny Jenison

Announcement is made in this issue of The Independent by Jim Trees of his relinquishment of the Skelly Tank Wagon business after serving Skelly customers of this vicinity for more than 42 years. New owner of the business is Kenneth Jenison.

Jim joined the Skelly organization on Oct. 20, 1925, when the company itself was only a little more than five years old. He first was manager of what was called the Community Service station, a Skelly outlet occupying the same location on which Joe's Skelly Service now stands.

He took over the tank wagon service in late October of 1928 and has served customers in the surrounding countryside for a little more than 39 years.

One of Jim's most treasured possessions is a gold watch presented to him by the Skelly company on the occasion of his 30th anniversary with the firm.

NEW STRIPE TO ROCKOW

An item in last week's issue regarding a recent military promotion appeared in garbled form. Correctly it should have named Richard Rockow, husband of the former Twyla Stadtlander, as the recipient of an advancement to the rating of sergeant. He is in the U. S. Air Force and stationed at Bitburg, Germany.

JOENKS INFANT DIES

The baby daughter born last Friday at Belmond Community hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Joenks of Rossie died on Monday. Little Melva Joy was born prematurely, which was a contributory factor in her death.

Hearing Monday as to planning, zoning changes

A hearing on changes in the city planning and zoning ordinance will be held at 7:00 p. m. next Monday by the planning and zoning commission. At that time, residents may inspect the new map indicating changes that have been made in zoning designations and ask any questions they may wish on those changes or planning amendments.

Zoning changes include the placing of most riverbank land within the city limits in a new Flood Plain zoning category.

Dump ground rezoned

Most of the area comprising the present and former dump grounds and on north has been rezoned from industrial to rural use, excluding the site of the National By-Products collection station that lies to the north of the reclaimed dump site.

Another change will see the area north of Third street NE and east of Highway 69 changed from industrial to residential classification. This includes the proposed site of the new retirement home.

An area south of Fifth street SE that would lie between extensions of Fourth and Seventh avenues has been mainly withdrawn from industrial use and redesignated as rural restricted.

Parking minimum boosted

Among planning changes recommended is the prohibition of any residential building in an industrial area, unless such housing should be for such purpose as a caretaker's home.

Minimum parking and unloading area that might adjoin any new retail store or grocery has been increased from 1,000 to 2,000 square feet.

Another change will see a $10 cost attached to the publication of hearing notice relative to a variation from the planning and zoning ordinance. The fee has been $5.00.

Ackerman to hold 2-day open house

Ed Ackerman, proprietor of Ackerman Service, announces that he will hold open house this Friday and Saturday at his new business establishment on Highway 69 in the block south of Chapman Truck Stop.

Free coffee and doughnuts will be served from noon on Friday until 5:00 p. m. Saturday, and Ed invites the public to stop in and enjoy his hospitality. There will also be a drawing for some useful door prizes, based on registration of visitors, and gifts for the open house callers.

Car hits tractor lacking red light

The moral of an accident that occurred Thanksgiving evening on County U (the Immanuel church road) 5½ miles east of town, says Patrolman Bill James, was: "See that your tractor has the legally required red light at the rear — and use it."

Larry Mennenga was driving west along the blacktop on a tractor owned by his father, Harry Mennenga, pulling a tandem disk. It was 5:45 p. m. and dusk made visibility poor as a car driven by Alice Hedges overtook the tractor and disk from the east.

Though there was a red light on the rear of the tractor, it was not lit. A white light was; and it served only to confuse Mrs. Hedges. Her car crashed into the disk and tractor as she made an unsuccessful effort at the last moment to swerve to the left. All the vehicles were extensively damaged, but no one was hurt.

Patrolman James filed charges against the tractor's driver for not having a red light of warning in operation at the rear of the tractor.

Council has busy session—

State OK's fund shift to buy parking lots

Members of the Belmond city council on Monday of last week were read a communication from the state comptroller's office authorizing the councilmen to transfer $13,000 from the street fund to the general fund to be used for the purchase of property for off-street parking.

This amount of street money was unencumbered and unneeded under the current budget, $6,000 coming from the machinery maintenance fund and the remaining $7,000 from street maintenance. To these amounts were added $2,000 paid the city for land on which National By-Products company is building its collection station north of town.

The $15,000, plus $280, sufficed to cover incidental costs plus buying parcels of land that will be used for parking purposes. These had earlier been bought by the Belmond Industrial Development corporation: from Sena Ziska, the south half of lots 7 and 8 in the 100 block of First street SE for $5,350 and the north half of the same lots from King Solomon Masonic lodge for $4,650; also the lot west of Mrs. Agnes Gabrielson's property in the 200 block on the same street owned by Fred Allison, for $4,650.

At the same council meeting, a delegation headed by Frank Champlin of Holmes representing Alcoholics Anonymous asked Mayor Robert Misner to appoint a local committee to cooperate in efforts to rehabilitate local alcoholics. The 62nd General Assembly raised from five to 10 per cent the share of state liquor profits to be returned to cities and towns, the additional funds to be used for rehabilitation purposes.

It was explained by the delegation that a "half-way house" at Fort Dodge set up to aid alcoholics in returning to sobriety has been achieving notable success. They added, though, that lack of personnel to keep in touch with people after they leave the "half-way house" has hampered the program.

Mayor Misner and the council members were impressed favorably by the presentation and the mayor subsequently appointed to the local committee Floyd Broshar, Chief of Police Ray Thompsen, Rev. M. L. Jones and R. B. Thompson. These four people will advise and assist the organized effort to use the additional liquor funds to maximum benefit.

It was brought out that residents of the "half-way house" pay $27.50 for weekly expenses while staying there. Usually successful efforts can be made to obtain employment for them following their release.

One of Wright county's heaviest expenses in the way of state institutional care goes to provide therapy for alcoholics at Cherokee — which rarely is as successful as that supplied at Fort Dodge.

Mrs. Cecile Coburn in behalf of the Ladies Cemetery Aid society advised the council that this organization has disbanded permanently and she turned over to the city $351.73 that remained in the treasury. She said that the aid society wished the money to go into the fund earmarked for purchase of a memorial statue at the cemetery.

The council decided to put with the aid's gift enough from other statuary fund money on hand from sale of cemetery lots to invest $900 in an interest bearing certificate of deposit. A thousand dollars that had accumulated in the perpetual care fund was invested in the purchase of a Series H savings bond, in order that it can earn interest.

Another financial decision saw the $1,000 No. 8 bond of the curb-and-gutter bond issue called in so that it will be of no further interest expense to the city. It was not due until May 1, 1972.

Lloyd Stevens entered a request before the council that the alley in Cutler Addition (just west of River avenue) that dead-ends not far to the south of his property on Highway 69 be vacated as an alley.

This request was countered by a petition submitted by near-by propertyowners, William Stadtlander, Pete English and Ivan Evans. After consideration of the arguments of both parties, the council decided to leave the alley as it is.

George Hinman submitted his resignation from the board of adjustment and review that hears appeals relative to exceptions to the zoning and planning ordinance. The resignation was regretfully accepted. No successor to Mr. Hinman was immediately appointed.

AS IS CUSTOMARY, when the Belmond Jaycees dressed Main street in its holiday apparel Sunday, the activity was accompanied by just about the lowest temperature of the winter season to date. This has been the Jaycees' contribution to the Christmas decorating program for the past eight years. The decorations are provided by the city and the Chamber of Commerce, jointly. No additional decorations were purchased this year, due to the pending proposal to erect arcades along two and three-fourths blocks of Main street, which may require decorations of another type. Pictured as they helped with the yearly "hanging of the greens" are, left to right: Larry Flanagan, Guy Peters, Lee Martin (below) and Dick Bloemke.

BOWL For FUN!

Belmond's cagers at FC on Friday

Coach Ted Besch's Belmond cagers will make their North Iowa conference debut for the season at Forest City tomorrow (Friday) night faced with stopping the Indians' Danny Schmidt as apparently their No. 1 problem.

Danny is the only letterman on the squad, which this year is directed for the first time by Coach Bob Hilmer. The latter was a highly cussessufl coach at Fredricksburg, before coming to Forest City.

That he still has a way to go before moulding a well-rounded team from his material at hand was suggested by the Indians' game last week with Garner. Schmidt accounted for 28 of the winners' points as Forest City clipped the Cardinals' wings, 59-52.

In their 74-47 winning start against North Central of Manly, however, four Indians scored in double figures and reserves added another 21. A hint is provided by this performance that some dependable scoring help for Schmidt will be developed by Hilmer before the season advances very far.

It is also noteworthy that the Indians' initial NIC win came over a Garner team that boasts five lettermen. Coach Besch recognizes that the Indians are an especially tough crew to beat at home and he will be delighted to pick up a victory over them by any margin Friday night.

PUBLIC FORUM

Letters to the Independent are welcomed. Please try to limit to 250 words or less.

Nov. 20, 1967
Ames, Iowa

To the Editor:

After reading the "Public Forum" column of Nov. 16, 1967 I gave a round of applause for an excellent coach named Rich Koolbeck and then I gave another round of applause for another excellent coach named Chuck Stalker.

I played for both of these coaches and give both of them credit for the position I am in today. Without their coaching and care I'm sure I would not have received a scholarship from Iowa State University.

Both of these coaches won when the North Iowa Conference was very tough. They did this by bringing out the best in each player. But when the material is not above average, the best is not always enough. I'm sure Belmond was not above average this season and so they lost a few games. I would have given anything to have lost only three games. I know a Hawkeye who feels the same way!

I don't believe enough credit has been given to Coach Stalker in his three seasons at Belmond. After all, a coach can not play the game for his athletes. They should have enough pride to pick themselves up by the bootstraps and do the best job they can. I'm sure the Broncos did this and I know the Iowa State Cyclones did and we lost eight games!

My applause will always go to BOTH of these excellent coaches.

Bronco rally just falls short—

Lions pushed to limit but win 57 to 55

—SPORTS—

As a reward for persistence, natural justice should properly have rewarded Ted Besch's Broncos with a victory last Saturday night at Clear Lake. The much taller Lions were expected to find the Belmond cagers not too tough to handle, but instead found themselves desperately fending off defeat until three freethrows in the game's closing seconds finally salvaged matters for the host team, 57-55.

Even then, Belmond got a final shot at the hoop that would have sent the game into overtime, but it missed the mark . . . and that was that. The contest nevertheless established one of two things — and perhaps, to a degree, both. Clear Lake has a ways to go before becoming the ball team they were touted to be; and Belmond has a scrappy gand that may turn out to be a somewhat better aggregation than seemed likely before the season's start.

Broncos get slow start

It was poor play in the first and third quarters that was, in the long run, responsible for the Bronco defeat. The rest of the evening, they more than matched the Lions.

Seemingly expecting the worst, the Belmond boys got off to a very slow start and saw the Lions jump into an 11-2 lead before a flurry of three baskets near the period's end got the Broncos back in the ball game, 11-8. The quarter score was 12-8; but the contest took on a different aspect the rest of the way.

When, in the second stanza, Clear Lake again gained a nine-point lead at 22-13 the Broncos showed no signs of buckling. Instead, they went methodically to work and not only caught up but went ahead 24-22. Four closing freethrows by the Grabinski brothers, Ken and Stan, gave the Lions a 26-24 halftime advantage.

Lapse produces deficit

A costly lapse against Clear Lake's press and fast-break set the Broncos behind by 14, as the Lions zoomed to a 43-29 lead on Bronco errors. Even then, though, the Belmond basketeers regained their poise and after trailing 43-35 at the start of the fourth quarter they kept hacking away until the score was tied at 46-all with a little over five minutes of game time remaining.

They even went ahead 47-46 before the Lions once again edged in front. 48-47 and then 50-47. Hustling for all they were worth, the Broncos kept the pressure on their worried foes and with 1:55 showing on the clock took over a 55-54 lead.

Belmond got possession of the ball, but lost it at 1:03. A Bronco foul under the Lions' basket gave Mark Westberg a one-and-one opportunity and he made maximum use of the opportunity to give Clear Lake a 55-56 lead. When the Lions shortly afterward stole the ball it looked like "curtains" — but with 32 seconds left, a Lion traveled and Belmond had the chance to set up a winning basket or freethrow situation.

K. Grabinski scores 28

With 10 seconds to go, Belmond lost the ball — fouled trying to retrieve it, and Hankenson made the first of two free shots to make the margin 57-55. The Broncos got the ball downfloor in the time remaining and had it out of bounds under their own basket with three seconds left. That set up the final shot that went astray — and the thankful Lions had their victory.

Without Ken Grabinski, Clear Lake would have been up against it. The 6-6 Lion was guarded determinedly by Greg Fuller but had just too much height and wound up the game's high scorer with 28 points. Fuller dumped in 16 points, as did Terry Nelson — and both battled their taller foes with a vim under the boards.

Rick Hawley notched 10 points, all during the last-quarter excitement; Paul Bamford was good for nine, Joel Gabrielson picked up three and Lee Barkema one. Ken Grabinski was mainly abetted by Hankenson, with 11 points. Budolphson netted six, Meier five, young Granbinski three, Dillavou and Westberg each two.

Belmond percentage better

Shooting accuracy was a big asset for the Broncos, particularly in the last half when they played carefully for percentage shots. They hit 31 per cent to Clear Lake's 25 before intermission and 50 per cent to the Lions' 45 in the second half. Belmond made 18 of 47 shots for a 39 per cent game average and Clear Lake 22 of 65 for 33 per cent.

Coach Chuck Stalker's promising frosh cres put on a disorganized performance in the first half of the curtain-raiser against the Lion junior varsity and appeared headed for almost certain defeat.

In the third quarter, though, they began to play the sort of ball of which they are capable and changed a 41-33 deficit into a 52-44 lead in the latter part of the third and first half of the final quarter. Without much sweat, they held on for a 56-51 victory.

Ginapp tallies 27 points

This gifted crew appears to have the makings of a really fine basketball team a couple of seasons hence. Ron Ginapp looked liked a varsity-calibre performer as he rammed in 27 points (and Coach Besch may be looking covetously at him before long — if he isn't already).

Lennie Johnson sparked the Junior Broncs' third-quarter rally with eight important points and Ron Dougherty matched that total — also tossing a two-pointer into the Clear Lake basket when the issue was still in doubt. Tom Lewis paced the losers with 14 points, gained mainly in the first half.

Humboldt's tough mat outfit next

Prospects for the BHS wrestlers don't figure to brighten much when the Broncos play host to the Humboldt Wildcats here next Tuesday evening. With eight lettermen back, Humboldt is looking ahead to a good season.

Heading the squad is Keith Abens, state 145 champ a year ago, who is moving to 154; and "Butch" Laird, a district champ last year at 103, who has gone up to 112. Their respective marks last season were 23-3 and 18-2-2.

Ron Bygness, 9-6-1 as a 95-pounder last year, plans to stay at that weight. Ray Stockdale had a 9-4-2 mark at 120 lbs.; he'll certify at 127 if he can make that weight. Larry Fevold will advance from 127 to either 133 or 138.

Geoff Mickelson was 19-4 as a 180-pounder and now weighs a hefty 217. The final letterman was 112-lb. Terry Daggy, who is a question mark for the current season. The Wildcats' 145-pounder will be a boy by the name of Oberman, who couldn't displace Abens but was unbeaten as a reserve at that weight after lettering the year before as a sophomore.

Last year, the Wildcat varsity beat the Broncos 29-11 while the Belmond reserves posted a 38-17 win with the help of three forfeits.

Injury takes out Greg McClenahan

Greg McClenahan, Bronco 112-pounder, was lost to the BHS wrestling squad — most likely for the remainder of the season — when he suffered a bad dislocation of the right knee last Friday in practice.

He was working out with Danny Ketchum an apparently hit the mat at a bad angle with the knee. He was rushed to Steele Memorial clinic, where it was determined that the injury was of such a severe nature that his leg will have to be in a cast for three weeks.

McClenahan was the third man lost by an injury thus far this season. Dave McLaughlin, considered the probable 1st-string 133-pounder, and John Greenwood, 127, both were sidelined with arm fractures.

Coach Don Jones understands Tom Wilson plans to cut from 120 to 112 to take McClenahan's spot, while Rob Dorr intends to make a cut from 127 to fill the 120-lb. position. Terry Boyd, reserve 127-pounder, will probably move into the varsity spot.

Let me tell you how I get started on a cold morning.

Everything works against you when you try to start on a cold morning. For example, your battery supplies only half the electricity at 0° as it does at 80°.

The fact remains, though, that your engine should start if your battery is properly charged, your compression good, your fuel line clear, and your choke is functioning as it should.

With most cars, pump the accelerator just once (as I do) and then turn on the switch key. If your engine doesn't catch after 10 seconds or so, try again after letting your cranking-motor rest for a couple of minutes.

If your engine still doesn't start, you might give me a call. I'll be happy to talk things over driver to driver.

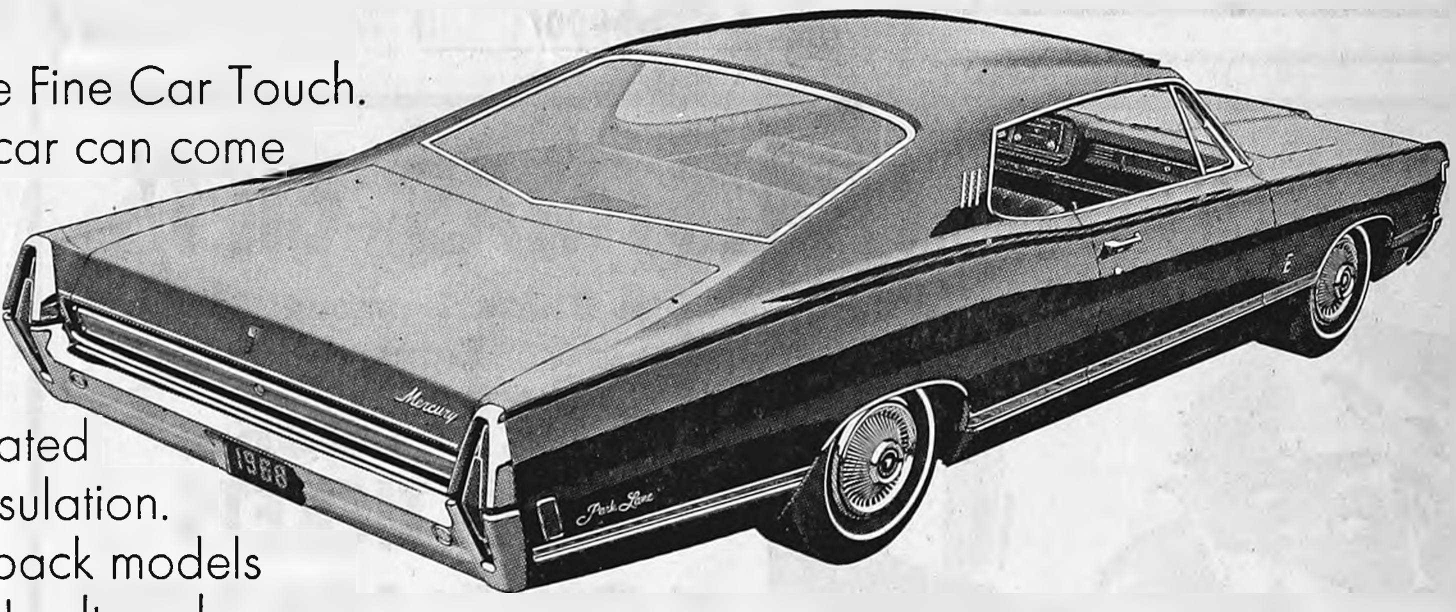
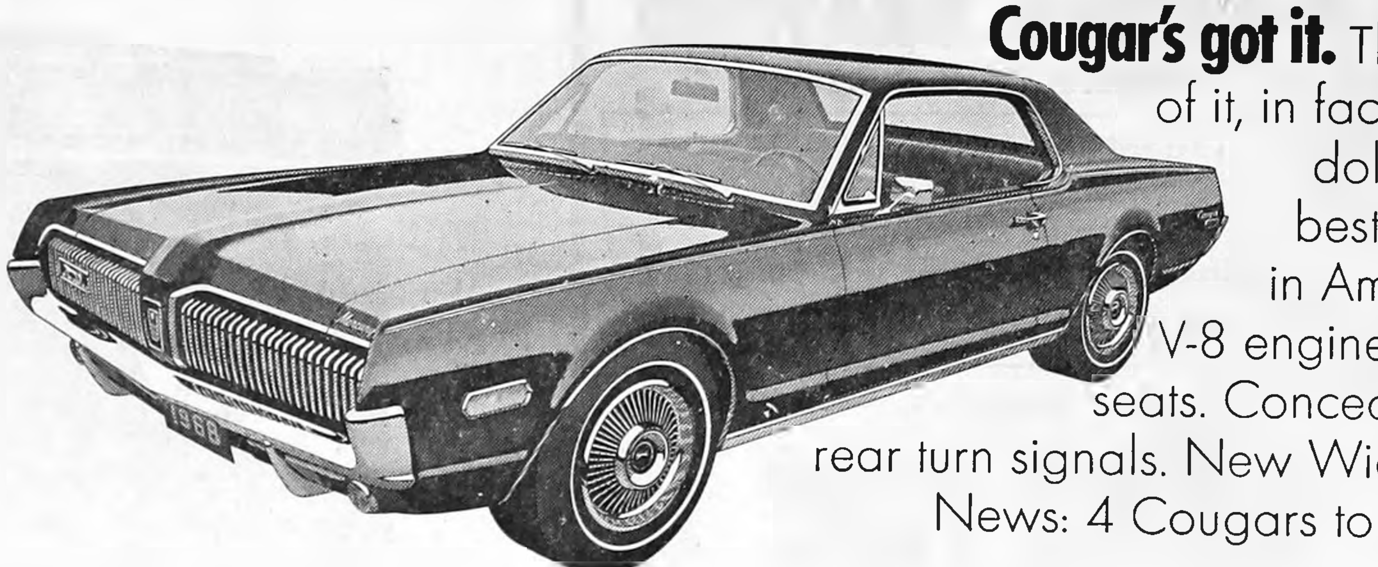
For 1968, Mercury's got it! The Fine Car Touch inspired by the Continental.

Mercury is rolling again. We've got cars. With plenty more on the way. Each features the Fine Car Touch inspired by Lincoln Continental. Our mood is, "Let's catch up." So you'll find us very friendly indeed—ready to make it easy for you to own a great new Mercury:

Mercury's got it. The Fine Car Touch. Mercury is the closest any car can come to the ride and feel of the Lincoln Continental. With the Fine Car Touch in the rich nylon carpeting. And in quiet created by 123 pounds of sound insulation. Totally new: 3 sweptback models like the Park Lane 2-Door Hardtop shown.





Cougar's got it. The Fine Car Touch. So much of it, in fact, that pound for pound and dollar for dollar, Cougar is the best equipped luxury sports car in America. New 302 cubic inch V-8 engine—bigger than ever. Bucket seats. Concealed headlamps. Sequential rear turn signals. New Wide Tread tires. All standard. News: 4 Cougars to choose from in '68!

Montego's got it. The Fine Car Touch. In Montego, it's the combination of Cougar excitement with full 6-passenger comfort. Luxuries include a 5-pod instrument cluster with walnut-grain vinyl inserts, deep-foam padded seats, wall-to-wall carpeting, curved-glass side windows. 302 cubic inch V-8 (or a "6" if you prefer).

Turner receiving special training at signal school

FORT MONMOUTH, N. J. — Private Larry R. Turner, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Turner of Belmond, recently enrolled in the U. S. Army Signal School, Fort Monmouth, N. J., for intensive training in one of the 50 specialist courses taught here.

A 1966 graduate of Belmond Community High school, he attended North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City before his enlistment.

Admission to the signal school is limited to men of outstanding promise. Classed as a technical institute, the school gives major training in the technologies of electronic equipment, ranging from radio to "electronic brains." Meteorology, computers, television and both motion-picture and still photography are also taught.

During this fiscal year, approximately 18,000 enlisted men will be admitted to the school. All are among the Army's best in point of aptitude, educational attainments and practical ability. More than 90 per cent are high school graduates and over 20 per cent have attended college or engineering school.

L. Jenison gets Army discharge

Pfc. Lynn Jenison completed 21 months of service in the U. S. Army last week, receiving his discharge at Fort Campbell, Ky., where he spent practically all of his period in uniform. He regards that his separation from the Army was well timed. His division was scheduled to depart this week for Vietnam.

Actually, he had requested Vietnam duty some months ago but his enlistment ran out before overseas orders caught up with him, Lynn says.

He has enrolled at Iowa State university, Ames, with the intention of getting a Master's degree in counselling; and possibly continuing his studies until he obtains a Doctor's degree in that field. He hopes to obtain an assistantship at ISU. In that event, it would take him two years to obtain his Master's.

A 1960 graduate of BHS, Lynn obtained his Bachelor's degree in education at the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls, in January of '65 and taught one semester before shifting temporarily into insurance sales — and being drafted.

Leslie Braner and Kathleen Foley married Nov. 11 at Levittown, Pa.

St. Michael the Archangel Catholic church at Levittown, Pa., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Kathleen Marie Foley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Foley of Levittown, and Leslie Allan Braner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Braner. The ceremony was performed Saturday, Nov. 11, at 11:00 a.m. by Father Joseph A. Martin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an empire style, A-line dress of peau de soie and re-embroidered lace, featuring a fitted bodice, modified scoop neckline and three-quarter-length sleeves. A center lace panel adorned the front of the gown and there was a detachable watteau train of the peau. She carried a cathedral cascade of white orchids and stephanotis.

The maid of honor was Cynthia Stewart and the bridesmaids were Mary Booth and Donna Luttan, all of Levittown. Their classic, empire sheath gowns were of blue spruce velvet and with them, they wore matching headpieces to which bouffant veils were attached. They carried arrangements of snowball and yellow mums.

Randy Braner, brother of the groom, who is stationed at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., was best man. The ushers were Darral Blanchard of McGuire Air Force Base, N. J., and Joseph P. Foley, II, brother of the bride.

The flower girl was Tris Cavanaugh of Levittown. She wore a mint green, A-line dress of bonded crepe with lace trim around the sleeves and neckline.

After a 10-day trip to New York City, the couple is at home in the Mimosa apartments on Trenton road at Fairless Hills, N. J.

The bride graduated from Bishop Egan High school in Levittown and the groom from Belmond Community High school. He attended Mason City Junior college and is presently stationed at McGuire Air Force Base.

MRS. TOM REVLAND — PH. 5-8921

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD DEAN OLINGER

Patricia Wilson, Richard Olinger married at Iowa Falls on Nov. 4

The marriage of Patricia Marie Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garold Wilson of Alden, to Richard Dean Olinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Olinger, was solemnized at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4, at the Immanuel Lutheran church in Iowa Falls. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Walter E. Heddrick of Buckeye.

Arrangments of bronze and white chrysanthemums and pompons decorated the chancel.

Mrs. N. H. Wood of Iowa Falls played the organ selections and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Gary Hoffman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown which she had fashioned of peau de soie. It was styled with an A-line skirt with lace appliques and an empire bodice featuring a scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The train, attached at the shoulders, was also of peau de soie with lace appliques. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. A crown of pearls secured her elbow-length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses.

Betty Wilson of Waterloo, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Jerilyn Klehm of Des Moines was bridesmaid. Their floor-length gowns of moss green bonded crepe featured empire bodices and bell sleeves. They wore flowered moss green headpieces with matching veils and each carried a large bronze chysanthemum tied with moss green ribbon.

Jodi Wilson of Hampton, niece of the bride, was flower girl and her attire matched that of the bride's attendants. Tracy Olinger of Clear Lake, nephew of the groom, was ringbearer.

Clive Crowningshield of Wayzata, Minn., was best man. The groomsman was Gary Olinger, the groom's brother. Ushers were Dennis Wilson of Hampton, Robert Wilson of Alden, Harold and Merle Olinger of Clear Lake, all brothers of the couple.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilson chose a green crepe dress with green accessories and the groom's mother wore a green floral jersey with matching accessories, each with a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 225 guests was held in Parish Hall with Mrs. Dwayne Walker of Woodbine as hostess and Neal Harper of Des Moines as host. The three-tiered cake was cut and served by Mrs. Robert Wilson and Mrs. Wayne Wenzel, the latter of Belmond. Mrs. Roger Younkin of Lost Nation poured coffee and Mrs. Dennis Wilson dipped punch.

Mrs. Dennis Anderson of Clear Lake presided at the guest book. In charge of the gifts were Susan Andersen of Omaha, Neb., Marilyn Demmel of Des Moines and Mrs. James Mason of Osceola. Mrs. Barry Barkey of Des Moines was the bride's personal attendant.

The bride is a graduate of Iowa Falls High school and American Institute of Business, Des Moines, and for the past two years has been employed by the State Board of Control in Des Moines. The groom graduated from Rowan High school and College of Automation in Des Moines. He served three years with the U.S. Army and is presently employed in data processing for the state of Iowa.

Thank You

After 42 years the time has come to turn over the Skelly Tank Wagon business to a new owner, namely Kenneth Jenison who is no stranger to most of you folks. It has been a good business during those years, thanks to all of you good people. I've done the best I could in providing you with your petroleum needs and to give you the kind of service you deserved.

As for Kenny, I'm sure he'll be "Kenny on the spot" when you call in for service to your farm.

PHONE 2264 OR 2984.

Once again thank you customers until I can tell you so personally, and keep your orders coming to the new Skelly Oil Agent in Belmond, Kenneth Jenison.

Broncos needed rallies for 3 of 4 wins at I. F.

While Belmond High wrestler's 30-12 defeat at the hands of Iowa Falls last week had a few high points to the credit of the losers and Coach Don Jones found some solace in the indisputable strength of the Cadets, the outcome was a disappointment to both the BHS mentor and his proteges.

All but one of the Bronco victories had to be won by rallies in the final period. Lynn Henn, at 95 pounds, led Terry Smith only 5-4 before registering five decisive points in the final two minutes; and Rob Dorr (127) was held to a 4-4 draw by his rangier foe for two periods before clinching the decision with an escape and a takedown.

Glen Gabrielson was behind 4-2 with a period to go, his only points coming on technical violations by his opponent; but the 154-lb. Bronco got a third-period escape and take down to take the match. Gene Pals' win at 165 came on a 1st-period take-down, after which neither he nor his foe could change the tally.

Tim Wilson lost his 120-lb. match by a single point on a technical violation called against him in the second period; and Greg McClenahan (112) was edged by two points after tying the match with a 3rd-period reversal and then getting reversed, himself.

Two other Broncos staved off falls, without so much as getting in predicaments, but were unable to carry the match to their opponents offensively, Bill Broshar (133) was trimmed 8-2 and Kevin Gallagher (145) lost by a 6-2 count. Jim Cullinan (103) was blanked 6-0.

The other three matches were taken by Iowa Falls on quick falls. The varsity summary:

95 — Henn (B) dec. Terry Smith, 10-4; 103 — Jim Johnson (IF) dec. J. Cullinan, 6-0; 112 — Lynn Lettow (IF) dec. McClenahan, 7-5; 120 — Don Stabler (IF) dec. Wilson, 1-0; 127 — Dorr (B) dec. Glen Bahr, 7-4; 133 — Wyatt Pickering (IF) dec. Broshar, 8-2.

138 — Gary Modlin (IF) pinned Bob Cullinan, :46; 145 — Marvin Raisch (IF) dec. Gallagher, 6-2; 154 — G. Gabrielson (B) dec. Darwin Newton, 5-4; 165 — Pals (B) dec. Pete Allen, 2-0; 180 — Eldon Winters (IF) pinned Kevin Griffin, 1:10; Hwt. — Ron Ites (IF) pinned Dennis Knoll, :36.

Only reserve winners for Belmond were Duncan Campbell (120), who decisioned Don Anderson, 4-3; and Terry Boyd (127), who trimmed Tom Pekaser, 4-1.

Brian Bateson (112) was edged 2-1; Irv Meier (145) lost 5-3; Phil Meier (165) was nosed out 2-0; and Kevin Dorr (180) had the short end of a 1-0 count. Duane Anderson (133) was behind at one time only 5-4 before losing 9-4.

Bill Quigley (95), Kent Korthas (103), Rod Campbell (138), John Reasoner (154) and Keith Boller (heavyweight) all lost by falls.

I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight; I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron. — Isa. 45:2.

Teacher-town obligation should be two-way street

It was with some misgivings that we permitted "the cat" to inviegle us into comment on the giving of one segment of Belmond's population to the Community Chest. We take it for granted that we'll be charged with "picking on" the teachers. That makes us unhappy, for we count a host of teachers among our best friends; and AS teachers, we think they're doing an extraordinarily good job.

More than that, we had occasion to point out in this column not so long ago that there has never been a time that faculty members have participated in so wide a cross-section of community activities as at the present.

So we want to make clear that we're "for 'em," not "agin 'em." Moreover, we look upon it as a healthy situation that the teachers are taking an increasingly aggressive role in pointing out to the public the heavy responsibility involved in providing our children with best possible educational background. An important part of this challenge is getting good teachers, KEEPING good teachers, and giving our educators the professional standing that their backgrounds and responsibilities justify.

An important force in achieving all of these ends is "the organized teacher" — organized on the national level by the National Education association, on the state level by the Iowa State Education association, and on the local level by such groups as the Belmond Teachers association.

The groups are achieving increasingly potent influence, both to the end of attaining objectives the teachers have set for their personal benefit and — in the long run — for the benefit of our national education program.

BUT . . . and this is an aspect that the teachers are obligated to recognize . . . responsibility is a two-way street. Just as they are alert to the public's responsibility to them, they MUST be equally alert to their responsibilities toward the communities in which they make their livelihoods.

When the taxpayers invest well over a half million dollars annually in hiring members of the school faculty, that sum represents a portion of our economy that OWES much greater support to vital adjuncts of our society than was rendered the Community Chest in the teachers' case. It does not take a computer to establish the fact that if all divisions of our economy gave equally feeble support on a pro rata basis, the Chest would be doomed to the most dismal sort of failure.

But we have CONFIDENCE in the teachers and in the cohesiveness they have gained through their increasingly powerful local organization. We have the feeling that unawareness rather than purposeful intent has been to blame for their poor showing as to the Community Chest.

Just as preparing a class assignment is not a matter of arbitrary choice, reasonable support of such community necessities as the Chest cannot be a matter of arbitrary choice. It's an obligation.

Mason City's teachers viewed it as such. With a second look, we suspect ours will do likewise. We have a definite notion that the Mason City Teachers association played a very measurable role in bringing credit to the teachers for a highly admirable achievement.

That's why we call the problem to the attention of the Belmond Teachers association. We'll be very much surprised if they don't get the situation "fixed."

Negro boycott of Olympics would harm, not help

As a general rule, and within reasonable bounds, we find outself most sympathetic with the Negro in his determination to put himself on an equal footing with his fellow Americans. Our imagination is elastic enough to envision ourself with a dark skin and confronted with the frustrations that accompany same. We suspect we'd be among the angry ones.

Nevertholess, proper ways and means to achieve one's ends have never included cutting off one's nose to spite one's face. And the Negroes' proposed boycott of next year's Olympic Games strikes us as amounting to just about that.

If there is any field of endeavor that has elevated the Negro to a position of respect and financial independence (stage and musical entertainment possibly being on a par), athletics has been it. And we can't help but believe that the strides the Negro has made in professional sports have been helpful in his over-all drive for equality.

It is true that once the color barrier fell in professional sports, the Negro was hired because he was GOOD. And we wouldn't doubt it to be equally true that a wide withdrawl of American Negroes from the '68 Olympic Games would tend to embarrass the U. S. from the standpoint of national achievement in quite a few areas of competition.

But the Olympic Games, despite the unfortunate emphasis given national showings by means of unofficial (and unapproved) "team standings," remain a test of individual strength and agility. The Negro may very well prove quite dramatically that the U. S. is not the athletic power without him that it is WITH him. But will that really advance his cause?

The Olympics have helped produce a host of Negro athletes who have gone on to fame and fortune — in some instances much more rapidly than would have been the case without the limelight cast on them by their performances at the games. Certainly in no other nation has athletic skill opened up equally wide opportunity.

Logically, if the Negro regards it as a prostitution of his skill to perform wearing Uncle Sam's colors, he should hardly lend himself to the system that will make him a rich man by performing for the white man's entertainment. If logic doesn't carry him that far, then we question the rightness of his stand regarding the Olympics.

By the time these words appear in print, Belmond's proposed retirement home may — at last — be on its way to becoming a reality. There has been occasional temptation upon the part of the volunteer instigators of the project to forget the whole thing, because in attaining the present crossroads in planning, the frustrations have been many.

Now it appears that persistence has paid off, or before long WILL pay off. To those who have carried the preliminary planning to this stage, the community owes its gratitude — as do the elderly and handicapped persons who will directly benefit from construction of the facilities.

Certainly not to be forgotten are the many friends of Dr. Sam Leinbach, whose generosity at the time of the tornado disaster established the fund that made preliminary planning of the retirement home possible.

There'll be some more rivers to cross by the directors chosen to carry the burden of the project from this point. Some may prove rather discouragingly wide ones; but we're confident they will all be negotiated.

As planning progresses, the community may be called upon to match the dedication that formulators of the project exhibited and the determination that the new directors may very well have to display. Since it will be a SMALL challenge, compared to resurrecting our community following the tornado, we see no reason to fear Belmond won't be able to meet it.

Clipped Comment

From the Typewriters of Other Editors

Groucho Marx for president? Sure!

Now is the time for this paper to provide its annual constructive editorial, rather than one of those ponderous, deep, lugubrious, pessimistic, alarming, deploring editorials which are the common fare of editorialists from the rockbound coast of Maine to the sunny clime of California and from the cold Canadian border to the warm waters of the Gulf of Mexico.

This editorial is especially appropriate at a time when the national sport is denouncing the President of the United States as a deceiver, a villain, as a slippery guy with an abundance of stubbornness and a minimum of intelligence.

The nation is in a gloomy mood, one of discontent, doubt and even fury, and what the country needs is not a good five cent cigar, which is entirely out of the question, but a political change that will spread gaiety and happiness.

IN BRIEF, WE SUGGEST, instead of some of the familiar politicians, an entirely new group be chosen — and of course the ideal candidate for president would be Groucho Marx. Then to lighten the ticket, Red Skelton for vice president.

- For Secretary of Defense there should be someone well informed in the art of fighting, not a mere theoretician, and who would fill the bill better than Frank Sinatra?
- Then we should have someone familiar with foreign affairs as Secretary of State, and Elizabeth Taylor is exactly the person. And if there is some objection, put in Ingrid Bergman.
- Secretary of Labor? Who else but Mrs. Robert Kennedy?
- The Smothers Brothers should be given some place, and Shirley Temple might become postmistress generaless, making postoffice popular, and of course James Bond should head the FBI, while Perry Mason should be attorney general.

THERE IS A GREAT DEAL OF talk about economy, and we have a proposal to cover that also. Allow the billion dollar corporations in the country to select the Senators, and the corporations with a hundred million to a billion pick the house members.

This would not change the complexion of Congress to any great extent. It might get rid of a few radicals who believe in government of the people, for the people and by the people.

Of course, the corporations would pay their salaries direct, and the members could serve them far better, and with clearer consciences than at present.

These proposals, if carried out, would bring a great change in all of America, for instead of continually deploring and denouncing, the American people could start appreciating and enjoying their government; something that they can't do now. — Bryan (Ohio) Times

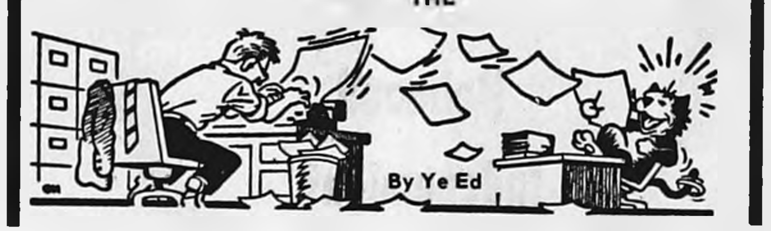
CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



By Ye Ed

As is becoming too often the case our return to the office the other morning found TJ, the office cat, comfortably esconced on our desk happily perusing what mail, news notes and other odds-and-ends happened to be on view there. Customarily he takes our entrances as a signal to remove the body; but he was so immersed in the numerical notations on one piece of paper that he didn't even acknowledge our presence.

Clearing our throat meaningfully, we plunked into our chair, reached over him to grasp a sheet of copy paper and tucked it into the typewriter. He looked up, nodded at the list of figures he had been inspecting, and asked, "Teachers?"

"Yes," we confirmed, "Teachers. Contributors to the Belmond Community Chest, in the amounts indicated."

"How come?" TJ prodded. "Hardly any of your business, is it?"

"PERHAPS NOT," WE REPLIED. "Then again, maybe it is. Since The Independent played a major role in getting the Chest established and Yours Truly was campaign chairman for a couple of years at first, we've always taken sort of a proprietary interest in the Chest. Like to keep track of how it's doing."

"But prying into the giving of a certain group of people?" the cat insisted. "Is'nt that getting a little gutsy?"

With a shrug, we explained, "Probably wouldn't have thought to do so, except for a couple of things that prodded our curiosity.

"First, when the Chest drive started we tried to cue the teachers in on what might be expected of them by publishing what the per-teacher giving was to the Chest over at Mason City. Over there, the faculty members averaged $23.69.

"ALSO, WE CASUALLY MENtioned that last year — nationwide (and that includes a LOT of lower-salaried schools, as well as higher) — the average Chest donation among teachers came to $12.16."

"Still think you're pretty darned nosey," TJ commented. "But what else?"

"Well," we continued, "then we were brought a report on several local teachers attending a seminar at Iowa State, down at Ames, the purpose of which was to emphasize 'The Role of Educators' Salaries in Iowa's Expanding Economy.' Since THEY brought the matter up, it seemed legitimate to investigate what role the educators' salaries were playing as applied to the Community Chest.

"This year, you know, the Belmond Community School district teachers and administrators are getting $51,300 more than a year ago. That averages out to $790 apiece.

"OF COURSE, SOME GOT MORE than that; some got less. But particularly when you consider that in more than a handful of cases there's ANOTHER salary in the family, it looked as if the folks weren't doing too badly."

"So your curiosity was aroused as to what extent, if any, the Chest might have benefited by this largesse?" inquired the cat.

"That's the size of it," we agreed. "First off, it should be noted that pitifully few Belmond folks solicited for Chest donations give 'till it hurts' — unless they'd writhe from the pain of plucking an eyebrow. Some do pretty well (there was one $100 individual contribution that we know of). There's a good deal of inconsistency in the businessmen's giving. And the rural folks, as a general thing, do just plain lousy.

"BUT ONLY THE TEACHERS have brought up this 'expanding economy' bit. So — as you say — we got curious."

This being the sort of thing that the cat dearly loves to concern HIMSELF with, he asked eagerly, "And you found out . . . ?"

"Through last week," we informed him, 38 out of 66 teachers had 'given.' We use the term loosely. Thirteen of the contributions were from $10 to $15. Twenty-five were from $5.00 down to as little as one. The average was $6.60 — a little over half the national average for teachers."

"Not so good, huh?" TJ observed.

"NOT REALLY," WE AGREED. "Twenty-eight hadn't given at all. Some undoubtedly had been missed by canvassers. Others had taken a free ride on the coattails of another salary in the family. A few told a little white lie and said they'd 'given elsewhere.' As matters stand at present, the teacher-administrator average stands at $4.06 per head."

"Figured out on a per cent of a week's salary — or even a DAY'S — the 'hurt' of giving should have been pretty tolerable," said the grinning feline.

"Sure didn't expand the Chest economy very appreciably," we replied, brushing the cat to the floor so we could get some work done.

NIC review, period of 1949-67—

Belmond heads league in all-state players

When Mark Fjone, Lake Mills' hefty tackle, pulled down a 3rd-team berth in the Iowa Daily Press association's 1967 all-state selections he became the 27th North Iowa conference player to achieve IDPA all-state honors since 1949. That is the period of time that your writer has been keeping NIC records. There were, of course, some NIC all-staters prior to that time.

No player from the loop managed to make the grade on any of the Des Moines Sunday Register's seven all-state teams, but the NIC has also placed 27 men on them in the same 19-year period. The Register honors 77 men on its seven 11-man teams; the IDPA, 55 on five 11-man all-state teams each fall.

Actually, the North Iowa conference has won 28 individual assignments from the Register and the same from the IDPA. Neal Waddington of Belmond was named on teams by both when he was a junior and again as a senior. He's the only gridder from the league who's been given such recognition as a junior.

Most berths to Broncos

Belmond, with its powerful teams that won 34 games in a row from the end of the '61 season through the start of the '67 campaign, tops all of the NIC schools in all-state honors. Nine Broncos have been picked by the Register and eight by the IDPA.

Register all-state berths have been allotted to the other NIC schools as follows: Britt and Forest City each four, Garner and Northwood each three, Buffalo Center and Lake Mils two apiece and Osage one. Osage's figures cover, however, only the nine-year span of time that the Imps have played football in the NIC.

Coming after Belmond in number of IDPA all-state positions are Forest City and Lake Mills with five each, Garner with three, Britt, Northwood and Osage with two apiece and Buffalo Center with one.

NIC blanked four times

The conference has been blanked on both all-state selections in four years — 1951, '54, '55 and '61. In '58, as this year, the NIC got a single man on an IDPA team; and in '57 and '60 a single player from the loop made both selections.

Best showing in one year over the nearly two decades was in '63 when four players made it with both the Register and IDPA — in 1964. And the NIC has had only two other 1st-teamers besides Belmond's Waddington. Tom Busch of Garner was the Register's No. 1 quarterback in '63 and Terry Letcher of Buffalo Center was named a 1st-team tackle by the IDPA in '66.

Indicative of the fact that judgments vary, Busch made only the 3rd team of the IDPA, while Letcher got only a 6th-team berth with the Register. An even more notable disagreement occurred in '56 when Loren Moen, king-size Lake Mills end, was a Register 2nd-team choice, was unplaced by the IDPA, and achieved only a 2nd-team all-conference rating.

Pair of brother acts

Two brother acts have made the limelight. In '64 Sterling Laaveg of Belmond made the Register's 4th team and the year following his brother Paul was 2nd team with the IDPA and on the Register's 3rd team. Both were ends. In 1960, Jim Schrader of Britt made both 3rd teams as a center and two years afterward his brother Jim was a Register choice as a 7th-team back.

who's made the Register's 2nd who's made the Register's 2rn team; but besides Paul Laaveg, IDPA 2nd-team choices have included Ray Limesand of Lake Mills at guard ('50), Ron Bredeson of Lake Mills at guard ('52) and Larry Hockhaus of Britt, also at guard, in 1959.

Other IDPA honors to NIC players have been as follows:

3rd team — Russ Schaub (N) g, '49; Tim Anderson (FC) e, '50; Rich Koolbeck (G) b, '52; Benny Riekena (FC) b, '53; Bob Holtan (N) e, '58; Jerry Schrader (Br) c, '60; Neal Waddington (Bel) b, '63; Tom Busch (G) b, '63; Mark Fjone (LM) t, '67.

IDPA 4th-team choices

5th team — Greg Grau (G) e, '63; Bob Misner (Bel) b, '64; Rich Stadtlander (Bel) b, '66.

5th team — Mace Reyerson (N) b, '56; Ed Duden (O) g, '56; Dennis McNulty (Bel) g, '63; Greg Grau (G) e, '63; Les Steenblock (Bel) t, '66.

On Register 6th teams

7th team — Pangburn (N) t, '49; Larry Hockhaus (Br) g, '59; Jim Schrader (Br) b, '62; Ken Groh (FC) e, '66.

There is reason for suspicion that some very fine players from the North Iowa conference have been deprived of all-state honors by — ironically enough — occasional indifference on the parts of NIC coaches toward filling out all-state ballots. Too frequently loop mentors who have had no players on their own team to push have neglected to give support to outstanding men on other teams in the league.

Indians top honor rolls

In several known instances, this has meant the difference between a player ranking high on the honor roll and receiving a team position. While there has been some improvement in this regard in recent years, it is a habit on the parts of a several of the coaches that has proved costly to a few NIC stars as recently as the past two or three years.

From 1949 through the past season, North Iowa conference players have reaped 130 places on IDPA honor rolls and 166 Register honorable mentions. Forest City has been tops in this regard.

Twenty-seven Indians have gotten honor mention from the IDPA, Belmond has had 26 on the honor roll, Britt 18, Buffalo Center 17, Lake Mills and Northwood each 12, Garner nine and Osage eight. Forest City has made the Register's honor roll 37 times, Belmond 25, Britt 22, Lake Mills 21, Northwood 20, Buffalo Center 19, Garner 12 and Osage 10.

Why Be Sick When You Can Be Well?

CHIROPRACTIC FIRST!

A great percentage of suffering from disease and injury could be avoided if the public consulted a doctor of chiropractic first instead of as a last resort as is sometimes the case. Take the case of a male patient who finally consulted a chiropractor, he found immediate relief and eventual correction. Or, the young boy who suffered severe asthma for six years under the best medical treatment, then found the answer to the asthmatic problem through chiropractic. Or, the mother with agonizing nervousness and headaches, aggravated by premature and unnecessary female surgery, who suffered several years before she sought chiropractic and found health. We could describe hundreds of similar cases, but these illustrate the point that people suffer needlessly when early chiropractic care could save months or years of pain and discomfort. Investigate chiropractic for your health's sake.

"BACKACHES"

Pain is nature's way of warning that something is wrong. Frequently pain in any part of the back is caused by a misaligned vertebra which interferes with spinal nerve transmission. Relief through chiropractic does not depend upon killing pain with pills or drugs. It depends upon proven methods of locating and relieving pinched nerves through examination and the use of mechanical means.

Statistics from official Workman's compensation files in several states show that chiropractic brings health to backache cases almost twice as rapidly as cases under other types of health care.

You owe it to yourself to investigate the merits of chiropractic.

Simon Eckhoff's funeral services held on Saturday

Funeral services for Simon Eckhoff were held Saturday afternoon at the First Reformed church, Rev. Peter Yff officiating. Burial was in the Meservey cemetery.

Mr. Eckhoff's death occured on Thanksgiving Day at his home in Meservey at the age of 73 years. He had been in declining health for several months, but his death was nevertheless unexpectedly sudden.

He was born on July 17, 1894, at Hampton. He was married in September of 1930 to Lena Sorenson. His wife preceded him in death in 1965. The Meservey area was his home, most of his life.

Mr. Eckhoff saw military service during World War I and was a charter member of William Schmalle post of the American Legion. He also had been a member of the now disbanded Danish Luthern church at Thornton.

Survivors inclule two brothers, George of Alexander and Carl of Austin, Minn., and a sister, Mrs. Anna Koenen of Meservey.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Eckhoff was preceded in death by three sisters and a brother.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 11 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

12-7-67

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

The gentlemen out at the state police radio station phoned a plea to us last week when the weather took a nasty turn. They asked, "Will you PLEASE publish the special road information number that went into use last year?"

We are happy to comply. When you want information on road conditions dial 5288 — or 444-5288 if you aren't on the Belmond exchange. This will give you all the information you need if you're planning a trip.

It's a bad deal to tie up the regular station number when conditions are bad, because there are pretty apt to be accident communications occupying the operator's attention. Better jot that number down — 5288.

Belmond residents whose glances after dark Monday night happened to wander in the direction of the city hall were perplexed more than somewhat to see a lighted Christmas tree apparently suspended high in space with no visible means of support. After the fire meeting Monday, two of the smoke-eaters (Gordon Sandman and Lenny Steenblock) crawled atop the recently erected radio tower with the already decorated tree, crawled down again and plugged 'er in and — voila! — a mirage that was wasn't a mirage at all.

This Saturday the 25th wedding anniversary of a couple well known to many Belmond and Alexander folks will be observed 'way out in California. Being honored by their children are Ursel and Grace (nee Stoffer) Nolte, who were married in Tucson Ariz., on Dec. 23, 1942. The celebration is being held early to avoid the holidays.

Ursel and Grace have two sons, Creighton (19) and David (14) and two daughters, Kathleen (22) and Barbara (17). The open house will be held at their home at 5209 Paseo de Pablo, Torrance, Calif. (90505).

While it's not expected that the Noltes' friends still living here will be able to "drop in," it could be that some Belmond expatriates now residing in California possibly might. And a note of congratulation could be easily managed by all. Open house hours are 3:00-7:00 p.m., if you happen to be in the neighborhood.

Dedication ceremonies yesterday at Ames marked the opening of 32.5 additional miles of Interstate 35, extending from the former "deadend" just east of Ames up to U. S. 20 east of Blairsburg. This section cost $18,379,871 to construct and an additional $2,080,140 for right-of-way.

Since approximately 77 miles of I-35 between Osceola and Ames were already in use, that gives southbound traffic through central Iowa about 109 miles of freeway travel now.

When the Iowa link in I-35 is completed in 1971 (so the plan goes, anyway) it will comprise 217 miles out of a total of 1,572 that a traveler may use from Duluth, Minn., to Loredo, Tex., on the Mexican border. Around here, we're most anxious to see the piece to Minneapolis finished.

Somebody with a conscience was discovered hereabouts a while back, though his identity is not known. Presumably he's on the listener list of KRIT-FM, Clarion. It came about this way. Don Thompson had gone hunting and left his Purple Heart medal with Oak Leaf (representing a second award) lying on the dashboard of his car. When he returned, the valued keepsake of his career in military service was gone.

Within the hearing of Jerry McLaughlin of KRIT, Don was telling friends about his loss; and it hotted up Jerry's Irish temper.

On a newscast over the Clarion station, Jerry reported the theft and suggested if the medal's possessor had an ounce of manhood in his system he'd see it was returned. A few days later Don went outside of a Sunday morning to pick up the Des Moines Register — and the medal was lying on the hood of his car. There's been no indication of who the culprit might have been; but he very clearly got the message.

Special services for St. Francis

Rev. R. A. Ormsby announces that the Forty Hours Devotion for members of St. Francis parish will open with a 7:00 o'clock Mass on Friday morning. Friday evening starting at 7:30 o'clock Mass will be held, with a sermon and special prayers.

There will be Saturday morning masses at 7:00 and 8:00 o'clock and evening devotions at 7:30 o'clock.

Masses will be conducted Sunday at 8:00 and 10:00 a. m. at St. Francis church and at St. Mary's, Goodell, at 10:00 o'clock also.

Rev. Patrick Geary, from Newman High school at Mason City, will conduct the devotions. Closing ceremonies will be held at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

JOHN VAN GERPEN DRAFTED

John Van Gerpen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Gerpen, left Tuesday of last week from Des Moines for Fort Bliss, Tex., where he will take his basic training in the U. S. army. He was drafted to help fill the Wright county quota. He has been attending Wartburg college at Waverly but had delayed re-enrolling until the second semester to under go some eye treatments.

JIM JANSSEN'S ADDRESS

For the benefit of his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Janssen provide the service address of their son Jim as follows: Pfc. Jim Janssen 2284-729, Marine Barracks, Box 32-B, USNB, c/o FPO New York, N. Y. 09593. Jim is presently stationed at Guantanamo Naval Base, Cuba.

STATE RECOGNITION for having the highest per capita average of giving in the state during the 1967 Iowa Heart Fund campaign won for Wright county the plaque that Mrs. Leo Woodley of Clarion is shown receiving. Making the presentation was James R. Owens of Mason City, chairman of the IHA Fund Raising advisory committee, at a recent fall board meeting of the state organization at Iowa City. Wright's per capita average of 37 cents gave it No. 1 standing in the state for the third year in a row.

Last rites held here Wednesday for June Baker

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church for Mrs. Max Baker, 69, of Dearborn, Mo., a former resident of this community. She died at her home early Monday morning of this week.

Rev. M. L. Jones officiated over the rites and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Carol Oxley of Kanawha, Donald Baker of Goldfield, Wayne Vestweber of Alexander, Harold Baker, Terrell Baker and Robert Greenwood.

June Dawson was born at Clarion on June 6, 1898, daughter of Milton and Henrietta (Cline) Dawson. She was married on Feb. 5, 1920, to Max Baker, son of J. D. Baker, and they farmed for several years northwest of Belmond.

They later operated a resort at Walker, Minn., living during the winter months at Kansas City, Mo. They had made their home at Dearborn for the past five years.

Three children were born to the Bakers, one daughter, Henrietta Bruner, preceding her mother in death.

Surviving in addition to Mr. Baker are a son, Howard, of Dearborn; and a daughter, Helen Kahl of Holstein. Survivors also include 10 grandchildren; a brother, Charles Dawson of Estherville; and two sisters, Lola Abels of Minneapolis and Ethel Leuwellyn of Valley City, N. D.

JEAN McLAUGHLIN PLEDGES

Jean McLaughlin was among 118 freshmen and upperclassmen at the University of Northern Iowa who recently accepted invitations to pledge sororities on the Cedar Falls campus. She was one of 19 co-eds pledged by Alphi Chi Omege.

BOB WESSELS RECEIVES ADVANCEMENT IN NAVY

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wessels learned last week from their son Robert that he has been promoted to the Naval rating of Communications Yeoman 3/c. The advancement was based on Bob's score on a semi-annual Navy examination he took in August and was effective Nov. 17.

Bob enlisted in the Navy in June of 1966. His present base address is: Robert A. Wessels, VRF-31, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va. 23511.

Thompson, Meyer agree to advise on NIAC course

R. B. Thompson, general manager of ACCO Seed division of Anderson, Clayton company, and Rex Meyer of Alexander, head of the NIAD committee on agriculture, have been named members of a vocational advisory committee lately appointed by North Iowa Area Community college at Mason City.

They agreed to serve on a committee to help formulate a proposal for a vocational program in agribusiness technology to be conducted by the vocational technical division of NIAC. It would train students for opportunities in off-farm occupations.

If it gains the approval of the State Department of Public Instruction, it will be the first program of its kind in the state aimed particularly at providing training for persons affected by the shortage of job opportunities in farming.

It would involve a curriculum of general education, basic sciences, technical agriculture courses, economics and business courses and on-the-job training.

At last! Demolition of Barendregt and Griesy buildings now started

A day long awaited in Belmond arrived Tuesday of this week. Demolition personnel showed up to start the job of razing the unsightly ruins at the corner of Main street and First avenue that the Barendregt and Griesy buildings have constituted since the Oct. 14 tornado of last year.

Work of demolishing the buildings has fallen to Garner Ready-Mix and the job will be directed by Cornie Van Oort, who is manager of the construction end of the Garner firm's business.

He says he will have six men on the job, as a general thing, with three trucks, a crane and crawler to abet them. The Barendregt demolition will be done on an hourly basis and the Griesy job under contract. Mr. Van Oort hesitates to predict how long it will take until he has a more complete idea of the difficulties that may be involved.

He says that no burn-out of the Griesy building, with the surveillance of the Belmond Fire department, will be necessary. Because of the heavy timbers in the older, former bank building on the corner it would be helpful if a blaze could be set to weaken that structure.

Fire Chief "Bud" Packard has said that the firemen would be glad to cooperate if the right weather conditions prevail at the right time, but that the job would not be tackled if it had to be done in bitterly cold weather at great inconvenience to the firemen and risk of damage to hose lines.

Mr. Van Oort admitted he was a bit uncertain as to the best way to preserve the marble column and its stone base and cap that is to be saved for a tornado memorial in the city park. He suspects that it may prove best to support the corner with a heavy timber and remove the pillar before the main job of demolition is started.

He expressed confidence, though, that means to salvage the column unharmed can likely be worked out.

Ever since the tornado, the two ruined buildings have been a focal point of sight-seers coming to Belmond to inspect the disaster and the subsequent recovery.

However, the city council has been anxious to see the condemned structures removed, due to the safety hazard that they have represented.

Promotions to 2 at Central Soya

Two recent promotions at Central Soya saw Leroy Green move up to the position of assistant superintendent of maintenance and repair and Lee Robbins, Jr., take Mr. Green's place as feed mill supervisor. Both men are long-time employees of the plant, being originally hired by General Mills.

Mr. Green had had 16 years of employment with GMI when that company closed the feed mill in 1962, leaving Leroy without a job. Most of the time between then and his rehiring by Central Soya in May of 1966 he was on the staff of Packard Electric.

His duties as feed mill supervisor did not begin until July of this year. In the interim he helped to get the feed mill back into operation and also assisted in tornado damage repair.

Mr. Robbins joined the General Mills force in 1947 and served in the refinery and flour departments and under Central Soya was an operator in the combined departments. He was transferred to the feed mill when it opened this summer.

A newcomer at Central Soya is Stanley Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Olsen, who not long ago was hired as a staff accountant. He was a Belmond High school graduate in 1965 and then attended Mankato Commercial college for two years, majoring in senior accounting.

LARRY JOHNSON ENDS LEAVE

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Johnson, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Roman Johnson, took AMM Larry Johnson to Des Moines last Friday to take a plane to Carwell Air Force Base near Dallas, Tex. They spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Goering. Larry had spent a 10-day leave with his parents, the Roman Johnsons.

Committee ends up its Tornado Day obligations

Members of the Tornado Appreciation Day steering committee, who planned the thank-you event on Oct. 15, met Thursday afternoon of last week at the Town House cafe to finish off the group's business and then dissolved the committee.

Major consideration of the meeting was how to dispose of the balance of $1,457.56 that remained in the Appreciation Day account after all expenses of the event had been met.

On a motion by Rev. M. L. Jones, seconded by Erv Redder, the committee voted to allocate $1,000 of the amount toward the cost of an illuminated "Belmond" sign presently planned at the Main street intersection with Highway 69.

$457 toward memorial

The same action specified that the remainder of $457.56 go into a fund for construction of a memorial in the city park to those who died in the disaster of Oct. 14, 1966, and as a remembrance of the generous aid rendered the community following the tornado.

Committee members participating in the final meeting, in addition to Mr. Jones and Mr. Redder were Chairman Ellis Elliott, Durwood LaRue and Mrs. R. B. Thompson.

Mr. Elliott reports that the thousand dollars earmarked for the sign, which will be designed to carry announcements of community events and well as advertising Belmond, will be placed on time deposit pending the design and placement of the sign.

Gift of pillar appreciated

Use will be made of the marble pillar supporting the arched entryway to the old bank building at Main street and Second avenue in creating the memorial in the park.

Mr. Elliott says, "Members of the steering committee are sure that the entire community will share in feeling gratitude for the gift of the column for the proposed memorial purpose from Mrs. Jim Waddington and Elizabeth Napolitano."

Before coming into their possession, the building was owned by their late father, Peter Barendregt.

In ending its existence, the committee passed on to the Belmond Chamber of Commerce the responsibility for seeing that the surplus funds are utilized for the purposes designated.

17 workers yet to report—

Chest total now stands $5,269

Prospect of the Belmond Community Chest reaching its $6,075 goal was dimming this week, but Chest President Bruce Schroeder and the campaign co-chairmen, Mrs. O'Larry Dorr and Mrs. Duane Anderson, were disinclined to give up hope that the figure will still be reached.

Failure of a relative handful of solicitors to complete their canvasses has delayed completion of the campaign and the drive chairmen are urging that all reports be in by the end of this week, for sure. Going into Tuesday of this week, 17 workers had still not turned in their envelopes.

With contributions from those 17 areas still missing, the fund total stood at $5,269. Since returns this year have been running about 40 per cent ahead of those a year ago, when the tornado mess made it nearly impossible to complete the '66 drive, Mr. Schroeder calculated that the seemingly prospective deficit might be in the range of $250 to $300.

Belmond's businessmen, he added, have been the pace-setters in making the '67 campaign the near success it seems destined to be. Ninety-four per cent of those solicited had made contributions and their total giving of $2,281 represented an average donation of close to $23.50.

Completely up-to-date figures were not available that included the data from the last 11 envelopes to be turned in; but with only one missing from the business canvass, only seven out of 98 business and professional men contacted had declined to give.

The size of average donations and the per cent of individuals giving ran appreciably lower in both the residential and rural canvasses. On a report of 680 residential contacts made, 574 — or 84.4 per cent — made Chest donations. No contribution was received in 106 instances.

In the rural area, out of 147 contacts 123 contributions were received and the solicitors were turned down at 24 homes. That represented 83.7 per cent giving. The average residential contribution was $3.79 and the average rural donation, $2.97.

By figuring the amounts yielded last year by the territories represented by the 17 reports not yet in, and applying the 40 per cent factor by which contribution totals have been running higher this year, Mr. Schroeder estimates that close to $5,800 should be in the Chest treasury with the remaining canvasses completed.

This would still leave a number of call-backs that could be made to contact persons not seen by their assigned solicitors. The Chest president says the possibility exists that a clean-up effort by the sponsoring Jaycee-Ettes might suffice to bring in enough additional to meet the goal.

This year's budget was the largest the Chest has ever been required to meet. This is also the first year in quite some time that there has been no contingency reserve which the Chest could fall back on in case of a deficit.

Carols to greet audience coming to Yule program

Something new will be added to the format of the annual Christmas program of the Belmond Community High school concert choir and junior high choir this year, advises Stan Norson, the singers' director.

As members of the audience approach Luick Memorial Auditorium on the evening of Sunday, Dec. 17, they will be put in the proper mood for the musical fare ahead of them by a group of carolers stationed at the school entryway.

They will be attired in old English costumes and sing a variety of popular carols, two groups of eight alternating so if the weather is cold each will have an opportunity to warm up between appearances.

Carolers will be: Linda Tomson, Linda Pals, Julie Kinseth, Nancy Barkema, Paulette Hickman, Kathy Pollitt, Deb Misner, Joel, Mack and Glen Gabrielson, Steve Courson, Dave Snyder, Bill Studebaker, Kent Korthas and Jerry Boelman.

Mr. Norson says that the young people will be happy to entertain shut-ins, club and church groups with carol programs during the holiday season. Arrangements can be made by calling the director.

This (Thursday) morning, the BHS concert choir was to appear at a Britt High school student assembly to present the section of their up-coming program consisting of selections from Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols."

In exchange, the Britt mixed chorus will make an appearance before a similar assembly at Luick Memorial Auditorium on Thursday, Dec. 21.

BUSICK HOME ON LEAVE

Hearing scheduled to get poor fund through '67 year

Notice of a hearing on a proposal to amend the budget for the Wright county poor fund is published in this issue by Auditor Ethel West. The hearing will be held in the supervisors' room at 10:00 a. m. on Monday, Dec. 18.

Mrs. West says that at the end of September, only $78 remained in the poor fund over the amount of $48,000 that had been budgeted for use during the current year.

Enough money is actually available in the fund, from the balance left at the start of the current year plus receipts from non-tax sources during 1967, to permit amendment of the budget upward to $68,000.

This, the auditor explained, will enable obligations against the poor fund to be met for the remainder of the year and still leave an unencumbered balance of $11,000 at the year's end as required under the original budget.

CHESTER BUCHANAN DIES; FORMERLY RESIDED HERE

Chester Buchanan died November 15, in Chicago, Ill., after a lingering illness. He had reached the age of 65.

He was a former Belmond resident, having attended the schools here. He lived in Waterloo a few years and for the past 39 years had lived in Chicago.

Survivors include his wife, one son, two grandchildren, brothers, and a sister, Mrs. Marvin (Dora) Sjoberg.

Funeral services of LeRoy Jenison held on Saturday

Funeral services for LeRoy Jenison, 82, were held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church. A life-long resident of Belmond, Mr. Jenison died at Belmond Community hospital on Wednesday morning, having been admitted only the day before.

Rev. M. L. Jones officiated over the services and Johnston Funeral Home was in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Pallbearers were Dr. George Hogenson of Eagle Grove, Melvin Richardson of Clarion, Cortland Luick, George Jenison, Robert Jenison and Leland Jenison.

Born here on Aug. 28, 1885, Mr. Jenison was the son of George E. and Rose (Meachem) Jenison. He attended the local schools, graduating from Belmond High school, and latter attended the college at Mankato, Minn.

He taught in rural schools of this area for a number of years. On March 31, 1915, he married Grace Wilcox and they farmed northeast of Belmond, until 1945, when they retired and moved into town. Mrs. Jenison died in April of last year.

Five sons and a daughter were born to Mr. and Mrs. Jenison: Keith, Cedar Rapids; Kenneth, Belmond; Daryl and Boyd, Des Moines; Dene, Waterloo; and Rosemary Gillen, Madrid, Spain.

In addition to the children, survivors include 13 grandchildren and four great grandchildren; also a brother, Ralph Jenison.

Besides his wife, Mr. Jenison was preceded in death by a brother, Earl; and by a sister, Mrs. Henrietta Hogenson.

Out-of-town gifts help—

River Park Fund up to $2,027

Latest of a continuing flow of contributions to the River Park Fund was received last weekend from Mrs. Winston (nee Kathryn McLaughlin) Weber of Odessa, Wash. Her check for $15 brought to $2,027 the amount received to date, according to Mrs. Merle Bonte, who has been serving as treasurer of the project.

Mrs. Weber enclosed with her letter and check a clipping from the Spokane Spokesman-Review issue of Oct. 15, 1966, showing a lead story regarding the Belmond tornado.

On the same page was an item regarding a fire in a missile silo at Odessa which her husband, a volunteer fireman, had helped to extinguish. Kathryn observed, it was almost "unbelievable that two small towns — one my home town, the other my adopted town — miles apart should have made front page news the same day."

Another letter typical of those being received from former residents who have been helping the fund along very materially was that which accompanied a $10 check from Mrs. Ray (nee Anna McNamara) Fitzloff, Sr., of Janesville, Minn.

A telephone operator here for seven years when the late T. A. Davenport was her "boss" and "central" was a personal friend to all the exchange's subscribers, Mrs. Fitzloff has lived in Minnesota for 37 years.

Like other contributors, Anna praised the River Park as "a wonderful idea" and expressed her eager hopes for its success.

Mrs. Bonte passed along a list of donors, including some accidentally missed in earlier reports and others received since the last publication of contributors' names.

These include the following: $100 — Dr. S. P. Leinbach; $25 — Mr and Mrs. Ed Riggs, Littleton, Colo., and E. E. Reed, Santa Rosa, Calif.

$10 — Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Morse, Long Beach, Calif.; Eldon Loats, Elgin, Ill.; Henry A. and Charlotte (Foss) Winter, Denver, Colo.; Robert Kellermann, Bellevue, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Thompson and Mrs. H. O. Sandberg, Clear Lake; plus one anonymous.

$5.00 — Mrs. Charles (nee Harriett Gowdy) Hecklinger, Colrain, Mass.; Mrs. DeWayne (nee Janice Flanagan) Tobias, San Bernardino, Calif.; Mildred Piper, Redlands, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, Long Beach, Calif.; Mrs. Inga Steele Benson, New York City; Lynn Jenison, Louise Johnson, Wayne Bohning, plus two anonymous.

$2.00 — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Evans, Mason City; Alfred G. McNutt; $1.00 — Mrs. Ada Steenblock.

BOSS ED ACKERMAN holds the ribbon as the snipping job was about to be undertaken by Gladys Wilson, bookkeeper for Ackerman Service, as that establishment launched its grand opening last Friday morning. Fellow Chamber of Commerce members who gathered for the ceremonies congratulated Ed on the fine new shop on Highway 69 that now houses Mr. Ackerman's business.

Husband and wife evangelistic team to hold meetings

Special evangelistic services will be conducted in the Methodist church for eight evenings starting this Sunday and extending through Dec. 17. This crusade will be led by Rev. and Mrs. Dan Carpenter of Denver, Colo. The meetings will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Carpenter graduated from Taylor university, Upland, Ind., in 1964 and from the Theological Seminary at Denver this year. He was licensed to preach at the age of 18 and ordained at the age of 22. He has served on gospel teams and with crusade missions throughout the country.

Mrs. Carpenter is a graduate of St. Paul's Bible college, where she received a B. A. degree in church music and Christian arts education. She spent two summers traveling extensively with various small ensembles, serving as their pianist and group co-ordinator. She is recognized as a gifted musician.

The Carpenters will conduct services for the children in grades one through six at the church after school each evening. A special meeting with youth will be held on Saturday night of next week.

Rev. M. L. Jones, the Methodist pastor, says, "This fine couple will bring to us the vigor of youth with the up-to-date approach to the Christian life. They come highly recommended by all who know them."

Side of beef won in latest drawing

Mrs. Dale Busick was the only winner as drawings were held last Friday for seven Christmas Gifts in connection with the annual holiday promotion of the Chamber of Commerce. She claimed the side of beef before the 9:00 p.m. Saturday deadline.

With the other six prizes unclaimed, the drawing this Friday noon will be for 10 prizes, giving holders of number stubs an unusually good chance of earning a profitable reward for examining carefully the numbers posted a noon tomorrow.

Added to the unclaimed prizes are a portable dishwasher, an electric carving knife and two more lots of 50 gallons of gasoline. Carried over are an electric food blender, Mr. and Mrs. matched chair set, and four other 50-gallon lots of gasoline.

"Formula Hogs" available now from Nixon Feeds

We at Nixon are proud to announce a new concept in genetics and nutrition that will give pork producers top returns from their hog operations.

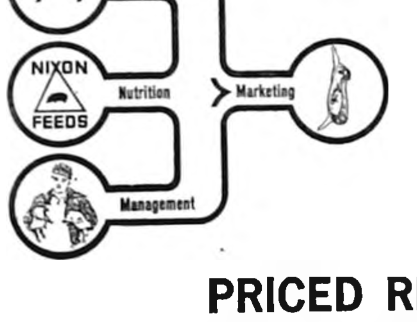
As an added Nixon service, we now have a limited number of HBI Formula Gilts and Boars available for hog producers in this area.

GENETICS

Producing breeding stock for commercial hogmen is HBI's only business. HBI Formula Hogs are the result of more than a dozen generations of selecting and crossing purebred lines by Hog Builders, Inc., Hemple, Mo. Selection and breeding decisions at HBI are based on rate of muscle growth, feed efficiency and litter size. The most desirable genetic characteristics of each purebred line used in the program are blended into HBI Formula Gilts and Boars. The HBI program, which includes detailed records, is one of constant improvement through rigid and continuous selection.

NUTRITION

FORMULA FOR BONUS HOG PROFITS



The genetic advantages of HBI Formula Hogs combine beautifully with the nutritional advantages of Nixon Feeds. Add your management ability and you get fast, efficient gains . . . the kind of carcasses packers are willing to pay extra for. We call this the Formula For Bonus Hog Profits.

PRICED REASONABLY

Because of the firm's production success and widespread acceptance, HBI offers Formula Hogs at or below the price you'd pay for ordinary breeding gilts and a herd boar. See the manager of your local Nixon Mill or Feed Drive-In today, or write Nixon-HBI, 2619 "N" Street, Omaha, Nebraska, 68107, for an attractive brochure and more information.

2nd-half spurt tumbles Indians—

Broncos take NIC opener, 62-50

An experience edge for the Broncos appeared to be a big factor Friday night as the Belmond High basketeers got their North Iowa conference campaign off to a good start with a 62-50 win over Forest City. It was the Indians' first loss in four starts.

It was a tight ball game through 2½ quarters. Forest City led through much of the first period, but the Broncos pulled into a 13-all tie before the buzzer. In the second stanza, the Indians four times gained six-point leads, the last time at 29-23; but six consecutive points by Coach Ted Besch's boys before halftime left the intermission count 29-29.

Only two fouls were called on Forest City and five on the Broncs in the first two quarters. Belmond, however, made good all three of its charity chances and the Indians made only one of six tries as Ron Albertson missed five in a row.

FC shot accuracy drops

Coach Bob Hilmer's crew hit the best shot percentage, netting 14 of 29 attempts for a 48 mark. The Broncos pitched at the hoop 34 times but connected only 13 times for 38 per cent.

In the last half, both teams took 25 pokes at the ring; but the cautious Broncs made 15 of their efforts good for a shiny 60 per cent shooting average while the Indians cashed in only nine times for a mediocre 37 per cent.

—SPORTS—

As second-half play started, Belmond drew into a quick 35-30 advantage and later padded the margin to 41-32. Forest City then outscored the Broncos 12 to six and with 3:30 gone in the third quarter trailed by only 47-44.

Lead goes to 58-46

With three minutes of play remaining, Forest City still was not out of it at 52-46; but Belmond went into a modified control style of play and as the Indian defense loosened up in attempts to get the ball the Broncos expanded their lead to 58-46 on a basket by Greg Fuller and two by Terry Nelson with 1:40 showing on the clock.

In the last three minutes, two freethrows by Albertson — who had 2-for-10 for the game — and a fielder by John Gahan was all the scoring the losers could manage. Bamford wound up the Blue-and-White's scoring in the last minute and a half with a basket and pair of freethrows.

Belmond showed well-balanced scoring, Nelson and Bamford each netting 16 points while Fuller and Joel Gabrielson notched 14 apiece. Lee Barkema got the remaining two. Nelson and Fuller helped the cause with some good board work, especially beneath the defensive basket. Terry fouled out late in the game.

Schmidt top scorer

Forest City's scoring was reasonably well divided. Classy Danny Schmidt led with 18 points, Gahan and Albertson each made 10, Chuck Hereen six and Dave Haugen four. The Indians' rooters would have liked to see Schmidt shoot more often, as he had much the best eye for the basket of any of Hilmer's outfit.

Belmond's froshmores had to scrap to pull out a 42-36 win in the curtain raiser. They led 26-21 at the half and by 38-28 after three quarters; but they played raggedly in the final stanza to allow the Pappooses' hopes to remain alive almost to the end.

Tim Dirks carried the scoring load with 20 points. Joey McLaughlin, Lennie Johnson and Ron Dougherty tallied six apiece and Ron Ginapp four. Chuck Etzen was the stand-out for Forest City with 14 points.

Bronc wrestling, cage tournament assignments made

Both Coach Ted Besch and Coach Don Jones were pretty well satisfied with Belmond tournament assignments for basketball and wrestling that were released last week by the Iowa High School Athletic association.

The Bronco cagers drew Clarion as their 1st-round district opponent on March 4. It's Hampton vs. Iowa Falls in the lower bracket on March 5, with the finals on March 7. The tournament will be in the local gym.

The District No. 5 winner from here will play the District 6 survivor, to be determined at Mason City from among Clear Lake, Mason City, Newman of Mason City and Osage. The sub-state first round game will be at Mason City on March 9.

Belmond's wrestlers will compete at Britt on Feb. 14-15. The sectional tournament will have Britt and Hampton as the top powers, with Belmond, Nora Springs and Rockford expected to provide some title contenders.

Other schools in the field are Lake Mills, North Central (Manly), Newman of Mason City, Northwood and St. Ansgar.

Mickey does well in Wartburg meet

Mickey Ketchum, a Wartburg junior, did well in the Wartburg College Invitational wrestling tournament held Saturday at Waverly. The tournament is conducted on a strictly individual basis and drew nearly 250 matmen from Iowa and Minnesota.

The former Bronco star competed in the 137-lb. division, one of the toughest classes in the tourney, and took third place by winning four out of his five matches.

Dows teams win in 'Heart Bowl'

About $197 was paid in entry fees and over $150 was cleared for the Heart Fund by the second annual "Heart Bowl" that came to a conclusion with a tournament at Clarion's HiHatt Lanes a week ago Sunday.

Teams from HiHatt Lanes, Bowl-Mor Lanes at Belmond and the Dows Bowl at Dows competed for the "Heart Bowl" trophies, which were both won by Dows entries. Two men's teams and two women's teams from each of the participating communities competed in the finals.

The Farmers State Bank of Dows took the men's title with a gross team score of 3,074 paced by Everett Cundall and Bob Erickson who had gross individual scores of 662 and 660 respectively.

Ila Ellis had a score of 676 with handicap and Clarissa Hartzell a 640 to lead Hartzell Produce to the women's championship.

Mrs. Leo Woodley of Clarion, county fund-raising chairman for the Heart association, presented the trophies and spoke a word of praise for the work put in by Mrs. Joyce Haugland of Clarion in organizing the tournament. The latter was aided by Barbara Wickham and Gayle Mortvedt.

Fret not thyself because of evildoers, neither be thou envious against the workers of iniquity. — Ps. 37:1

It's going to be slick; so be wary of those skids

These words being written after two mornings in a row that local streets — and, for a time, the highways — were treacherous with ice, it seems apropos to mention that skidding causes more than 100,000 auto accidents annually in this get-there-quick land of ours.

We have as our authority for the statistic an insurance firm that views this as a sufficiently costly cause of accidents that it has established a skid-control school to learn how best to cope with skids of various types.

The company's engineers say there are six basic skids and list four steps to take when a car begins to skid: (1) take your foot off the brakes; (2) take your foot off the gas pedal; (3) countersteer — in direction opposite to the skid; (3) declutch, if you HAVE a clutch.

The six skids are:

1. Front-wheel lock, when the car's front tires slip on ice or oil slick, causing the driver to lose steering control.

2. Rear-wheel lock, when the driver slams on the brakes on slippery pavement, causing the car to make a 180-degree turn with the rear end of the car whipping around to the "front."

3. All-wheel lock, when brakes are jammed too hard, causing all four wheels to lose traction with the road. The car slides unpredictably in any direction. When this occurs, the car can be slowed down by "stabbing" the brakes, repeatedly hitting them quickly.

4. Power skid, when the car is accelerated too fast for road conditions, causing the rear wheels to spin quickly while the car "fishtails" back and forth.

5. Spin-outs, caused by entering a turn too fast; the rear end of the car breaks loose and whips the car off the road.

Now, just remember WHAT to do, and WHEN to do it.

When parents get clever with names — oh, boy!

Out here in the sticks it seems rarely to occur to any possessor of a disliked name to do anything about it. But it's somethin' different in the city. If you have a name you don't like — especially if it's a source of embarrassment to you — and you have a few bucks for a lawyer, you just up an get it changed.

Fact of the matter is, the change-of-name division of a metropolitan court gets to be a pretty busy place sometimes. We once wrote a feature story about name changes that had been approved by a New York City court. A little, banty-rooster Irishman was the clerk in charge.

He was in a high dudgeon the day we were there jotting notes. A fellow had just been given permission to change his name from Callahan to a moniker without a hint of Irish to it, and our new acquaintance was indignant enough to spit.

What brought this to our mind was reading of some odd names that the Social Security System has brought to light. There were the Cans who named their son Tin; the Scotts who named their pride and joy Great. There is also a True Story, Born Young and — believe it or not — a Mr. and Mrs. Around who named their kid Stick.

Odd names need not necessarily be a handicap. There were the Roysters of North Carolina who named all of their sons for states. Vermont C. (for Connecticut) became editor of the Wall Street Journal. We've always wondered what became of the son of Mr. and Mrs. Slater. The one they named Legis.

Following this line of thought got us to mulling over some local possibilities. Some good ones have been missed. A number of very obvious ones were passed up — like Slow Berns, True Blau (color it blue) and So Long.

With a little imagination some much better ones could have been perpetrated. We think, for example, of: Shutthe Dorr, Havin Fitts and Thatsa Goodwin.

Or perhaps: Gorenta Hall, Lilred Henn, Overtha Hill, Dontbeso Leary . . . or Feelino Payne.

One of our very favorite names from our own newspaper files is Pink Trees. Always brings to our mind apple blossom time.

Perhaps the most famous of true-to-life names foisted on an innocent child is Ima Hogg. Unlike the hard-to-suit Mr. Callahan, Miss Hogg has never changed her name — not even by marriage. But it hasn't appeared to be an affliction. She's still alive today, a well known society leader and patroness of the arts in Houston, Tex.

There are, the sociologists declare, many divisive influences in the contemporary American family. They make it growingly difficult for a family to present a unified front.

Sometimes Mom and Dad may disagree on the elasticity of the budget, when a new dress or desired piece of furniture is at stake. How many hours per day the small-fry should be permitted to gaze at the boob-tube is another one; and how often Junior should be allowed use of the family car.

Homework enters the picture; and not infrequently a sinkful of dirty dishes rears its ugly head. Problems, problems. And the arguments ebb and flow.

But for really setting a family on its ear, we give you the credibility gap that breaches the family circle when there's a wrestler in the house.

Even though she may grouse occasionally when a teen-age appetite reduces the family larder to an unanticipatedly low level several days in advance of the weekend shopping, Mom regards it as only natural and normal that kids should eat like there's no tomorrow.

And when silence envelopes the cookie jar lid, those left over slices of salami remain untouched in the "fridge" and that extra piece of pumpkin pie outlives its normal life expectancy, it does something to a mother.

What it does is, it makes her see positively green if to top it all off the perambulatory appetite that's customarily expected to keep leftovers and not-so-leftovers under strict control plops himself down at the supper table with a plate of lettuce in front of him. Period.

She may know it's going to happen. A crisis in wrestling weight being at hand, it may have happened last night. And it may happen again tomorrow night — and it may develop into standard operating procedure on the night's before a meet.

Nevertheless, on each occasion it comes as an intolerable shock.

Dad, understanding such eccentricities of the world athletic, regards that a bit of the Spartan life will do the kid no harm. If there are other siblings around the table, they look on with approval because it may mean an extra helping of something they particularly like.

(It's against motherly principles to simply cook less, under the circumstances. Preparing the usual amount of everything lends emphasis to the asininity of what is going on. And it provides the opportunity for a significant sigh as the untouched food is returned to the kitchen.)

To Pop and the abstemious sprout, it makes sense. The guys Junior has had to be tangling with at his natural weight are turning out all too often to be hollow-cheeked giants who have altogether too much height and reach to cope with. Drop a half-dozen more pounds and he can then contend with foes his own size.

But it all makes as much sense to Mom as leaving the windows open on a dusty day to see if the furniture will get dirty. It's contrary to God's plan, and that's that.

Oh, she'll still go to the meets. She'll squirm as Junior valiantly wriggles in pursuit of a reversal. She'll push holes in the floor helping him out and stare holes through the clock as he desperately battles his way out of a predicament. And she'll be happy the fellow her boy's tangling isn't any bigger than he is.

But that plate of lettuce! Divisive. That's what it is!

Saluting society's forgotten man

It was with more than a good deal of sympathetic interest that we noted a recent speech made by President Miller Upton of Beloit college, Wisconsin. He hit some kind of a nail on the head when he said:

"I have just about reached the end of my tolerance for the way our society at the present time seems to have sympathetic concern only for the misfit, the pervert, the drug addict, the drifter, the ne'er-do-well, the maladjusted, the chronic criminal, the underachiever, the loser — in general the underdog."

UPTON WENT ON TO DECLARE he does not in any way oppose public efforts to assist such people. But he thinks that somehow more recognition and solicitude should be shown for the members of our society who go about their business and amount to something. . . .

What the educator was talking about here was America's forgotten man. He is the ordinary, decent man of character who goes to work on time, pays his bills and taxes, worries about his family, probably goes to church, obeys the law, casts his ballot, avoids trouble with the neighbors and seldom goes to extremes about anything.

IN SHORT, HE IS WHAT OUR drop-outs refer to as a "square."

Like Upton, we most certainly are not opposed to social uplift programs. But, along with him, we emphatically lament the fact that the forgotten man is so prevalently either taken for granted or laughed at because he constructively conforms to his responsibilities.

So here, at least, is a salute to the man who gives instead of asking. . . . Without the forgotten man and his tax payments there would be no such programs. — San Francisco Examiner

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT

By Ye Ed

It shook us up. TJ wandered in, curled up by the filing cabinet (he's practically deserted the chair since the floor was carpeted), and sat silently eyeing us. It's a rare occasion when he isn't boiling over with conversation. And what utterly confounded us, he didn't even look sick.

We SHOULD have availed ourself of the opportunity and gotten some work done. But we found his silence even more distracting than his customary chatter. Finally, desperate to break the impasse, we said, "Seems we missed taking note of an anniversary a while back."

"Oh?" TJ responded.

"YEAH," WE CONTINUED. "Last October 19th was the 18th anniversary of our arrival as a working hand at The Independent."

"Belmond's luck seems to run thin in October, doesn't it?" the feline said. "You came on the 19th; and the tornado hit on the 14th."

"Now aren't you a little ray of sunshine this morning!" we exclaimed. "What prompts this unseemly gaiety?"

"Darned near got run over," replied the cat. "Was down to the We 3 to see if they'd been careless with any scraps in the meat department. Sometimes they miss the hamburger box and a fellow can pick up a bite or two.

"AS IT TURNED OUT, EVERYbody's aim seemed to have been good this morning, so I left hungry. Then, crossing the street by the light office I came within an eyelash of getting run over when a car came up to the stop sign and skidded pretty near into the middle of the intersection."

He glowered as he recalled his narrow escape and muttered, "The street department maybe can't afford any sand to go by those stop signs when the streets are a sheet of ice?"

"Kinda wondered about that, myself," we admitted. "When we were taking the missus to work, we noticed nobody was even trying to halt at the school patrol stop sign atop Mount Murray — at the corner southeast of the junior high.

"IF YAH STOPPED, YOU'D A had to back up a half block and take a run for it. Getting sand at the street corners when needed hasn't been one of the street department's strong points, for sure."

With that, we faced the typewriter and went into our editorial-writing trance. We stared blankly at the west wall, wooing the muse. Nothing seemed to come to mind as an editorial topic.

TJ broke the uncomfortable spell by saying, "Eighteen years, huh? An average of maybe three editorials per week would be . . . holy cow! Over 2,800 editorials you've foisted on the helpless readers of the Independent since the fall of '49!"

"NOT EXACTLY HELPLESS," we replied. "They don't HAVE to read 'em. In fact, we've always related our editorial writing to the old controversy — if a tree falls in the middle of a forest and nobody's around to hear, does it make a noise? Sometimes we suspect that the editorials add up more to finger exercise than anything else."

TJ's spirits began to rise. With a grin, he asked, "Let's be honest. How many of the 2,800-plus do you calculate were WORTH reading?"

THAT MIFFED US A LITTLE. It's all right if WE run down our editorials; but it's somethin' different if somebody else does. Especially the cat. Defensively, we called to his attention, "They've won several state awards for editorial excellence. First place, even, back in '59."

"But the contest judges HAVE to read 'em," TJ declared. "That hardly counts as any evidence."

"Well, you can count on one thing," we countered, "when we stamp on somebody's corn in an editorial, the owner of the corn always reads it.

"Like the teacher editorial last week?" asked the cat, with a chuckle.

"YOU MIGHT TAKE THAT AS an example," we agreed. "Anyway, we'd be the last to claim that we can come up with three topics of pertinence 52 times a year. . . . Shucks, ONE a week comes pretty hard."

Settling himself for a snooze, the cat rolled an eye our direction and inquired, "What's the outlook for the coming week?"

"Pretty dismal," we admitted. "We coulda chewed out the street department for being too economical on sand. But YOU kinda spoiled THAT one."

With that we resumed our inspection of the wall in vain pursuit of an inspiration. The cat's eyes closed and in a matter of seconds he was clearly asleep. . . . And oh how we wished we could join him!

Dave Kennedy purchases concern—

Pillow "factory" Belmond's newest industry

Belmond's newest industry holds forth these days in the rear end of the Flanagan Agency building. It is Tonka Crafts, a name acquired by its purchaser, Dave Kennery, when he bought it lock-stock-and-barrel from a couple at Navarre, Minn., late last September.

Dave had had his eye on the business for some little time, knowing that its proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. George Braun, were of a mind to retire and were interested in selling.

Tonka Crafts' lone product is pillows — but pillows of considerable variety. And Dave has already started to expand the variety.

Vestweber production manager

Mr. and Mrs. Braun had been in the pillow business for seven years, operating Tonka Crafts as an adjunct of their furniture store at Navarre. Two women assisted them in the manufacturing process; and the Brauns and one of their aides came down to Belmond a while back to pass along their know-how after production facilities had been set up in the Flanagan quarters.

Fred Vestweber has been hired by Mr. Kennedy as his production manager. Helping him as seamstresses are Mrs. Marion Nelson and marie Kiley, operating machines at the "factory" — plus Mrs. Bruce Banwell of Dows, Mrs. Don Robinson and Betty Rath, who do piecework sewing at home.

As production gets into full swing, Dave hopes there will be a need for more sewing machine operators; and he already has a number of applications on hand awaiting that day.

Experimenting on styles

Tonka Crafts had outlets in Minnesota, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Iowa. The new owner intends to set up his own sales organization; and in addition he has apparently good prospects of obtaining a couple of furniture store chains as customers.

He acquired from the previous owners sewing machines, dies and stamps, button machines, a fabric cutter, filler materials, a stock of pillows and some items of office equipment.

At present, Dave and Fred are engaging in quite a bit of experimentation to the end of expanding Tonka Crafts' line (Dave intends, incidentally, to change the firm name in due time but for the present will use the existing name to take advantage of a government permit already in the establishment's possession).

Innovations that have already been introduced under the new ownership include a bolster pillow, plus decorator pillows of a bonded material, quilted fabrics and velours. The previous owners confined their product to pillows of velveteen, antique satin and corduroy.

Mr. Vestweber says there are already indications that the bolsters and decorator pillows of quilted material in floral patterns may well turn out to be top sellers.

Experimentation is also being done on the addition of sleeping pillows stuffed with Dacron. This filler has a distinct advantage over poly urethane, which is most commonly used, and kapoc in that it is non-allergic. Allergy sufferers often cannot use the poly urethane or kapoc pillows.

Most filled by machine

The kapoc is imported from Java, whereas the other two filler materials are synthetics of domestic manufacture. Except for the bolsters, the various types of pillows have their filling blown into them with a machine that came with the business. The bolsters must be handfilled.

Retail range of the pillows in the Tonka line will run from 97 cents to $3.98. The bolsters may have to run a bit higher, Fred says, because the sewing on them is more difficult than on the regular run of pillows.

Mr. Kennedy sees a good possibility for getting into the custom manufacture of pillows from materials supplied by the customer. This work would be done on a cost-plus basis.

Some material deliveries slow

One reason for the high hopes that the pillows of quilted material will prove particularly popular is that Dave has seen nothing exactly like them on the market.

Delivery of some needed materials has been rather discouragingly slow, as the new industry gets its feet under it. Some difficulty has been experienced in getting satisfactory prompt delivery on kapoc, too.

This has slowed down production and made current output smaller than Dave and Fred hope it will soon grow to be.

But as sources of supply become better established and sales outlets are acquired, Mr. Kennedy and his production manager foresee that Tonka Crafts — or whatever it becomes, when renamed — may become an industry capable of pouring quite a goodly number of dollars into Belmond's economy.

Shirley Swenson, Douglas Stoffer wed Nov. 25th at Trinity church

Miss Shirley Swenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Swenson, became the bride of Douglas Stoffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stoffer, Saturday evening, Nov. 25, at 7:30 o'clock at Trinity Lutheran church. Pastor O. Laaveg performed the double-ring ceremony.

The altar flowers were two baskets of bronze and yellow mums with orange bows. Pews were de- with orange bows. Pews were decorated with bronze bows. accompanied Mrs. Robert H. Pals of Alexander, cousin of the groom, as she sang "O Perfect Love," and the "Wedding Prayer," the latter as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned in silk faced peau and re-embroidered Alencon lace. Lace appliques encircled the sabrina neckline, adorned the sleeves and large medallions graced the skirt front. Pearl embroidery trim was used and the high rise waistline had bow trim. The floor-length, sheath skirt had overlay on sides flowing from the waistline around the entire back and continued to the brush train. The illusion veil fell from a satin covered pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of white mums, tangerine carnations and yellow daisy pompons.

Mrs. Sherman Hall of Loves Park, Ill., sister of the bride was matron of honor and Pamela Reasoner and Mrs. Alvie Smith were bridesmaids. They all wore dresses of olive green fashioned of chiffon over taffeta. Their A-Line, floor - length sheaths had scoop necklines and above elbow-length selves. The yokes were encircled by matching Venice lace. Side overdrapes of chiffon covered the entire back. Their headpieces were velveteened leaves and petals which held nose-tip pure silk illusion veils.

Thomas Klemish of Spillville was best man and William Langlitz of Goodell and Alvie Smith were groomsmen. Paul Swenson, brother of the bride, served as ringbearer. All the men of the wedding party wore black tuxedoes and white carnation boutonnieres.

The ushers were Larry Swenson, brother of bride, Sherman Hall of Loves Park, Ill., brother-in-law of bride, James Hoft of Carroll, brother-in-law of groom, and Wayne Smith, cousin of groom. They wore dark suits with white carnation boutonnieres.

The bride's mother wore a pumpkin colored three-piece knit suit with brown accessories and the groom's mother wore a two-piece mint green knit suit with a full-length coat and brown accessories, Each had a orchid corsage.

Mrs. James Hoft of Carroll, sister of the groom, presided over the guest book. Dana Obrecht, DaLon Obrecht and Lonnie Stoffer were gift pages.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Dorothy Swenson of Ames, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. George Smith, aunt of the groom, cut and served cake. Mrs. E. L. South of Omaha, Neb., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. L. W Stoffer, aunt of the groom. poured coffee. Shirley Shelton and Val Trca served punch. Waitresses were Julie Eckhoff, Jo Anne Smith, Sharon Cummings, La Donn Abile, Carolyn Prohaska and Connie Thayer. Dining room host and hostess were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Obrecht, uncle and aunt of the bride. Mrs. Duane Mennenga was the bride's personal attendant. The reception was catered by Mrs. Mary Moe.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. Maurice Morford, Mrs. Leland Dahlgreen, Mrs. Leland Sebby, Mrs. Dean Bohy and Mrs. Andy Lester, all of Clarion.

Both the bride and groom graduated from Belmond Community High school in 1964. The bride attended Waldorf college and Hamilton's Business college. The groom just recently returned from a year in Vietnam. The bride is now employed at the First National bank at Clarion and the groom is employed by the State Highway commission. They will be making their home in Clarion.

Humboldt matmen simply too good

Belmond High's wrestlers were badly outclassed by the Humboldt Wildcats here Tuesday night, the varsity losing by a 35-9 score and the reserves, 37 to 10.

Bronco winners by decisions in the varsity meet were Robb Dorr (127 lbs.) Gene Pals (165) and Mack Gabrielson (180). At 154, Randy Turner fended off a fall by last year's state AA 145-lb. champion, Keith Abens, but was decisioned 10-0.

The only reserve winners were Tom Wilson, 112 lbs., and Terry Boyd (127), the latter getting Belmond's only fall of the night. Bob Cullinan (133) earned a 2-2 draw.

Meeting Dec. 14 on land tenure

Bob Bernhardt, Wright county extension director, announces a land tenure meeting for Wright county farmers and landowners on Dec. 14 at the Woolstock Community Hall.

Jim Hughes, extension leader in farm management from Iowa State university, will discuss the different methods of transferring land. What should be included in a contract deal? Are there benefits to a contract and who benefits? What are the sources of credit for buying real estate?

These questions will be considered, and others such as, "How much can I pay for land to add to my present farm?", "What is land really worth?", "Is $600 land too high?" and "Are many present leases out of date?"

The meeting will be conducted from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, Dec. 14,

Reservations for attendance should be made at the Extension Office in Clarion by Dec. 11. This is necessary because this is a joint meeting with the Hamilton county farmers, so the Wright county number will be limited to about 40 participants.

County zoning goal of NIAD

"All of the NIAD area should be planned and zoned," was the statement made by Jim Harley, Rockwell, at a recent meeting of NIAD committee members and local government officials from eight of NIAD's nine counties and 14 of NIAD's 60 communities.

Bill Koebler, Charles City, who heads the NIAD business and industry committee, stated that NIAD is ahead of the rest on data collection, thanks to the help of Iowa State university; and is in a position to move ahead with comprehensive planning and zoning.

Bob Rost, Hampton, head of the NIAD executive committee, commended area community leaders on how well they have worked together over the past four years in developing their communities and the area. He stated that Hampton was preparing for growth by making plans to improve school, hospital and airport facilities.

Representatives of Floyd, Franklin and Cerro Gordo counties reported on progress of planning and zoning to date. Belmond had the largest group present.

It was agreed that all would return to their respective communities and counties and work for further planning and zoning. The executive committee was especially given leadership responsibility on this project.

PUBLIC FORUM

Letters to the Independent are welcomed. Please try to limit to 250 words or less.

To the Editor:

That the Belmond Community Chest drive appears to have failed in reaching its 1967 goal has become apparent. This is most regrettable. We can now conclude that far too many of us did not give our fair share this year. Because this was a community's drive and hence a community's failure. We were astounded to read the November 30th editorial in your newspaper entitled "Teacher-town obligation should be a two-way street."

The editorial's opening sentence states "that it was with some misgivings" that the Chest giving of one segment of Belmond's population was commented upon. T. J., the office cat, inquired further, in his own column, as to whether this line of attack might not be getting a little "gutsy." We agree with both points of view for it WAS "gutsy" and there should have been misgivings.

You cited many apparently convincing statistics on teachers' giving, nationally and in Mason City, and used these as a yardstick with which to measure our local faculty's contributions. We do not deny the validity of these figures but we would wager that just as condemning statistics could have been marshalled, if they had been researched, proving that the giving of other sectors in town — perhaps our professional group, or our merchants or the residents of Block Number 999 (to use an hypothetical figure) might not have measured up to national averages, either.

The point is, Mr. Editor, that in the opinion of this reader you erred in pointing an accusing finger at one specific group of our town's residents when it should have been pointed at our town as a whole. This is always a dangerous line of attack and usually an unfair one.

Furthermore, it would seem to us that you belabor the point that teachers' salaries are paid by taxpayers. You imply that because this is so teachers owe greater support to local causes than was evident in our recent drive. Teachers are paid out of taxpayers funds to perform a specific task — that of educating our children. That they do this most creditably, we are sure you would agree.

Beyond the performance of their duty, out faculty actually OWES us nothing. Admittedly, we would like to have them choose to become a part of our community and to work with us in building a better Belmond. That they do this is solidly backed up by their record: they buy homes here, they join our churches, they take part in innumerable community projects and drives, they are hard working members of service and civic clubs and organizations.

All this is conclusive proof that though they may actually owe us nothing, they give us much. Isn't this, then, truly a "two-way street?"

Because we agree with you that giving to the chest should be an obligation — a moral one, certainly — let us make a more concerted effort in 1968 to be sure that EVERYONE understands what his fair share of the Community Chest's goal might be. This may be our weakness. With better informed citizens, we look forward to a year from now when we shall be celebrating the successful conclusion of the Community Chest drive in Belmond.

Mildred Leinbach

EDITOR'S NOTE: Although the Community Chest drive has been slow in completion, it is not yet taken for granted by the campaign chairmen and Chest officers that the $6,075 goal is certain to be missed.

Tips on mailing can assist fast Yule deliveries

Postmaster Bill Walrod reminds local residents that it is just as important to mail early in the day as to mail early during the Christmas season.

By mailing early in the day, postal employees can assure that gifts, cards and letters will be sent on their way by the earliest possible transportation.

"Because of the heavy nationwide Christmas mailing and the inadequate facilities at many points," observed Mr. Walrod, "it is more necessary than ever before that people mail early in the season to assure that there are no jam-ups in major cities where trains, trucks and planes converge with their mail."

The postmaster also encouraged all mailers to use ZIP codes on every piece of mail to assure most efficient handling.

He noted that use of the special five-cent Christmas stamp or any other five-cent stamp on Christmas cards affords First Class treatment.

That means the cards will be forwarded if the recipient has moved, or returned if there is no forwarding address so that mailing lists can be brought up to date. Third Class postage on cards does not provide that service.

The local post office windows will remain open all day Saturday, Dec. 16, Mr. Walrod advises.

Disappointments marred mat losses at Hampton

Disappointments to Coach Don Jones were rather numerous when the Belmond High wrestlers suffered a 31-16 defeat at the hands of Hampton on Tuesday night of last week, but there were bright spots, too.

One of the most pleasing turn of events was Sophomore Terry Boyd's 12-5 decision over Bob Eitel, a Bulldog senior. at 127 pounds. Also a source of satisfaction was veteran Rob Dorr's third-period fall on Bob Carr in the Bronco's first match of the season at 120 pounds after earlier wrestling at 127.

Most of the matches were decisively won or lost by the Broncs. An exception was a 2-2 deadlock in which Vance Jenison figured against LeNeil Wilkinson at 138 pounds and Glen Gabrielson's 2-1 defeat by Alan McDowell at 154. Glen was reversed in the second period, then got an escape, but was unable to score the go-ahead points.

Gene Pals lost his only point on a technical violation in whipping Grant 4-1 at 165 pounds and was in command throughout the match. Mack Gabrielson had correspondingly little trouble in winning his 180-lb. match, 4-0, against Steve Jones, a sophomore

Most of the Bronco reserves found the going considerably too tough as Hampton took the B meet 31-11. The highlight for Belmond was Duncan Campbell's 2-0 win at 120 over Kurt Junker, an unusually good reserve. Kent Korthas score three points in the final period to win over Mark Waugh at 103 and Kevin Griffin pinned Larry Richtsmeier in 3:15 at 180 pounds.

Varsity summary:

138 — Jenison (B) drew with Wilkinson, 2-2; 145 — John Showalter (H) pinned Gallagher, 5:50; 154 — McDowell (H) dec. G. Gabrielson (B) 2-1; 165 — Pals (B) (B) dec. Jones, 4-0; Hwt. — Don Krukow (H) pinned Dennis Knoll, :45.

Reserve summary:

138 — Larry Sailer (H) dec. Irv Meier, 2-0; 145 — Chuck Brown (H) dec. John Reasoner, 7-0; 154 — James Burmester (H) dec. Phil Meier, 9-0; 165 — Arnold Kleckner (H) dec. Kevin Dorr, 9-0: 180 — Griffin (B) pinned Richtsmeier, 3:15; Hwt. — Tim Rodemeyer (H) pinned Keith Boller, 1:27.

Belmond High sports activity for the coming week will find Coach Ted Besch and Coach Don Jones warning their basketball and wrestling teams, respectively, against taking an easy time for granted in meeting their next foes.

Britt will be the opposition for the Bronco basketeers here tomorrow (Friday) night; and on Wednesday, the grapplers will travel to Mason City to tangle with Newman High.

Despite the return of six lettermen, Coach Gary Johnson has had trouble getting his Eagle cage crew into gear. Coach Besch has been in the business long enough, though, to know the penalty that can be exacted for taking any opponent too lightly and wants his boys all ready for a good scrap.

Newman's Knights are in only their second year of wrestling on an interscholastic basis and logically should stand the slimmest sort of a chance to upset the more experienced Bronco mat team. The Knights nevertheless have several individuals who have shown good progress and some upsets could easily result from overconfidence on the part of the Broncos.

I drive carefully because the wife I save may be my own.

I read somewhere that a driver on a 500-mile trip runs a greater risk than a man crossing the Continent in the heyday of the Comanche and the Apache.

I believe it. Cars and drivers are my business. I run a Standard Oil Station.

Through the years I've developed a philosophy of driving. I never trust the other driver. I'm always on the defensive. Being in the right is no protection against the driver who's in the wrong.

Finally—I don't even trust myself. I adjust my speed to weather and road conditions. When it's raining hard, the greatest driver in the world can't see as far or react as quickly as a 70-year-old on a clear day.

You might say I drive carefully because the wife I save may be my own.

Cards Of Thanks

Fred and Hattie Allison would like to express their deepest appreciation to our Belmond friends and former neighbors for their cards, friendly letters, gifts and flowers, during Fred's illness while at Mercy hospital at Mason City; also to Rev. Laaveg for his kindness. 11t1

I wish to thank all my relatives and friends for the cards, visits and flowers that I received while a patient at the Belmond Community and University hospitals. Also thanks to Dr. Benetti and the entire hospital staff for the wonderful care given me and to the neighbors who helped with the farm work. Your thoughtfulness will never be forgotten. Elmer Hopkey. 11t1

I would like to thank all my friends and relatives for the visits, cards and flowers during my stay in the Belmond hospital. Special thanks to the doctors, nurses and employees; also to Pastor Laaveg for his visits and to my CB radio friends. God bless you all. Thomas Toft. 11t1*

I wish to thank relatives and friends for cards and gifts while I was at Mercy hospital following my accident. They were very much appreciated. Dave Robertson. 11t1*

Artist-evangelist at Bible church

Rev. C. LeRoy Sheveland, a gospel artist, will conduct evangelistic meetings at the Belmond Bible church on eight consecutive nights at 7:30 o'clock, starting this Sunday and extending through Sunday of next week.

He combines his artistic talents with unusual use of colored lights and supplements his presentations with a stereophonic musical background especially adapted to the message of each picture.

He has had seven years' experience in television, in both the technical and programming phases, and originated the Gospel in Art telecast at Austin, Minn.

Members of the Bible church extend a cordial invitation to the public to attend Mr. Sheveland's services.

Belmond Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Nielsen and Todd of St. Paul, Minn., were recent weekend visitors in the Art Nielsen home.

Marvin Sjoberg returned home Wednesday of last week from Mercy hospital, Mason City, where he had been a patient following surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bayliss were dinner guests Sunday in the Emil Valasek home at Osage and in the evening visited in the Dave Pierce home at Clear Lake.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 12 | OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1967 | OFFICIAL CITY PAPER | 12 PAGES THIS ISSUE

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Main street won't seem quite the same, after this Saturday. Pete English is going out of business and on Saturday will be selling the equipment of the Belmond Candy Kitchen. Only Jim Adams has been on Main street longer; and he, of course, hasn't for some time been in business for himself. Pete (his original name was Eglezos, which means "English" in Greek) joined Steve Antoneo in partnership in operating the Candy Kitchen in 1922.

He'd come to this country from Greece in 1909 and learned candy-making of a fellow Greek in Pittsburgh, Pa. From 1917 until '22, Pete had a candy store of his own at Eagle Grove.

In the 'twenties, the Candy Kitchen was a popular hang-out for the high school crowd. In later years, it relied heavily on the popularity of Pete's homemade candies for its trade. Steve sold out his interest in 1933 and moved to Ames. Pete again entered "partnership" in 1955 when he ended his bachelorhood by marrying Ida Harbison. They've jointly operated the store in the years since. There will be a lot of us miss Pete and Ida at the old stand!

An item in this week's Kanawha section mentions that Lois Stufflick, erstwhile Kanawha High basketball star, is currently a member of the girls cage team at John F. Kennedy college, Wahoo, Neb. That she is, indeed! Monday evening the Kennedy cagerettes played Midwestern college of Denison in a National Women's Basketball league game and took the Iowans into camp 85 to 75. High scorer of the contest was Lois, who piled up 36 points.

When the Bob Kruglers recently moved to the Nick Nelson home on Sunset Drive in Kirkendall Addition, it set in motion a "musical chairs" process that will be churning for a week or so to come. The Kruglers vacated the Selma Griesy property at 407 Fourth avenue NE, into which Middle Mainstreeter Dick Gowdy and Miriam moved this week. That makes way for the Fred Pals to move from their Sunset Drive home to that of the Gowdys, which they've purchased.

Another Sunset Drive family — the "Pete" Followwills — will move from their present location into the Pals abode, which THEY bought. And the Jack Manders will become Sunset Drive inhabitants, having bought the Followwill residence. (Are you still with us?)

The Manders are moving from Lois Hammond's former residence next to Hammond House, and THAT will be occupied by the Ted Townsans, who've been occupying the Dr. L. R. Parsons home — which is up for sale. The Townsans were forced from their apartment at 411 Third avenue NE by the tornado. How's that for a ring-around-the-rosie? Incidentally, the Middle Mainstreeter says in the eight years he lived on Sunset Drive, 17 out of 21 residences on the street have seen a change of tenants!

Having insufficiently considered (as he should have) the various implications of the comments week before last in an editorial and "the cat column" re faculty giving to the Community Chest, Ye Ed was sorely disturbed at some inferences drawn — that were not in fact intended. Making the comments was a rather bum idea, Ye Ed has become convinced. There was no wish to cause embarrassment to any individuals as such; but we realized too late that individual application was just about inevitable. As TJ, the office cat, admonished us, "You go hunting butterflies with a blunderbus, SOMEBODY'S going to get hurt." Or, to change the weaponry, we'da better put that pistol down — undischarged.

As beautiful a community Christmas tree as Belmond has ever boasted has been put up at the Main street-Highway 69 intersection just north of Pollitt's Superamerica by the Belmond Kiwanis club. It's really a dandy.

Donor of the tree was Preston Tyrrell, who offered it to the Jaycees for decorative use. It was 32 feet tall when it fell to the axe. The Kiwanians got into the act when they offered their assistance to the Jaycees — in any Yule connection that it might be utilized.

No longer is the tree 32 feet high, but it's still impressive. The Kiwanians sawed off the unbranched lower part and then set about seven feet of the trunk in the ground. Guess THAT ought to hold 'er.

If Rev. Dan Carpenter, who with his wife has been conducting evangelistic meetings at the Methodist church, has the appearance of a football player — let it be known that the appearance is not deceiving.

Dan WAS a football player at Taylor university, Upland, Ind., and put that muscular physique to good use. He takes particular pride in having been a gridiron protege of Bob Davenport, who was an All-American at UCLA not so long ago.

He describes his mentor at Taylor as a truly "Christian coach." who inculcated in his players the highest principles of sportsmanship. Didn't interfere with the boys playing a good brand of ball, either.

FRED WHIPPLE IN NAVY

Fred Whipple, son of Leslie Whipple, has enlisted in the U. S. Navy and left for duty last Sunday. He will receive his boot training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Ill. Fred graduated from BHS last spring.

BHS-junior high concert this coming Sunday night

A couple of special requests are linked to the invitation extended the public to enjoy the annual Christmas program of the BHS concert choir and junior high chorus to be presented Sunday evening at Luick Memorial Auditorium.

Because the concert is to be recorded for inclusion in an album that the vocal music department plans to issue late in the school year, some special cooperation is requested of the audience by Director Stanley Norson.

He asks that students under high school age sit with their parents on this occasion, instead of congregating at the front of the auditorium as has been customary practice at past concerts. This will help maintain an aura of quiet in front of the stage and also eliminate possible distractions that might be reflected in the singers' performance.

In addition, Mr. Norson asks that members of the audience rely on the ushers' guidance in taking their seats. This will eliminate hard-to-get-at vacancies which at some past concerts have remained unoccupied while chairs have had to be set up to accommodate overflow crowds.

The 8:00 o'clock concert will last approximately an hour, and the director says a special effort has been made to include numbers that will have an appeal for both young and old listeners.

Four soloists will be featured in the concert choir's presentation of Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols," which promises to be one of the evening's highlights. They → are Carol Sharp and Marlene Suntken, sopranos, Barbara Olson and Barbara Finn, altos. Special accompanist at the piano will be Judy Carwell.

A soloist when the concert choir offers the Christmas spiritual "Mary's Boy Child" will be Doug Rokke, a freshman. The junior high choir's number, "Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head," — an Appalachian mountain lullaby — will have an 8th-grader, Marilyn Hill, as soloist.

Two great favorites of the Yule season will be included in the junior high section of the concert, "The Carol of the Drum" and "The Carol of the Bells."

Concluding the evening's program will be two selections by the massed choruses, as the 70-voice high school group and the 90-voice junior high choir combine to sing "The Angel's Song" and — as the finale — "Silent Night."

The carolling voices of two alternating groups of eight high school students will greet members of the audience as they approach the outside entrance to the auditorium.

As another innovation being introduced with Sunday's concert, incidental music will be played in the auditorium prior to the performance by a woodwind chamber group consisting of Nancy Smith, Kathy Slining and Marianne Hanson and sung by one of the groups of carolers.

IT MAY NOT BE the fanciest of Christmas trees, but the lighted fir attached to the top of the radio tower at the fire station is without much question one of the highest to be found for miles around. It is the most impressive at night, when its colored lights shine from the heavens in real mystical fashion.

BIDC purchases another 5 acres

Belmond Industrial Development corporation added to its industrial land holdings when on Thursday of last week its board of directors purchased from "Coonie" Smith a tract of four and a half to five acres lying just north of the former Wright county property on the extension of Fourth avenue NE. The consideration was $4,000.

Larry Flanagan, secretary of the BIDC, says this latest acquisition now gives the corporation ownership of between 28 and 30 acres of potential industrial land north of town.

There are 17 acres on the west side of "the dump road" which were purchased from the county. On the east side are an additional 11 acres, including reclaimed dump area. Five acres of this tract were given to National By-Products company as site of the collection station which is now under construction.

DeWayne Ehler, district manager for National By-Products at Iowa Falls, informed The Independent this week that progress on the collection station was delayed by a hang-up on steel deliveries caused by the steel strike. He predicted it would be some time in March before the building will be completed.

Mr. Flanagan says that fill will be borrowed from the newly acquired Smith property to make level some of the former county property on which there are former gravel diggings.

SERVICEMAN VISITS KIN

SP4 Daniel Richey of Waterloo, who has recently returned from duty in Vietnam, spent from Wednesday of last week until Monday in the home of his uncle, Robert Berneman. He also visited other relatives. The late LeRoy Jenison was his grandfather. Daniel will next report to Fort Lewis, Wash.

Fred Loeffler's funeral services held last week

Fred Loeffler, 74, died Wednesday afternoon of last week at Belmond Community hospital, where he had been a patient for three weeks. He had been in failing health for several months.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at St. John Lutheran church, Rev. Leo Andersen officiating and Johnston Funeral Home in charge. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery.

Pallbearers, all grandsons of the deceased, were: Ronald Loeffler, Vance Loeffler, Craig Loeffler, Paul Rogalla, Jr., Larry Zeiger and Douglas Thompson. Honorary pallbearers were: J. F. Maddick of Britt, Bert Huntley of Kanawha, George Christensen of Klemme, Harlan Johnson of Sheffield, Harold Savogue of Goodell and John Spitler.

Was born in Russia

Mr. Loeffler was born at Grim, Russia, on Jan. 18, 1893, the son of Alexander and Marie Loeffler. He came to this country as a young man in 1912, residing first at Belwood, Ill., and later moving to Maywood, Ill. On Jan. 18 1914, he married Margaret Groh at Melrose Park, Ill.

After their marriage, the Loefflers lived in Iowa — for several years in the Kanawha-Renwick area — and later moved to Belmond. After the tornado last year, they purchased their present home at 515 First street SE and have lived their since.

Five children survive

Six children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Loeffler, five and their mother surviving their father: Mrs. Edward (Mary) Schnack of Chicago. Karl Loeffler of Lisbon, Mrs. Paul (Olga) Rogalla, Mrs. Alex (Eleanor) Zeiger and Mrs. Donald (Helen) Thompson of Belmond.

Also surviving are 14 grandchildren, five great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Alex Schmidt of Chicago.

A son, Fred, died in 1952 at the age of 38; and a grandson, James Loeffler, died in 1957.

ZILLER COMPLETES COURSE

FT. MONMOUTH, N. J. (AHTNC) — Private First Class Lew E. Ziller, 19, son of Mrs. Mary Ziller of Belmond, completed an electronics specialist course Nov. 24 at the Army Signal School, Ft. Monmouth, N. J. During the course, he was trained to operate and maintain various Army electronic equipment.

Barendregt building was erected 75 years ago this coming spring

When the Barendregt building tumbles before the demolition ball in the near future, Belmond's Main street will witness the departure of one of its oldest landmarks.

(The Independent, incidentally, wishes to express its regrets to the present owner, Peter Barendregt of Clarion, for having him "deceased" in several hundred copies of last week's issue. Pete is very much alive and as was the case once with Mark Twain, the report of his demise was "grossly exaggerated.")

Just 75 years ago, the directors of the long-departed Iowa Valley State bank were studying plans in preparation for having the building erected during the oncoming spring.

In the March 22, 1893, issue of The Belmond Herald appeared the following comments on the Iowa Valley State bank building, which within a short period of time will be demolished to clear Main street of the final ruin left by the October tornado of last year. It was to rise just to the east of a frame building that at the time housed the bank.

Said the Herald: "From the plans and specifications now in the hands of the president, Mr. G. H. Richardson, we infer that this will be one of the finest bank buildings in northern Iowa.

"There will be a basement under the whole structure which has already been rented by H. C. Bullis for a barber shop and bath rooms.

"The building will be 23½x64½ feet on the ground, 30 feet high to the roof, with a tower 50 feet high on the corner. The front is a beauty, with large arched windows, and the entrance, which is a corner one, will be from an alcove under two massive arches, one from the south and the other from the east, supported on the corner proper by a solid stone column.

"The first story will probably be built of stone and the remainder of handsome red brick, the whole building being artistically trimmed with red stone.

"The east side toward the cross street will present even as fine an appearance as the front. The whole building, including offices in the second story, will be heated by a furnace."

"Messiah" solos by BHS alumna

Mrs. Charles (nee Gloria Rogalla) Corbin of Iowa Falls will be the alto soloist in a presentation of Handel's "Messiah" by the Waterloo Choral association this Sunday. The program will be at the West High school auditorium at 7:30 p. m.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rogalla, Gloria is a graduate of Belmond High school and Morningside college at Sioux City. She has also taken graduate work at the University of Northern Iowa at Cedar Falls.

She was prominent in singing activities at Morningside and after receiving her degree there was vocal instructor for three years at Central Lyons Community High school at Rock Rapids.

Gloria is one of three soloists engaged for the Waterloo "Messiah" presentation, which will involve a 70-voice chorus, 16-voice chamber music group and 15-piece orchestra.

FOUR BHS GRADS OMITTED FROM ISU ENROLLEE LIST

Several BHS alumni were omitted from the list of students enrolled at Iowa State university, Ames, that was received by The Independent and published last week, because their home address is not Belmond.

These included: Jerry Vestweber, Rowan, junior in industrial administration; Lynn Stille, Goodell, junior in industrial management; Lawrence Basener, Meservey, sophomore in agricultural education; Rhonda Kamm, now of Lawton, junior in child development and elementary education.

Belmond's budget given state's OK

State approval of the 1968 budget of the city of Belmond, drafted and adopted last August, was received this week by the county auditor's office.

Deputy Auditor Helen Mikelson says the budget calls for a millage increase from the 33.402 figure in effect this year to 37.494 mills for the coming year.

Tax askings were increased by only $3,499, up to $132,993, but the millage increase was necessitated by a reduction of property valuation caused by the tornado.

This figure dropped from $3,790,416 to $3,448,546. This will prove a temporary situation, as new building completed during the course of 1967 is likely to bring Belmond valuation over the pre-tornado level and logically will result in a considerable decrease in millage for 1969, Mrs. Mikelson predicted.

The deputy auditor also advised that the school budgets for the various Wright county school districts were submitted to the state comptroller's office this week. Due to the new tax provisions adopted by the latest legislature, the state will figure all school district taxes for the coming year.

It is the understanding at the auditor's office that the same millage will prevail for all school districts in a given county, instead of the levies being figured separately as in the past.

ADDRESSES OF DIDIOS

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Didio have provided the addresses of their two sons in service, for the benefit of their friends. That of Dennis, who is serving with the Marines in Vietnam, is: Pfc. Dennis C. Didio 2284728, 1st 8-in. How. Batt. (SP), FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96602. Charles, an x-ray technician, will also soon be heading for Vietnam His present address is: SP4 Charles A. Didio, Box 876, Madigan General Hospital, Tacoma, Wash. 98431.

Yule program of Ramsay school next Wednesday

Children in the first three grades at Ramsay Elementary school will present their annual Christmas program Wednesday of next week at 1:30 p. m. in Luick Memorial Auditorium under the direction of Shirley Malek.

Under the title, "It's Christmas Time Again," each of the grades will have its special part in the entertainment. The public is invited to witness the program, for which there will be no charge.

Brian Broshar will play the part of Jack Frost and the role of Suzy Snowflake will be jointly protrayed by Kathy Doeringsfeld and Lori Patterson, while Kerry Morris will be Frosty the Snowman in the 1st grade's portion of the program.

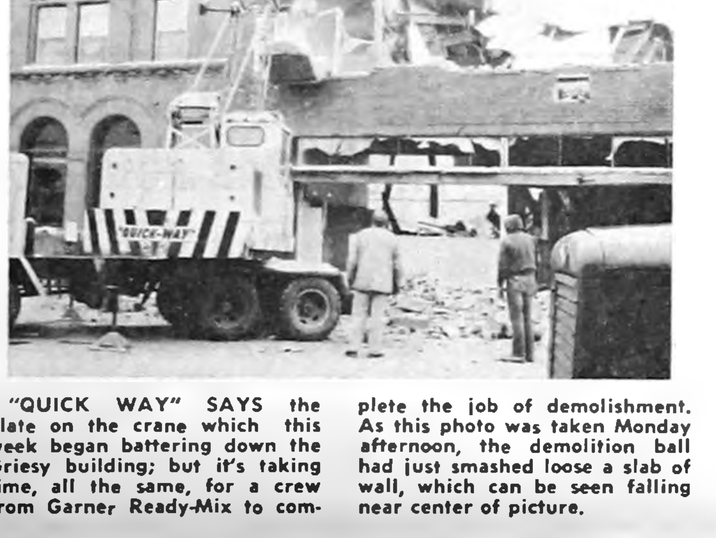
Also to be featured in this section are: Roxanne Hickman, Mary Kay Halverson and Doug Roelefson in a song, "Snowflakes"; Gayle Foss, Kathy Kessler, Dan Morehouse and Steven Wenzel in another song, "Suzy Snowflake."

In the 3rd grade presentation of the song, "Father Christmas," Leslie Wiemann and David Kessler will play xylophones as the singing is done by Carlene Diekhuis, Deloris Bryant, Susan Gerdes, Diane Kalkwarf, Ted Besch, Duane Wessels and David Harty.

Also from the 3rd grade, Kenny Robertson will be Santa and Jerry Nelson, Rudy, the Rednosed Reindeer.

When the 2nd grade takes the stage, Randy Just will play the drum for the singing of "Pat a Pan"; Janyne Pals and Nancy Sorenson will provide maraca accompaniment for the song, "Mary's Boy Child."

Lila Wessels, Elizabeth Knoll, Annette Baker, Jeanne Bock, Paul Rozendaal and Timmy Peters will be featured in the song, "Pat a Pan." In another number, "Christmas Bells," the singers will be Kathy McLaughlin, Ann Benetti, Laura Ziller, Stephanie Wenzel, Bruce Wendel and Mitch Waage.



"QUICK WAY" SAYS the plate on the crane which this week began battering down the Griesy building; but it's taking time, all the same, for a crew from Garner Ready-Mix to complete the job of demolishment. As this photo was taken Monday afternoon, the demolition ball had just smashed loose a slab of wall, which can be seen falling near center of picture.

7 drawing prizes claimed last week; final drawing slated next Thursday

Seven Belmond shoppers were handsomely rewarded for doing Christmas shopping in local stores when the drawings were made last Friday noon for weekly prizes featured as an attraction of the Chamber of Commerce holiday promotion.

Only three of the prizes for which lucky numbers were posted failed to bring forth claimants. They were an electric food blender and two 50-gallon lots of gasoline.

Mrs. Don Friesleben was winner of the portable dishwasher, Mrs. Opal Draper won the electric carving knife, and the Mr. and Mrs. matched chairs went to Mrs. Dale Hauge.

Four persons were winners of 50 gallons of gasoline, each. They were Mrs. Francis McAlpine and Ray Williams of Rowan, Mrs. Kenet Ginapp and Mrs. Russell Beenken.

Bidding for ownership in the drawing Friday noon of this week are: a man's or woman's diamond ring, a $100 U. S. saving bond, another electric carving knife and another 50-gallon lot of gasoline. With the three carry-over prizes, there could be seven winners if all the correct number stubs are turned in before 9:00 p. m. Saturday.

First of the treats for the youngsters comes this Saturday, when the first of two free matinees will be presented at the New Belmond theater at 1:30 p. m. Also, registration starts the same day for the two bicycles (for ages eight through 16) and four tricycles (age seven and under).

Names — with ages and addresses — may be deposited through Friday of next week and the drawing will be at the fire station on Saturday, Dec. 23, at 4:00 p. m., coinciding with Santa's visit.

A reminder is offered that the last of the drawings for the adult prizes will be on Thursday next week — rather than Friday — at 2:00 p.m. (so all ticket stubs should be in to the First State bank by that time). All carry-over prizes, plus four new ones topped by a Zenith console stereo with AM-FM radio, will be awarded at that time with successive drawings held at five-minute intervals until all are claimed.

J. Olsen funeral held on Tuesday at Holmes church

Julius J. Olsen, operator of a well-drilling and pump business in Belmond and Wright county for more than 40 years, died last Saturday at Clarion Memorial hospital at the age of 86. He had been admitted to the hospital the previous Tuesday for treatment of pneumonia, which was not regarded of a very serious nature, but died after suffering a coronary attack.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Holmes Lutheran church, the pastor, Rev. Marvin Dooley, officiating. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery. Grandsons of the deceased served as pallbearers: Gordon Johnson, Steven and Stanley Olsen, Mark Knutson of San Antonio, Tex., Eldon and Paul Ness of Story City.

Born in Denmark

Mr. Olsen was born Feb. 15, 1881, at Raskilde, Denmark, and emigrated to the United States at the age of 17. He first lived near a sister in Illinois for several years, then homesteaded in South Dakota for two years. He was married on Feb. 5, 1908, to Dora Rasmussen at Blair, Neb.

After his homesteading experience, he farmed briefly in Nebraska and then moved to Iowa, farming in the vicinities of Latimer, Dows and Rowan. While he was still a farmer, he launched his well-digging business and began engaging in it full time in 1926.

Moved to Clarion in '47

He operated the business out of Belmond until 1947. In 1936 he took his son Harold into partnership. In 1947 he moved to Clarion to continue in the business there, while his son was in charge of local operations. Mr. Olsen retired 10 years ago.

Surviving in addition to his wife and his son here are another son, Philip of Valinda, Calif., and four daughters — Mrs. Sanford (Dagny) Ness of Story City, Mrs. Ervin (Leonora) Johnson of Belmond, Mrs. E. (Priscilla) Grajales of Colombia, South America, and Mrs. Laurence (Judith) Knutson of San Antonio, Tex.

Other survivors include 20 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

A daughter Helen died at the age of 21.

Mr. Olsen was a member of the Holmes Lutheran church.

Dr. Baker takes Kansas City job

Dr. John D. Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Baker, has lately accepted a position as clinical research veterinarian with Jensen-Salsbery Laboratories of Kansas City, Mo.

In his new employment, he is responsible for planning and implementing field studies on new drugs and biologics, working with practicing veterinarians and universities throughout the United States.

With his wife Margaret, two sons and two daughters, Dr. Baker moved from Ames to Kansas City the first of November to take up his new duties.

A BHS graduate in 1944, Dr. Baker enlisted in the U. S. Navy a week after receiving his diploma and was in uniform for two years. He enrolled at Iowa State university, Ames, in 1945 and was graduated from the college of veterinary medicine in 1952.

For approximately 11 years he practiced his profession at Klemme, then moved to Ames and opened a small animal hospital, which he operated until accepting the position with Jensen-Salsbery.

TOWNSEND'S FATHER DIES

Harold Townsend, father of Merlyn Townsend, died Thursday at Charles City at the age of 71. Funeral services were held Saturday at Charles City.

Firemen re-elect Packard as chief

R. G. "Bud" Packard at a meeting of the Belmond Fire department held Monday evening was elected to serve for a seventh term as fire chief. Russell Porter was re-elected as assistant chief.

One new office was established, that of second assistant chief, and Leonard Steenblock was elected to fill the position.

Other officers re-elected were: Jim Houser, secretary; Gordon Sandman, treasurer; Wallace "Soupy" Cramer and A. W. Johnson as directors.

Richard Kling was added to the board of directors, filling a vacancy left by the departure of Dr. Leslie Classick from Belmond.

Hospital, church receiving gifts via Martin will

When the will of the late A. Ward Martin was entered in probate in Wright county district court this week, it was learned that it included a special bequest to the joint benefit of the Methodist church and Belmond Community hospital.

Drawn Oct. 7, 1965, the will instructs Executor Luin Cox to sell the property described as the West Two-thirds of Lot Four in Block 26 of the Original Town of Belmond.

Occupying the property are the brick building known as Martin Apartments, which also houses William R. Johnson's insurance office; a frame building to the south, which contains two apartments; and the small building occupied by Al's Tavern.

Receipients perfer property

The will designated that after expense of the sale was deducted, the balance remaining was to be divided equally between the Methodist church and the city of Belmond — the latter portion to be used specifically for the benefit of the hospital in such manner as its trustees shall deem proper.

However, it has been suggested by spokesmen for both the church and the hospital that the beneficiaries would prefer to obtain ownership of the property rather than proceeds from its sale. Consequently, an agreement of reconversion to be signed by representatives of the city and the church is being prepared by Attorney Roy Henderson to authorize the executor to turn the property over to the two bodies.

Other beneficiaries

The purchase contract for the downtown property housing Dougherty Jewelry and a farm property also in progress of purchase were bequeathed by Mr. Martin to his daughter, Mrs. Harriett Simons of Omaha.

Residue of the estate, including some other property to be liquidated, is to be divided with one-third going to each of the following: children of the deceased's brother, Dr. Sidney Martin; children of a sister, Laura Ketchum; and to a nephew, A. E. Martin.

Bill McLaughlin gets advancement

Last week the Iowa Development commission announced appointment of William "Bill" McLaughlin, 36, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McLaughlin, as acting director of the commission's planning division.

Bill has been with the commission since '62 and played an important role in Belmond's redevelopment plans following last year's tornado.

Before joining the IDC staff, he was on the staff of the Des Moines municipal planning department for two years, after having graduated from the University of Iowa in 1960.

Bill is married, and he and his wife Margaret have two children.

"CAMPERS OF THE YEAR" was the honorary label attached to Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith at a meeting of the north Iowa organization Wigwam-N-Wagon Campers held Wednesday evening of last week at Mason City's Moose lodge hall. They hold a plaque denoting the honor, which was presented to them by Clifford Overbeck of Mason City, president. The Campers organized in the late 'fifties and have awarded the traveling plaque the past five years. For the past several years, the Smiths have arranged for the large group to hold a camp-out at Pike's timber, for which the local Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees provide breakfast and refreshments. Belmond Chamber of Commerce

89-57 win for Blue-and-White—

Britt Eagles no match for Broncs

What was a cautiously played game for a half degenerated into a racehorse sizzler after the intermission as the Belmond High basketeers swamped the outmanned Britt Eagles here Friday night, 89 to 57. Terry Nelson, who played all but a couple of minutes, helped the cause along with 35 points.

Coach Gary Johnson started a mainly junior line-up, apparently being already convinced that "this" isn't the Eagles' year and looking ahead. They kept the Broncos

Halftime score 37-27

The 22nd and 23rd points came on freethrows by Chuck Keiser after Co-Captain Greg Fuller had been escorted to the sideline for an alleged "flagrant violation." It consisted of a rather mild observation regarding the officiating, but followed an earlier one that had drawn Greg a technical midway through the first quarter.

At the half, the Bronco lead was only 37-27; but in the third quarter the advantage was expanded to 24 points, 62-38. It was soon bolstered to 30 points at 69-39 and rarely was cut to less than that during the reminder of the game.

Belmond reserves got a good workout in the fourth quarter and helped keep the Broncos' margin intact.

Broncs hot in last half

Joel Gabrielson followed Nelson in scoring with 14 points; Paul Bamford, Rick Hawley and Greg Steenblock each posted eight; Fuller and Lee Barkema six apiece; Don Havens and Preston Kessler each a pair.

Britt scoring was fairly even. There just wasn't enough of it. Keiser accounted for 13, Paul Grifhorst 12, Camp and Bryan Nelson each 11, Bob Wolford six and Mark Adix four.

Britt outdid the Broncos in field goal accuracy the first half, making 11 of 25 tries for 44 per cent while the home crew "blew" several easy chances to wind up with 39 per cent on 14 of 36. It was a different story in the last half. Helped by an 11-for-13 performance in the third quarter the Broncos made 22 of 35 for 63 per cent while the Eagles faded to 7-for-33 — a feeble 21 per cent.

Belmond's froshmores had a bit of trouble getting into gear in the curtain-raiser, but got untracked in the second quarter to chalk up an easy 52-27 win. In the last quarter, Coach Chuck Stalker gave the home folks a chance to see what's coming up in a couple of years by using mainly freshman talent. The kids did alright.

Things were pretty disorganized during the first quarter, which ended 9-3 for the victors. By halftime they'd built up a 22-8 lead and by the end of the third stanza they were sailing along with a 38-20 margin.

Tim Dirks notched 11 points, Ron Ginapp 10, Lenny Johnson seven, Ron Dougherty four, Joey McLaughlin three and Tom Shirer two before the preps took charge. The first-year brigade outscored the Eaglets 14 to 7 during their time on the floor, with Norman Olson hitting for seven Dave Hickman five and Sam McLaughlin two. Dave Higdon showed up best for the losers with 10 points.

Broncos need 2 wins in 5 days to "stay tough"

Belmond High's hopes of continuing as a contender for the current North Iowa conference basketball championship will be very much on the line in the next eight days as the Broncos tangle with three league foes — two of the games being on foreign courts.

Tomorrow night the basketeers travel to Lake Mills to take on the Bulldogs, guided by a first-year coach, Larry Dillinger. With hefty Mark Fjone his only returning letterman, Dillinger has had a rebuilding job to do and so far has enjoyed only moderate success.

John Nepstad (6-2) and John Sorenson (6-1), a pair of juniors, have been giving Fjone (6-3) able support but Dillinger has experienced difficulty in getting very much scoring from his guards. The Bulldogs could give Belmond a good tussle on their home floor; but if the Broncs can't pull this one out their title chances will suffer a severe jolt.

Next Tuesday, the Garner Cardinals — directed by another coaching newcomer, Alden Berkenpas — will play here. They are led by one of the loop's finset guards in Greg Schoneman, a good scorer and one of five Card lettermen.

Berkenpas has been using veterans Gary Lemke and Alan Berge at forward, Gail Stark at center (spelled by Chuck Roe, another G-man from last season) and a first-year starter, Larry Frein, with Schoneman in the backcourt.

This is another "must" game for the Broncos, considering that Garner bowed to Forest City in its league opener.

Victories in these two encounters would set the stage for a crucial test against Northwood on the Vikings' court Friday of next week bringing together the two teams that NIC coaches designated as their top choices to take the cage crown.

Humboldt favored in Alden tourney

Humboldt will fill the title favorite's role in this year's Alden Invitational Wrestling tournament, in which the Belmond High matmen will compete this Saturday. Two year's ago, the Broncos took the crown to win the only trophy that wrestling has thus far contributed to the BHS collection. Last year they were fourth with 54 points, well behind host Alden's top total of 90.

Jim Dickson (127 lbs.) and Les Steenblock (hwt.) won individual crowns for Belmond last year. Three Belmond grapplers who earned places will be back, hoping to improve on their showings. Robb Dorr was 2nd at 112 and this time will be at 120 lbs.; Mack Gabrielson, 4th at 165, will be at 180; and Glen Gabrielson, 4th at 180 a year ago, has slimmed down to 145.

This year's field will be the same as last year's, except that Rockford has replaced West Marshall of State Center. Besides Alden, Humboldt and Belmond the other schools competing will be Beaman-Conrad, Eldora, Nora Springs and Ackley-Geneva.

First-round matches will get underway at 10:00 a. m. and the semifinals at 2:30 p. m. The consolation matches for 3rd and 4th places will start in the evening at 6:30 o'clock, to be followed by the finals at approximately 8:00.

Dec. 20 showing of Globetrotters at MC High gym

Local sports enthusiasts will have an oportunity to see the original Harlem Globetrotters in a performance at the new Mason City High school gymnasium at 8:00 p. m. next Wednesday, Dec. 20.

Sponsors of the Trotters game with the New York Nationals assure that this is the No. 1 international unit that has performed repeatedly before TV audiences.

Heading the squad are the Harlem clowns' 6-8 center, J. C. Gipson, and that phenomenal dribbler, Bob "Showboat" Hall. This outfit next month will be heading for the South Pacific, New Zealand and Australia. A newcomer is "Goose" Tatum, Jr., son of one of the most noted Globetrotter originals.

Tickets may be obtained from the First National bank or Carleton Stewart Music company at Mason City at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. There are no reserved seats.

PREPS DEFEAT LION CUBS

Belmond High's freshman cagers played Clear Lake's first-year outfit on the latter's floor Monday of last week and had no difficulty in racking up a 48-30 victory. Fred Erdman topped the victors in scoring with 14 points, followed by Ron Fuller and Dave Snyder with 13 apiece.

Why Be Sick When You Can Be Well?

CHIROPRACTIC PROVES NATURE HEALS!

Chiropractic is a health science built on the premise that within man there is an intelligent, constructive force operating through the nervous system. It is this life force which generates, develops and maintains our bodies in a normal state of health. A method to overcome and correct the internal interruption of this life force is the sum and substance of the practice of chiropractic. The bony segments (vertebrae) of the spine can become slightly displaced to cause an interference to the flow of this life force. Chiropractors are trained to detect abnormal positions of spinal vertebrae and restore them to their normal position. Normal transmission of nerve energy is thus restored and renewed health is the natural result. Almost all diseases common to man are being conquered or relieved by highly developed science of chiropractic.

If your condition is not responding to other forms of healing, you should determine if yours is a chiropractic case.

"SINUS TROUBLE"

Sinus trouble or sinusitis involves an inflammation of the membranes lining the sinuses or cavities in the bones of the head. The common symptoms are headaches, nasal discharge, watering of the eyes, stuffed up nose, pain and tenderness over the affected areas.

Chiropractors find that sinus trouble can be caused by a depletion of nerve force which flows from the brain to the delicate membranes lining the sinuses, for when this nerve interference is properly corrected by gentle chiropractic vertebral adjustments, all the symptoms leave and gone are the worries about climatic conditions, colds and other phobias of the sinus sufferer.

Find out if you can be treated successfully by Chiropractic.

Let us choose for us that which is right; Let us know among ourselves what is good. — Job 34:4.

Question: When does protest turn into license?

It is probably with mixed feelings that a majority of thinking adults view the recent spread of the "protest" movement to Iowa campuses and cities.

Freedom of thought and expression is a treasured American privilege, and it seems beyond the point of argument that young people in sincere disagreement with policies of their government should have the right to make their opinions known.

Minority opinions have sometimes gained so little attention that, when they were in truth the first whisperings of a strong and ultimately common cause, the very real benefits they finally produced were long delayed.

So it doesn't do to cry, "Silence the rascals, and be done with it."

On the other hand, a vociferous rabble can create mob action capable of doing immeasurable harm. It is the unhappy reponsibility of university officials and municipal authorities to decide when a demonstration possesses the qualities of an honest protest, and when it takes on the characteristics of a rabble movement.

Recent protests in Iowa have been providing stern tests of judgment. They have appeared more and more to impose a challenge to legitimate restraints of the law as to its intent of protecting the rights and privileges of ALL.

One begins to wonder if the basic rights of the majority are not being flouted by overprotectiveness shown the dissenting minorities. When the law is flagrantly defied, it would seem apparent that the dissenters are clearly overstepping acceptable bounds.

What makes the problem particularly difficult is the fact there is an intermingling of sincerity and irresponsibility that makes some of the protests next to impossible to evaluate.

President Howard R. Bowen of the University of Iowa is inclined to be decidedly lenient toward student political activity on the university campus. Rightly, he resists threats of legislative sanctions by Iowa lawmakers who would impose their judgment as to how dissent movements at the university should be handled.

He declared that a university might lose its intellectual power, its integrity and its credibility, should its ability to function objectively be undermined by such threats.

At the same time, many Iowans will insist that a not minor obligation of the university is to teach responsible citizenship and inculcate in its students a sense of appreciation for ALL the democratic rights and privileges that put our nation in the position of world leadership that it today — if uneasily — possesses.

Wrong though the legislators may be who feel compelled to intervene in what MUST be an administrative problem of the university authorities, it seems that Dr. Bowen — for his part — needs to face the fact that an ivory-tower detachment is not a satisfactory attitude toward the situation at hand.

His critics should be devoutly happy that the heavy burden of making the right decisions rest with the university administration, and not on their own shoulders. At the same time, it is only reasonable that the critical legislators — and all Iowans, for that matter — should be keenly interested in the actions taken, and to be taken, to see that campus dissent doesn't transform into license.

Play it close to the belt—and buckle THAT!

State Safety Commissioner Jack Fulton saw hope in Iowa traffic fatality statistics at the start of December that 100 more people may escape the Grim Reaper on Iowa highways and streets this year than got through 1966. Through the first 11 months "only" 752 persons had been killed, which was 86 less than the number who lost their lives in traffic mishaps during the same period a year ago.

Mr. Fulton finds somewhat less satisfaction in the statistics when he contemplates the fact that 24 lives COULD have been saved had the victims been wearing seat belts. One person died despite the protection of a seat belt; another unquestionably would have been killed except that he DID have his seat belt fastened.

The statistics for November, showing 78 fatalities, yield several hints that might save lives if they were taken to heart. For one thing, 10 more died at night than in the daytime — suggesting that special caution is very much to the point after dark.

There was a good possibility that liquor was a contributing factor in seven deaths; and in an equal number, excessive speed was plainly responsible.

It's said that one should drive "defensively," to avoid involvement in an accident caused by another driver. But the November statistics strongly intimated that more often than not a fatally injured driver proves to have been his own worst enemy.

In 13 of the fatal accidents, the car simply ran off the road; in another seven, the driver lost control of his vehicle and caused his own mishap; four were killed running stop signs and another four "got it" at intersections; and six ran into stationary objects. In such cases, there is no "other driver" to place the blame on.

The next 90 to 100 days will be the most dangerous of the year, from a weather hazard standpoint — which suggests not only that each driver should "play it close to the belt" when exposing himself to the dangers of auto travel, but advisedly should have the belt firmly clinched around his middle.

Don Reid buys a "blast honker"

I am having a very hard week and I would like to tell you my troubles. After all, a person has to talk to someone. The family is hardly speaking to me.

This misfortune begins when I was on a fishing trip to Minnesota and one of my associates, Dwight "Bump" Purcell of Hampton, introduces me to a wonderful new gimmick, a gas-operated bull horn.

This horn produces a mighty blast, such as you might expect from Gabriel's trumpet with a touch of lovesick bull moose thrown in, slightly off key. Had the Titanic carried a horn like this, it could have aroused the California which was only 20 or 30 miles away. So, for lack of a bull horn, several hundred lives are lost. I decide to take no chances. Still, Bump looks a little dubious when I asked him to get me a bull horn.

"PRAY TELL ME," HE INquires, "just what will you do with a bull horn like this in a metropolitan area?"

"Oh, do not worry about that," I replied loftily. "I am very inventive, if not actually original. I will think of something."

So, a few days ago Bump's father Dwight brings my new bull horn to Des Moines and I am sitting quietly in my office, screwing my gas can in place, when I notice that it is long past quitting time and the ladies in the front office are still working diligently.

I decided it would be a generous move on my part to let the staff know that the day's work is over so I lift up the bull horn and pull the trigger.

THIS DOES NOT TURN OUT TO be the finest idea I have ever had. Within the confines of a small office, the bull horn's mighty bellow rattles the windows and the girls simply go into orbit. And haven't come out of it. We may have a couple of vacancies: at least, every time they swish past on the apogee, they holler mean things at me.

I decided they do not like to be notified it is quitting time so I get up and go home.

Dorothy meets me at the door and while I am giving her a big hug, she notices the bull horn.

"This is a new-fangled kind of musical instrument," I explained. "I thought our little granddaughter would enjoy it. When you lift this little lever, you will hear a lovely chime."

"WHY, HOW NICE!" DOROTHY says. Some times wives are very gullible. She turns the bull horn this way, and that and finally pulls the trigger.

"BLOONK!" says the musical chime.

"YIPE!" says Dorothy.

All this is two days ago and already I miss her very much. Her little shoes are still standing there, right where she shoots out of them as she goes through the ceiling, breaking all her old records both for altitude and rate of climb.

Slightly discouraged, I look out into our back yard and see little children at play. I decide to give the bull horn one more try, adding lustre to their happy little lives. So I stick the horn out the door and its mighty voice rips the skies asunder over 18th street.

WHEN I PEEK OUT, THE HAPpy little children are scattering like quail so I step out to intercept my granddaughter.

"Don't thop me!" she pleads. "Thome one's mommy just called— and THOUNDED AWFUL MAD!" She scampers on home.

Over on Ashworth Road, three motorists have pulled over to the side of the street and are looking around for the officers to give them a summons!

I take the bull horn and hide it in my closet under some sweaters, half-way expecting a bull moose to stick his head in the window and make eyes at me.

I AM NOT SURE WHAT TO DO next. I think I could rent the bull horn to the volunteer fire department as an auxiliary fire alarm. Or, I may hire out to the 18th Street Young Mothers Club. One blast on this horn and every kid in the block will be home in five minutes.

However, I guess I will sit tight until Dorothy comes back. If she does. I have a hunch she will wish to discuss this bull horn. And I think she will tell me exactly what I can do with it. — Don Reid in West Des Moines Express

"Acid" Money?

The British pound which has been in the news lately got its name some 1,200 years ago when a Saxon silver coin called a sterling, or penny, was minted. A pound of silver made 240 sterlings.

Later, the pound also was divided into 20 shillings. Symbols for the various British coins were obtained from the Latin words by which the pound, shilling, and penny were known in the official records. The pound was the "libra," the shilling was the "solidus," and the penny the "denarius."

Thus the coinage is sometimes called the LSD system, from the initials of the Latin names. A hippie, who of course is familiar with the same letters, might say the pound took a bad trip recently. — The Oreganian

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT

TJ, the office cat, came stamping toward our desk glowering angrily. He curled up in the corner by the filing cabinet, very deliberately turning his back our direction, and surrounded himself with a haughty silence.

As we went on about our business, paying him no attention, he sneakily cast a glance our way to see if his behavior was being duly noted. When, at intervals, he'd repeated the performance three times we decided it would be only common kindness to push his escape valve.

"All right," we invited, "let's have it. Such a display of righteous indignation must have a reason. Somebody disillusioned you regarding Santa Claus, perhaps?"

"LAST NIGHT," HE DECLARED, rearranging himself so he could look us in the eye, "I got chased by a dog. A TEACHER'S dog! What's more, he wasn't kidding. I not only got chased — I got BIT on the tail!"

We wagged our head sympathetically and informed him, "We've been having a bit of trouble with teachers, ourself. Haven't what you could say been bit-on-the-tail; but perhaps only because the thought hadn't occurred to any of them."

"That column, week before last!" exploded the cat. "About the teachers and the Community Chest! . . . Will you never learn?"

"FACT OF THE MATTER IS, the accompanying editorial didn't help much, either," we confessed. "You might find it unbelievable, but we DO learn. And as a general thing, it seems, that's the WAY we learn. By getting black and blue."

TJ wagged his head to indicate hopelessness as he asserted, "There ought to be an easier way. After close to 25 years at this racket, if you haven't cultivated a warning system to let you know when you're getting your foot — or should I say typewriter? — in your mouth, it's not apt to come this late in the game."

"Oh, the warning signal flashed, all right," we told him. "That was the reason we aired our thoughts to several persons in advance to get their opinions in the matter."

"None of 'em were teachers, presumably?" guessed the cat.

"CORRECT," WE ASSENTED. After a contemplative pause, we added, "A part of the trouble was, it's been a long time since Chest publicity was given to contribution averages from particular groups.

"Time was when as many groups as possible were made responsible for their own Chest solicitations. Employees at what was then General Mills — wage as well as salaried — were canvassed by fellow employees. Hospital personnel by someone at the hospital. The Thompson gang by persons from their own staff . . . "

"And faculty members BY faculty members?" TJ contributed.

"RIGHT," WE SAID. "DOWNtown, it was even employees seen by employees; and employers called on by employers. That left darned little canvassing to be done in the residential areas. And at the wind-up, average giving, group by group, was given a look for purposes of comparison.

"We can clearly remember that some 10 or 12 years ago, average giving at the school one year came to $5.00."

"But picking out the teachers and administrators to hold the center of the spotlight all by themselves this time didn't exactly attract a volley of applause," stated the feline.

"If you were setting out to compete for the understatement of the year, I guess you could say that," we replied.

"OF COURSE, WE DID CITE the average individual giving of the business and professional men; but we didn't seem to win any brownie points for THAT!"

"The moral," volunteered TJ, "is simple. If you give the appearance of 'pickin' on' somebody, you better get your dukes up — quick!"

"Astutely put," we agreed. "This we've known for a long time. In fact, we'd come to an understanding with ourself to avoid the APPEARANCE. But now and again, we forget."

"And when you forget?" . . .

"When we forget," we admitted, "we get clobbered."

"Might be a good idea," said the cat, "to write that down a hundred times and tack it to the wall."

And The Iowa Valley Press

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO—

Larry Flanagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Flanagan, at a special ceremony held Monday night at St. Francis church was presented the "Ad Altare Dei" medal, which is awarded to Boy Scouts of the Catholic faith who have established outstanding records in church activity.

—1952—

Matt Holtzabuer's resignation from the Belmond Fire department Monday night brought to a close a career of 50 year of service as a local fireman.

—1952—

Enrollment in the rural schools of Wright county this fall took the second biggest drop that has been recorded in 10 years' time as only 613 students enrolled in the remaining 45 rural schools. This was a decrease of 81 from the previous fall.

—1952—

Jack Williams, former printer for the Independent, last week completed an eight-week course at Franklin Linotype school, Dresden, O., and has accepted a position with the Klemme Times.

—1952—

Monday night the Belmond firemen elected A. W. "Doc" Johnson as chief of the Belmond Fire department for the fifth consecutive year.

THIRTY YEARS AGO—

Dr. F. A. Stevens, who has practiced medicine in Belmond for the past 47 years except for three years in the east, announces he has closed his office and is retiring from general practice to become anesthetist at the new Belmond hospital.

—1937—

The Belmond Liquor store is to be enlarged to twice its present size, using the space now occupied by Dr. A. M. Larson. Dr. Larson will move his office into the rooms over the Candy iKtchen.

—1937—

Belmond's American Legion is preparing to provide treats for 2,000 kiddies when Santa Claus arrives in Belmond tomorrow. A mammoth street parade, including live reindeer, a camel, ponies and Eskimo dogs will pass along Main street.

—1937—

New officers were elcted by the fire company Monday night, as follows: Roy Henderson, chief, succeeding Ed Kennedy; Andy Loats, assistant chief, replacing Claude Johnson; Richard Gowdy, secretary, succeeding Dr. A. M. Larson; and Larry Miller, treasurer, to succeed Roy Henderson.

—1937—

Doris Russell, returning from Fairmont, Minn., Tuesday evening, was unable to stop her car and struck a horse near the first bridge north of Belmond.

—1937—

The German Valley, Ill., basketball team, of which Herman Boelman is a member, will play the local high school quintet here tomorrow night.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—

Quite a goodly number have called at County Treasurer Allen's office the past few days for their 1923 automobile numbers. So far, 125 licenses have been issued.

—1922—

The final count defeated Andy Gump for Congress and Min won't need all those new dresses she ordered.

—1922—

The Star Theater at Goodell on Dec. 14th will present The Belmond Players, under the direction of Josephine Friel McAlpine, in the comedy-drama, "The Golden Giant." Be sure and come! Not a movie.

—1922—

King Solomon Lodge No. 210, A. F. & A. M., last week elected officers for the new year as follows: C. N. Hildebrand, Worshipful Master; A. H. Skovlin, Senior Warden; H. J. Bohning, Junior Warden; Ben Fetrow, Secretary; E. A. Ely, Treasurer.

—1922—

Last Thursday evening about 5:30 o'clock the electric service was interrupted in Belmond after many ups and downs and it finally stopped entirely, the whole town being left in darkness for most of the evening.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO—

George Pierce has been hired as nightwatch again. George served last winter with general satisfaction and will do so again this winter, no doubt.

—1892—

The poultry business is lively this year, many farmers making sales that aggregate considerable sums. Henry Kruse sold $80 worth of turkeys, all raised this year.

—1892—

At the regular meeting of Belmond Fire Co. No. 1 last Monday night, officers were elected for the following year, to wit: D. E. Packard, Chief; A. J. Cleaves, Assistant Chief; O. G. Tracy, Treasurer; W. I. Rosecrans, Treasurer; and H. A. Savercool, Engineer.

—1892—

Ed Stombaugh of Goodell has his right arm amputated last Monday, and is improving. Mr. Stombaugh had his arm broken last fall while attempting to put a belt on a thresher while it was running.

—1892—

The new bridge across the Iowa river by T. A. Davenport's is finished, approachways and all, and is ready for travel.

—1892—

Ad Elder says this snow will go off before spring. Steve Hinman says it won't. This information is gratuitous and you can take your choice without expense.

NINETY YEARS AGO—

Allen Thompson's fiery blacks took a canter Monday morning with the fore wheels of the wagon. They were being used to move piling into position, and unceremoniously started on the west side of the river but finally crossed over and brought up near their stable. Nothing damaged.

—1877—

Whiskey is plentiful in town. We propose showing up some of its "crookedness," too, if matters go on as they have lately. Liquor smuggling is getting to be one of the fine arts in Belmond; but "every dog has his day."

—1877—

We have the particulars of a very cowardly attack on Mr. Thos. King of West Belmond, an old gentleman about 60 years of age. He was husking corn south of town and was set upon by three young men and unmercifully pounded.

—1877—

By the number of hogs sold in this vicinity during the year, one is led to believe that our farmers are all growing rich. Upwards of 30 wagonloads have gone to Garner since our last issue, and the end is not yet.

—1877—

The Garner Signal is authority that A. D. Hiams has disposed of his entire property at Upper Grove — mill, farm, etc. — for $8,000. The Signal also speaks very highly of Mr. H., all of which is true and just.

Indians lead NIC in titles won—

Broncos' cage mark best in loop since 1959

As the North Iowa conference basketball race for the 1967-68 season gets down to serious business, a discouraging word might appropriately be passed along to Coach Bill Prochaska and his Buffalo Center Bison. The defending champs have established themselves as leading contenders for the cage championship, along with the two teams that NIC coaches touted as prospective front-runners, Northwood and Belmond.

The word is: it's tough to win more than two cage championships in a row in the NIC. However, the Bison can find reason for encouragement in the fact that it HAS been done. Forest City did the trick in 1946-47-48-49. It might be worth noting, though, that the Indians in '47 had to share their title with Northwood; so no school has won more than two exclusive crowns successively.

Two-in-row not uncommon

Britt also got past the two-in-a-row barrier in 1933-35, but had to share its 1934 honors with Clear Lake. By stringing two championships together in the past two seasons, Buffalo Center matched an achievement accomplished quite a number of times. In fact, only Lake Mills and Osage of the present loop members have failed at one time or another to do the trick.

In addition to their streak of four, the Forest City Indians managed two together another time; and Britt twice chalked up a pair besides the Eagles' run of three. Garner and Northwood each has had back-to-back titles twice. Belmond posted a pair once, as did Clear Lake before its withdrawal from the loop in '36 after 10 years' membership.

Long drouth for FC, Britt

Rather strangely, the two schools that have won the most cage laurels in the NIC have neither hit the winner's circle in the past 16 years. Forest City claimed eight exclusive championships and shared another in a 14-year span, but its latest title was won in 1951. One of the top basketball powers of this area a quarter centry ago, Britt has six crowns and a share of two others to its credit but last led the league in 1942.

Belmond has taken six championships; Garner the same, with one of them shared; and Northwood likewise has figured in a half-dozen titles, two of them shared. Buffalo Center's three exclusive championships and one shared was matched by Clear Lake in its decade of NIC competition. Lake Mills has been the title-winer twice.

105 highest game score

Osage, in eight years of membership, has never been able to grab the cage crown; and Manly, which was in the NIC during the period of 1937-41, failed to make the grade, also.

Changing styles of play have resulted in most individual and team records in the NIC being set since the turn of the 'sixties.

Highest team score in loop history was run up just last season by Forest City when the Indians trounced Britt 105 to 52. Top offensive average for an NIC team in conference play was achieved for Garner by Busch, Grau & Co. in 1963-64 when the Cardinals hit a 77.8 pace for the campaign. Britt had the all-time leakiest defense in 1965-66 when the Eagles surrendered an average of 83.9 points per game.

Wessels set game mark

Individual career scoring honors seem safe for just about all time in the 1,124 points amassed in four year against loop foes by Neal Waddington of Belmond before his graduation in 1965. And the one-season top scoring average of Bob Nielsen, Britt, has stood since 1960-61 and appears in no immediate danger.

Nielsen also held the single-game scoring mark at 46 points, until Pete Wessels of Buffalo Center racked up 49 against Garner a year ago.

Going into the current season, Belmond had by quite a bit the best composite won-lost basketball record against loop rivals of any school in the conference for the eight-year period since Osage joined the league.

The number of victories, defeats and winning percentage for the teams during this time has been as follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Belmond	92	34	.730
Garner	73	53	.579
Buffalo Center	72	54	.571
Northwood	71	55	.562
Forest City	65	61	.516
Lake Mills	57	69	.452
Britt	39	87	.309
Osage	35	91	.275

The record of North Iowa conference basketball championship winners over the 41 seasons since the loop was formed is as follows:

1927 — Clear Lake
1928 — Clear Lake
1929 — Britt
1930 — Britt

Matmen post only three wins against Humboldt

With five falls helping to pad their victory margin, Humboldt's wrestlers found the Belmond High varsity matmen an easy touch here Tuesday night of last week, 35 to 9. The Bronco reserves were similarly trounced, 37 to 10.

Pinned by their foes were: Dennis Knoll (heavyweight) by Geoff Mickelson in 1:05; Bill Broshar (133 lbs.) by Larry Fevold, 2:40; Duncan Campbell (120) by Lyle Laird, 4:30; and Steve Courson (112) by Terry Daggy, 5:00.

Feature match of the evening found Robb Dorr notching a hard-won decision for the Broncos over Raymond Stockdale at 127 pounds. A reversal gained by the Belmond ace provided his 2-0 margin.

Gene Pals dominated his 165-lb. match with Cliff Erickson but couldn't come up with a pinning hold in winning 5-0. Mack Gabrielson, at 180, experienced little trouble with Wayne Miner in piling up a 9-1 margin.

The narrowest defeat dealt any of the Broncos was Kevin Gallagher's 2-0 loss at 138 to Terry Dillinger. The Bronco had his Wildcat adversary on the defensive most of the the match but got into a brief predicament when down in the second period and those two points settled the issue.

Glen Gabrielson (145) lost 6-0 to Mike Oberman, who was undefeated as a reserve at that weight last season. Randy Turner (154) was given a rough going-over by Keith Abens, state AA 145-lb. champ a year ago, but held his highly favored opponent to a 10-0 decision.

Lynn Henn (95) and Danny Ketchum (103), tangling with a pair who looked pretty well stuffed for their designated weights, were decisively out-manned. Henn held Ron Bygness to an 8-4 edge but Ketchum was overwhelmed by Jim Taute 14 to 2.

Terry Boyd came back from a 2-4 deficit in the first period of his 127-lb. reserve match to build and 9-5 lead and then pinned John Ulrich in 4:35. Only other Belmond B squad winner was Tom Wilson (112), who trimmed Jeff Hoyt 4-1.

Bob Cullinan (133) was held to a 4-4 draw by Mike Denklau when his foe was awarded a penalty point and later escaped in the final period. Jim Cullinan (103) was victim of a disappointing 1-0 loss when his opponent managed an escape in the third period.

Other B results were: 95 — Dave Hart (H) dec. Steve Reidel, 7-0; 120 — John McBurney (H) dec. Brian Bateson, 5-0; 138 — Jim Dodd (H) dec. Irv Meier, 5-2; 145 — Mark Hull (H) dec. John Reasoner, 4-0; 154 — Dorian Charlson (H) pinned Phil Meier, 1:05; 165 — Nels Houston (H) dec. Kevin Dorr, 5-0; 180 — Rick Trow (H) won by forfeit; hwt. — Doug Linn (H) pinned Keith Boller, 2:15.

Kinseth, Gordon take state crown

Since the state finals extended over two days and Sunday's action extended well into the evening, it wasn't yet known until late that Belmond duo's tough 1,284 gross series remained good enough to take the senior division title.

Roger rolled a steady — for him — 605 scratch series. It was young Gordon, with a fine 564 that was well above his average, who put the local pair in their high position. Kinseth and Gordon carried a joint handicap of 115 to go with their 1,169 actual pins.

Altogether, 1,495 pairs entered the 10 divisions of the tournament and 104 doubles teams competed in the finals.

Dick Smith gets Fullerton post

Fullerton Lumber company has announced the promotion of Richard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luverne Smith, to managership of the firm's lumberyard at Arcadia, Wis. He had been manager of the Fullerton yard at Latimer, which was closed down about a month ago.

Mr. Smith, his wife and two sons just recently moved to Arcadia and will formally start in his new position upon the retirement of the present manager on Jan. 10.

Richard has been a Fullerton employee since 1959 and was on the staff of the local yard until his appointment as Latimer manager about a year ago.

BRADLEY HAMMOND HELPED PLAN WISCONSIN ART SHOW

MADISON, WIS. (Special) — H. Bradley Hammond, son of Mrs. Lois Hammond of Belmond, is among students and staff of the University of Wisconsin at Madison who served on the Wisconsin Union Gallery committee which made plans for the 33rd annual Wisconsin Salon of Art exhibition now open in the University's Memorial Union building.

The state-wide competition drew 462 entries from 353 artists. The exhibition itself, which displays 94 of the art works submitted, runs through Jan. 2.

Get those Yule decorations lit!

Belmond residents who have decorated their homes for the Christmas season are reminded that judges of the Chamber of Commerce home-lighting contest will be making their rounds this coming Sunday evening.

They will be starting their rounds about the supper hour, or shortly afterward, in order to be finished before the Christmas concert at the high school.

Mrs. Luin Cox, who agreed to obtain the panel of judges, urges that all decorations be lighted at sundown so they can be given consideration in picking the prize winners.

She will be assisted in the judging by Mrs. Don Bunnell, Mrs. Jerald Kintzi and Mrs. P. A. Rietz.

Keep an eye on grain in storage

The Wright County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee reminds producers to check closely the condition of any grain under Commodity Credit corporation loan which they have stored on their farms.

A check on loan stored grain is advisable to see how well is is keeping, the committee points out.

Fewer inspections are now made by the ASCS county office and the producer has more responsibility for maintaining and watching his own stored grain.

A producer gains by checking the grain, since his final returns will be based on the condition of the grain when the loan is paid off or when the grain is delivered in payment of the loan.

In cases where the grain is found to be deteriorating and some loss may occur, the committee advises producers to contact the county office so that arrangements may be made to move the commodity.

The committee also noted that a reseal program has been announced for both farm-stored and warehouse-stored loans on 1967 corn. As a result of this provision, county office employees will be asking producers if they intend to use the reseal option this fall. The total bushels removed from the market due to the resealing intentions will be published monthly.

Retirement home board now full

This week the names of the two directors chosen by Calvary Baptist church to serve on the board of River Avenue Apartments, Inc., were submitted and their signatures affixed to the articles of incorporation.

The new directors are William Mittelstadt and Peter Daniels. Their addition to the board of the proposed retirement home brings its membership up to the full strength of 20.

On Tuesday, Attorney Roy Henderson was readying the articles of incorporation for forwarding to the Iowa secretary of state. As soon as word is received that the articles have been accepted and filed, the board can assemble for its first official meeting and elect officers.

Mrs. Dale Busick and son, SP/6 Darwin Busick, were visitors last Thursday at the Donavon Baker home at Kanawha.

Wright's needy received $7,978 in food supplies over six months

During the first six months of this year, 42 county departments of social welfare — including that of Wright county — gave out 2,799,440 pounds of food valued at about $627,400 to needy families.

These food items, donated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under an agreement with the State Department of Social Welfare and participating county boards of supervisors, are given to families and individuals with cooking facilities whose income, whether from public assistance or other sources, is below standards set forth by the USDA.

Eligibility to receive the donated foods is determined by the county departments of social welfare. In Wright county, 34,298 pounds of food valued at $7,978 was distributed.

Cost of delivery includes the counties' share of shipment to and storage in the central warehouse in Des Moines, and transporation to the county of destination. This cost to Wright county came to $355.

Foods distributed to Wright county families and individuals and the amounts and values of each were:

Dry milk, 4,104 pounds, $1,805; rice, 1,776 pounds, $337; raisins, 1,536 pounds, $399; flour, 6,800 pounds, $693; corn meal, 2,400 pounds, $240; chopped meat, 4,050 pounds, $2,187; margarine, 2,160 pounds, $345.

Shortening, 864 pounds, $259; lard, 1,344 pounds, $255; beans, 2,808 pounds, $421; grits, 672 pounds, $103; rolled wheat, 2,196 pounds, $292; peanut butter, 936 pounds, $280; rolled oats, 2,124 pounds, $304; split peas, 528 pounds, $52.

A number of counties which previously distributed donated foods have now changed over to the Food Stamp Program. At present, 54 counties are actively participating in the sale of food coupons and Wright is among 17 others that have applied for approval to supplant food distribution with the stamp plan.

Renwick cheese factory taken over by creamery

One of this area's oldest business enterprises ceased independent operation last Friday when the Pioneer Cheese factory at Renwick becomes an adjunct of the Renwick Community Creamery.

For the past 30 years, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Macha have been in charge of the cheese factory's operation. They were first employed by the Rosedale Creamery in 1937 and in February of 1943 acquired ownership of the operation, being its proprietors since that time.

Originally, the Pioneer Cheese factory was launched in 1888 by 10 farmers of the Renwick area who purchased land for the enterprise at a cost of $123 and built with their own hands a structure to house the factory.

The old Rosedale Creamery remained the home of the cheese factory until the Machas in 1954 erected a two-story building that contained not only the cheese-making equipment but also a six-room dwelling for the owners.

A year following they hired Mervin Dobbs, a Wisconsin native, as their head cheesemaker. He has filled that position since and will continue in the same capacity now that the Renwick creamery has taken over the cheese operation.

Presently, two haulers truck milk in to the factory daily, seven days a week, and milk purchases have been running about 7½ million pounds annually. That volume is converted into approximately 740,000 pounds of cheese, averaging slightly over a ton daily.

For some time, the major product of the plant has been Pioneer Colby Cheese. In addition, the Machas produced brick cheese, limburger and Swiss for retail sale at the factory.

Besides operating the cheese factory, the Machas have farmed several hundred acres of land, which will solely occupy their attention now that the Renwick creamery will be relieving them of the manufacture of cheese.

Henkel has low bid on bridge

Low bid on construction of a new bridge across the Iowa river on High-way 69 just south of the North Western railroad crossing was submitted Wednesday of last week by Henkel Construction company of Mason City.

The state highway commission reported the Henkel figure as $139,758.

This job will be a phase of the state project which will see the highway widened to four lanes inside the Belmond city limits. The widening is scheduled by the highway commission for the coming year.

LETTERS TO SANTA

Dear Santa

This year I hope you can make it. And I have been very good. I hope you will not get sick on your trip. There are some kids that don't believe in you, but I think there's a spirit of everything. I would like a 15 lb. pull Bow and Arrow with quiver, Rocking Socking Robots, and last but not least a 51 Sweatshirt or a Woody Wagon. I will leave milk and cookies on the table for you. Merry Christmas and thank you.

Love,
Todd Walrod
Age 9 years

Dear Santa Claus

Sandra would like Sniffy the puppy and Marvel the Mustang.

Diane would like a view-master and a 10-piece Pretty Girl Cosmetic Set and easy bake oven.

Wanda would like a Typewriter, a record player and a Kodak instematic camera.

Donald Aldrich

P.S. We all think our parents are sweet.

Dear Santa Claus:

I am Jeff Loats. Please bring me a cork gun, play dough machine for Mark & Jeff Loats. Also a slap trap game. For Mark Loats, I want a helicopter and a plane, and Jeff a bow and arrow set, and Danny Loats some "Scooties" walking windup toys and catapiller. We have been very good boys and we will leave you some cookies and milk because you will be tired. Please leave the toys and our candy underneath the Christmas tree. I am fine! How are you Santa Claus? We will leave some carrots for Rudolph and your other raindeer right in front of our evergreen tree.

Bye for now,
Jeff, Mark and Danny Loats

Dear Santa

May I have the new twist 'n turn Casey? And the tutti doll? How are you? I am fine. Are you getting a lot of letters? I know you are reading a lot. How are your little Elfs? Are they fine. Good-by Santa.

Love
Lynne Green

Dear Mrs. Santa Claus,

In wanted to write to you this year. Do you have 28 children? For Christmas I want a negro baby doll that can talk. Ask Santa to please give it to me. I will be good. Will you write to me please? Give Santie a big kiss for me. How are you and the elfs and your 28 children?

Good by Kay McFarlin
Age 8

Dear Santa

I like you very much. I like to have a rifle that makes a nose for Christmas. And a holster set and a cowboy hat. My Brother will like to have the same thing so we can play cowboys. I am 7 years old. My brother is 5.

From Ricky
and Gene Sturm

Dear Santa Clause

Would you please send me two games that are called Dating game and Mystery game. Please send me a red pant dress. And I'd like you to have a merry Christmas happy new year. Thank you.

Tamera Sue Kusian

Santa,

For Christmas I would like a new dress and purse to match. Also I would like a pant dress. There will be milk and cookies on the table for you.

Yours truly
Donita Kusian

Dear Santa Claus,

I would like the dolls Tutti and Cris and their play house. Please send me a red dress with lemon designs on it. And a stocking full of candy.

Love
Kimberly Kusian

Dear Santa Claus

My sisters want a doll that crys and a indian doll. They want both of them. And I want a M16 Machinegun and a Jhonny Astro and incredable edabales.

From Steven, Kris
and Julie Kaduce

Dear Santa,

I am eight years old and in second grade. I would be in third grade but my birthday was too late. This is what I want for Christmas. A Skipper doll or a Francie doll which twist and turns and has bendable legs, gloves, a Bluebird skirt. I would also like a PJ bag and snoboots. Do not forget my brother and sister. You and Mrs. Claus have a Merry Christmas.

Love
Nancy Sorenson

Klemme

Dear Santa Claus,

I hope you are getting ready for Christmas. Mrs. Claus, I hope you are helping Mr. Claus. I want a Tricky Tommy Turtle. My little sister Dixie wants a doll and my brother Darrell wants a mixer truck, and my sister Dennis wants a baking set.

Your friend
DeEtta Helps

Dear Santa,

I want a pomeranian. I wanted a deer last year. I went to texas to see Darlene and Bill. We saw the Wichita Mountains. We saw buffalo. They were out of the fence. And we saw red sand.

My Aunt Rach is sick so my four cousins will be here for Christmas. Find them here so they won't cry — Please. Remember the ones that don't got a Mommy or Daddy.

Love
Sue Ann Stoffer
8 years old

Dear Santa,

Please bring me a payloader and a caterpiller and a gun set.

Neal Nelson

Klemme

Dear Santa Claus,

I would like a gun and Work Shop and a Tricky Tommy Turtle and the whistle. I hope your trip is ok. I will leave a cherry and a glass of milk and a cooky. I hope you like it. I am going with you on your trip. I will open the fireplace. And I want a Captain Action and a Batmobile. Remember the kids.

Your friend,
Philip Watnem

Dear Santa Claus—

How are your elves feeling? Are they making toys real good? How is Mrs. Santa Claus? Are your reindeer ready for the trip?

I would like a Twist & Turn Francie and some clothes for her. My little sister Cathy wants the same thing. Debbie wants the Light Squeeze game and the Dating Game. I will leave some cookies and milk for you.

Love
Lori Lanphere

Klemme

Dear Santa Claus,

I hope Rudolph is not sick. I want hands down for Christmas. My brother wants a Chem Lab and a black belt with a square buckle.

Love,
Judy Schoenwetter

Dear Santa Claus

I would like some snow boots and want black. I want baby's Hungry and some batteries and some clothes with it and her stuff. And then I want Family house and some Barbys clothes. And that's all I want for this Christmas. I'm going to leave you something. Thank you.

August 15, 1967
Clarion, Iowa

The Board of Supervisors of Wright County, Iowa, met in adjourned session at the Court House in Clarion with the following members present: Ed Kennedy, Chairman, Walter Weidemann, George E. Heard and Wendell Dultscher, with the County Auditor in attendance. Supervisor G. C. Whyte was absent.

Minutes of the last meeing were read and approved.

At 9 o'clock A.M., this being the time and date set for public hearing on the proposed County Budget for the year 1968, Chairman Kennedy called the meeting to order. Four taxpayers were present, as was County Engineer Haydn Jones. The taxpayers were interested in the Weed Eradication. The County Engineer explained the reason for the levy in the Road Clearing Fund and the proposed plans for 1968 in connection with weed eradication and spraying. There was no objection to the County Budget Estimate. Motion was made by Heard, seconded by Weidemann, to approve the amounts for the various funds as set out in the County Budget Estimate and to adopt the County Budget for 1968 and to direct the County Auditor to properly certify the budget as adopted and file with the records of her office as required by law. Motion carried.

ADOPTED BUDGET AND CERTIFICATE OF COUNTY TAXES

STATE OF IOWA)

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Special
October 30, 1967
5:00 P. M.

The City Council met in special session in the Council Chambers on the above date. Mayor Misner presided and all council members were present.

The main purpose of the meeting was to pass the final resolution on the widening of Highway 69, incorporating longitudinal and outlet sewer (storm), the cost of said sewer to be borne by the City. Resolution No. 543 was presented and duly adopted and submitted to the State Highway Commission for their final approval.

Since Carrie Gellett found it impossible to work as Clerk of Election on November 7th, in Ward 2, motion carried to appoint Dorothy Helland to this position.

Motion carried to issue a Class "B" Beer Permit to Nellie Thorline Just dba Nell's Place.

Discussion was had on a letter received from the Belmond Industrial Development Corporation regarding the amounts involved in the property purchased for parking areas. The City Attorney was instructed to get the actual figures on money spent on the Allison, Ziska and King Solomon Lodge lots. The City Clerk pointed out an unencumbered balance in the street fund which could be used for such purpose and the city attorney will contact the bonding attorney at Des Moines for confirmation.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

LOIS J. HAMMOND
City Clerk

Belmond, Iowa
November 6, 1967

The first regular meeting of the City Council for the month of November was held in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call showed all council members present.

The invocation was given by Rev. Ormsby.

The minutes of the meeting of October 19th, and of the Special meeting of October 30th, were read and approved.

Glen Eccles reported the cracks in the streets had been filled, and the lime pit cleaned He requested an okay on extending a four inch main water line along 6th St. N. E. The materials were on hand and if the weather permitted, he was authorized to go ahead with the work. A report on the bad sidewalks in various locations was discussed. Since the time of year is not conducive to laying walks, this matter should be taken care of in the spring.

The bills had been audited by the Finance Committee and a motion carried they be allowed as follows:

Austin Abstract Co., Abstract	32.00
Armour Agricultural Chem. Co., Aqua Ammonia	47.80

Motion carried to authorize the Mayor to sign the agreements covering the railroad signals as presented by the Highway Commission and the Chicago Northwestern Railroad Co.

Resolution No. 544, A RESOLUTION AND APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL OF THE PERMANENT TRANSFER OF FUNDS FROM THE SREET FUND TO THE GENERAL FUND, was duly approved.

Harold Michaels, of Wallace, Holland, Kastler & Schmitz, presented plans and specifications on the sanitary sewer on the west side of Highway 69 from south of the railroad tracks to 2nd St NE and south of Main Street in West Belmond. There was discussion on the matter but it was felt there should be more thought put into it and it was tabled until a later date.

A request from Lloyd Sevens to close the alley in Cutler's Addition had been received and referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission, who recommended that it be closed. The matter was referred to the City Attorney for making up the legal procedure in disposing of city property.

Motion carried to retain Ellis Elliott for the months of November and December, 1967.

The suggestion was made that the City Clerk submit the Iowa Housing Code to the Dept. of Housing and Urban Renewal for their okay as to its acceptability by them before passing an ordinance.

In reply to Attorney Knoshaug's letter regarding the changing of the Ordinance on bronze markers in the memorial portion of the cemetery, the city council felt no change should be made at this time.

Since there was sufficent money accumulated in the Perpetual Care fund, motion carried to invest $1,000.00 in a Series "H" Bond.

The Ladies Cemetery Aid had disbanded and the ladies turned over their balance of funds to the City Council to be used toward the Memorial statue in the cemetery. This amount of $351.73 added to what was in the fund would allow the council to invest some in a Certificae of Deposit. Motion carried to invest $500.00 in a 6 month C/D.

Pat Quigley's request for building a service garage for his own use on property in the residential district was discussed. No action possible by the council.

Chief Thompson was instructed to follow through on the fixing up of the jail in line with requirements previously given.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

LOIS J. HAMMOND
City Clerk

Belmond, Iowa
November 20, 1967

The City Council met for the second regular meeting for the month of November in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call showed all council members were present.

The minutes of the meeting of November 6th, were read and approved.

Frank Champlin, Lyman Laws and Miss Vaske, presented statistics on alcoholism and its effects on the communities in Wright county and what effort was being made to make amends. Lack of financing and personnel slowed down the work but since the 62nd General Assmbly had passed legislation to refund an additional 5% of the Liquor Profits to Cities and Towns which might be allocated for he treatment, rehabilitation and education of alcoholism in Iowa, known as the Iowa Comprehensive Alcoholism Project, this group was endeavoring to set up a county-wide committee appointed by the mayor and/or council of the cities and towns of Wright County and were requesting the 5% additional Liquor Profit for their use. A motion carried to appoint a committee of four to represent Belmond.

Applications for renewal of licenses were presented by John Van Gerpen for his Mobile Home court and Ivan Evans for Shorty's and Ann's Overnight Camping. Motion carried to certify these had been brought to the attenion of the Council.

Gjelten and Schellberg explained in detail, via letter, their statement submitted for work done by them. This had been referred to the Action Committee who recommended that it be paid.

A letter from the Department of Urban Renewal disclosed the Housing Chapter from the Code of Iowa would not be sufficient for a Housing Ordinance according to their standards.

The City Clerk reported the State Auditors were auditing the books for 1966.

The finance committee had audited the bills and a motion carried they be allowed as follows:

Plans of the highway widening to be used in the December 5th letting were presented and placed in the file.

The Planning and Zoning Commission would be holding their public hearing on amending the zoning ordinance, on December 4th. In order to complete the hearings and publication of the amended ordinance by the end of December, a motion carried the city council hold its hearing on December 11th, notification of said hearing to be published in the Belmond Independent on November 23, 1967.

Having received the proper authority from the State Comptroller, Des Moines, for transfer of funds, motion carried to pay the Industrial Development Corp. the sum of $15,280.00 for the King Solomon, Lodge, Sena Ziska and Fred & Hattie Allison lots for off-street parking areas.

A petition objecting to the closing of the alley in the Cutler Addition, with some of the petitioners appearing in person, was presented to the council. City Attorney Henderson reported on tried legal cases on closing allys. A city has the right to close — owners may enter suit against city for damages sustained. A review of the local situation resulted in a motion to deny the request of the Stevens'.

Motion carried to invest an additional $400.00 in a 6 month Certificate of Deposit for the Cemetery Memorial statue fund.

Opposition to the gravity method of replacing the sanitary sewer and a favoring of the lift — Station set-up was brought up to the council to be considered in their decision for this project.

The resignation of George Hinman from the Board of of Adjustment was accepted. The council will ask the Board for a recommendation for a replacement.

The financial statements for September and October was approved.

The Hospital report for October was approved.

Due to the fact that the council had had notification of the dangerous condition of the Jobco building, the barricades would be placed in a more permanent fashion until such time as the condition can be corrected by Mr. Bancroft.

Sufficient money had been received through the last tax draw to call special assessment curb and gutter bond No. 8 in the amount of $1,000.00.

Motion carried to approve Herbert J. Mullins Co., Des Moines, Iowa, to audit the Hospital books for 1967.

No further business, the meeting adjourned.

Jerry Steenblock in fleet exercise

USS OKLAHOMA CITY (XL.G-5) (FHTNC) — Seaman Apprentice Jerry W. Steenblock, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Steenblock of Route 1, Goodell, and husband of the former Margaret Downs of Route 1, Clarion, participated in "Blue Lotus," the largest U. S. First Fleet Exercise in three years, aboard the guided missile light cruiser USS Oklahoma City.

The exercise was held off the coast of Southeran California from Nov. 28 to Dec. 9. It involved 24,000 men in 45 ships, and six air units.

The strike force phase of the exercise involved maneuvers to train participating ships in the type of Naval warfare for which they were designed. The amphibious phase of the exercise involved an actual amphibious assault at Camp Pendleton, Calif., by an embarked Marine Expeditionary Brigade.

Exercise highlights included surface-to-air missile firings at drone targets, live rocket and bombing attacks on the San Clemente and Chocolate Mountain impact ranges, and Naval air strikes to sink target ships.

"Heart of This Four County Trade Area"

VOL. 49 NO. 13 — OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER — WRIGHT COUNTY IOWA—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1967 — OFFICIAL CITY PAPER — 2 SECTIONS — 16 PAGES

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Ginny Courson, who is president, board of directors and likewise the whole membership of the Belmond Animal Rescue League, says she has JUST the THING to bring holiday gladness into five Belmond homes this Christmastide. It isn't unwanted kittens, either. It's homeless puppies. She sounded a little desperate when she called in the happy tidings — as if one thing she DIDN'T need right at this stage of Christmas preparation was to take on a pup placement job.

The front Mainstreeter, to help the cause, might mention that the Gallaghers' "Pup" was a Christmas present of some five years ago, and one of the most successful ones ever bestowed in the household. Hard to beat a dog, for making a house a home.

One of the pups seems to have overtones of Pomeranian. It's mature enough to go into the posession of a new master right now. The other four are Heinz, with perhaps some collie emphasis. They're not weaned, as yet, but there's nothing like a week or so of anticipation to put a fine sheen on the welcome rendered a new puppy. Even if you DIDN'T exactly have a pup on your shopping list, give thought to the reasonableness of the price. They're FREE!

The Independent staff will make like "people" next Monday and take Christmas off along with the rest of the population (time was when weekly newspapers skipped the Christmas-week issue entirely — but postal regulations frown on such a practice these days). Due to the holiday, next week's paper will come off the press a day later than customary; and you'll be a day late in receiving it. The same situation will prevail the week following, with New Year's Day falling on Monday. It isn't often that we let a holiday interfere with adherence to the regular mailing schedule. Bear with us.

An overflow audience filled all the regular seats at Luick Memorial Auditorium for the annual concert of BHS concert choir and junior high chorus Sunday evening and occupied a goodly number of chairs, in addition. They were rewarded by a performance that was something of an innovation compared with the more conventional programs of years part.

Director Stanley Norson gave his senior choir a stern test of its abilities in selecting Benjamin Britten's "Ceremony of Carols" to comprise the major portion of the concert. The selections were, by and large, very deftly handled. They required some rather careful listening on the part of the audience, having an atonality that is characteristic of many of Britten's works.

But a pleasant if "different" melody underlay the seeming dissonance that made these numbers a distinct departure from the customary Yuletide musical fare. In the junior high portion of the program, it was apparent that if more selectivity were permitted the director, the quality could be improved All in all, though, a distinctly successful concert.

There's a lot of talk about the unusually high quality of the freshman football material that will be vying for starting positions at the University of Iowa next fall — which promises to make veterans fight strenuously for starting assignments on the 1968 Hawkeye team. One letterman who should prove a tough one to displace is Paul Laaveg, the Belmond bruiser who took over the 1st-string tight end assignment on offense at the very start of the past season although only a sophomore.

We've heard that "Peach" split three helmets in the course of his enthusiastic head-knocking, which suggests the unwillingness with which he gave ground to his assigned adversaries.

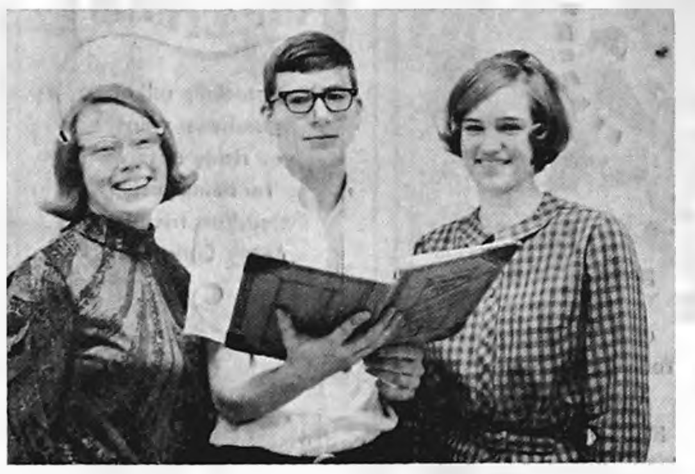
No other Hawkeye offensive player got in as much game time as the ex-Bronco. He had his position pinned down from the '67 season's outset and missed only two offensive plays other than on the brief occasions when he was sidelined by injuries. All told, his game time encompassed all but a little more than one quarter of playing time during which the Hawks possessed the ball. If one of those preps aspires to putting Paul on the bench, he's bound to find it'll take a bit of doing!

It will be a particularly happy Christmas at the Bill Stadtlander home. Back for a three-week holiday furlough is Sgt. Richard Rockow, who will be making the acquaintance of his nine-month-old Samuel, who was born to his wife (the former Twyla Stadtlander) after her husband's departure for Air Force duty at Bitburg, Germany. Sergeant Rockow arrived in the States on Monday and lost no time scurrying home to make the most of his leave period.

If you're a young housewife of 25 and have five children (the youngest, twins), sewing is a pretty useful skill to have at your command. That the former Shirlene Busick — now Mrs. Larry Ulrich of Klemme — meets the entire description including the adeptness as a seamstress got her into the news recently.

She was one of two area winners in the annual Make It with Wool contest held at Mason City.

Shirlene's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Busick and is, herself, one of a family of nine children. So sewing has had particular point as a hobby. Her winning garment was a two-piece "Peacock" suit with overblouse made of all-wool flannel. Understandably, Shirley's Ma — Alice Busick — was pretty proud.



EXAMINING RECORDS of Luick chapter of the National Honor Society, the fall initiates of the current school year — (left to right) Evelyn Basener, Lennie Johnson and Ellen Bonte — found it of particular interest to read the names of BHS students who have achieved membership in the organization since it was formed in the spring of 1960.

• • •

Three Initiated by Belmond High chapter of NHS

Only three Belmond Community High school students were added to membership in Chester P. Luick chapter of the National Honor Society as the result of the first selections made for the 1967-68 school year.

Two juniors were recently initiated as regular members — Evelyn Basener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Basener, and Ellen Bonte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Bonte.

The third new member, as a sophomore, was elected on a provisional basis and was the first student from the Class of '70 to be accorded this honor. He was Lennie Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson.

Evelyn Basener was preceded in NHS membership by her brother Lawrence in '66 and Ellen Bonte by her brother Dudley in '64.

Membership is based on outstanding qualities of scholarship, leadership, service and character. With the new initiates, Luick chapter now has 11 current members — six seniors, four juniors and the lone sophomore.

Erv Redder, Chamber of Commerce president, was the town speaker at the initiation ceremonies. Garner High school's principal, Merle Sharp, and the four officers of Garner's NHS chapter were guests at the student assembly here when the initiation was held.

$100 savings bond claimed—

Stereo console "big prize" today

Gasoline flowed quite freely last weekend as the next-to-last drawings were held in the Chamber of Commerce Christmas promotion; but the $100 U. S. savings bond was the only other prize claimed. That went to Cheryl Milligan and was most gratefully received.

Winning 50 gallons of gasoline apiece were Vernon Dippel, John Van Gerpen and Mrs. Merlin Bierman,

Unclaimed prizes were: the man's or woman's diamond ring, electric carving knife and electric food blender. These will be added to the four prizes scheduled for the final drawing today (Thursday) at 2:00 p. m., when numbers will be posted continuously at five-minute intervals until all of the gifts have been awarded.

Major attraction of the prize list will be a handsome Zenith stereo console that includes AM and FM radio. There will also be two cash prizes of $100 each and a third cash prize of $50.

Chamber Secretary Ellis Elliott says the response to this year's Christmas program has been excellent. C-of-C members regard as evidence the fact that only three out of 16 prizes put up at drawings conducted to date have not been claimed — indicating that a close watch has been kept on the winning numbers posted.

During the current week, the kiddies are having their innings as registration is conducted which will serve as the basis for giving away two bicycles and four tricycles.

Name slips, which include age and address, may be deposited at any of the participating business places for the drawing to be held at 4:00 p. m. Saturday after Santa Claus hands out the annual treats at the fire station.

It was originally announced that registration for the 'cycles would end Friday; but the time limit has been extended to Saturday morning. All the slips must be turned in at the First State bank by 11:00 a. m. Saturday. Youngsters age eight through 16 will be eligible for chances at the two bicycles while those seven and under will be contenders for the tricycles.

Second free movie matinee for the children will be offered at the New Belmond theater at 1:30 p. m. Saturday. Santa Claus will be in town from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m. He will distribute the traditional treats at 3:30 following the movie program and before the drawing is conducted.

BUSICK TO GERMANY

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Busick spent last Friday and Saturday at Des Moines with their son SP6 Darwin Busick and family. They took along with them for mutual enjoyment a complete Christmas dinner, as Darwin is leaving for Germany on Dec. 26 and cannot be home for the occasion. His wife and children will live in Des Moines until school lets out in the spring and then join Darwin overseas.

S/SGT. JOHN F. KAUFMAN MAKING CAREER OF ARMY

S/Sgt. John Frank Kaufman and family arrived a week ago Sunday from Ft. Benning, Ga., to spend a 30-day leave with his aunt, Mrs. Alvina Kaufman.

John is a former Belmond boy who has made the service his career. He will retire at the end of another seven and one-half years.

He spent from Jan. 10 to April 16 of this year in England. While there his unit received a Meritorious Citation for participation in Operation Free Lock.

Following his leave, he will be sent to Fort Greeley in Alaska.

Stewart Eckhoffs receive 1st place for Yule display

Judges who selected the winners in the annual Christmastime home decorating contest last Sunday had generous praise for the large number of excellent displays that dot the community this year.

First place went to one of the most elaborate and beautiful displays that Belmond has seen in many a year. It is the handiwork of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Eckhoff and its location "on the hill" in west Belmond makes it visible over a wide area.

Second prize went to the "Bud" Lerdals in Eastgate Addition, 915 Seventh street NE; third to a Kirkendall Addition display, that of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. "Bill" Lanphere at 305 Luicks Lane; and fourth to the Hugh Clarkes in McLaughlin Adidtion, east of the high school, 408 Tenth avenue NE.

Prizes awarded were, in order, $10, $7.50, $5.00 and $2.50. In all instances, it was evident that the rewards that the winners reaped were "a small patch" on the investment made in the thoughtfully planned displays.

Honorable mention was awarded to four additional displays that in many years would have been prize winners. Receiving special citation of the judges were the homes of R. W. Courson, Durwood LaRue, Charles Stalker and Ray Wright.

Doing the judging were Mrs. Luin Cox, Mrs. Don Bunnell, Mrs. Paul Rietz and Mrs. Gerald iKntzi.

Plans, specifications now available—

Bids on P. O. building requested by Feb. 9

Postmaster Bill Walrod was advised last weekend by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that the Post Office department has completed building specifications for Belmond's new post office and is now ready to solicit bids.

The building is to be erected with private capital and leased to the government, in line with the department's economy program to achieve the best possible postal service at the lowest possible cost, Mr. O'Brien stated.

Under the department's lease construction program, the successful bidder will be assigned the site on Second avenue NE directly across from the Belmond city hall. This property was expressly purchased for the purpose by Belmond Industrial Development corporation and then optioned to the postal department for the acquisition price of $10,650

Successful bidder on the lease-construction contract will buy the optioned property and build on it according to departmental specifications. The contract will call for the building to be leased to the post office department for a basic 10-year period, with the department have options to renew for an additional 20 years.

Postmaster Walrod says he had not, this week, yet received a copy of the specifications so he could not say what the new post office dimensions or appearance are to be.

Capital investment of the government will be in postal equipment, the building remaining under private ownership with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents were to be available on or about Wednesday of this week from Fred B. Agnew, Regional Real Estate Officer, Room 25, Main Post Office Building, Des Moines, Ia. 50318.

Bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other pertinent information will be obtainable from Mr. Agnew. Bids are to be submitted to him by 2:00 p.m. on Feb. 9 of next year.

Presumably, contract will be let soon after the winning bidder is determined so the new post office can be erected during the 1968 season. On the basis of other lease construction offices lately built in Iowa, it is guessed that the cost of the Belmond post office will likely be in the $90,000 to $100,000 range.

Since the October tornado of 1966, the basement of the IOOF hall has served as Belmond's temporary post office. The quarters are less than ample for the purpose, and Postmaster Walrod says the office employees are looking forward with keen anticipation to getting back into facilities designed for efficient operation of the office's business.

Masons and Stars plan installation in new building

Officers for the coming year were elected at meetings the early part of December by the Belmond Masonic lodge and Order of Eastern Star, whose time of installation is a matter of present conjecture — awaiting completion of the new Masonic hall. Ray Wright, who was re-elected as Worshipful Master of the Masons, is confident the joint installation can be held in the new quarters within the next month's time.

Juen (Mrs. Everett) 'Anderson will at that time take office as new Worthy Matron of the OES, along with Lloyd Cunningham as Worthy Patron, as the Masons return Mr. Wright to the chief office of their lodge. Mrs. Anderson succeeds Snarleen Sorum as Worthy Matron of the Star.

Other Masonic officers to be installed are: Eugene Mosiman, Senior Warden; Leroy Green, Junior Warden; George Jenison, Secretary; Lloyd Lerdal, Treasurer; and Clarence "Dick" Whitten of Rowan as trustee for a three-year term. All of these are serving additional terms in offices they already held.

Eastern Star officers to be installed in elective offices are: Marvel Whitten of Rowan, Associate Matron; Charles Hellman, Associate Patron; Mary Hildebrand, Secretary; Rhea Chambell, Treasurer; Sharleen Sorum, Conductress; and Ann Wilson, Associate Conductress.

Mrs. Anderson says she has not yet appointed all the officers holding Star points, but the following will be installed in appointive offices: Cora Greenlander, Chaplain; Nannette Hildebrand, Marshal; Elsie O'Connor, Organist; Gertrude Wright, Warder; and Clarence Whitten, Sentinel.

COIN CLUB WILL MEET

Clarion Coin club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday of next week at 7:30 p. m. at the First National bank community room. There will be a coin auction and bourse tables will offer coins for sale. Memberships for 1968 are now being solicited, dues being $2.00.

• • • • • • • • •

Among Christmas activities—

Orientation given 10 new Jaycees

Ten young men received orientation as new members and four additional were reactivated as members at a Christmas party for Belmond Jaycees and their wives held last Thursday evening at the clubhouse of the Central Soya Men's club.

As another seasonal activity of the organization, close to 40 underprivileged children in Belmond Community School district last (Wednesday) night were taken on their annual Jaycee shopping spree, each with $2.50 to spend in local stores on something for themselves — or, as most often turns out to be the choice, presents for members of their families.

Received last week as new Jaycee members were Don Aanrud, David Dorr, Phillip Johnson, Roland "Bud" Lerdal, Jack Manders, Lee Martin, Tom Moore, Darrell Morehouse and Jack Williams. Also receiving orientation was Bob Lerdal, who had joined the organization last summer. Being reactivated as Jaycees were Mike Dillon, Larry Main, Rich McMurray and Harvey Sturm.

Jerry McLaughlin and Dick Krapfl were co-chairmen for the party and Dennis Pastour served as chairman of the after-dinner program. President Larry Flanagan told the history of the Jaycee movement and Charter President Duane Anderson reviewed local Jaycee history.

Last night, the Jaycees picked up the underprivileged boys and girls between 6:30 and 7:00 o'clock and the youngsters spent an hour at their shopping. They were then taken to the Jaycee clubroom, where wives of the Jaycees helped the children wrap their presents and served them refreshments.

With their young guests all returned to their homes by 8:30, the Jaycees and their wives went caroling. They made stops at Belmond Community hospital, the local nursing homes and Hammond House, and also at the homes of a number of shut-ins.

In the afternoon and during their caroling tour in the evening, the Jaycees delivered small, inexpensive gifts to approximately 80 elderly people who have few kin living or near-by and face a relatively uneventful Christmas.

This is a new adjunct of the Jaycees' Yuletide activities planned to help make Christmas a merrier occasion for people in the community whose holidays might be less glad but for the special attention shown them.

Another Belmond officer was elected to an association office, Chief of Police Ray Thompson being the treasurer for the coming year. Dewayne Schossow of the Eagle Grove police force was elected vice president and Bill Hines, Clarion, will be the new secretary.

Thirty-nine officers, wives and guests attended the dinner.

Todd Walrod awarded first prize in Santa-letter writing contest

Todd Walrod, nine-year-old son of Postmaster and Mrs. Bill Walrod, was awarded first prize in the annual Santa letter contest conducted by The Independent and 13 other Belmond business establishments.

Mrs. Viva Parker and Mrs. Gladys Kline, performing their annual function as judges of the contest, regarded that there were some very good letters to choose from this year.

That of the 1st-place winner, which won Todd a cash prize of $15, read as follows:

Dear Santa:

This year I hope you can make it. And I have been very good. I hope you will not get sick on your trip. There are some kids that don't believe in you, but I think there's a spirit of everything. I would like a 15 lb. pull Bow and Arrow with quiver, Rocking Socking Robots, and last but not least a 51 Sweatshirt or a Woody Wagon. I will leave milk and cookies on the table for you. Merry Christmas and Thank You.

Love,
Todd Walrod

Second prize of $7.50 went to Cindy Bamford, adopted into the family of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Bamford during the past year, who expressed her liking for her new family, home and surroundings. Third prize was won by the newsy and neatly written letter of Sue Ann Stoffer, age eight, who took first place a year ago.

The prizes of $2.50 each that went to the next four place-winners were won in order by Kelly Steinberg, Cindy Abele of Klemme and Dawn Flanagan. Honorable mention was awarded to the thoughful letter written by David O'Donnell.

Co-sponsoring the contest with The Independent were: First State bank, Morehouse Implements, Iowa Electric, Belmond Co-op Creamery, Belmond Greenhouse, McLaughlin Brothers Chevrolet, Farmers Grain, Joe's Skelly Service, R. W. Courson Agency, Iehl Phillips 66 Service, Coast to Coast store, Central Telephone and Spahn and Rose Lumber company.

ED OLSON IN DANA CHOIR

Ed Olson, son of Mrs. Eva Olson, is one of 58 students who have been named by the director of the Dana college touring choir, Dr. Paul Neve, at Blair, Neb., which will make an eight-day concert tour in January.

State road plans announced—

$544,000 in contracts for widening of 69

Announcement of its road building plans for the next five years this week by the Iowa State Highway commission outlined the smallest amount of road construction in Wright county during 1968 that has been scheduled for a number of years.

Biggest job in the county for the upcoming construction season will be the widening of Highway 69 through Belmond — .947 of a mile — from 24 to 48-foot width.

Contracts for this work have already been let and come to $544,098. Of this amount, $139,758 will go for raising and widening the bridge across the Iowa river just south of the North Western tracks. The remaining $404,304 was the bid of Jackson Construction company of Nevada for the widening work.

There were five bidders for the widening contract. Next lowest bid was that of Allied Construction of Charles City, $432,284. Highest of the bids was submitted by Irving F. Jenson company of Sioux City, $460,579.

Due to the early letting on these two contracts — Dec. 5 — there would appear good prospect of an early start being made on the work when spring arrives.

Other highway commission jobs scheduled for the coming year and their estimated cost are: railroad crossing signals one-half mile west of Rowan on Highway 3, $15,000; similar signals near the south city limit of Renwick, $15,000.

Purchasing right-of-way, widening and resurfacing of 9.9 miles on Highway 69 from the Hamilton county line to its west junction with Highway 3, $496,000; and purchase of some of the right-of-way needed for Interstate 35 on 5.1 miles from the Hamilton to Franklin county line, $11,000.

An estimated $595,000 additional for I-35 right-of-way purchases is earmarked for 1969; also $1,553,000 for grading of the Hamilton-Franklin strip in 1970; and $1,748,000 for paving in 1971. Miscellaneous expenditures coming to $45,000 are estimated for 1972.

Other Wright county work projected by the commission in the five-year plan includes: railroad crossing signals a mile west of Woolstock in 1969 ($15,000); purchase of right-of-way in 1971 for widening No. 3 from the Franklin county line to its east junction with Highway 69 ($54,000); and grading of that six-mile stretch in 1972 ($175,000) in preparation for later widening.

As presently planned, the 1971 paving of Wright county's portion of I-35 will complete one of the last sections of the interstate and permit uninterrupted travel on I-35 from Duluth, Minn., to Loredo, Tex.

Another highway commission job of the coming year that will be of interest to local travelers is the reconstruction of the Highway 69-Iowa 9 intersection north of Forest City and Leland.

According to the commission's five-year plan, more than $600 million will be spent on road construction during that span of time. Interstate highway construction and right-of-way purchase will account for about $202.5 million of that amount.

Hello, World!

Shelly Kay is the name chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stadtlander of Meservey for their 8-lb. 7-oz. baby daughter born Dec. 13.

Mr. and Mrs. John Neel of Mason City are the parents of a baby boy born on Dec. 15. He weighed 8 lbs. 14 oz. and has been named Timothy Andrew. Local grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leeper.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Timmerman of Eagle Grove are the parents of a daughter born Dec. 17. She weighed 6 lbs. 7¾ oz. and has been named Kelly Ilene.

Bridges will monopolize county's '68 road funds

Road construction in Wright county in 1968 with secondary road funds and farm-to-market funds will be expended entirely on bridges, with the exception of one grading project that will require only an estimated $53,000 out of $623,000 budgeted from both funds for the year; and $15,000 earmarked for right-of-way purchase.

Scheduled for grading is the gravel road angling east past the Belmond and St. Francis cemeteries and then south to the Alexander blacktop (County C).

County Engineer Haydn Jones says that approval has been received from the Iowa State Highway commission for expenditure of $336,000 from secondary road funds. Approval of an outlay of $287,000 in farm-to-market funds has not yet been received, but is expected soon.

Twenty-one bridges would be built under the proposed '68 program. One, budgeted at $50,000, would be in Belmond township near the George Eckhoff gravel pit two miles north and three-fourths west of Belmond. Another three would be in the southern part of Norway township — one ($9,000) near the Hubert Heimstra farm; another ($20,000) near the Martin Hill farm; and the third ($22,000) near the Heis Verbrugge farm.

Three more of the bridges would be on the gravel road running south from Rowan to the Dows blacktop (Iowa 72). The northernmost, across the Iowa river, would cost an estimated $75,000. Two smaller ones to the south would cost about $9,000 and $20,000, in that order.

Four of the bridges would also go in Lake township, at total estimated cost of $48,000; one in Dayton, $27,000; two in Woolstock, $65,000; one in Troy, $70,000; one in Liberty, $60,000; one in Boone, $50,000; and one in Lincoln, $30,000.

ATTENTION FARMERS

Charging For Dead Stock Removal

In spite of our continued effort to reduce the cost of picking up and processing dead animals into protein, grease and hides, we now find the markets and the anticipated markets for these products so low that we cannot economically continue to provide free service for the sanitary removal of dead animals from the farm. For this reason we are now asking the farmer to participate in the cost so that this sanitary animal health service may continue.

Effective DECEMBER 30, 1967, we will be charging $2.00 per pick-up or call. As of that date please have $2.00 in check or cash available to the driver at the time of pick-up. If you will not be home when the driver arrives, please put it in an envelope and tie it to the animal, in bad weather place it in a jar. If the $2.00 is not available an additional $2.00 will be charged for a second trip.

Call promptly within 24 hours, Iowa Falls, 648-4211. Decomposed animals cause problems, promptness in calling is essential.

Thanks for your past calls and for your assistance and cooperation in making this major change in service. We regret it, but it is necessary.

Most accidents happen within 25 miles of home

It's a fact. According to the National Safety Council, 4 out of 5 auto accidents happen within 25 miles of home. Happen during those local shopping trips, or while taking the children to school. Happen on the way to work . . . or the way home. So be smart. Always buckle your seat belt—every time you drive.

Remember, according to the National Safety Council, if everyone had seat belts and buckled them all the time, at least 5,000 lives could be saved each year and serious injuries reduced by one-third.

Always buckle your seat belt

MR. AND MRS. JERRY D. MEYER

Sandra Kay Hunt, Jerry D. Meyer wed at Kanawha church on Dec, 9

Miss Sandra Kay Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hunt of Clear Lake, became the bride of Jerry D. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Meyer, Saturday evening, Dec. 9, at 7:00 o'clock in the St. John's Lutheran church at Kanawha. Rev. Bernard Oebser read the double-ring wedding vows.

Mrs. Twilla Schrader, organist, accompanied Mrs. John Ellington as she sang "Bless This House" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a rosepoint lace gown styled with a sabrina neckline, long lilypoint sleeves, a natural waistline and a full, floor-length skirt. The Watteau train flowed into full chapel-length. Her veil was attached to a pillbox headpiece. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Norma Renn, sister of the groom, was matron of honor. She wore a dress of light blue silk organza over taffeta and carried blue feathered mums centered with a white mum.

The best man was Merle Giesking, brother-in-law of the groom. The ushers were Ron Hunt, brother of the bride, and Lowell Johnson, brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Mrs. Doris Hahn, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Donna Johnson, sister of the bride, cut the cake; Mrs. Darlene Buchan and Mrs. Marge Lyon poured; Cheryl and Carol Lyon were the waitresses and Mrs. Alice Giesking and Mrs. Donna Oswald were in charge of the gifts.

The bride graduated in 1967 from Clear Lake High school and is employed at Mercy hospital in Mason City. The groom is a graduate of Klemme High school, attended Iowa State university at Ames for five years and is now stationed with the U. S. Marine corps at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

He is a junior at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, taking a pre-medical course and she is a freshman at the University of Northern Iowa, Cedar Falls.

Freshman cagers down Dows JV's

A 4th-quarter surge assured Belmond High's freshman cagers a victory over the Dows junior varsity here Monday evening as the Blue-and-White preps broke away for a 38-28 decision.

The Belmond crew held only a 17-14 halftime lead and the visitors clung to the three-point margin through the third period, which ended 24-21.

Sam McLaughlin connected for three field goals and Fred Erdman for two fielders and a pair of free-throws in the last stanza to help clinich the win.

Erdman finished with 13 points and McLaughlin with nine. They were aided by Dave Snyder with seven points, Dave Hickman six and Ron Fuller three. Sturgeon meshed nine for the losers, Frye and Jones each six.

Loden badly hurt in tumble on ice

Dr. Harold Loden, director of research for ACCO Seed division of Anderson, Clayton and company, suffered serious injury Saturday evening when he slipped on an icy sidewalk and shattered several bones in his left arm.

He had been visiting in the home of Lee Martin at 908 East Main and was just departing when the ice caused by freezing rain caught him by surprise and he fell heavily on the front walk.

Dr. Loden was taken to Mercy hospital at Mason City, where he underwent four hours of surgery early Sunday morning. He will be a patient there for at least two weeks.

The mishap caused cancellation of plans he and Mrs. Loden had for leaving this Friday to vacation for two months in Mexico with friends.

Another trip south recently brought Dr. Loden a highly esteemed honor when he was awarded an Honorary Membership in the Southern Seedmen's association at a convention of the group held in New Orleans in late November. He was given a standing ovation by 800 persons in attendance at the convention banquet when the honor was bestowed upon him in recognition of his important contributions to the seeds trade.

HOWARD RUKA AT GARNER

Goodell and Belmond friends of Howard Ruka are advised that he is now at Concord Manor nursing home at Garner after being in a coma for two months at Mercy hospital, Mason City, following a stroke. A brother of Mrs. Harry Sorenson, Howard was just recently transferred to Garner.

Russell Beenken will head union

Russell Beenken was elected president of Local 25 of the American Federation of Grain Millers as members of the Central Soya union elected officers for next year at a meeting Wednesday night of last week. He succeeds Ardell Hopkey in the position.

Mr. Hopkey was elevated from the office of vice president to the presidency when Ed Albers resigned that position in September upon leaving the Central Soya staff to enter the insurance business in Mason City.

Other officers elected were: Loran Greenfield, vice president; Ronald Steenblock, Jr., financial secretary; Richard Lindvall, recording secretary; and George Buterbaugh, trustee for a three-year term.

Elected as stewards by the various divisions were: Alvie Smith, feed plant; Duan Thompson, maintenance and repair; Roger Modderman, elevator; Bill Beenen, refinery and specialty; Joe Negrete, warehouse; Rich Peddicord, milling and extraction.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa,

I want you to fill my stocking with candy. I want a little airplane. We will put some milk on the table for you. And also some fudge and cookies.

Love
Tyler

Dear Santa Claus,

I thought I should have something different this year. And what I want is a stuffed furry pet like a puppy or kitten or something that you know I will like. Good-by for now and a Merry Christmas.

Love
Paula Roberts
Age 8

Dear Santa Claus,

I was a good boy most of the time this year. I want a long, red and white fire truck and I want a gun holster with a gun, and a toy tool box set that's made of steel and on the saw handle its plastic. I use Daddy's tools and they are too heavy for me. I want a hammer too if you can make one. And I want a ride on the sleigh. When you come I'll give you some lunch like pumpkin pin and whipped cream and Christmas cookies and coffee, so you don't get hungry and sleepy. And a carrot for Rudolph.

Good-by Santa!
Stuart Roberts

Broncs ease past Cards 89 to 70

Belmond's Broncos passed their first North Iowa conference cage test against a first division team with flying colors here Tuesday night, running Garner into the ground in the second half for an 89-70 win.

Garner never led, but on six occasions before intermission only a point separated the teams and never was the margin more than four points except when a two-pointer by Rick Hawley made it 42-37 at the horn.

The Cardinals stayed close past the mid-point of the third quarter, when the tally stod at 51-48. Then the Broncos broke away to a 61-48 advantage before the visitors could score again, after the start of the final period.

It was Belmond's fast break, plus a tight zone defense, that did the business.

Both teams had four men in double figures, but the Bronco quartet's were the higher. Terry Nelson bagged 23, Paul Bamford 18, Greg Fuller 15 and Lee Barkema 12 — with Joel Gabrielson adding seven, Greg Steenblock six, Hawley and Pres Kessler four each. Al Berge had 17 for the Cards, Greg Schoneman 15, Terry Frein 14 and Gary Lemke 10. Gail Stark aided with eight, Chuck Roe got four and Mike Barz two.

Belmond's froshmores also had trouble getting started and shared an 18-all tie at halftime. A full-court press disorganized the Chix after intermission, leaving them behind 32-20 after three quarters and by 52-35 at the finish. Tim Dirks led the victors with 13 points, Ron Ginapp and Tom Shirer each hitting for 11.

Sergeant Quandt retires after 21 years in Army

Sgt. 1/c Edwin Quandt, son of Mrs. H. R. Bayliss, on Nov. 30 was honorably discharged from the U. S. Army after completing 21 years of service. He, and wife and two sons will reside in San Antonio, Tex. Edwin is presently there looking for satisfactory employment.

His Army service was mainly as a Medical Specialist. He enlisted in the Army on Aug. 29, 1945, getting his basic training at Fort Riley, Kans. He obtained his medical training at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, and was a Medical Corpsman until April of 1947, when he left the service briefly but re-enlisted in December of the same year.

He was a Motor Sergeant and later a Platoon Sergeant at Aschaffenburg, Germany, until October of 1953, when he returned to Fort Polk, La., Army hospital and resumed work as a Medical Specialist.

He served at various hospitals in the States until October of 1959, when he returned overseas and was on duty at the 2nd General Hospital at Landstuhl, Germany, until August of '63. He followed another tour of domestic duty with 10 months at the 93rd Evacuation Hospital in Vietnam, returning last June to become Chief Wardmaster, Nursing Service, at Brooke General Hospital, San Antonio, where he was separated from the service.

During his Army time, Sergeant Quandt was awarded the Good Conduct Medal with four loops, World War II Victory Medal, Army of Occupation Medal (Germany), Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, and National Defense Service Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster

County fire loss in '67 less than half that of '66

Regular monthly meeting of the Wright County Firemen's association was held last Thursday at Clarion, with 29 firemen present. They were informed by Secretary Kenny Mayes that the county's eight fire departments from Dec. 6 of last year to the night of the meeting answered 182 fire calls and that the fires caused an estimated $71,424 loss, less than half the fire damage in 1966.

The previous year, there were 14 more alarms and fire caused damage estimated at $158,936. Calls made during the month prior to the December meeting numbered 19 and estimated loss was $6,820.

R. G. "Bud" Packard, Belmond fire chief, told the firemen how efforts of visiting volunteer firemen were coordinated at the time of the Belmond tornado. He had generous praise for all the firemen who gave assistance at the time of the disaster.

Election of new officers for the next year was held. Tom Caquelin of Woolstock was elected president, replacing Fred Buchanan of Rowan. Maurice Riley of Clarion is the new vice president and Kenney Mayes, Clarion, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Pork Producers plan check-off

"Nickels for Profit," a producer-sponsored pork promotion program, is to be launched in Wright county the first of next year with the staunch backing of the Wright County Pork Producers association.

Under the program, hog raisers are being urged to agree to the deduction of five cents on every hog marketed, the proceeds to go into a fund for promoting pork.

This will be a check-off system controlled by the producer, deductions to be made at the time of sale.

Directors of the Pork Producers association met with hog buyers of the county Wednesday night of last week to explain the program. The buyers are asked to collect the deductions and send the money to the National Pork Producers Council at Des Moines.

Enthusiastic endorsement was given the "Nickels for Profit" program by the hog buyers.

Pork raisers can obtain more information in regard to the promotion program from the Wright County Extension office at Clarion or from any director of the Pork Producers association. Bob Cullinan of Belmond is the director for this area of the county.

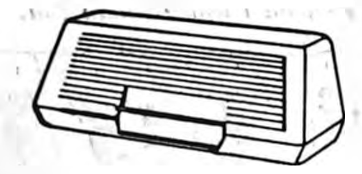
YOUR OWN PERSONAL



POCKET STAMP

PERMA-STAMP — the pocket stamp that goes wherever you go — neat and clean — ready for instant use WITHOUT AN INK PAD!

Your light-weight PERMA STAMP Pocket Stamp is perfect as a personal signature stamp . . . a time-saving check endorsement stamp . . . or a name and address stamp for imprinting envelopes, identifying books and other personal or household items.

Every impression is crisp and clean — as if it came off a printing press. Smallest details and finest lines are reproduced with consistent clarity and cleanliness.

Snap-top lid protects your stamp until you're ready to use it. Attractive jade-green plastic case keeps stamp safe from dust, lint and dirt. Available in your choice of ink colors: violet, red, black, green and blue.

Best of all, a PERMA STAMP Pocket Stamp costs little more than an old-fashioned rubber stamp

"Pelsnickle" left only switches to punish the naughty children

Where there are dolls, there's the spirit of Christmas.

In the Pryor International Doll Library at Grennwich, Conn., there are more than 8,000 dolls, and naturally, many of them suggest Christmas in a very special way — from creche figures that symbolize the religious meaning of the holiday to a jolly Santa doll who wrinkles his dried-apple face in a smile that sums up all the joys of the season.

From a Christmas-season point of view, one of the most interesting dolls is a figure representing "Pelsnickle." Though little known to modern celebrants, Pelsnickle holds an important place in holiday lore.

According to legend, he accompanied St. Nicholas as his servant and, while St. Nick rewarded good children with gifts, Pelsnickle had the unwelcome task of punishing naughty boys and girls with "gifts" of lumps of coal and switches.

The Doll Library's Pelsnickle sports Santa Claus whiskers, wears a coat of shaggy fur and holds a bundle of switches.

While Pelsnickle and switches are usually associated, a study of Christmas lore reveals that in earlier legends he traditionally carried a birch cane, says Mrs. June Anderson Douglass, whose responsibilities as curator of the Pryor Doll Library include researching and cataloguing each doll.

Like St. Nicholas, Pelsnickle was a European figure, known primarily in Holland and Germany. He came by his name very logically, since he was generally believed to wear a fur coat. "Pelz" is the German word for fur.

Today, the custom of having Pelsnickle appear at Christmas time is still observed in some Pennsylvania Dutch homes, according to the editors of The New Book of Knowledge.

IT WAS "BAD NEWS" for naughty tots that "Pelsnickle" distributed on Christmas Eve in the form of switches or lumps of coal. This image of the unwelcome elf is in the collection of Pryor's Doll Library.

To Ye Ed:

Just to say Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year and to tell you I have enjoyed your editorials except when they are CANNED, and TJ columns always. TJ is right up there at the top with Donald Kahl.

(Ed's note: those "canned" ones are resorted to not more than three or four times a year. Those that GET "canned" appear rather more frequently.)

I enjoyed the "clever name" write-up very much. It recalled an incident in my own travels. Had a friend whose name was Ohma Legg. She was always complaining, "Oh! My leg!". Got her name changed to Broker Legg; and believe me — it cured her of the habit.

Another event recently boosted my ego a lot — the fact that Lynda and Chuck arranged their wedding for the same hour, day and date that me and the BW took our vows. Everything but the year; ours was 1911.

Even the nuptials paralleled ours. We didn't have $5,000 worth of champagne; but we had a box of fine five-cent cigars. Also, we didn't have $500 for the preacher; but I did give him five bucks. Linda and Chuck's rice was the same, only grown several years later.

We were married in a white house, to, but the house we stayed in the first night was brown. But heck, I presume the doings were about the same. And if we didn't go to the Virgin Islands, at least we did go for a nice, open, one-horse sleigh ride all bundled up together in fur mittens and robe.

I'll bet Lynda and Chuck never felt closer to each other. Then we took a trip on a train (not jet propelled) and that's the only thing that didn't cost me a cent (I had a free pass — and it was a real pleasure to see the conductor's eyes beam when he noted the pass was for me "and wife.")

So you can see why I'm all for Lynda and Chuck and wish them luck and hope they will be able to ride the ups and downs of life as well as we have.

Happy landings, Lynda and Chuck.

Almost anything went in pie

"The devil dares not show himself in Cornwall at Christmas time lest he baked in a pie."

This old English saying takes its humorous inspiration from the wide variety of ingredients actually used in the mince pies and other Christmas pies of early England, according to the editors of The New World Book of Knowledge.

One 14th-century recipe for a Christmas pie included: a pheasant, a hare, a capon, two partridges, two pigeons, two rabbits, beef meat balls, eggs, pickled mushrooms, seasonings and spices, all in a pastry crust.

Peace on earth

A full measure of joy is our Noel wish for you!

Lore, legend express happy mood of season

From home to home, from country to country, Yule celebrations abound. The happy traditions of gift giving, home decorating, carol singing, card sending, candle lighting and tree trimming express the merriment of the season.

Popular folk customs of nation after nation have been absorbed into the international legend and lore of the Yuletide. Yet virtually every nation — and every home and family, too — has its special way of celebrating Christmas, and its special memories of Christmas past.

Carrying in straw

Straw is a traditional part of Christmas celebrations in Sweden — in probable remembrance of the first Christmas when there was straw in the manger.

While "carrying in the Christmas straw" is a tradition rather than a modern custom, Swedish people still make straw and wooden figures to hang on their Christmas trees.

"San Tan You Lin"

In Hong Kong, Santa Claus goes by the name of "San Tan You Lin."

The Hong Kong department stores employ elderly men who are specially costumed for the season. Just like Santa Claus, San Tan You Lin is present for the purpose of holding the youngsters on his knee and listening to their requests for gifts.

Log had charms

In ancient Germany, the Yule log was known as the "Christbrand." One belief held that if the charred log was placed in a cornbin, it would act as a charm to ward off mice.

If the weather turned stormy, the Christbrand was quickly brought back to the fire. While it burned, superstition said, the house was safe from lightning.

Going "Mumming"

"Mumming" is a Yule custom that originated in early England. Mummers, masked and in costume, silently enacted ritual plays about the death of winter and the old year.

The custom still survives in some parts of the world, although the plays are no longer performed. Today mummers usually entertain with dancing and instrumental music. They are rewarded with treats.

He shall deliver thee in six troubles; yea, in seven there shall no evil touch thee. — Job 5:19

It's really very simple, what causes sonic booms

Prompted by what an Algona lad referred to as the "Masonic booms" to which this area has been subjected for the past month or so, we asked Bob Wilson of the BHS faculty to explain to us just what goes on to cause these rather startling detonations. He tried. We're not sure if the fault lies with the teacher or the student that we STILL don't understand with very complete clarity just what causes the racket.

There's no reason why we should be confused all by ourself, so we propose to propagate our own confusion by telling YOU all about it. "Red" supplemented his verbal effort at explanation with some illustrations that we are not going to the expense of reproducing. If you don't end up knowing all about it, we shall simply maintain that it would all have been clear had we published these drawings along-with.

First of all, the speed of sound — which is the foundation block in the creation of a sonic boom — is 1,100 feet per second (which the scientific literati have christened for reasons unknown to us as Mach 1). That comes to 750 miles an hour, if you unravel it, and was once regarded as the ultimate speed of which an airplane could become practically capable.

"Red" had us with him pretty well, to this point. But once we passed through the sound barrier, the going began to get a little fast for us. Of course, the aircraft manufacturers have left Mach 1 well behind. They crack Mach 2 nowadays with the equanimity of a freeway driver hitting 90 mph (if there appears to be no red bubbles in the vicinity). In fact, we gather that Mach 3 is in the process of being brought to its knees — if it hasn't happened already.

That's 2,250 miles an hour; and we can well understand that churning the air at such an improbable speed would be bound to cause something of a rumpus. When the first high-speed planes pierced the sound barrier ('way back there at a leisurely 750 mph) they had an ugly habit of flying to pieces. This presumably caused a rather heavy drain on test pilots, so the airplane designers looked at the funny papers and discovered that some of the science-fiction cartoonists were doing much better than conventional aircraft draftsmen with what looked like flying needles. With the bust-ups becoming embarrassing and test pilots becoming rather mean about the whole thing, the draftsmen apparently decided ANYTHING was worth a try — and it turned out that Buck Rogers HAD something.

So aerial needles became the sky-thing, and sonic booms descended on the land in proliferating numbers. Thus far we've avoided any sort of explanation pretty well, but we can see that the string's run out. So — it's like this ("Red" told us).

Traveling at conventional speeds, an airplane sort of mushes up the sky area ahead by sending out sound waves that "pattern" the air and enable it to slip through the molecules with all the ease of a heel sliding on a shoe horn.

When a plane is revving up on the ground, the compression waves created by the roar produce invisible waves around it like a stone plunked into a brooklet. But if it's up in the air and gaining speed, it overtakes these concentric waves ahead of it creating an increasing obstinance on the part of the air to permit advance of the plane from where it is to where it's going.

By the time it reaches Mach 1, it and its sound waves are traveling at the same speed and the air ahead is caught by total surprise and unprepared to receive any intruding foreign matter. This creates an effect like pancaking off a 10-foot diving board and landing flat on your back. The air understandably lets out an "OOOOF!" — and having infinite lung capacity, it's a pretty big one. It reaches the earth with more of a "BOOM!" sound . . . and there you have it.

The indignance of the air molecules at being compressed at 2,000, rather than a mere 750 mph is relatively more vehement, with the consequence that it raises pigeons off of roof poles faster and higher, brings dogs' ears to full-mast with more abruptness, and causes quicker glances amongst human earthlings to determine did their nearest neighbor "hear it, too?"

Now, this is all perfectly clear to us, having put it down on paper; and having read it, we hope you will have no trouble in explaining to the kiddies all about "Masonic booms" the next time you're asked.

Professor Wilson completed his lecture by making a cup of his left hand by encircling fingers and thumb and struck same sharply with the palm of his right hand. A pleasant, friendly little "pop" resulted.

"Much the same principle," he declared — though we'd have sworn the descending palm missed Mach 1 by quite a margin. Anyway, we'll now be able to greet those sonic booms with the calmness that comes of knowledge. We know ALL about THEM . . . just about.

NIAC college doing fine job for OWN area's youth

The better we get acquainted with North Iowa Area Community college, the better we like it. It's a college with noteworthy past achievements and with a very bright future ahead of it. But what particularly pleases us is that it is doing a grand job RIGHT NOW for young people of the area it is intended to serve.

It is not a "brain factory" from the standpoint that it's set up to do an educational business and is willing to recruit students from the ends of the land to prove it. Enrollees from farther away than southern Minnesota are scarcer'n hen's teeth. And the very, very large majority of its enrollment is attracted from NORTHERN Iowa.

Would you believe it, the coaches at NIAC even operate on the assumption that athletic talent drawn mainly from a radius of 100 miles around Mason City can compete respectably with imports from Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and other parts afar. It's the philosophy of the school that education is the thing, and lavish athletic scholarship in generous numbers would only defeat the institution's purpose. And anyway, what's the matter with our home-grown sports stars?

It has worked out all right, too. Last fall on the gridiron, the likes of Belmond's Dave Dirks and Rich Stadtlander, Lake Mills' Steve Pederson and Forest City's Jim Levad had to tangle several times with football teams that had been hopped up by the importation of talented outlanders. The Trojans lost by narrow margins; but under Rich Koolbeck's coaching they made their opponents really sweat it out. To say they did "respectably" would be the grossest sort of understatement.

Presently, Herb Konigsmark — erstwhile Forest City basketball coach — is doing corresponding well against imported all-stars drafted from a thousand miles and more away. The strangers from a distance aspire to making enough of an impression to attract notice from big-time coaches. Herb's cagers have as their major motive to represent THEIR school with honor and distinction. The incentives seems to break about even, despite the fact that NIAC's stars were little heard of beyond the limits of their own conferences as high school players.

That NIAC attracts students who are primarily enrolled for the serious purpose of gaining an education is suggested by the fact that they don't seem to have time to protest their nation's faults in endless fashion. It's not that they're unconcerned. But you gather that, for the moment, other things are more important to them personally.

In interviews with the Globe-Gazette last week, five NIAC students agreed that with no central campus and much of the student body comprised of commuters, it would be difficult to generate a protest rally. Nevertheless, they DID manage a demonstration last Christmastime for a longer vacation. (They laugh about it, now.) That suggests that a few more days at home with family and friends had more appeal than any radical protest has been able to generate.

All in all, we like the spirit that prevails at NIAC. It's a self-respectful spirit. It's a serious-minded spirit. It's a forward-looking spirit. And we think NIAC's going to wind up with more to show for it than rival Iowa institutions that are desperately recruiting athletic talent to get their names established. . . . Established where? In the sports pages?

Operation gasbuggy

The first atomic explosion for industrial purposes will be set off shortly in northwestern New Mexico. If the 26-kilotron blast, known as Project Gasbuggy, works as planned, it will ultimately result in more than doubling the country's reserves of recoverable natural gas.

The nuclear blast will be exploded almost a mile below the ground, and in less than a millionth of a second it will vaporize, crush and melt the rock formation holding the gas, creating a huge storage tank that can be tapped later by wells. It has taken 22 years to make an industrial plowshare from a sword. — St. Louis Post-Dispatch

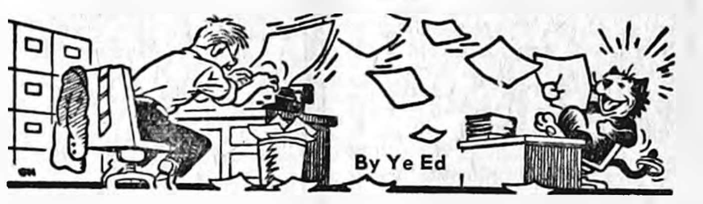
Christmas Time — Family Time

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



"Just read quite a touching story," we greeted TJ, the office cat, as he strolled to the rear of the office after and inspection of the Christmas decorations Louise and Hannah had been stringing across the front window. "Since it concerns a feline, thought you might be interested."

"Just don't try to be funny," TJ warned. "Play it straight."

"Oh, it's NOT a funny story," we informed him. "More like, pathetic. It was told by an editorial writer on The Kansas City Times, who seems to have a feeling for cats."

"A redeeming characteristic," observed TJ, "even in an editorial writer."

IGNORING THE INNUENDO, we continued, "This particular white cat was an apartment feline. He had never seen a mouse, though — as the writer put it — 'something in his primal nature told him there were such thing.' Of a consequence, he instinctively prepared himself for the eventuality of a meeting.

"Permit us to read: 'Seven long years of practice with wadded scraps of paper and seedpods stolen from a dry bouquet. . . . ' Kinda grabs you, doesn't it?"

TJ muttered, "You don't have to sell it. Just tell it!"

"ONE DAY, OF COURSE, there WAS a mouse. . . . 'The cool green eyes drew down against the carpet. There was the rush, the pounce, the arrogant strutting.' "

"For Pete's sake!" snorted TJ, "You'da thought he caught a badger."

We shushed him, saying, "Now come the drama. . . . 'And when he turned to pounce again . . . the mouse had gone!' Can't you just see that poor, bewildered city cat, looking fruitlessly for his prey?"

"WHERE," ASKED TJ, "WAS this jerk's primal instict when he let the thing get away? It's basic that you keep your head down, eye on the mouse — unless you've got it between your front paws . . . or have rendered it hors de combat."

"Don't be so superior," we replied. "We wouldn't wonder but what you had one or two get away when you were learning the ropes."

TJ sputtered, "Never in my life, since I started mouseing on my own, have I EVER . . . !"

"Relax, boy!" we interrupted. "We come now to the moral of the story. 'The cat is wiser now,' relates our informant. 'He's learned that practicing for life is no substitute for living it — that when the moment comes, style and form are secondary; it's the taking hold that counts.'

" 'HE'S STILL AN APARTMENT cat. But heaven help the next mouse that comes under those cool green eyes. If, indeed, there ever is another.' That's how it winds up," we concluded.

"So much for city living," commented the office feline. "All I got to say is, cool cats with green eyes — or green cats with cool eyes, or however it was — can have it.

"I'll take the relentless battle to extract from the grim world what it owes me. Struggling with nature . . . fighting for my rights . . . "

"LIKE THE WAY YOU POUT when you drop in at the We 3 and don't find a bite of something awaiting your attention?" we asked. "Oh, you live the rugged life, you do!

TJ showed a disinclination to pursue that particular point. After staring at us for a moment to indicate his indignation at our having brought it up, he said, "I know a few others who are practicing for life in a darned peculiar manner.

"How about these campus cats who get so wound up carrying protest signs, blocking doorways and yammering through libraries that they forget what they're there for?

"UNLESS THEY PRETTY QUICK organize a Sign Carriers Amalgamated and find somebody willing to foot the bill for time and overtime, they're going to discover the rate of pay for protest marches is less than lavish."

"Well, it didn't used to be so good for swallowing goldfish or cramming maximum numbers into a phone booth, either," we pointed out. "Sometimes we wonder if the oldfish-swallowers of yesterday aren't the sign-bearers of today. Just depends on what's the 'in' thing."

"Could be," conceded TJ. "But I'll bet you this. When job interview time comes, I suspect the hippies with the hate beards and shrubbery haircuts — and the hippy-ettes with the lank tresses and Halloween make-up — better groom up a bit to look like they've rejoined the human race, or . . . "

"Or what?" we inquired.

There are beautiful plush goods, albums, toilet cases, shaving cases, etc., with elegant silver and oxidized silver trimmings, exquisite pieces of china, lamps of all describtions, toys, dolls, books, and many other presents of a more substantial nature to choose from.

Stuck as to Dad's gift? Here's suggestions

On the assumption that late is better than never, we wish to supply our feminine readers with some gift suggestions that are calculated to make a guaranteed hit with the man of the household. That they were plucked from the pre-Christmas issue of The Belmond Herald of 75 years ago may make you do a bit of hunting; but shucks, there are three shopping days left.

"If a man has a nook of his own," suggested The Herald, "what men are apt to call their 'den,' the Christmas gift cannot be better than something which will enter into the practical spirit of the room.

"If he has a used writing table, or if his present desk has outgrown his papers, the most acceptable gift would be one of those roller-top desks of generous capacity which men so enjoy. Expensive, you say? Not at all, for the lasting enjoyment derived from such an article.

Pigeon holes'n everything

"A most capacious oak desk, filled with pigeon holes, drawers and side-slides can now be purchased for $30, and far better is it to spend a little more on a useful present than to waste a small amount upon something utterly useless to a man.

"Or, if the desk be there, or the purse will not permit, there is perhaps lacking a comfortable rug under the desk, or an easy chair. A revolving bookcase, a dictionary holder, or a simple 'double-storied' table stand for books and papers, to be placed beside the desk, are luxuries which any man enjoys in his library.

"For the inside of the desk there are many little things which can be thought of to brighten writing hours, and when they are to be had in silver they are far more acceptable, since silver brightens by its ornamentation and is lasting as well in its usefulness.

Pin cushion? Dandy!

"A silver pen tray or pen rack, a paper weight, a letter opener, a paper cutter, a mucilage stand and brush, a letter or bill clip, an inkstand, a memorandum tablet, a penholder, a hand blotter, a match box or stamp box, a library ash receiver, an ink eraser, a pincushion or holder, an engagement tablet — all there are little adjuncts any one of which is appreciated by a man much at his desk at home."

So there you are. The Old Man been hanging around the desk a lot?

For the ladies, how about going all out with an Epworth organ — just $75. And the beauty of this deal is that a $10 writing desk and $7 oak library table are thrown in!

For toe-tapping moods

This beauty for the living room boasts a walnut case, engraved panels, music rack, five octave key board, 10 octave reed, powerful base, brilliant treble, couplers AND large bellows. If the little woman gets to tapping her foot, what better way to have her work off the mood than by stamping on that bellows pedal?

Or if, again, the price is a little steep, might we suggest: a toilet cases, card case, manicure set, collar and cuff set, papetrie (huh?), photograph holder or a work or jewel box? Photograph, autograph or scrap albums are a surefire hit, too.

If you have a more practical nature, your wife will smile when she sees a Bissell Carpet Sweeper beneath the tree — $2.00, $2.50 or $2.75.

Any sort of plush goods is a sure hit; not to mention fancy china, glassware — or, if cold feet in the middle of the back have been a bother — felt boots.

"The Brownies" to Travel

Should the B. W. be a reader, what better than a $1 subscription to The Ladies Home Journal, just bulging with ideas for: Musical Evenings in the Home, Pretty Luncheons and Dainty Teas, Church Fairs and Church Sociables, or Entertaining Evening Company.

More than that, 'tis said that those captivating little men, "The Brownies," will be "Going 'Round the World" in upcoming issues; and that their sports and adventures in strange countries will be the most amusing in their history.

Or for something REALLY different, maybe a box of Dr. Stephen's Pastilles would be the ticket — guaranteed to cure her opium habit in 10 to 20 days!

Got a horse to trade?

If any of you farmers are in a bind for Christmas spending cash, we might mention that Wm. M. McGuire will take corn and oats in trade at 2½ cents per bushel over market price; and he'll take in a few good horses, too.

Before we close the files, a word to those committees faced with decorating the church for the annual program, Give ear:

"In decorating a church, do not wait until the afternoon before Christmas and then get at the work in hand in a haphazard fashion, trusting to a happy inspiration which generally fails to come, when wanted, for satisfactory results.

"Decide on some scheme of decoration in advance, then fall to with a will and help to work it out. Never hamper or annoy with constant suggestions of changes which you think would be improvements. In this, as in other things, too many cooks spoil the broth.

Make careful Santa choice

"If the committee possesses ordinary taste, and thinks out a definite scheme before beginning operations, the chances are that the church will present a far more pleasing appearance than it would be likely to if all the young people in the neighborhood came together without a plan to work on and suggestions from everybody were received and an attempt made to carry them out."

It might be added — take care not to obtain a gruff-voiced Santa who will scare the bejabbers out of the little tots, already unnerved at the prospect of delivering a recitation or singing a solo.

If these suggestions from the shades of '92 are taken properly to heart, there is no reason why ALL should not enjoy the merriest Christmas ever.

Sweep of last 5 classes lets Broncs beat Newman

After three losses in a row, the Belmond High mat team posted its second victory of the season Wednesday night of last week at Newman, Mason City, taking the last five weights for a 32-17 win. This nevertheless represented a good showing for the Knights, who are competing in wrestling for only the second year. Belmond's margin in the reserve meet was a little wider, 39-10.

Newman's score in the varsity meet was padded by a couple of tactical mistakes on the parts of the Broncos, Danny Ketchum at 103 lbs. and Bob Cullinan at 133 each being pinned after they'd gotten themselves into predicaments through no effort on the part of their opponents.

After the first seven matches, the Knights held a 17-13 lead; but they were unable to score thereafter. The heavyweight tussle provided a pleasing conclusion, where Belmond followers were concerned, when Dennis Knoll achieved his first victory by pinning Dick Ebeling early in the second period.

Two of the top attention-getters of the varsity meet were the 127 and 138-lb. matches. In the former, Terry Boyd had to come back from a 6-2 deficit in the first period to score pairs of points in the second and third periods to salvage a 6-6 draw.

At 138, Kevin Gallagher and Tom Anderegg put on a tumbling-bear act in the first period that left the Bronco ahead 8 to 7. That's how matters stood through the second period and the first minute and a half of the third, when Gallagher ran out of gas and permitted a reversal — then was pinned with nine seconds left in the match.

At 165 lbs., Gene Pals ran into a capable foe in Tom Bieth but handed his muscular foe his first loss of the season, 7-3. Lynn Henn (95) got Belmond off on the right foot with a hard-earned 2-0 decision over Mike Murphy; and Mack Gabrielson (180) got the quickest fall of the night, flattening Ted Bieth in 33 seconds.

Reserve results:

95 — Steve Riedel (B) dec. Neil McFarland, 5-4; 103 — Jim Cullinan (B) pinned Steve Eckerman, 5:48; 112 — Tom Wilson (B) won by forfeit; 120 — Duncan Campbell (B) dec. Larry Marzen, 5-1; 127 — John Greenwood (B) dec. Fred Cahalan, 9-4; 133 — Irv Meier (B) dec. Bill Franke, 8-0.

138 — Duane Anderson (B) pinned Kirk Pedelty, 1:30; 145 — Larry Swenson (B) pinned Claude Heiny, 3:24; 154 — Ted Pitzenberger (N) dec. Phil Meier, 3-2; 165 — Kevin Dorr (B) won by forfeit; 180 — Jim Sorenson (N) pinned Kevin Griffin, 2:30; hwt. — Keith Boller (B) drew with Mark Heiny, 3-3.

Broncos start slow but whip Lake Mills 72-44

—SPORTS—

After a slow start that saw them trailing a good share of the time until play was well into the second quarter, the Belmond High basketeers finally got into gear at Lake Mills last Friday night to rack up an easy 72-44 win over the Bulldogs.

In the early stages, the Broncos had considerable difficulty in getting the ball to settle through the hoop. Lake Mills took advantage of the situation to build up a 12-10 lead in the first quarter and continue in front until the Broncs pulled ahead 17-15 in the second stanza.

From there on, Belmond steadily added to the margin. By halftime the Blue-and-White cagers held a 31-21 advantage and the Bulldogs were completely out of contention the rest of the way.

Belmond's scoring was the most evenly balanced in a long time, six players making double figures — but none, much over. A nine-point second half made Lee Barkema the victors' top man with 14 points. Paul Bamford post 12 points, Terry Nelson and Greg Fuller 11 each, Joel Gabrielson and Greg Steenblock 10 apiece. Two by Don Havens and one by Rick Hawley completed the total.

John Sorenson was Lake Mill's only steady point-maker. He connected for 17, while no other Bulldog managed more than six.

Much the same pattern was followed by the Junior Broncos in their game as by the varsity in the main event. The froshmores never trailed, leading 8-3 at the quarter and 14-10 at the half, but they never did get their offense to clicking well.

With three minutes of the game left, Lake Mills had diminished a 29-17 third-quarter deficit to 32-27; but Coach Chuck Stalker's boys then put on a spurt that sacked up the victory, 41 to 33.

Ron Ginapp paced the Junior Bronc scoring with 12 points, followed by Tim Dirks with eight, Joey McLaughlin seven, Lennie Johnson and Tom Shirer each five, Ron Dougherty two and Janssen one. Joe Larson with 12 and Sam Pederson, 10, were best for the losers.

June Mosiman wins 1st in singles all-events in VFW district meet

Belmond's women bowlers cut a wide swathe through the prize money awarded last week on the basis of performances at the VFW 10th District bowling tournament held during two weekends in November at Estherville.

June Mosiman emerged as the big winner, taking first place in the singles, first in all-events, sharing fourth place in the doubles and rolling on the runner-up team. She received $43.45 in prize money.

In the singles, she weathered a poor third game of 137 with an excellent start that saw her post a 213 and then a 190. She had 93 handicap pins to go with her 540 scratch score for 633 that was 14 pins better than the runner-up managed.

She added a 576 gross in the doubles and 584 in the team event for a 1,795 in the all-events that was best by a margin of 89 pins. A big help to her was a three-strike finish in her second game in team competition, which turned a prospectively horrible score into a relatively respectable 149.

Beulah Ahlstrom was her partner in the doubles. They placed behind another Belmond pair, Peggy Halverson and Thelma Cairns, 1,091 to 1,139. Halverson and Cairns split $8.90 in prize money for their performance.

These four were joined by Ann Churchouse in the team event, in which the Belmond gross of 2,648 was just 24 pins short of the score chalked up by the champions from Fort Dodge.

Belmond's team drew a prize of $30; Mrs. Mosiman got $25 for her singles victory, $10 in the all-events, and divided $4.90 with her doubles partner.

Broncs to tackle Northwood Friday; Clarion then next

After having a pretty steady diet of second-division opposition in the early stages of their North Iowa conference campaign, the Belmond High cagers must now get down to the serious business of tangling with the established powers of the loop as they wind up the first half of their schedule.

That calls for a trip to Northwood on Friday evening. Coach Maynard Midtgaard's largely inexperienced but rapidly developing crew has lived up to advanced expectations by maintaining an unbeaten record in NIC activity to date.

How much they've advanced is indicated by the fact that they were able to beat Britt only 50-41 in their opener, but last week clobbered Forest City's pretty fair outfair 82 to 64.

Brian Bestul, 6-5 son of a former Viking cage coach, is Midtgaard's only letterman though just a junior. To fill out his starting five, Midtgaard has been drawing heavily on the top talent from the NIC champion froshmore aggregation of a year ago. Dennis Reeder and Steve Schultz have been delivering good scoring support for Bestul, as has Mike Knudtson.

Like the Broncos, Northwood has not hit any of the top-ranking teams in the conference up to now — so tomorrow night's outcome will have a lot of significance in the title chase.

The Broncos will no more than have time to let their turkey digest before they'll be back at it again — Wednesday night of next week against Clarion in Luick gymnasium.

Thus far this season, the green Cowboy team has been having its troubles. They were soundly beaten by Forest City on Nov. 25th; and in their go against Clear Lake last weekend they were demolished by the Lions, 92 to 61. The Cowboys have a good marksman in Scott Sims, but are woefully short on experience.

It's Christmas, and time to greet good friends . . . time, too, to count our blessings. One of the greatest of these is the friendship of those whom we are privileged to serve.

Robin lives in Yuletide legend

What's a robin doing on a Christmas card? More familiar as a harbinger spring, bobbing along with a fat worm in his mouth, the robin is nevertheless a centuries-old Christmas symbol. And one of the earliest Christmas cards, a 100-year-old English greeting, features an illustration of a robin on a snowbank.

Because legend says the robin played a vital part in the first Christmas, Yuletide decorations and cards have long celebrated the cheery redbreast. This year's crop of Christmas cards included an assortment of robin designs, many depicting the bird at the manger scene.

One card published for this year featured a retelling of the robin legend, reports Mrs. Jeannette Lee, design director for Hallmark cards.

According to the legend, the Holy Family was not alone in taking refuge in the stable at Bethlehem. Perched on a rafter, a small brown robin watched as the three Magi presented their gifts to the newborn Christ Child.

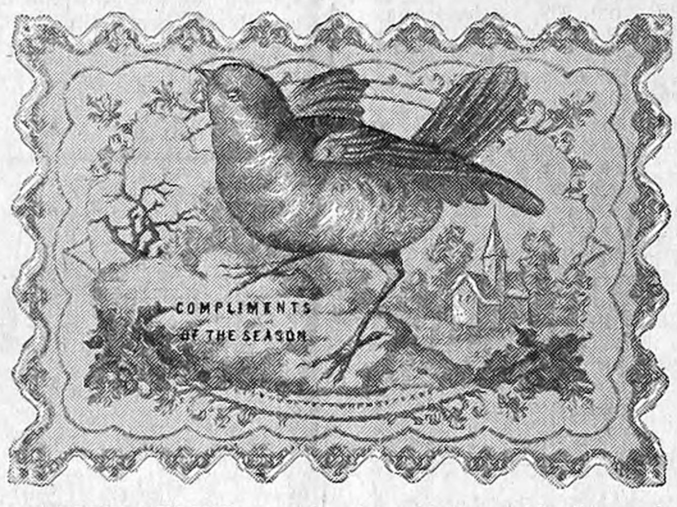
The robin seemed to understand that something wondrous was happening. After the departure of the Magi, when the Holy Family was asleep, the robin noticed that the stable fire was dying. Only a few coals smoldered.

In a valiant attempt to revive the flickering embers, the robin swooped down to fan the fire.

Hovering above the coals, he flapped his wings, fanning the embers to life. As the fire burned brighter, flames singed the robin's breast, scorching his brown feathers a brilliant red.

Through the night he fanned the fire to keep the Child warm. Ever since, the robin has worn a red vest, symbolizing his gift.

As a Christmas symbol, the robin embodies the spirit of giving. Like the Magi, the robin gave a precious gift, and he gave it at the cost of personal sacrifice. Thus the robin's gift suggests the deeper meaning — the giving of one's self —the legend notes.



THE ROBIN LEGEND served as inspiration for this antique Christmas card that was designed by Jonathan King in London in 1867. The robin wears a red vest because he fanned the embers of the stable fire to keep the Christ Child warm, so the ancient story goes. A century old this year, the well-preserved greeting is from the Hallmark Historical Collection.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Santa,

How are you and your Elves? Last week I went to the show, "The Christmas that almost Wasn't." It was sad but I liked it very much! For Christmas I would like Baby Hungry and Twist and turn Barbie. My sister Jill wants a Funny Flower Factory. Please remember the poor children who don't have any Mommys or Daddys. I like Rudolph. It's terrible to think that they didn't let him play any Reindeer games! Thank you.

P.S. Remember the kids in my neighborhood. (I'll be waiting for you. See you Christmas.)

Dear Santa Claus

Did you know that my name starts with an S too? Well, anyway I would like a Identification bracelet, Incredible Edible, and Feely Meely. As my brother Marc is only five and doesn't know how to write, he is sending along a picture letter. Thank you for all the presents you brought last year.

Dear Santa Claus

Thank you for Heidi and Jan. I have had much fun with them. My friends like to play with them too.

This year I would like to have some light brown suede cowgirl boots. That is all I want.

In our Christmas program at church I am the mistletoe bearer. I'm very excited about it.

Sincerely

Dear Santa:

My name is David, I'm 7 years old. I have a list of things we would like at our house. I have three Brothers, Roland 6 months old, Chuck 4 years old, and Vern 6 years old. Chuck wants a gun and farm set. Vern wants a service station and a gun and holster. My little brother Rollie would like a baby toy. I would like some slippers, a game and a rifle. I have been a good boy most of the time. I will leave something for you to eat. Don't get too tired out.

Bronco matmen 4th at Alden—

Mack Gabrielson 180-lb. champion

Belmond High's mat team had one individual champion — Mack Gabrielson at 180 pounds — and had placers in six of the 12 weight classes to take fourth place with 38 points at the 8th annual Alden Invitational Wrestling tournament last Saturday.

Humboldt had four champions and three runners-up take the team title with 98 points. Host Alden was second with 75 points although only two of its five finalists won their classes. Eldora High was something of a surprise in taking 3rd with 52 points, placing six men in the finals and taking two individual titles.

Beaman-Conrad had a pair of champions and notched 35 points; Rockford had one champ and placed 6th with 28. Nora Springs with 22 and Ackley-Geneva with 11 were the other schools competing.

—SPORTS—

Mack Gabrielson opened his drive for the 180-lb. title by pinning Keith Kramer of Ackley-Geneva in 1:31, then swamped Cliff Erickson of Humboldt to take a 17-6 decision in the semi-finals. His final match with Jim Clary of Eldora was a hard-fought one. Mack got two points on a first-period take-down, then rode Clary for the entire second period and successfully defended his lead with Clary on top for the final period.

Gene Pals also made it to the championship match in the 165-lb. class, trimming Jerry Pommrehn of Alden 7-1 and then Bob Eich of Ackley-Geneva 3-0. Against his unusually strong foe in the finals, Gene was caught off balance going for a take-down in the first period. Matthew Clarke of Eldora got the take-down, instead, and caught Gene simultaneously with a pinning hold.

Pals came out of the situation with five points against him and then lost another when Clarke escaped in the second period to lose 6-0.

Robb Dorr at 120 and Glen Gabrielson at 145 each picked off a third place. Dorr decisioned Denny Kettels of Eldora 4-0 in the first round, then ran into the class champ, Lyle Laird of Humboldt, in the semi-finals. Laird won 3-1 on a first period take-down and an escape in the third. Robb took his consolation match with Jim Brallier of Nora Springs with ease, 8-3.

Glen Gabrielson breezed through his first round match with Bruce Wood of Rockford, 9-1, but was unable to handle Rex Gunderson of Beaman-Conrad in the semi's, losing 4-0 to his taller rival, who went on to win the class title. Glen came back with a 6-3 decision over Larry Nelson of Alden to take third place.

Lynn Henn (95) beat Joel Sult of Rockford in his opening match; then lost 8-0 to Ron Bygness of Humboldt in the semi-finals and was nosed out 2-0 in the consolation contest when Jim Witt of Nora Springs reversed him in the final period.

Bob Cullinan (133) was a 4-0 winner over Lyle Harmon of Beaman-Conrad in his first match, then succumbed by second period falls to Larry Fevold of Humboldt in the second round to Mike Jass of Alden in the consolations.

Losing first round matches were: Steve Courson (112), 5-0; Terry Boyd (127), 8-3; Irv Meier (138), 5-0; Randy Turner (154), 3-2 on riding time after being even with Dan Boelte of Ackley-Geneva — 3rd-place winner — 2-2 at the end of the match; and Dennis Knoll (hwt.) by a 2nd-period fall.

Championship matches, other than those already covered, went as follows:

Clarion matmen here on Friday

While the BHS basketball team travels to Northwood tomorrow night, the Bronco wrestlers will provide entertainment for stay-at-home sports fans with a meet against Clarion.

As usual, the Cowboy team is one of the state's toughest on the mat and most of the Broncos are likely destined to take their lumps. Several of Coach Don Jones' boys, nevertheless, figure to give their visiting rivals all they can handle.

Clarion has been enjoying a successful mat season, winning most of its meets with ease. They were tripped recently by Algona, 25-16; but the Bulldogs rank as one of the state's very top teams — and then, two extremely close decisions and a draw made the difference.

Happy Wishes for Christmas

Our heartfelt thanks! May all of your gifts be wrapped in holiday spirit, your tree be decked with good things.

MAIN STREET

BY PAT, DICK, DUANE

Bob Banning must be extremely proud of the record his son, Col. Richard E. Banning, has established as an Air Force officer. There must be few officers with Richard's length of service who have been more often decorated. Part of it may be that, besides being a highly competent officer, he is a most likeable fellow who has an extraordinary knack for getting along with people.

Ye Ed has been a fan of this gentleman since making his acquaintance in the summer of 1950 when (then) Captain Banning was home on leave while a pilot with a reconnaisance squadron flying "hurricane missions" over the Atlantic. Richard enlisted in the service in 1940 and his career has been one of steady advancement.

In the story on this page regarding Colonel Banning's most recent decoration is a list of major military honors that have come his way. The Joint Services Commendation Medal was the FOURTEENTH citation he has received to date. This excludes his Purple Heart, which, after all, any serviceman can earn by being in the wrong place at the right time (but is earned the "hard way").

Jerry Lannigan, who has been Belmond's "night cop" since August of 1963 has submitted his resignation from the Belmond police force effective this Sunday. He's been on night and Sunday duty throughout his time in the department. Jerry reached the age of 65 last June.

While he hopes his "retirement" won't be so complete that it excludes some part-time work to supplement his social security benefits, Jerry's looking forward to getting away from those long and lonely night shifts.

Mrs. Lanigan looks on the prospect of a more normal family routine with happy anticipation, too. She says that she and Jerry have not had a Sunday to themselves — barring annual vacations — since he's been on the force. No successor to Jerry's been found yet.

Arriving too late for publication was a Santa letter from three-year-old Rochelle Retleff. We were not surprised at her request for a "Raggody Ann and Randy wants a robot. Ronnie wants a ball, so he can catch it when Randy and I roll it to him. I want a blanket for my doll." This much we were ready to believe was dictated for an adult to put in writing. We kinda wondered, though, if it was entirely Rochelle's idea that: "Mama needs new nice good kids. And Daddy needs a good nice cow barn." How about that, Rochelle?

It's time for the annual reminder to return the purchase price of those Christmas Seals you received from the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association — if you have not done so already

Because a formal solicitation of seal contributions wasn't conducted in Belmond a year ago due to the recency of the tornado disaster, local giving to this worthy cause was far short of normal in 1966.

This thoughtfulness should be rewarded this year by good support of the seal campaign, whose proceeds go to combat tuberculosis, emphysema and air pollution. So get that check in the mail, huh?

A note from Carl Wenzel at Del Mar, Calif., accompanied by a subscription renewal check, advised, "We had Iowa weather here last week; snowed for about two hours, believe it or not!" We usually have enough winter that we can export a little, without any deprivation. Welcome to the sample, Carl.

Ed "Moke" Obrecht, a General Mills and then Central Soya employee ever since "the General" came to Belmond 22 years ago, after the first of next year will be unencumbered by any sort of office for the first time since 'way back then. He is retiring as the union's recording secretary and in '68 will be serving neither Local [illegible] nor the Central Soya Men's club as an officer.

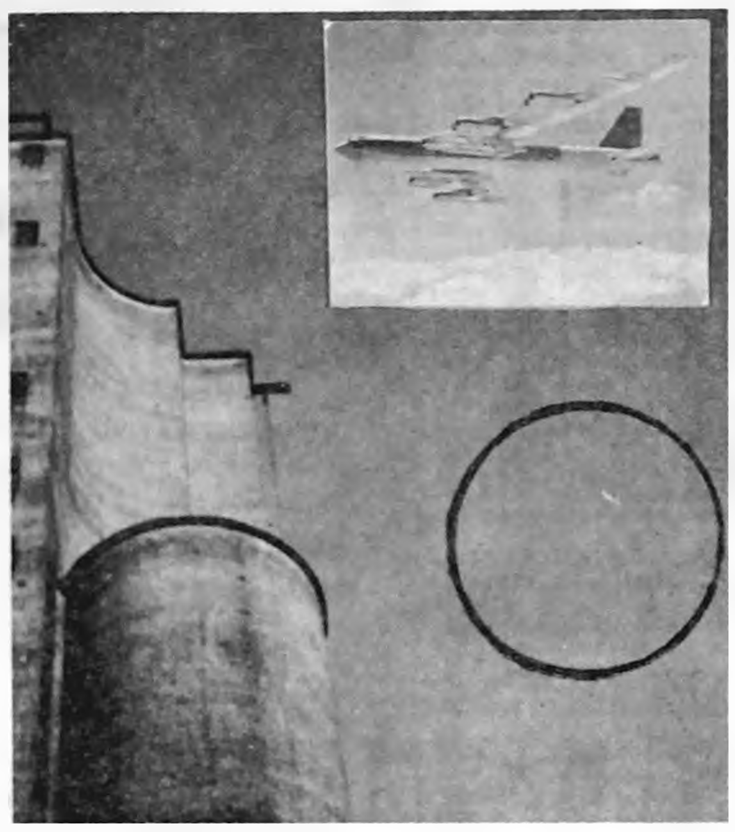
That's a long time to be among the brass; and it speaks for the esteem in which "Moke" has been held by his fellow employees.

He's served along the way as president of both the union and the Men's club; in fact you name it — he's held the office. For a long period in his more active years he was an ace softballer for "the Mill gang," too. "Moke" has earned his right to be "turned out to pasture." No doubt he can supply advice from time to time, if asked. And it should be good advice, too.

Erv Redder last week received an apparent "dun" from a west coast outfit that was pretending to be the publisher of the well known "yellow pages" of the telephone directory. It implied that Redder Rexall Drug has appeared in a "Classified Business Directory" this year at a cost of $73 and invited remittance of the same amount for appearance in the 1968 edition.

Small print admitted, "This is a proposal form — not a bill, invoice or renewal" and referred to a message on the reverse side, written in gobbledygook that virtually defied clear understanding.

Bill or not, a boxed instruction said: "Make check payable to: . . ." and gave the firm's name and address. Erv chose "not to have any," and turned the statement over to Chamber Secretary Ellis Elliott. There is a good deal of such false billing going on these days, and it behooves the business or professional man to keep a sharp eye out for such deceiving "duns."



IS IT A BIRD? SUPERMAN? No, just a li'l ol' B52 bomber that was captured (barely) on film Wednesday morning of last week as it made the first of three simulated bombing runs on the Central Soya plant here. Shown in black circle is the plane as it appeared at 29,000 feet after it had been guided to its target by Navigator Jerry McMurray. Inset in the picture is a closer-up view of a B52.

For county fire defense network—

Bids on radio equipment due next Wednesday

Next Wednesday at the Wright county auditor's office in Clarion sealed bids will be received for the radio equipment necessary to set up a comprehensive fire defense network in this county, which will also be a link in the Iowa Fire Defense Network.

Federal Civil Defense funds in the amount of $11,661.50 have been promised toward the estimated cost of the equipment, which comes to just double that amount or $23,323.

Sheriff Bob Blecker says the equipment will include a base station, which will be installed in the courthouse basement and linked with a remote control unit in the sheriff's office, 17 mobil units and 10 portable units with mounting racks and antennas.

Under the matching funds agreement with Civil Defense, each of the county's eight fire departments will pay the local share of the cost for the equipment it will receive. The largest part of the over-all cost will fall to the Belmond Fire department, because it has agreed to pay the county's share of the expense for the base station and its installation in addition to having ordered the largest number of units for local use.

Fire Chief "Bud" Packard explains that Belmond agreed to assume the heavy end of the expense of the county radio network as a gesture of gratitude for the prompt and extensive services rendered Belmond by members of the Wright county fire departments at the time of the tornado disaster here in October of 1966.

Source of the funds will be the "Bucks for Belmond" that were collected under auspices of the Wright County Peace Officers association in barrels on Highway 69 when sightseers by the thousands were visiting Belmond on the heels of the tornado to witness the destruction.

Of the contributions placed in the barrels, the Peace Officers association presented $7,500 to the Belmond Industrial Development corporation for community betterment purposes. The BIDC allocated $3,500 to the local fire department for the share of the equipment it will receive and to meet the county's share of the base station's cost. Estimated cost of all these items was $6,000, making the local cost $3,000, so the allocation is confidently expected to meet the Belmond department's obligation in full.

In its application for matching funds, the Wright County Civil Defense office offered the following explanation of the need:

"The equipment being installed is needed to let the Wright County Fire Service communicate within the county and with bordering counties in civil defense emergencies, as well as tying into the State of Iowa Fire Defense Network."

Local equipment has been ordered by the various fire departments as follows: Belmond — three single-crystal mobil units, one dual-crystal mobil unit, two portable units with mounting racks and antennas; Clarion — two single-crystal, one dual-crystal and two portable units; Eagle Grove — two single-crystal, one dual-crystal and two portable units.

Rowan — one single-crystal and one dual-crystal; Goldfield — one dual-crystal and one portable; Dows — two dual-crystal and one portable; Woolstock — one dual-crystal and two portable; Galt — one single-crystal.

"PRESIDENT JIM" as National Jaycee President James B. Antell of Burlington, Vt., is known among the brethren, made a tour of Iowa chapters Tuesday through Friday of last week, providing Hawkeye members an opportunity to make his personal acquaintance. That opportunity was exercised on Wednesday by a delegation of five Belmond Jaycees when the national dignitary made a stop at Algona. Shown with "President Jim," who at 31 became the 48th U. S. Jaycee leader, are (left to right): seated, flanking the visitor, Terrell Baker and Belmond President Larry Flanagan; standing, Dick Krapfl, Gary Garvin and Vernon McLaughlin.

2-month-old baby of Trygstads dies

A congenital heart ailment brought death on Thursday of last week to Tanja Liv Trygstad, two-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Trygstad of Sioux Falls, S. D.

Her father and mother, the former Sara Simerson, had had the infant at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for two weeks undergoing examinations and on Wednesday had visited in the parental Harold Simerson home en route to Sioux Falls. Little Tanja Liv died the day following as her parents were continuing the trip home.

The Trygstads had been warned that sudden death might come to their daughter, as the heart defect was of such a nature that corrective surgery would not be practical until the baby was over a year old.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the First Lutheran church in Sioux Falls. Burial was in the Memorial Gardens cemetery there.

The Simersons' other son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. (Sandra) David Nelson of Des Moines, came up from Des Moines on Friday and accompanied the Simersons to South Dakota to attend the funeral.

Tanja Liv was the Trygstads' only child and the Simersons only granddaughter. Her father commutes to the University of South Dakota at Vermillion, where he attends the law school. Her mother had been teaching home economics in the Sioux Falls High school prior to the current school year.

Holmgaard to resume his duties as mail carrier, coming Tuesday

Tuesday of next week will be a "day of days" for Maynard Holmgaard, for on Jan. 3rd he will be rejoining the working staff of the Belmond post office. It will be the first time in 444 days that he's been "in uniform," since he came within the narrowest of margins of losing his life while carrying his mail route when the tornado struck Belmond on Oct. 14, 1966.

Victim of critical injuries to his head and right arm, Maynard has found the struggle back to reasonably good health a long and arduous one. It was with happiness and thanksgiving that he received permission from his doctor last week to resume his postal duties on a three-hours-per-day basis.

To begin with, Maynard will case (distribute in pigeonholes) all the mail for his route; then will carry just the four blocks of Main street from Highway 69 to Fourth avenue, both sides. Louie Mennenga will resume carrying the residential route that was his before Willis Anderson relieved him so Louie could carry Maynard's route during the period of his recovery. Willis will handle the residential portion of Maynard's route for the present.

For the past several months, Maynard has been casing mail at the post office from time to time, both as therapy to quicken the return of his injured arm to usefulness and just to "keep his hand in." He has not been on the postal payroll, though, since the time of the disaster.

While still not fully recovered from his injuries, Maynard has made great progress in regaining use of his arm and overcoming the dizziness, vision defects and other debilities resulting from the head injury.

It's been a stern test of Maynard's habitual good spirits to exercise patience during his long recuperation; and to say that he's glad at the prospect of becoming a "postman" once more would be a decided understatement.

Navigated by Capt. McMurray—

C-S plant "blasted" by B52 on mock runs

Many necks were craned in Belmond on Wednesday morning of last week as a B52 bomber, its eight engines growling noisily, made three passes over town. What they didn't know was that the passes represented bombing runs on the Central Soya plant — and that the entire works were "wiped out," not once, but thrice.

Navigator of the bomber was Belmond's own Capt. Jerry McMurray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McMurray, who had obtained special permission from his superiors to visit this bit of theoretical destruction upon his home town.

Jerry explains that the bomber crews stationed where he is at Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Tex., have in the course of their training to make simulated bombing runs along a number of low-altitude training routes located at various points around the nation.

It was time for Jerry's outfit to make a run along a corridor that extends west from Fort Dodge to Cheyenne, Wyo., with Fort Dodge the entry point. Through special dispensation, Jerry succeeded in getting the "script" changed in order to work the Belmond visitation into the flight plans as sort of a detour.

This accomplished, he was able to call his mother the night before the flight to advise that he'd be overhead at 10:00 o'clock the next morning. Via the grapevine, The Independent got word of the bombing run on Central Soya and was able to get the accompanying picture.

Unfortunately, we didn't know about the THREE passes to be made and the photographer abandoned his post after the first — and highest — run was completed at 29,000 feet. The final run found the bomber at only 8,000 feet, which would have supplied an appreciably closer view of the plane.

Crew members aboard the bomber with Captain McMurray were the pilot, co-pilot, an electronics warfare officer, bombardier and gunner. Jerry says the electronics warfare officer is responsible for "jamming" radar controlling enemy weapons so they cannot "lock onto" the bomber to its considerable detriment.

The B52 makes a sizeable target, being 169 feet long, 186 feet in wingspread and 43 feet high at the top of its tail. But despite its size, it is hardly a "lumbering" craft. It has a maximum cruising speed of 288 knots — which may not sound so swift by modern standards, but converted to actual air speed in the thin atmosphere of high altitudes it expands to something like 500 miles per hour.

This speed provided by the jet engines was supplemented by a 150 mph tailwind on the trip north with the result that the distance from Fort Worth to Fort Dodge was covered in an hour and 40 minutes and the craft had to delay for 20 minutes circling around Fort Dodge before coming over to "get" the Central Soya plant.

Jerry swears that the photographs that are taken simultaneously with every bomb release showed that the Central Soya plant was solidly blasted on all three attempts with a generous amount of devastation left over for the surrounding countryside.

Captain McMurray next March will have completed nine years in the U. S. Air Force. He entered for cadet pilot training in that month back in '59 and was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant in May of 1960. He was promoted to his present rank in November of 1964.

He says it will still be a while yet before his crew gets around to bombing "for real." He expects they'll be at Carswell for another year and a half before their first overseas assignment. It seems a fair supposition that there'll be a war SOMEWHERE — and not unlikely, still in Vietnam — where they'll be called to put their practice into action.

In eight-plus years as a member of the U. S. Air Force, Capt. Jerry McMurray has accumlated quite an impressive array of ribbons to wear on his chest.

Asked for an explanation of the honors which the ribbons he's shown wearing above represent, the one-time "printer's devil" for The Independent and BHS alumnus offered the following, starting top left:

Presidential Unit Citation with two Oak Leaf Clusters (standing for three separate citations); one → was awarded in World War II to the 644th Bomber Squadron, K. I. Sawyer AFB, before Jerry was attached to it; the other two citations were earned by his present outfit, the 7th Bomber Wing, Carswell AFB.

Then, the Distinguished Unit Citation (to the 7th Bomber Wing); Combat Readiness Medal; Good Conduct Medal (received before Jerry was commissioned, the award going only to enlisted personnel); National Defense Ribbon; Longevity Ribbon with Cluster (representing over eight years of service); and Sharpshooter's Ribbon.

CAPT. JERRY McMURRAY

Hello, World!

Mr. and Mrs. Thruman Gaskill of Corwith are parents of a 9-lb. 7 oz. baby boy born Dec. 21. They have named him Mark Elwyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pals of Manchester are parents of a baby girl, weighing a little more than 7 lbs., born Dec. 20. They have named her Gayle Ranee. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pals.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Pals of Manchester became parents Dec. 25 of a 7-lb. 11-oz. daughter. She has been named Amy Jean. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Pals.

Hospital Notes

Mrs. Agnes Gabrielson entered Dec. 20 for surgery.

Mrs. Byron Ruter of Kanawha enter Dec. 21 for surgery. James A. Yeakel of Kanawha and Mrs. George Swanson of Dows entered for medical treatment that day.

Russell Peters of Kanawha entered Dec. 23 as a medical patient and Mrs. James Houser entered for surgery.

Entering Dec. 26 were Mrs. Henry Severson of Kanawha for surgery and Edward Frohling for medical treatment.

Melanie Dirks entered Dec. 27 for surgery. Others entering that day were Mrs. Geeska Groen, Mrs. Minnie Fetrow, Mrs. Emil Trager and Mrs. Ben Vierkant, all as medical patients.

GEALOWS HEAD FOR TEXAS

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gealow left Wednesday morning for Corpus Christi, Tex., where they will spend the winter months.

Mark Mason given U. S. Army medal

FT. GEORGE G. MEADE, MD. (AHTNC) — Specialist Four Mark H. Mason, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hale Mason of Belmond, on Dec. 6 received the Army Commendation Medal while serving as a food chemist with the First U. S. Army Medical Laboratory No. 1 at Ft. George G. Meade, Md.

Mason earned the award for meritorious service during his last assignment with the 4th Medical Detachment near Saigon, Vietnam.

He received his B. S. degree in food technology in 1966 from Iowa State university.

Jim Wiebe chosen director of IGFA

DES MOINES (Special) — James Wiebe of the Central Soya company, Belmond, was elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of the Iowa Grain and Feed association during the association's 68th annual convention held in Des Moines, Dec. 13-15.

Mr. Wiebe's election to the board joins him with 14 other Iowa agriculture business leaders in directing the activities and policies of the largest state dealer organization of it's kind in the nation.

Mr. Wiebe will soon attend a day-long orientation meeting of new directors and officers of the association in Des Moines, where a thorough briefing of the internal operations of the association, both in Iowa and nationally, will be given by Robert L. Skinner, executive vice president of the association.

The Iowa Grain and Feed association is a voluntary, non-profit organization serving nearly 1,000 grain, feed, fertilizer and farm supply dealers.

Will replace giving commodities—

Food stamp program for Wright county OK'ed

Announcement was made last Friday by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of its approval of 19 more Iowa counties — including Wright — for participation in the food stamp program that is widely supplementing the distribution of commodities to augment the food supplies of welfare recipients. When additional counties go under the plan in the next six months, 73 Iowa counties will be in the food stamp program.

Other near-by counties on the approved list included Hancock and Winnebago.

County Welfare Director William Powell says that not only welfare recipients will benefit by eligibility for food stamps, but other low-income families as decided by the county welfare office — providing they are not residing in a home without private cooking facilities.

Mr. Powell says that the county welfare office will be guided by state standards in determining the number of bonus stamps the applicants shall receive, according to their personal resources. On the average, a recipient of stamps receives a free one-dollar food stamp for each three purchased with private funds.

However, this may vary from case to case and if need dictates a welfare recipient may receive as many free stamps as the number actually purchased.

Distribution of commodities will be continued in Wright county until such time as the food stamp plan actually goes into operation. Mr. Powell was told by the state department of social welfare that he would be given three months advance notice of when the stamps will be made available in this county.

The first month of participation, each family will be required to buy only one-half the number of stamps they will ordinarily be obliged to purchase personally thereafter. For example, if the family will normally be given $30 worth of stamps if $60 are purchased, the first month they will need buy only $30 worth to receive the full $90 in stamps.

This temporary arrangement is followed to permit adjustment of the family budget to the new manner of food purchasing.

Most welfare families prefer the food stamp plan to receipt of commodities because they are given virtually free choice as to foods that may be purchased. Only 15 different commodities are available under the program being dropped.

The only restriction placed on food buying with the stamps is that they cannot be used to purchase imported items that are in direct competition with domestically-raised products.

Another factor that has spurred adoption of the food stamp program is the fact that virtually none of the commodities distributed are in surplus supply in this country, as was the case with most of them when they were included in the commodity program.

Still another, if more minor, reason why more and more counties have been going to the food stamp program is due to the frequent and understandable protests of merchants over the free distribution of food commodities, says Mr. Powell.

Under the food stamp plan, they will provide all food supplies for welfare recipients at regular prices, the federal government making up the difference between the recipients' actual outlay of cash and the cost of the food.

Another complaint that was occasionally heard in regard to the commodity program was that some of the supplies were wasted — particularly foods that had small appeal; and that commodities were sometimes traded at a small part of their actual value for foods better liked.

ANOTHER ADDITION to the lengthy list of military honors that have been received by Col. Richard E. Banning had just been presented to the Belmond U. S. Air Force officer when the above photograph was taken. Making the presentation of the Joint Services Commendation Medal was Major General E. M. Talley, Jr., (left) commanding officer of the Defense Construction Supply Center at Columbus, O., where Colonel Banning is presently based.

JS Commendation Medal Awarded to Col. Banning

COLUMBUS, O. (Special) — Col. Richard E. Banning, USAF, currently serving as director of the Technical Operations Directorate, Defense Construction Supply Center, Columbus, O., recently received the Joint Services Commendation Medal. Presiding at the ceremony and making the presentation was Major General E. M. Tally, Jr., USAF, Commander of DCSC.

tral Europe, where he served as Chief, Supply Branch, Logistics Division, from June 1964 to March 1967.

Other assignments of Colonel Banning have included the following: 1966 — Chief, Supply Branch, AIRCENT (NATO) Fountainebleau, France: 1963 — Base Supply Officer, MAC (MATS) Dover, Del.; 1959 — Student, AFIT, Bloomington, Ind.; 1957 — Base Supply Officer, 5th Air Force (18 FBW) Kadena AB, Okinawa; 1955 — Division Materiel Officer, 8th Air Division (AEW&C) McClellan AFB, Calif.

Colonel Banning graduated from Belmond High school in 1938 and attended Britt Junior college for two years. He was born in Rock Rapids, son of Robert B. Banning and the late Mrs. Banning.

He and his wife Doris have four children, Edith, Linda, Ethyl and Mary Ann. Their residence during his assignments in Columbus at the Defense Construction Supply Center, is 253 Flint Ridge Drive, Gahanna, O.

Citations and honors Colonel Banning has previously received include the following: Distinguished Flying Cross, Purple Heart, Air Force Commendation Medal, Air Medal with eight Oak Leaf Clusters; Army Commendation Ribbon with Oak Leaf Cluster. After a certain citation has once been received, an Oak Leaf Cluster is added in lieu of each subsequent award of the same citation.

Mrs. McMurray gets diamond—

Stereo console to Lyle Sorenson

It took a little while to get things rolling when the final drawing of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas promotion was held last Thursday, but after three number-pulls had consumed 15 minutes the diamond ring put up as the first prize went to Mrs. James McMurray on the fourth number.

Another 10 minutes was needed to crank up the next action — but then on the third number Lyle Sorenson stepped up to claim the Zenith stereo console.

After a five-minute lull while the first of two $100 cash prizes was missed by some unfortunate individual, luck began to pick up and Mrs. Maynard Harty and Art Trager in order came into $100 apiece and the $50 cash prize went to Harvey Steenblock of Kanawha.

One more "miss" followed before Mrs. Engle Fekkers picked off the food blender. It took three tries before the final prize — an electric carving knife — was claimed by Eldon Eliason.

About the only complaints to be heard relative to the C-of-C's Christmas promotion pertained to the weather arrangements for the final drawing day. Whereas the day before the temperature had climbed to the high 50's, on Thursday afternoon it was foot-stampin' cold as number-holders had to brave a windy 20-or-less degrees while they listened to the numbers called.

Five young hearts were made happy when the drawing was held Saturday afternoon to determine the winners of two bicycles and three tricycles. The presentations, which accompanied Santa Claus' appearance at the fire station, saw the following receive these Chamber of Commerce gifts:

Bicycles — David Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Thompson; Susan Kling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kling.

Tricycles — David Hildebrand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hildebrand; Lance Chandler, son of Mrs. Sandra Chandler; and Mitch Summers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Summers.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Belmond, Iowa
December 4, 1967

The City Council met for the first regular meeting for December in the Council Chambers at 8:00 o'clock P. M. Mayor Misner presided, councilmen present were Churchouse, Crapser, Porter, Griffin. Pollitt, absent.

The minutes of the meeting of November 20th, were read and approved.

Gene Gueiske of Wallace & Holland, engineers, reviewed again his inspection of the Bancroft building and recommendations as to course of action. The coping warrants roping off the area. The tenant wants it fixed.

Glen Eccles reported the casing for the waterline under the track and under the highway had been put in.

The committee selected for the County-wide ICAP and approved by the council is as follows:

Floyd Broshar, city government
Ray Thompson, Police Chief
Rev. M. L. Jones, ministerial association
R. B. Thompson, industry

Dick Kastler, Wallace, Holland, Kastler, Schmitz, Engineers, recommended to go with a lift station on the sanitary sewer north from 2nd Ave. N. E. along Highway 69. He also discussed the new water plant. Water consumption has increased since the plans for the plant enlargement were started and a larger plant will be required. A contract for this work was held up until the new administration can study the situation.

The following bills were audited and allowed:

Belmond, Iowa
December 11, 1967
8:00 o'clock P. M.

This was the time and place set for the public hearing on the amendments to the Zoning Ordinance and Zoning District Map, also the amendments to the Sub-division Ordinance.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor Misner and roll call showed all council members were present.

Mr. Paul Jensen from Wallace & Holland, and Mr. Keeper of Iowa Natural Resources were on hand to answer questions with regard to the changes.

A letter from the Planning and Zoning Commission set forth the resolutions that the commission had adopted at their meeting on December 4th.

1. Approving proposed amendments to Zoning Ordinance and Zoning District Map and recommending adoption by Council.

2. Approving proposed amendments to Sub-division Regulations and recommending adoption by Council.

3. Asking the Council to establish a Park Commission to develop and maintain the Parks of the City.

The notice of Hearing had been published in the Belmond Independent on November 23, 1967.

There had been no written objections and there were no oral objections from the floor.

The ordinances were presented and discussed. It was felt, that since a new administration would be dealing with these matters, it should have the opportunity to discuss them. A motion was made and carried to table the adoption of the ordinances covering Zoning, Zoning District and Sub-division Regulations until 1968.

No further business, the meeting was adjourned.

BELMOND DEPARTMENT STORE

Humboldt favored for mat title—

Tourney Saturday promises keen competition

—SPORTS—

Belmond wrestling fans have a real treat in store for them this coming Saturday when the 6th annual Bronco Invitational Tournament will be held at Luick gymnasium. Eight teams will again be competing, which will require a total of 96 matches — providing there are no byes — to determine the four place winners in each of the 12 classes.

There are two changes in this year's entry list. Hampton and Clarion are being replaced by Eldora and Riceville. That takes out the 2nd and 6th ranking teams in the central district of the state, by last week's ratings of the Iowa Daily Press association.

There will still be plenty of "power" represented in the field, though. Humboldt is ranked No. 1 in the same district, Alden No. 5, Eldora and Belmond in a tie for 10th; Britt is ranked No. 5 in the northeast district and Riceville No. 7. Only Clear Lake and Estherville among the contending teams are unranked — and Clear Lake has been showing some surprising strength against highly regarded opposition.

Humboldt, winner of the Alden tournament on Dec. 16, will be favored to step up from its No. 2 position of the past two years to the championship this year with Britt and Alden darkhorse possibilities but most likely to scrap it out for runner-up honors.

All of the top four teams from the Alden tourney will be in the Bronco field, the Alden crew having finished second to Humboldt and Eldora and Belmond then finishing in that order. Both finalists at eight of the 12 weights down at Alden could conceivably be paired in rematches here Saturday.

Action will open at 10:00 a. m., when the 1st round matches get underway. The four survivors at each weight will compete in the semi-finals starting at 2:30 p. m. Consolation matches for 3rd and 4th places will begin at 6:45, with the finals slated at about 8:00 o'clock.

Lyle "Butch" Laird, Humboldt 120-pounder, will be seeking an unprecedented third Bronco championship, having won at 95 lbs. two years ago and at 103 last year. Major obstacle in his path will likely be Belmond's Robb Dorr, whom Laird had a lot of trouble with at Alden before taking the gritty Bronco into camp 3-1.

Another Humboldt headliner will be Keith Abens, who placed only 3rd in last year's Bronco invitational but then went on to win the 145-lb. state championship in Class A. He's at 154 pounds this year and is again looking like a state champ.

One of the major attractions of the tournament is very likely to find heavyweights Gary Steinfeldt of Eldora and Geoff Mickelson of Humboldt in a rematch. Steinfeldt, a 285-pounder, is undefeated in six starts and is surprisingly quick for such a big man. He got a take-down on Mickelson in the final seconds of their Alden meeting to sneak out a 3-1 victory.

There also could be a second meeting of Belmond's Gene Pals and Eldora's Mathew Clark at 165 pounds. Clarke has an unblemished record of 7-0 and will be one of the strongest grapplers in the tournament. A costly mistake by Pals in the Alden finals gave Clarke a 6-1 win; but with a little more caution, Gene could very well give the brawny Clarke a good run for his money. Lincicum of Clear Lake will be a contender at this weight, too.

Bronco Mack Gabrielson and Jim Clary of Eldora were well match in the 180-lb. finals at Alden, Gabrielson winning a hard-earned 2-0 decision. Another top contender at this weight will be Britt's Carl DeWaard, who is 3-1 against tougher competition than the other pair have been facing as a general thing.

Riceville is something of an unknown quantity in the tournament, as is Estherville; but Riceville has been doing very respectably at its own level of competition and reportedly has several boys who could be serious threats for championships.

The same is true of Clear Lake, so some surprises dealt top favorites from Humboldt might give the Wildcats a tougher row to hoe in picking off that championship than is anticipated.

Clarion took the title last year with 94 points. Humboldt was second with 77, followed by Alden with 48, Belmond and Britt 43 each, Hampton 32, Clear Lake 21 and Estherville nine.

Broncos take on No. 1 Eagle Grove

If the Belmond High wrestlers escape with their lives in their next scheduled dual meet, one might figure — from the record of the Broncos' up-coming foe — that it will be a moral victory.

This meet will be at Eagle Grove, reserves wrestling at 6:30 p. m. and the varsity action starting about 8:00 o'clock next Wednesday.

In their final pre-holiday dual, Eagle Grove crushed 40-to-5 an average good Hampton team that earlier had taken Belmond into camp 31-16. It was the 22nd dual win in a row for the Eagles, who in the latest Iowa Daily Press Association Mat Poll were named by a large margin the No. 1 AA team in the Central District.

Robb Dorr at 120 pounds and Mack Gabrielson at 180 would appear the likeliest BHS candidates for team points. However, the Broncos looked much better against Clarion than in previous meets, and Coach Don Jones believes the Eagles might be dealt a surprise or two if they go into the meet too overconfident.

Prompt promotion for Ronald Lacey

FT. DIX, N. J. (AHTNC) — Ronald E. Lacey, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Lacey of Goodell, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training at Ft. Dix., N. J., Nov. 30.

The promotion was awarded two months earlier than is customary under an Army policy providing incentive for outstanding trainees.

As many as half the trainees in each training cycle are eligible for the early promotion, based on scores attained during range firing, high score on the physical combat proficiency test, military bearing and leadership potential.

Pvt. Lacey received a Bachelor's degree in business administration last spring from the University of Iowa at Iowa City.

Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reinhart went to Alleman to spend the day with relatives in that area.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Hanson and family spent Sunday in the parental Ben Hanson home at Dows. The Hansons spent Christmas Day in the home of Mrs Hanson's mother, Mrs Art Bates, at Ruthven.

The Donald Burks, Bob and Tom entertained guests Sunday night in their home following the church program. They were Mr. and Mrs. Marlyn Kuhlers and children of Meservey and Lela Davis of Kanawha.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Revland and Brad spent Christmas Eve with Tom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Revland, at Garner. Mrs. Dena Farrington, also of Garner, enjoyed Christmas Eve in the home of her daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Revland and Brad spent Christmas Day in the Henry Steenblock home, Belmond. The Robert Revland family also spent Christmas Eve in the Tom Revland home at Garner.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brede were Sunday afternoon callers in the Ray Ford and Floyd Fiero homes at Garner.

Ralph Hofers, former Goodellians, observe their Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Hofer, long-time Goodell residents, on Wednesday of this week at Mesa, Ariz., reached the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The occasion was celebrated with a dinner for about 30 relatives and friends held at a restaurant at near-by Scottsdale, Ariz., put on in their honor by their daughter, Mrs. Gerald McNulty.

Accompanying Mrs. McNulty to Arizona to join with the Hofers in observing their anniversary were two children of the former, Shannon and Edward.

Ralph Hofer and Nilla Jasperson were married at Algona on Dec. 27, 1917. They farmed near Ventura until moving to Goodell in 1930. There Mr. Hofer established the Hofer Oil company which distributed first Champlin and later DX petroleum products. He built the Goodell service station now known as the Duck Inn and an early DX station that was located where Groen's DX Service now stands.

He also built the DX station in Belmond that was the home of Berns Conoco Service before its destruction in the 1966 tornado. Mr. Hofer sold his oil business to Ray Barry at the time of the former's retirement in 1953, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Hofer moved to Clear Lake. They have resided in Mesa for the past six years.

In addition to their daughter, they were the parents of a son, Raymond, who died in 1953. The Hofers also have nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Mrs. McNulty in telling of arrangements for the anniversary dinner expressed regrets that news of her parents' Golden Wedding would not appear in print prior to the anniversary date. She hopes that old friends of the Hofers will nonetheless drop a card to her parents, acknowledging the occasion, even though they might arrive a bit belatedly.

Funeral services for Raymond Ruka held on Saturday

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Fulton Funeral Home at Belmond for Raymond Ruka, 70, who died Wednesday ot last week at Mercy hospital in Mason City. He had suffered a fractured hip in a fall two days earlier, complications bringing about his death.

Rev. Donald Thompson officiated over the services. Burial was in the Amsterdam cemetery. Pallbearers were Herman Heginger of Belmond, Ed Haupt, Arthur Zeigler, Harm Katuin, Donald Burk and Raymond Cline.

George Raymond Ruka was born Aug. 31, 1897, at Goodell, son of George and Amanda (Jackson) Ruka. He had lived his entire lifeitme in the Goodell community.

He is survived by two brothers and a sister, all of Goodell — Arthur and Harry Ruka and Mrs. Harry (Alma) Carpenter.

Dave Bachman arrived home by plane Saturday to spend Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Zelma Bachman. Dave is from Marietta, Ga. Other Christmas guests were Rev. and Mrs. Louis Miller and daughter Peg of Belmond. Peg attends school in Omaha, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brede, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brede and Robert Sheriff were Christmas dinner guests in the Delwyn Brede home at Iowa Falls.

Why Be Sick When You Can Be Well?

WHY THE SPINE?

Many people wonder why the chiropractor is so interested in the spine when often the complaint may be located in the stomach, kidney, eyes, legs, etc. The spine is important because it houses the main channel of nerve energy . . . called the spinal cord. The spinal cord may be likened to the trunk of a tree from which many branches and sub-branches come forth. The spinal cord and nervous system comprise the main communication system in your body, carrying messages to and from the brain to every tissue of the body. When there is an open line, so to speak . . . that is, when the messages get through, all is well and health is abundant providing that moderation is the keynote of living. When there is a block to that nerve energy output, it means that usually one or more of the bones of the spine (vertebrae) is displaced from its normal position. Now you can see why chiropractors are so vitally interested in your spine. He is trained to locate and correct these nerve interferences and health is the natural result.

Regardless of what your condition is called or how long you have suffered chiropractic may be the exact answer to your problem.

"DIGESTIVE DISORDERS"

A wide range of digestive disorders plague millions of Americans today. The extremely complex chemistry of digestion, from ingestion of food in the mouth to the evacuation of waste in the bowel, is dependent upon proper nerve function. Any interference with normal transmission of nerve energy due to vertebral misalignment can cause a breakdown in the function of any part of the digestive systems. Chronic indigestion, gastritis, ulcers, stomach spasms, nervous stomach, spastic colon, constipation, colitis, liver, and gall bladder disfunction are all the final end results. While medications may offer some temporary relief, they will not correct the cause. The science of chiropractic specializes in restoring normal nerve function and, therefore is the logical method of correcting most digestive disorders.

Rally follows loss of Nelson—

Fouls bring Vikings 66-58 win

Double trouble in the way of fouls — committed by Belmond and capitalized on by Northwood — brought the Broncos a 66-58 defeat at Northwood on Friday evening.

Belmond committed only one more foul than the Vikings, 22 to 21, but the victors made good on 24 of 31 freethrow chances while the Broncos could cash only 14 out of the same number of opportunities. That took care of the victory margin, right there.

More costly than the missed charity tries, though, was the fact that foul trouble kept Terry Nelson out of the Belmond line-up for 10 out of the 16 minutes of play in the last half; and Paul Bamford for about a minute less than that.

With Nelson on the bench, the Broncos had tough going in the rebound department and also were drastically weakened as to defense. Northwood wound up with four men having four fouls apiece, but none of the Viking fouled out

—SPORTS—

It was really two ball games in one, Belmond winning the first and third quarters and the Vikings the second and fourth. The Broncos gained an early lead and were ahead 17-12 at the first buzzer. But in the second stanza Northwood crept up to a 23-23 tie and Nelson simultaneously got his third foul and left the action. Northwood then jumped into a 29-24 halftime lead.

The Broncos rallied in the third quarter, led 39-36 when Nelson fouled for the fourth time and was again benched, but piled up a 44-37 lead thereafter and still were ahead 46-41 with one period to go. Nelson rejoined the fray with 5:49 on the clock and Belmond still in front 49-47; but 16 seconds later he acquired his fatal fifth foul and the complexion of things soon changed.

Two minutes later, with the count tied at 53-all, Bamford got his fifth foul as Dan Reeder broke the deadlock on a basket and converted the freethrow to make it a three-point play.

Belmond was on the spot as Northwood went into a control game and a fielder by Sophomore Mark Knudtson and two tandem sets of freethrows by Steve Schutz made it 61-53 and the shootin' match was over to all practical purposes.

Neither team had a very good shooting percentage, Belmond being 37 per cent for the game and the victors 38. A 2-for-16 second quarter hurt the Broncos the most.

Brian Bestul, Coach Maynard Midtgaard's 6-5 center, topped the scorers with 22 points and was aided greatly by Schutz, all but two of whose 16 points came in the last half. Jim Tanner followed with nine, Dan Reeder with seven, Knudtson and Dennis Reeder six each.

With Nelson hobbled with fouls, he managed only 10 points. Joel Gabrielson hit for 19 to pace the Bronco scoring. Greg Fuller had eight, Bamford seven, Lee Barkema six, Rick Hawley four and Greg Steenblock two. Numerous turnovers hurt both teams, but Belmond the most.

Belmond's froshmores kept their record perfect with a 41-31 win over the Junior Vikings after seeing a 12-3 period lead grow into a 25-12 halftime advantage. Ron Ginapp meshed 11 points, Tim Dirks nine and Tom Shirer seven, while Brunsvold topped the losers with 12.

Cowboy grapplers given rugged test by Broncos

Clarion picked up an expected mat victory against Belmond High here Friday night, 22 to 18, but Coach Don Jones and his boys were left contemplating what might have been instead of taking satisfaction in the closeness of the score.

Two matches that resulted in draws, giving each team two points, could very easily have been Bronco wins instead and put Belmond on top 20-18. It could almost be said that the Broncos missed that satisfaction by a measly 30 seconds.

In the 138-lb. match, Kevin Gallagher had a 4-2 advantage with 15 seconds to go but made a move for a pinning hold instead of nursing his lead and was reversed by Knute Watne to make the final count a 4-4 draw. The Bronco had lost the other two points by a reversal in the last 10 seconds of the second period.

Then at 154 pounds, Randy Turner was defending a 1-0 lead over Mike Roberts when with 15 seconds of the match remaining, Roberts was awarded — without any advance warning — a point for a stalling call on Turner. The rule book says a warning must be given before calling a stall penalty. This was later admitted by Referee Ray Reasland to be the case, but the match officially finished in a 1-1 draw.

Other point-winners for Belmond besides Gallagher and Turner were Robb Dorr at 120 pounds, Bob Cullinan at 133 with Belmond's only fall of the night, Mack Gabrielson at 180 pounds and Dennis Knoll in the heavyweight match.

Dorr had to come back in the third period from a 5-3 deficit to win 7-5 on a reversal and predicamen late in his match with Larry Tillman.

Cullinan was tied 4-all with Lyle Blackman when he pinned his Clarion adversary with a minute left in the match. Gabrielson had no difficulty in whipping Bill Drury 7-0; but a second-period reversal was the margin of Knoll's 2-0 win over Rich Meinders.

Belmond's reserves were no match for the Clarion B squad, taking a 35-17 trimming despite getting 10 points on forfeits at the two heaviest weights.

Kevin Griffin was the only reserve winner for the Broncos, edging Mark Lester 5-3 at 165 pounds. Danny Ketchum (103) and Irv Meier (133) drew with their foes. Kevin Dorr at 180 lbs. and Doug Thompson, heavyweight, earned five points apiece when Clarion was unable to present men at those weights.

Varsity summary:

95 lbs. — Ted Derscheid (C) dec. Lynn Henn, 4-0; 103 — Dale Smith (C) dec. Jim Cullinan, 7-0; 112 — John Nelson (C) dec. Tom Wilson, 11-2; 120 — Dorr (B) dec. Tillman, 7-5; 127 — Tom Simmons (C) dec. Terry Boyd, 8-3; 133 — Cullinan (B) pinned Blackman, 5:00.

Acceditation — entire staff as committee of the whole; pharmacy and therapeutics — Leinbach, Ihm, Richard Bloemke, Velma Frohling; utilization review — Hruska (one year), Nelson (two years), Benetti (three years).

USAF Air Medal to Major Hartwig

Maj. Harold E. Hartwig, son of Mrs. Esther Hartwig, was recently the recipient of the U. S. Air Force Air Medal for having distinguished himself by meritorious achievement.

Designated as the basis for the honor was Major Hartwig's performance of duty while participating in sustained aerial flight as a combat crew member in Southeast Asia from June 29 to Aug. 18 of the present year.

"During this period," stated the citation, "outstanding airmanship and courage were exhibited in the successful accomplishment of important missions under extremely hazardous conditions including the continuous possibility of hostile ground fire.

"His highly professional efforts contributed materially to the mission of the U. S. Air Force in Southeast Asia. The professional ability and outstanding aerial accomplishments of Major Hartwig reflect great credit upon himself and the United States Air Force."

His mother received a real "Christmas present" when she received word last weekend that he had flown a damaged USAF transport plane back to Florida for repairs and would be spending the holidays with his family at Charlotte, N. C. She was urged to join them, and managed on Sunday to get a plane from Waterloo to Chicago, and another flight to Charlotte, so she was with her son and family Christmas Eve.

A Thornton High school graduate, Major Hartwig has been flying since about the age 16. He has been in military service since World War II, except for a couple of years that he was out of uniform an operating a locker plant in Alabama.

His regular USAF assignment is as pilot of the sort of craft he returned to the States. He is chief of the giant plane's crew of nine. He has been flying in and out of Vietnam since last June.

Supervisors give Jones pay raise

Haydn Jones on Monday of last week was reappointed by the board of supervisors as Wright county engineer for the coming year at a $1,000 raise in annual salary. This will bring his pay to $11,000 per year.

The Belmond man was promoted to the position of county engineer in December of 1965, after the death of his predecessor, Pete Struck of Clarion. He had been an assistant on Struck's staff since Feb. 1, 1959.

J. Arends chosen Soldier of Month

Pfc. E-3 John C. Arends, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arends, a week ago last Friday was advised that he had been selected as "Soldier of the Month" for the 24th Signal Battalion of the U. S. Army, based at Augsburg, Germany.

The honor came as something of an anniversary present for young Arends bringing him a $25 savings bond plus a three-day pass — and coming exactly on the first anniversary of his induction into the Army on Dec. 15 of '66.

In a letter of commendation, John's commanding officer, 1st Lt. Jon W. Tyner, praised him for the capability he has demonstrated in performance of his duties as Company C clerk and other jobs "too numerous to list."

The officer added, "You have every right to be especially proud of this outstanding performance. Once again, congratulations and keep charging. It is a pleasure to have you in this command."

A BHS graduate with the Class of '65, John attended Iowa State university at Ames for a year before his induction into the service. He was assigned overseas in July of this year. His recent honor carried with it an additional "bonus" in the form of a promotion to the rating of Specialist 4.

Farm tax guide again available

The "1968" Farmer's Tax Guide" is available at the Wright County Extension office, according to Bob Bernhardt, Wright county extension director. Prepared by the Internal Revenue Service, this 64-page publication answers many questions about federal income tax problems.

Explanations and examples throughout the book can help farmers in the annual job of filing a tax return. The first 18 pages of the guide give a written explanation and filled-in blanks of a sample return. The remainder of the booklet explains filing requirements and return forms.

Farm business expenses, inventories, capital gains and losses, soil and water conservation, self-employment social security tax, tax credits (investment and gasoline tax credit), and several other topics concerning a 1968 income tax return are also explained.

Postmaster Walrod reminds—

Postage rates going up Jan. 7th

Increased rates for all classes of mail except parcel post and international mail will go into effect Jan. 7, Postmaster Bill Walrod reminded postal customers today.

"Even with the new rates of six cents for first-class mail and 10 cents for air mail, postal service is still a real bargain," Postmaster Walrod declared. "For six cents you can send a letter to any of the 50 States, to any United States territory or possession, to Canada or Mexico, or to an American serviceman stationed anywhere in the world."

He also noted that the new rate for post cards will be five cents and for air mail post cards eight cents.

He said the added cent on the letter rate is a 20 per cent increase compared to a 24 per cent boost in the rates for mailing newspapers and magazines and a 34 per cent hike for advertising circulars, "occupant" mail, and other material in the third-class category.

The new rate of six cents per ounce for first-class mail applies up to 13 ounces and the new rate of 10 cents per ounce for air mail applies up to seven ounces. Under the new rate structure, all first-class mail over 13 ounces and all air mail over seven ounces will be merged into a single category.

These heavier pieces of first-class and air mail subject to the single-rate schedule will be delivered by the fastest available means of transportation.

A flat rate of 80 cents will be charged for all mail in this category up to one pound. For all mail weighing more than one pound, the present air parcel post rates will continue to apply, except that the postage on matter weighing between one and five pounds will change at half-pound intervals rather than one-pound intervals.

Postmaster Walrod said that the new rate structure will mean a reduction of postage on some parcels.

Another rate change that will affect the general public is the increase from four to six cents for the first two ounces of individual pieces of third-class mail. Unsealed greeting cards may be sent at this rate, the postmaster said.

He emphasized that the new rate on unsealed greeting cards will not go into effect until Jan. 7, and until then they can be mailed at the old rate of four cents.

Postmaster Walrod also noted that effective Jan. 7 special handling will be available on third-class parcels weighing between eight and 16 ounces. Special handling has not been available on these parcels since 1958, when packages weighing between eight and 16 ounces were transferred from fourth to third-class mail.

There will be no changes in the charges for special delivery, special handling, registered mail, certified mail, cash on delivery or insurance.

"We have an ample supply of one-cent stamps on hand," Postmaster Walrod said, "for those people who have five-cent stamps and need one-cent stamps to make up the postage required under the new rates."

Higher rates also will go into effect Jan. 7 for all categories of second-class mail, bulk-rate third-class mail, controlled circulation mail, and the educational materials category of fourth-class mail. Mailers using these classes who need information on the new rates should contact the local post office.

Church to show film of Vietnam New Year's Eve

An 80-minute color movie entitled "Vietnam Profile," which Rev. Clive Cook describes as depicting "the drama of God at work in the midst of war," will be shown at a special New Year's Eve service at the EUB church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The pastor says of the film, "Dr. Bob Pierce of World Vision, Inc., takes viewers of the film to Vietnam, where he shows the battlefields, the war's devastation, and the heroic work of the chaplains.

"But the movie is not all war, as the people of Vietnam are shown, too, in the framework of the Christian ministry carried on by missionaries."

Visitors are cordially invited to witness the film. The program will be over about 9:00 o'clock. Following the picture, there will be games, refreshments and visiting for all who are interested in celebrating New Year's Eve at the church.

A Watchnight Service will be conducted in the main sanctuary at 11:30 o'clock for those interested. Guests will be welcome at all the activities.

"Plan Bulldozer" devised to deal with disasters

The ghost of Belmond's tornado walked the state last week as the Master Builders of Iowa and Associated General Contractors of Iowa announced formulation of a "Plan Bulldozer," devised to get assistance to a disaster-stricken community in the most expeditious manner possible.

Actually, a plan of similar nature was already in effect in a number of states and the contractors and builders intend to make the project national in scope though applicable on a state basis.

We talked to Charles L. Hoffman of Des Moines, manager for the Associated General Contractors of Iowa, about "Plan Bulldozer." He told us that it was "in the works" prior to the Belmond tornado but was still in the development stage. He added that on the basis of experience gained at Belmond, the Iowa "Plan Bulldozer" differs in some rather important regards from corresponding plans set up earlier in other states.

One amendment made in the Iowa plan makes clear that a municipality or other governmental agency in bidding for help in the event of a disaster need not do so on a cash-on-the-line basis. The agreement a government's officials are asked to sign DOES say that "contingent upon funds becoming available" certain costs — which do NOT allow a profit to cooperating contractors — will be paid to firms supplying men and equipment.

Because a city obligation to meet emergency clean-up and demolition cost was implied in the tentative "plan" that was in affect at the time of the tornado, Mayor Bob Misner felt compelled to decline an initial offer of help from the General Contractors and Master Builders.

As a result, manpower and equipment that was poured into Belmond the first two or three days was not related to the plan and was without organized supervision. For lack of coordination, the most efficient use of this volunteer assistance could not be made.

Mr. Hoffman believes that "Plan Bulldozer" will prevent such a situation from occurring again, as the plan provides for a central authority representing the contractors and builders to take immediate charge at the site of a major disaster and direct the clean-up and demolition work. This "authority" will be a man with know-how, backed up with a plan generally adaptable to disaster situations and ready to see that maximum benefit is derived from men and machines on hand and ready to go to work.

One supplementary purpose of "Plan Bulldozer" will be to protect contractors coming to the aid of a disaster-striken community "against liability for any and all claims, suits, judgments, and expenses including attorney's fees, which might be caused by or alleged to have been caused by services rendered by PLAN BULLDOZER of Iowa."

Existence of a formal agreement between the pertinent governmental body and "Plan Bulldozer" will clearly establish that responsibility for providing such protection lies with the governmental body — which SHOULD, in all instances, be safeguarded by liability insurance that would cover the contingencies.

We asked Mr. Hoffman if, under "Plan Bulldozer," the contractors and builders intended to investigate the degree to which existing disaster funds — both state and national — stand ready to reimburse them for out-of-pocket costs incurred by rendering aid to disaster victims. He replied that, to avoid the appearance of desiring to benefit from misfortune, no such investigation is contemplated.

From our personal experience with such alleged "disaster aid," we would suggest that SOMEBODY should take a more careful look at how such funds are presently administered.

It would not surprise us if the cost to contractors who brought in men and equipment for clean-up and demolition might have run in the neighborhood of $100,000 during the two or three weeks that the major clean-up of debris and shattered buildings was in process. The Red Cross picked up the tab for most of the automotive fuel required by equipment while it was being used in town — perhaps a matter of a thousand dollars or so, where heavy machinery was concerned. And that was about the extent of the reimbursement for emergency services rendered.

It's a familiar story to Belmond people that of $120,000 in federal demolition funds ostensibly earmarked for Belmond's use, little more than $2,000 ultimately proved obtainable. And it was finally decided that that wasn't "worth the bother."

By dint of many hours of work, City Clerk Lois Hammond was able to provide a well qualified estimate that nearly $60,000 worth of volunteered demolition work was done in behalf of our tornado victims. But there proved no way whatever to obtain government funds for reimbursement of these costs — to say nothing of the heavy expenditures for clean-up.

Iowa now has a "disaster fund" of its own, set up by the latest general assembly. But if this proves no more helpful in actual administration than federal funds for the same purpose, we wonder just how much help it will be to our good friends of "Plan Bulldozer."

Certainly the Associated General Contractors of Iowa and the Master Builders of Iowa are to be commended for devising "Plan Bulldozer." It could have been of help to Belmond. We hope no other Iowa community will ever have equally grievous need for such a disaster plan; but it should benefit immeasurably from "Plan Bulldozer" if such need DOES arise.

Ill service done wrestling by broad accusations

Where there is smoke, it's to be taken for granted that there's pretty apt to be some fire; but the five-alarmer that the Des Moines Register is trying to generate out of high school wrestling in Iowa puts in completely false perspective the size of the actual conflagration.

There is no question that there have been — and continue to be — some examples of weight-cutting to the detriment of the young competitors involved. And as in any sport, there are wrestling coaches who occasionally resort to ridiculous extremes to produce winning teams.

But anyone who has regularly watched high school wrestlers go about their chores cannot be other than convinced that 99 out of 100 of these young men are in distinctly "fit" condition and posssess strength that hardly suggests an advanced case of malnutrition.

Typical of the Register's approach to its wrestling "crusade" was a pair of statements in a front page story last Thursday. Under a Cedar Falls dateline ostensibly quoting opinions of Keith Young, Cedar Falls High school coach and president of the Iowa High School Coaches association, the story implied that Young was prompted to comment "in the wake of disclosures that:

"Many of Iowa's 10,000 high school wrestlers are being driven past the physical breaking point by an unbridled desire of their coaches to win.

"Many coaches, parents and school officials have condoned harsh training practices, some of which may result in permanent injury to young athletes in later years."

Note that word "MANY" — and compare these statements to a direct quotation from Young, in which he says, "I do not dispute the fact that these ridiculous practices MAY (the emphasis is ours) be going on, but I certainly DON'T think they are very WIDESPREAD."

It's been suggested that if the family physician named the weight at which a boy would be permitted to wrestle, all the existing "evils" would be eliminated. That, we doubt. We recall several years ago when a Belmond boy showed up for an important tournament out of town carrying a temperature. The tournament physician scoffed at the idea of the youth's not wrestling, saying he could "give him a shot, and he'll be OK." The local coach said, "Nothing doing!" and the boy did NOT compete.

There is, without question, variance of opinion among the doctors themselves as to the degree of weight reduction that is safe and sensible.

With all the to-do over the matter, it would seem fairly obvious how it CAN be determined if the sort of weight-reducing indulged in under the average wrestling program actually "may result in permanent injury to young athletes in later years."

The practice has been followed for years. It could be accurately researched by checking the health experience of a thousand or so individuals who were wrestling 15, 20 or even 25 years ago. IS there incontrovertible evidence that their health WAS harmed in later life by wrestling for four months annually over a period of four years at a weight lower than that which they would normally have maintained?

Done on a strictly scientific basis, such a survey should disclose evidence of widespread harm done, if such exists. If the Iowa High School Athletic association really wants the answer, it could easily finance such a research undertaking. And logically, the Iowa Medical Society might make itself a party to the project.

We'd as soon the Register didn't assume the responsibility. For when it fires up a crusade such as this one, it sometimes leaves reason to suspect that it chooses the conclusion it wants to arrive at and then employs any means that best suit the purpose to get there.

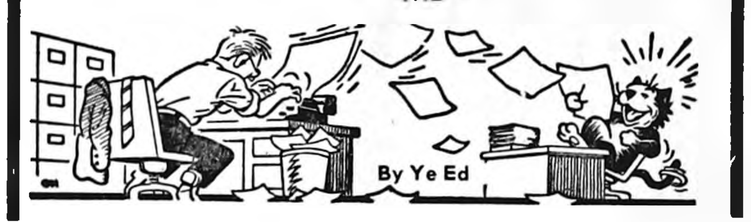
NEW HORIZONS

Belmond demonstrated during the year about to end that the future is what you make of it. From the discouragement of disaster came the inspiration to make a better-than-ever community rise from the ruins left by the previous year's tornado. We're proud to be a part of a town like that. To all our Belmond neighbors, and to all our friends and neighbors round-about we wish a New Year filled with continuing achievement, well spiced with happiness and contentment.

THE BELMOND INDEPENDENT

CONVERSATIONS WITH THE OFFICE CAT



We found TJ, the office cat, spread on the floor studiously flipping the pages of what appeared to be a feline photograph album. "Engrossed" was decidedly the proper word for the attention he was giving to the pictures. He didn't know we'd even come in.

His perusal of the pages was puncuated with chuckles and an occasional guffaw, causing us to correct our original assessment of his reading matter. He must have gotten ahold of a cat comic book, no less.

We thrice cleared our throat, endeavoring to break into his concentration. At length, we finally plucked our copy of the Iowa Senate Journal for 1965 from the book shelf and tried it for heft. It's the thickest volume in our library, and one — to tell the truth — we'd never previously found a use for.

ROLLING OUR CHAIR BACK to provide a clear space on the plastic carpet covering in front of our desk, we held the journal at what seemed an adequate height and let it slam to the floor. The maneuver proved successful.

Simultaneously, TJ arose from the floor eight inches, every hair on end, cast a wild-eyed glance in the direction of the noise and exploded, "What the . . . !?!"

"Well! Good morning!" we greeted him with a big smile. "You seem to have some engrossing reading matter there."

"My Christmas present," he explained huffily. "You could be a bit more considerate in summoning attention. Leaving a guy with only eight more lives to go on, just to attract attention, isn't my idea of a joke."

"SORRY! SORRY INDEED!" WE apologized, "But you were so far out of this world that we didn't seem to be able to make contact. You say, that's a Christmas present?"

"It is," he replied, his fur gradually flattening out to normal. "One of the nicest things that's happened to me. A woman of remarkable taste, Miriam Gowdy is."

He pawed the book our direction. It was a combination cat picture album and memo book. Well have to admit that the photographer was clever — not only in catching the felines in intriguing poses, but in the amusing captions that accompanied them.

We could see that if the Gowdys develop any mouse problems at their new abode, Miriam will have to look no further than TJ for a solution. She and her present certainly made a conquest.

"HOW'D THE FOLKS MAKE out at your house," inquired TJ. We took for granted he was asking about Pup and Gata, since his interest in human possessions is not what you'd call avid.

"Gata got a new bell for her cat collar," we told him. "A tiny Italian import. Since she already had a couple of the miniature sleighbell variety attached to it, she now sounds like a perambulating celebration of the New Year, wherever she goes."

"Sounds highly impractical to me," TJ responded. "Can't see where all that bell-ringing would be any particular asset in trying to creep up on a mouse or a ground squirrel.

"OF COURSE," HE ADDED A bit resentfully, "the way her provender is regularly provided her without any effort on her part, her hunting is more for sport than necessity. Believe me, the west end of Main street would be a good deal more mouse and rat-ridden than it is if I had to cover my beat sounding like I was No. 99 pulling into the station."

Not to encourage his self-pity, we pursued the original question.

"Pup," we continued, "got a box of chocolates — DOG chocolates, that is — and we gift-wrapped his rubber rat up for him a couple of times so he could have the fun of opening it up. He's been unwrapping that rat each Christmas for the past three years.

"HE DEARLY LOVES TO UNwrap packages. We finally had to instruct the post office NOT to leave parcel post packages on the front porch for us, because Pup regularly did the unwrapping before we could get home to protect them."

"What one finds to be fun," observed TJ with a sniff, "is a measure of one's mentality. Now — if I may have my book."

We laid the cat's present back on the floor, and with a sigh of delight he resumed his inspection of the pictures. He tittered as he read a caption and asked over his shoulder, "Did you catch this one?"

"Forget it! we muttered. "Got mucho work to do, with that day off for Christmas."

Jones: Harmful practices not followed here

Supplementing The Independent's own comments in this week's editorial column relative to the Des Moines Register's "crusade" against high school wrestling in Iowa, the following comments have been volunteered by Don Jones, a former stand-out high school wrestler himself and now coach of the BHS wrestling team.

Because of its pertinence to a sport that had been gaining steadily growing popularity in Belmond and has long been a very major sport in this particular geographical area, we are diverting the letter from normal "Open Forum" presentation and permitting Mr. Jones his full "say."

His comments should establish that the wrestling program at BHS is not guilty of the faults of which the Register apparently regards are widespread in Iowa high school wrestling programs in general. We give you Mr. Jones' letter.

• • •

To the Editor:

This letter is being written in response to an article headlined "Health Peril in Prep Wrestling," written by Robert Kistler, a staff writer, which appeared in the Sunday, Dec. 17, issue of the Des Moines Register. Since Iowa State university, after winning the NCAA wrestling title in March 1965, was unable to capture headlines in "The Newspaper All Iowa Depends Upon," it surprised me to see wrestling in the headlines on this ordinary Sunday morning.

But after reading this very unjust, one-sided article, which certainly tends to degrade the image of the wrestling coach, I decided the people of Belmond would probably like to know more about their high school program.

Statements such as " . . . because their coach knowingly violates training rules set by the Iowa High School Athletic Association, some athletes may suffer permanent damages . . . 2½-hour practice sessions . . . by dehydrating the body through vigorous exercise in the rubber suits, taking long, steamy showers and by induced vomiting . . . So, the dangerous training practices continue unqestioned . . . " must not remain unexplained or unanswered.

Program explained to parents

In our written program, which is given to each of our participants before the season begins, there are definite rules stated concerning the amount of weight a wrestler should redudce. Our views on this problem are as follows:

1. No wrestler should reduce more than 10 per cent of his weight unless he is overly flabby when the wrestling season begins, and he does this over an extended period of time. 2. The weight reduction program should be set up over a minimum period of three weeks.

3. We stress that each boy eat three meals a day in moderation. We do not like for a boy to lose weight by missing meals. This is not good for him mentally or physically. 4. If a boy decides to cut more than 10 per cent of his beginning weight, it is in these situations that a physician should be consulted.

5. Parents should accept the decision of a wrestler to reduce his weight within the regulations and degrees listed above, and then help him attain this goal as much as possible. 6. One of the major qualities a boy derives from a weight program is self-discipline.

Refutes Kistner charges

7. During the last 24-48 hours before a weigh-in, the consumption of fluids should be held to a minimum so that reduction of weight will occure easily through the elimination of body wastes.

Mr. Kistner indicated that many Iowa wrestling coaches, in their desire to win, would be willing to endanger any boy's health. I will admit that I like to win, but would never sacrifice anyone's health in doing so. I know of no other coach that would do so.

We do not condone such practices stated by Mr. Kistner. Furthermore, I have never heard of induced vomiting and standing on chairs in shower rooms being used by any wrestler. I would like to question where Mr. Kistner witnessed his "sensationalisms." Even the wearing of rubber suits, which is not illegal by the rules set up by the Iowa High School Athletic Association, is not used in our program.

Compares with other sports

Our room temperature is approximately 85 degrees during a 1½-hour practice; no hotter than early fall football practices. As far as losing four pounds during a practice is concerned, this is no more than a boy playing football or basketball will lose during a practice or even a regulation game.

Dr. Paul, physician at the University of Iowa who was interviewed in the article, said he witnessed a "drained" wrestler fall asleep before his match. I never in my experience have seen this. He also mentioned that some wrestlers are unable to go strong through the entire six-minute match. He undoubtedly has never wrestled six minutes nor has any idea of the conditioning it requires for a six-minute match.

Did the article hurt wrestling? In schools where wrestling has been well implanted and the fans are well acquainted with the sport, I would have to say no. But in the schools where wrestling is young or where thoughts of beginning a wrestling program are in the air, it will hurt.

Suggests research study

The fans in these towns are not acquainted with the programs and will take Mr. Kistner's exaggerations as sole truths of every program in Iowa. In these "borderline" communities with the "borderline" fans, wrestling has been hurt.

I would like to see a joint study by the Iowa Medical Society and the IHSAA made concerning the after effects of weight reduction rather than stating to the public an individual's guesswork. They could take a large group of past wrestlers, football and basketball players, and even girl basketball players, and investigate the health of these individuals and tell us exactly what the health perils have proven to be in each of these sports.

I might add in closing, that each year before sectional competition, each wrestler must have a physical examination, a requirement made by the IHSAA. All 12 Belmond wrestlers who were competing last February, passed their physicals with excellent ratings.
